High-Rise Plan For Courthouse Square Approved

San Rafael Planners' Action Comes Sooner Than Expected

By DAVID DIETZ

In a surprise move, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved a use permit and basic design for development of courthouse square. (Other planning commission stories, page 23.)

Plans by McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento for an eight-story office building, a two-story office structure and a multilevel parking garage were shown the public for the first time.

Action on the multimillion dollar project — seen as a necessity for future downtown economic stability — had not been expected last night, but the commission was mindful of a timetable under which McKeon must pay the city $640,000 for the balance of the cost of the land by Oct. 25. The firm already has paid $10,000.

Although passing the use permit and general architectural plans along to the council, the commission said it would meet in special session Sept. 7 to consider design specifics and traffic and environmental studies which have not been completed.

Jean Wasp of 2 Mountain View Avenue said the box-like eight-story structure, proposed for construction parallel to A Street, "looks like a small Fairmont Hotel tower." She told the commission the city had an opportunity to encourage development that would enhance Mission San Rafael Archangel behind the square and at the same time attract the shopper's dollar to the community.

William Rowan of 55 Marguard Avenue said he didn't beliave McKeon had lived up to the spirit of an agreement between the city and county under which McKeon would be given development rights. The county still owns the land.

While Rowan said he understood 50 per cent of the site was

Nixon Will Accept Nomination Tonight

Speech Will Dwell On His Record

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—In a triumphal appearance before the Republican Convention President Nixon will accept his third GOP presidential nomination tonight with an elaborate review of his foreign policy record—but apparently without any major announcement on Vietnam. (Related story, picture on page 2.)

While Nixon worked this morning on the final phrases of his speech, an estimated 4,500 demonstrators plotted to ring the perimeters of convention hall. They hoped to so disrupt the entryways that Nixon would deliver pis speech to a half-empty auditoriium.

But police were ready too. So were 5,500 National Guard and regular Army soldiers who have been on standby, positioned a few minutes from the area, if the demonstrators' final stand strikes violence with the convention's final session.

White House sources cautioned reporters against anticipating any bombshell-type announcement on the war, despite last week's activity when Nixon's foreign policy adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, visited Paris for private peace talks and then went to Saigon to confer with South Vietnamese leaders.

Nixon will discuss "in clear terms the great issues of 1972 at home and throughout the world," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. He said reporters should not expect "any major new announcements" relating to Vietnam.

Kissinger himself said there would be no "spectaculars" in Nixon's acceptance speech, which is expected to last about a half hour. Other sources said it would concentrate on "what we've done —and what we plan to do."

As for Vietnam, Kissinger said, "We are making a very deliberate and a very serious effort...We are not going to say anything of substance about these talks."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Nixon told him his speech would deal "heavily" with foreign policy.

Even without a major development on the war, Nixon is expected to deal extensively with Southeast Asia —particularly the Vietnam troop level of some 40,000 compared to more than a half million when he took office.

Communist spokesmen at Paris talks labeled as "entirely false" a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers — subsequently partly disavowed by the White house —that peace was possible by fall.

Beyond Vietnam Nixon is likely to review his global peaceseeking missions to China and Russia —a theme which has pervaded the three days of the convention.

GOP VS. DEMO

The Platforms: How They Rate

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The platforms adopted by the Democratic and Republican conventions display wide differences on war policy, welfare and education.

But they also show the parties share a few of the same opinions and that both fear to attack some of the same issues.

The Democrats propose a guaranteed income "substantially above the poverty level," while the Republicans "flatly oppose" any guaranteed income.

The Democrats say busing "must continue to be available" to end segregation, but the Republicans say racial busing must be stopped even if a constitutional amendment should be necessary.

However, both platforms support women's rights and child care, and both parties were afraid even to mention abortion in their platforms.

Here is a comparison of Democrat and Republican views on major issues:

Vietnam—The Democrats call for immediate withdrawal from Indochina subject only to release of prisoners and an accounting of the missing. The Republicans also insist on an accounting of the prisoners and missing, but said they would seek a Vietnam settlement "which will permit the people of Southeast Asia to live in peace under political arrangements of their own choosing."

Labor—The Democrats support repeal of right-to-work laws, raising the minimum wage to $2.50 an hour, and support the right of farm workers to form unions. The Republicans do not mention the minimum wage or farm unions, but in a major concession neither do they mention their long-standing support for right to work laws. The GOP pledges better safety laws and better pension plans, and praises collective bargaining as the "cornerstone" of GOP labor relations policy.

Marijuana—the Republicans oppose the legalization of marijuana, but the Democratic platform contains no specific mention of marijuana.

Defense spending—The Democrats call for unspecified "substantial" reductions in military spending while the Republicans say that such cuts would be "worse than misguided; they would be dangerous."

Child care—Both platforms advocate comprehensive child care programs, but the Republicans emphasize such programs must be locally controlled and voluntary.

Youth—Both platforms advocate lowering the legal age of accountability to 18.

Health—The Democrats advocate federally funded and administered national health insurance while the Republicans

Russ Chess Error Aids Fischer Lead

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —Bobby Fischer claimed—and got—a draw tonight in the 17th game of his world championship chess match with Boris Spassky when the Russian comitted such a blunder he sat staring at the board in wide-eyed disbelief at his own move.

Spassky, apparently on the way to a hard fought victory today, repeated the same move three times—which makes the game a draw if his opponent claims one.

The draw earned Fischer another half point and preserved his full three-point lead over Spassky, 10 points to 7. The American now needs only 2 1-2 points to fullfill a 20-year-old dream and become the first American world chess champion.

One rule of international chess stipulates that if the same position occurs three times during a game with the same player to move, the game can be declared a draw should one of the players make the claim.

After his 45th move, Fischer looked over the board for about half a minute, then arched his forefinger and summoned arbiter Lothat Schmid to the board. Fischer simply pointed to the board.

Schmid returned to his table and wrote something down. Fischer then shot out of his chair, walked over to the arbiter's table and scribbled something himself. Schmid then came over to the chessboard with the official scoresheet, Fischer extended his hand to Spassky and the game was declared drawn.

Spassky sat staring at the board in wide-eyed disbelief. Spassky's 41st move was sealed when the game was adjourned Tuesday night. His aides complained about the same time that Fischer might be using "chemical substances and electronic devices" to gain an advantage — a charge that brought explosive laughter from Fischer.

Schmid said a team of experts would be called in to examine the room.

"I cannot tell you what the experts will be looking for," Schmid said. "It's something quite new to me."

Mill Valley's Chief Terzich Will Retire

Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich, a member of the police department for 19 years, announced today that he will retire at the end of October.

He told the Independent-Journal today that he will recommend that the city council appoint Capt. William Walsh as his successor.

In a letter submitted yesterday to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, Chief Terzich requested that he be admitted to the Public Employees Retirement Association as soon as possible.

He will become 65 on Oct. 12 and expects about $700 per month in Social Security and retirement benefits. Currently, he receives $1,425 per month as chief, a position he has held for more than 11 years.

Terzich joined the Mill Valley Police Department as a patrolman in 1953, after previous work as a detective at the Fairmont Hotel, a guard at San Quentin Prison, a deputy with the Marin County Sheriff's Department and an officer with the Willows Police Department in Glenn County.

DAN TERZICH
Retiring in October

While he has been offered a number of jobs in the security field, Terzich said his plans for the future are indefinite.

He is a native of Alaska and was reared in Angels Camp, Calaveras County. He has lived in Marin County for the past 33 years.

Drug Abuse Center Is Phased Out

By JEFF GREER

The board of supervisors unanimously voted to transfer $5,000 in Drug Abuse Bureau funds and $7,700 in reserves to hire contractors to get the new laboratory going by Nov. 15.

Sheriff's Lt. James C. Schwedhelm and two drug abuse investigators will be returned to the sheriff's investigation division, but Schwedhelm will play a special role, acting as intelligence man and liasion with state and federal agents as well as city police conducting drug probes in Marin.

The two investigators will return to solving burglaries, juvenile offenses and the general run of crime as well as drug cases.

The drug bureau was created in May 1967 with a five-man staff and a $52,5877budget, after the county grand jury persuaded supervisors that "the lives of our children and the future of our country" were menaced by increasing narcotcs crimes. The bureau was established to work both within and outside cities in Marin.

By 1969, Supervisor Michael Wornum was protesting that the bureau's budget had soared to $117,000, while about 90 per cent of the agents' arrests were for narcotics possession rather than sales.

In budget hearings in subsequent years, supervisors whittled bureau manpower and funding.

Michael A. Chrystal, county administrator analyst, estimated yesterday that the new county lab could save about $19,000 of the $52,000 budgeted for making alcohol, narcotic and other tests through contracting private laboratories by the end of fiscal 1972-73.

The state will contribute $2,000 toward the estimated $32,500 cost of remodeling county office space for the lab, Chrystal said.

Corps' Waste Water Cost Jolts Officials

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — A lot of lip service has been given to future reuse of sewage and industrial wastewater, but yesterday it got its first price tag — $5.3 billion for the 12 Bay Area and Delta counties. (Another sewage story, page 23.)

The largest water reclamation project in the world, if undertaken, it would preserve some 255,000 acres as open land to be purchased with part of that money, land needed to absorb the region's projected wastewater flow of 1.5 billion gallons a day by the year 2000. That's almost 400 square miles, the equivalent of about 80 per cent of Marin's total land area.

Large portions of west Marin and Sonoma are being studied for lands that would receive the treated wastewater.

The price tag and other details of the mammoth project were disclosed yesterday by the Army Corps of Engineers before the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Three hearings on the report will be held by the corps, including one in Marin at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 25 in the supervisors chambers of the Marin Civic Center. The other hearings will be in Sacramento and San Jose.

The $800,000 corps report was done as part of a long-range plan for wastewater in the region.

The project envisioned by the corps would be a complete reversal of the $2 billion plan drafted three years ago by the state, a plan calling for conventional treatment of wastewater and discharging it into the ocean off San Mateo County. The state itself, however, subsequently upgraded its standard for ocean disposal of wastewater, thus the $2 billion cost of the 1969 plan would escalate to pay for a much higher degree of treatment.

Water quality control officials since 1969 also have switched their stress from conventional treatment to reuse of wastewater. Their new preference, however, has run into the problem of finding a market for this water.

The corps' preliminary report did not deal with the problem of whether there would be a market for the recycled wastewater. Its final report is due next June.

Col. William E. Vandenberg told newsmen that work on the project could not begin until at least 1975, and that construction could be completed between 1985 and 2000.

He assured the board that such a project would not mean abandonment of costly conventional sewage facilities to be built in the next three years, but did not explain that assurance's apparent contradiction with the fact that much of those new facilities consist of major pipes discharging wastewater into the bay and hence banned

Reds Use Big Guns In Da Nang Shelling

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces threatening Da Nang shelled the city with heavy rockets for the first time today and set fires blazing in the district town of Thang Binh, 20 miles to the south. They also moved to within two miles of the Marble Mountain military complex just outside Da Nang and hit it with a dozen short range mortars.

It was the fourth rocket attack on Da Nang this month but it was the first time the Communists used their big 140mm (5.5 inch) rockets which weigh 88 pounds. The North Vietnamese also have brought tanks and heavy artillery into areas south of Da Nang in the growing threat to the country's second largest city. Previous attacks were by much smaller rockets.

U.S. fighter-bombers and B52s, blocked by bad weather from attacking North Vietnam, concentrated on targets in South Vietnam and carried out the heaviest assaults in three months. Waves of B52s dropped 2,500 tons of bombs, mostly in the northern area near Da Nang and Quang Tri.

The North Vietnamese launched new counterattacks in the Quang Tri area 40 miles north of Da Nang in an attempt to drive back South Vietnamese marines trying to recapture the fallen town. South Vietnamese

Sausalito Tax Rate Is $1.485

For the third year in a row, the Sausalito City Council last night set the city's 1972-73 tax rate at $1.485 per $100 assessed valuation.

The rate will generate $541,582 in revenue for the city, including $77,317 for the library; $328,232, general fund; $74,035, employee retirement, and $61,998 for bond indebtedness and interest.

Total assessed valuation in Sausalito this year is $39,215,223.

The council also agreed to consider formation of a redevelopment agency to develop the Marinship area when it meets Sept. 5.

$2.7 Million Budget Set; Novato Holds To Tax Rate

The Novato City Council last night adopted a $2.7 million budget for the current fiscal year and adopted a tax rate of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the same as last year. (Another Novato City Council story, page 34.)

The adopted budget is $156,775 higher than the $2,543,225 budget projected in June. The difference was $30,095 grant for police training form the state, a carry-over of $50,755 in capital improvement funds and an increase of $75,925 in unallocated reserve, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The $2.7 million budget consists of the $1,908,795 operating budget and $791,205 capital improvement budget.

An increase of more than 8 per cent in the assessed valuation of the city made it possible to increase expenditures while lowering the tax rate from the previously projected 96 cents to 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Brown said.

The council also adopted budgets for three maintenance districts, with the city paying one fourth of them. The San Main Park Maintenance District's $22,500 budget was approved, the city to pay $5,600; Lynwood Maintenance District, $2,680, the city to pay $670; Monte Maria Community Services District, $1,800, the city to pay $450.

Top Officials Will Skip Peace Session

PARIS (UPI)—The chief negotiators for North Vietnam and the United States will not attend the 156th session tomorrow of the deadlocked Paris peace talks, delegation spokesmen said today.

Other delegation members instead will represent Hanoi and Washington at the conference.

CONVENTION COMPROMISE

Reagan Sides With Small States

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Californians cast all their 96 votes for President Nixon's renomination, as per script, but surprised the GOP convention by finding the solution to its biggest headache: How to seat delegates at the 1976 convention.

California, the nation's most populous state, sided with the smallest states Tuesday to push through a delegation allocation formula fiercely opposed by many large industrial states.

"If you see a fight and a little fellow is getting clobbered," Gov. Ronald Reagan told California delegates, "maybe you should step in and help."

But Reagan also felt, a top aide reported, that California frequently is more in tune politically with smaller, more conservative states than larger, liberal ones.

The new rule could help conservative candidates for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination —such as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or Reagan.

The California governor all week has been careful in public statements to keep the door slightly ajar for another possible White House bid.

Asked about the 1976 election by newsmen Tuesday, Reagan answered:

"You're talking to me about '76. I haven't even decided about '74" when he steps down as governor and is considering running for Democrat Alan Cranston's senate seat.

As for whether he will be too old at age 65 to run, the handsome former actor told California delegates, "they tell me Verdi was 80 when he wrote the opera Falstaff."

On the convention floor Tuesday night, millionaire oil industrialist Henry Salvatori volunteered to a reporter he was not unhappy that Nixon is president instead of Reagan, but "'76 is another year." Salvatori was one of Reagan's chief campaign contributors four years ago.

Reagan, chairman of the California delegation, cast the state's votes for Nixon in honor "of that beautiful resort city, San Diego" which originally had planned to host the convention. The governor also noted Nixon was a California native son.

California delegates waved placards and small American flags and were inundated in a sea of balloons as Nixon's official renomination was announced. The vote was 1,347 to 1.

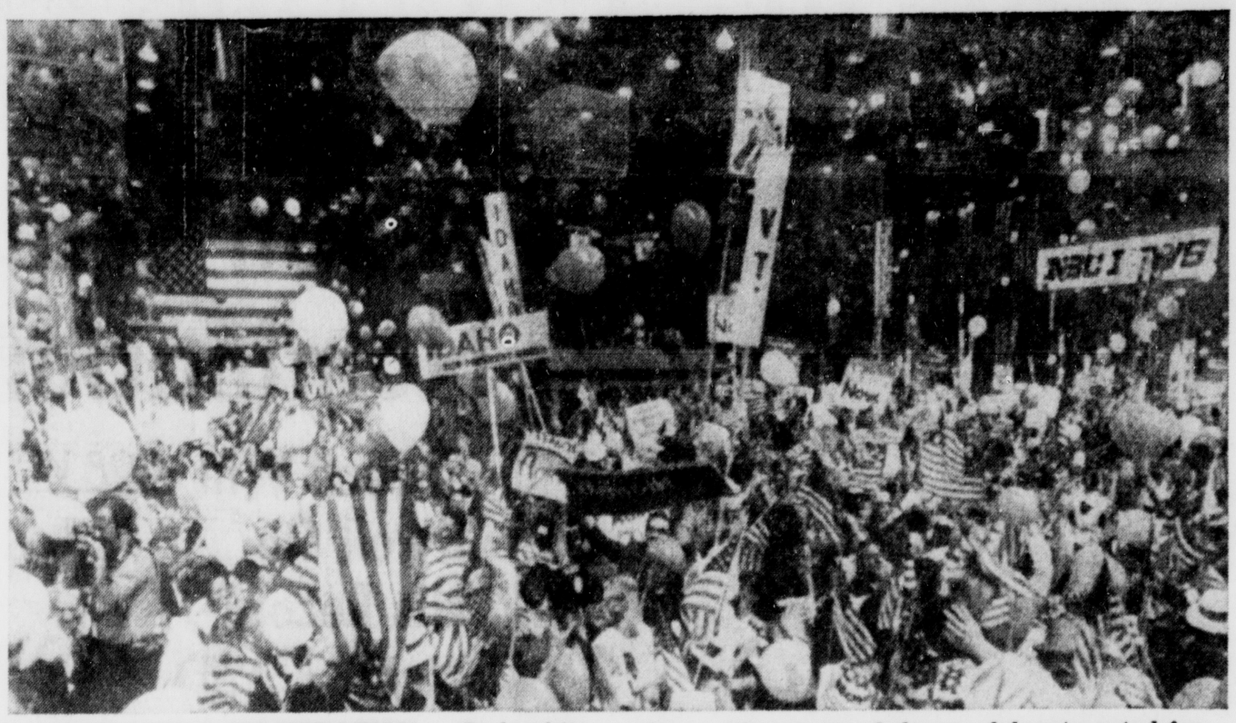
There were scattered boos in the convention hall when maverick California Rep. Paul N. McCloskey was delivered the one New Mexico vote he won in that state's primary.

Nixon captured California's entire bloc of delegates by sweeping the winner-take-all June 6 primary with 90 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Reagan sat in the presidential box with First Lady Pat Nixon and the President's daughters, Tricia and Julie, during the nominating.

Reagan delivered one of the convention speeches in favor of the delegation allocation formula, dubbed "the California Compromise." He said it preserved "checks and balances" between large and small states.

The convention Rules Committee had been wrestling with a new delegation apportionment formula for days.



NOMINATION CELEBRATION — Red, white and blue balloons float through the air in the Republican National Convention hall in Miami Beach, Fla, after a roll call of states gave President Richard M. Nixon the nomination for another term. Only one delegate voted for anyone else — Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California received a lone vote from New Mexico in last night's nomination session.

Bank Holdup Ends In Shooting At Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents shot and killed one alleged bank robber and captured his accomplice early today at Kennedy airport as the pair prepared to board a private jet for a flight out of the country. Seven hostages they had held for more than 14 hours were unharmed.

The gunmen, one a self-admitted homosexual demanding the release of his male "wife" from a mental ward, had robbed a Brooklyn branch of the Chase Manhattan bank of $29,000 yesterday afternoon and then held the employees hostage when they were surprised by police.

Police identified the dead man as Salvatore Natriaili but said his address and age were not immediately available.

In a drama that stretched through the night, the gunmen negotiated with FBI agents and police on their demands for the plane and a car to take them to the airport. A two-engine Hansa jet was brought to the airport about 2:30 a.m.

At 3:40 a.m. a limousine pulled up in front of the one-story bank and the homosexual, John Wojtowicz, came out of the building with a rifle slung over his shoulder to search the car.

Wojtowicz, who had earlier demended the release of his male "wife" from a hospital psychiatric ward, then surveyed the street, apparently looking for the hidden police sharpshooter.

Satisfied, he got into the car with his accomplice, the hostages and an FBI agent for the driver. They drove off for the airport, arriving there at 4:45 a.m.

John F. Malone, special agent in charge of the FBI's New York office, told a news conference that the limousine was diverted as the plane approached and one of the men was shot. The second gave himself up, he said.

Malone said the men were armed with a rifle and a machine gun.

The gunmen originally seized nine hostages but released the bank guard, Calvin Jones, three hours after the holdup, and left one woman hostage when they drove off with six other women and the bank manager.

The 13-hour drama at the bank was punctuated by several bizarre incidents. Homosexual friends of Wojtowicz came to visit him at the bank and kissed him as he stood in the doorway while a crowd of hundreds of onlookers cheered.

Panic May Have Caused Bomb To Blow Early

BELFAST (UPI)—Investigators said today a bomb blast that killed eight persons at a customs post yesterday may have gone off prematurely when a warning siren panicked the bombers, who were among the victims, into dropping the device.

The death toll from the explosion in Newry, 32 miles south of Belfast near the border with the Irish Republic, was the worst since July 31 when a bomb hidden in a car exploded and killed nine persons in Claudy, near Londonderry. The Newry deaths and another in Belfast yesterday brought to 527 the number of killings in three years of Northern Ireland sectarian violence.

In other incidents Tuesday, the army said a sniper shot and seriously wounded a soldier in Belfast's Catholic Andersonstown area. In anotherpart of the capital, a gunman shot a Protestant in the leg as he opened the door of his home.

Police today said the victim in Belfast's killing was a highranking member of a Protestant workers group. He was identified as James F. Johnston, 40, a truck driver found shot dead in his van in the city's Roman Catholic Falls Road area. He was hooded and his hands were tied behind his back, police said.

Among the dead in the Newry explosion were four customs officers, two truck drivers and the bombers. Six other persons were injured, one seriously.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Closed Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal court judge, citing a need to protect the constitutional rights of suspects, has barred the release of all pretrial testimony in the case of the Watergate Five.

The ruling yesterday by U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey means that sworn statements to be taken from several Nixon administration and reelection campaign officials will be withheld from the public until after the Nov. 7 presidential election.

Two of the officials to be questioned in the Democratic party's $1 million suit are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Nixon campaign finance director Maurice Stans.

No Gas Leakage

HONOLULU (UPI) — An Army decontamination team landed on remote Johnston Island yesterday and reported there was apparently no leakage of America's war gas from a pounding of the atoll by Hurricane Celeste.

The storm lashed the island Sunday with 45 foot waves and 150 mile-per-hour winds.

A destroyer lay anchored offshore today, waiting for the team of chemical, biological and nuclear experts to complete its report.

Not Meddling

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (UPI) — Pierre Salinger said yesterday he was not meddling in foreign affairs when he discussed the fate of American war prisoners with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

"In no way did this impede the effort to negotiate peace," said Salinger, a key aide to Democratc presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

Salinger, here to speak at the convention of the Michigan Building Trades Council, shrugged off a charge by Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater that he may have violated a federal law in meeting with North Vietnamese officials.

Hijackers Surrender

CAIRO (UPI) — A South Yemeni airliner hijacked yesterday over the Mediterranean Sea and flown to Libya, landed at Cairo today, the Middle East News Agency said.

The three hijackers — two men and a woman — remained behind in Benghazi as did three other passengers among the 61 persons aboard the Al Yemda DC6 airliner, the agency said.

It quoted passengers who arrived in Cairo as saying: "The three hijackers surrendered with their weapons to Libyan authorities when the plane landed in Benghazi" last night.

Newspaper Destroyed

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Crusading East Tennessee publisher Dan Hicks' newspaper was destroyed by fire early today and the sheriff's department said arson was suspected.

Hicks, who has been burned out, beaten and shot at for his stories on local politics, was slightly injured when he attempted to save historical records in the Monroe County Democrat.

Monroe County Sheriff Kenneth Davis said arson was suspected.

Safety Guarantee

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korea issued a formal statement today guaranteeing the safety of South Korea officials and newsmen traveling to Pyongyang for the opening of the Red Cross talks next Wednesday on improving North-South relations.

Hits Arab World

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets today criticized the Arab world for insufficient unity and individual Arab leaders for "underestimating" the seriousness of the Middle East situation and recommended alliance with Russia.

An article in Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, also said the pledges of the American Republican and Democratic parties to support Israel showed how "illusory" were Arab hopes for an agreement with the United States.

Sibley Slated To See Psychiatrist

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)— Frank M. Sibley, charged with riding a bicycle into the Reno airport and hijacking a jet for $2 million ransom, will see a psychiatrist, his attorney said Tuesday night.

"He's certain his emotional health is good and he's not fearful of meeting with a psychiatrist," said court-appointed attorney Irving Paul Jr. Sibley allegedly hijacked a jet from Reno to Vancouver, B.C. and then to Seattle, demanding $2 million ransom in what he said was a protest against President Nixon and the Vietnam War. He was shot by FBI agents posing as pilots.

Silent-Film Fans Mourn Valentino

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is 46 years today since the death of Rudolph Valentino, the great lover of the silent screen, touched off a tumult of mourning across the nation.

Many still remember. They planned to gather again, as they have for decades on this day, before Valentino's tomb in Hollywood Memorial Park. Singer Rudy Vallee will deliver the eulogy.

Chicken Pox Kills Children Who Suffer From Leukemia

By JAY GOODWIN

Right now, throughout Marin County, there are a handful of families who live in constant fear that their child will be exposed to chicken pox.

While most children can contract chicken pox and recover in a matter of weeks, these dozen children could die if they are exposed to this relatively common disease.

They are children suffering from leukemia who are being treated with immuno-suppressant drugs. The drugs retard the spread of leukemia in their young bodies, but they also leave the children incapable of producing the antibodies needed to fight chicken pox.

Thus the same medication which keeps these young leukemia patients alive can render them vulnerable to a most unnecessary death.

For years this situation has existed, leaving parents of leukemia-striken children petrified whenever a case of chicken pox is reported at their child's school. Helplessly, they are forced to keep their children away from school, hoping the disease will once again spare their son or daughter.

At last relief for these families may be on the horizon.

A San Rafael pediatrician, Dr. Arthur R. Ablin, and two physicians from San Francisco have recently taken the first steps toward ending a nightmare that has haunted some Marin families and others like them throughout the bay area.

Doctors have learned that blood plasma from adults who have recently contracted a disease called shingles can supply the antibodies missing in the leukemia patient.

Technically called herpes zoster, shingles is an adult version of chicken pox which usually causes a rash to break out around the torso. Healthy adults who contract shingles produce antibodies to fight the virus which can also be used to fight chicken pox.

Doctors have long suspected that the plasma of shingles patients might be valuable as preventive medication for leukemia patients exposed to chicken pox. But, up until recently, there has been no organized campaign in the bay area to collect this plasma and make it available to patients on a large scale.

Last month, a group of doctors at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco began to fill this vacuum and attract large quantities of shingles plasma.

Ablin called the lack of this blood shameful. Shaking his head, he admitted the plasma has never been solicited in an organized fashion before, but couldn't explain why.

"Right now, there must be half a dozen people in Marin County with zoster who could easily donate a pint of blood. But, I don't blame patients. Up until now, they haven't known about our need."

He reached into a filing cabinet and pulled out a folder with the medical history of an 11-year-old leukemia patient. The young boy had been treated for leukemia for years. In 1969, he contracted zoster and was unable to resist the virus with any natural antibodies. The relatively mild disease ran wild in the child's body and decayed one quarter of his scalp, forehead and cheek.

Ablin pointed out that this patient had contracted zoster, not chicken pox, but claimed the damage would have been the same. Both diseases could have been retarded if his patient had received a preventive transfusion of plasma from a shingles patient, the doctor believed.

"Not every kid who has leukemia and contracts chicken pox does," he said, pointing to the snapshots of his patient's scarred face. "But look at the complications."

While leukemia patients are most likely to suffer from cases of chicken pox, children who have undergone transplant operations are also vulnerable.

In an effort to collect the valuable plasma, a Bay Area-wide appeal to shingles patients has been issued by the doctors.

Since only the plasma portion of the blood is needed for children, the donations will be collected by a technique known as plasmapheresis. The donor gives his usual gift of blood, but the blood bank immediately separates the plasma from the red cells and returns the red cells to the donor. Blood is being collected at the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco.

To qualify as a donor, a person must be between 18 and 66 and be recuperating from a case of shingles that began seven to 28 days before the time of donation.

Further information on the blood drive may be obtained by calling Ablin.

Magee Ejected For 14th Time

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the 14th time since his case was transferred to San Francisco, convict Ruchell Magee was ejected from the courtroom Tuesday. This time for swinging a fist at bailiffs.

He failed to land a blow during the outburst which followed an admonition from Judge Morton Colvin that he stop disrupting pre-trial proceedings.

Magee, a San Quentin Prison convict, is charged with murder because of an unsuccessful escape attempt in 1970 at the Marin County Civic Center in which four persons were killed, including a judge.

Greek Ship Sinks; 11 Aboard Are Lost

ATHENS (UPI) — The ministry of merchant marine yesterday announced the loss of the 2,800-ton freighter Suzy off the coast of Albania on Sunday. Eleven persons went down with the ship, and eight were saved.

The announcement said the Suzy had sailed from Durazzo, Albania, with a cargo of tar and was heading for the Greek port of Patras when she sank 15 miles from Albania. Officials said the cause of the sinking was not known.

Marinite Will Take Shaheen School Post

Dr. Steven P. Morena of Larkspur will replace Dr. Thomas Shaheen as superintendent of schools in San Francisco, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Dr. Shaheen, it was reported, has received a $55,000 settlement and will resign later this week. Shaheen's contract with the school board — at $42,000 a year — has two years to run.

Although most school board members refused to comment, one member expressed surprise at the accuracy of the information obtained by the Independent-Journal and other newspapers.

The school board is expected to make an official announcement Friday.

A spokesman for the San Francisco Community College District — where Morena is assistant chancellor in charge of administration — said nothing was known of any plans Morena might have and said he was away on vacation.

Morena, who is 51, is a native of San Francisco. He served in the Navy and graduated in 1947 from San Francisco State College. He received a master's degree in administration in 1949 from Stanford University.

After teaching in San Francisco public schools, he returned to Stanford in 1963 for a doctorate in guidance and administration.

He then joined the staff of Laney Community College in Oakland but left a few months later to take the second-highest job with the newly-formed community college district.

"oppose nationalized compulsory health insurance." The Republicans propose a program financed by employers, employes and the federal government to provide comprehensive health care insurance.

Gun control — Republicans pledge to safeguard the right of responsible citizens to own firearms, but to "intensify efforts to prevent criminal access to all weapons including special emphasis on cheap, readily obtainable handguns." But the GOP said states should have the primary responsibility for gun control. The Democrats advocate legislation to "control the improper use of handguns," especially cheap handguns called "Saturday night specials."

Privacy—Both platforms call for freedom from invasion of individual privacy, but the Democrats attack the Republicans through a call for an end to "the epidemic of wiretapping."

North Marin Presses Air Base Fight

The North Marin Federation of Homeowners, representing 12 homeowner associations, will carry its fight against joint civilian-military air use at Hamilton Air Force Base to the county, president Guthrie R. Green reported today.

With petitions bearing 4,610 signatures against joint use, the federation was successful Monday night in its bid to have the Novato City Council oppose joint use.

Local approval of any civilian air use at the base however rests with Marin County, and Green said "the officers and directors of the federation will continue their efforts to defeat any over-ride attempts on this issue at the county level.

Novato residents have opposed joint use because they believe it would bring noise and air pollution, create more traffic and have a detrimental effect on the semi-rural atmosphere of the community.

Former aviation Commissioner Ben Ostlind and others favoring joint use say those objecting are acting on misinformation and that none of those adverse developments would occur, but rather would be prevented.

26 Apartment Units Denied

A preliminary application to the Larkspur Architectural Review Committee for a 26-unit apartment project on South Eliseo Drive was denied Monday night.

Building technician Randall Walker said the review application by Leverage Funding Co. was for a double lot fronting on Corte Madera Creek.

The committee asked that the project's creek frontage design be restudied, he said, since it appeared too massive for the location.

Cyclist Run Over Twice In Mishap

A 19-year-old Southern Californian was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple injuries received when he was thrown from his motorcycle yesterday and run over by at least two vehicles.

Mark Hall of Torrance, Los Angeles County, suffered head injuries, a ruptured bladder, multiple cuts and a broken leg in the 11:40 p.m. accident which occurred southbound on Highway 101 near the Ignacio Interchange.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall was possibly entering the highway from the on-ramp when he hit a curb and was thrown into the fast traffic lane.

A pickup truck driven by John F. Calverly, 45, of Sebastopol, struck the motorcycle and may have run over Hall, according to officers, who said the motorcycle and the youth were then struck by a car driven by Dennis A. Webster, 22, of 91 Rosemont Avenue, San Anselmo. The Webster car rolled over after hitting the youth.

Officers said a car driven by Lydia May Angelini, 45, of 37 Knoll Way, San Rafael, was southbound on the highway. Mrs. Angelini saw an unidentified man waving a flare on the right side of the freeway and moved to the left, running over Hall, the highway patrol said.

Chase Nets Escapers In Bel Marin

Two men police say escaped yesterday from the Sierra Conservation Camp in Jamestown, Fresno County, were captured in Bel-Marin Keys after a high-speed chase at 4:22 a.m. today.

Booked into Marin County Jail by San Rafael police and held without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court were Martin Ervin Murrill, 28, and Charles John Lares, 24, both of no known address.

They were arrested on suspicion of car theft and receiving stolen property.

According to police, an officer sighted a car reported stolen on Highway 101 near the Lucas Valley overpass early today. The car sped up Nave Drive after a short chase on Highway 101, skidded onto Bel-Marin Keys Road and slid over an embankment.

The men, who fled from the vehicle on foot, were later found hiding nearby, police said.

Guilty Plea To Shooting Charge

Betty Jo Smith, 41, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of firing shots at her estranged husband's home.

Sentencing was set Monday for Sept. 22.

Mrs. Smith, who earlier had been charged with a felony assault count, fired a volley into the San Rafael apartment of her husband, James, on April 17.

NIXON

Police and other security forces were already taking precautions to see that his aircraft lands as far removed as possible from protest groups outside on the street.

Agnew remained in seclusion in a home loaned to him by a wealthy Miami businessman, working on his speech and playing tennis.

On the morning after his renomination — unanimous except for a single vote that New Mexico was required to cast for Paul N. McCloskey—Nixon studied and worked alone at his villa 10 miles from the convention scene.

The rest of his family was politicking actively along the beach, however. First Lady Pat Nixon, who has been highly visible since arriving last weekend, visited the Florida delegation this morning and told them.:

"Dick wanted me to bring my greetings to you and to tell you he looks forward to seeing you tonight."

Nixon's acceptance speech, drafted on 12 pads of yellow legal-sized pages, will make carefully considered appeals to blacks, Democrats and the youth—the latter a theme he has orchestrated throughout the convention.

To chants of "four more years, four more years!" Nixon stressed youth's new and untested political muscle when he arrived here Tuesday and again at a Miami stadium rock concert where he delivered what amounted to an unofficial acceptance speech in the embrace of black entertainer Sammy Davis Jr.

"We've got just as good a shot at it (the youth vote) as the other side," he said.

Predicting his own re-election he also pledged to work "in the next four years" toward assuring equal opportunity for blacks and the poor.

Nixon was elected vice president in 1952 and 1956, but lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy by a hair in 1960 and won just as narrowly in 1968. Now, he made it clear, he is out to win with an avalanche of votes, shedding forever the loser's image that dogged his earlier career.

Minutes before, balloons had showered upon them as the results of their balloting were announced—Nixon's renomination by a vote of 1,347 to 1.

The delegates scorned reforms proposed by liberals which could have hampered Agnew in a bid next time for the presidential nomiation.

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a leader earlier in the week of the fight to alter the delegate selection formula for 1976, sat silent while others carried the battle to the convention floor at Tuesday• afternoon's session.

Conservatives had claimed that Percy's efforts were self-serving. But the senator made a $50 bet with television newsman Roger Mudd thet he would not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1976.

The reformers wanted to change the system which awards extra delegates to stalwartly Republican states, usually rural, small and conservative, at the expense of big states where moderate and liberal Republicans come from.

But the reformers were defeated by a vote of 910 to 434.

Clarke Reed of Mississippi said the liberal proposal would have given Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace the right to repeat his old refrain—that "There's not a dime's worth of difference" between the two major parties.

Arguing for change, William F. McLaughlin, Michigan state chairman, told the convention in a booming voice that "we have to go to the women, to the ghettoes, to the campuses and say, 'We want you.'"

Kent Heads Drive For Proposition 15

Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands has been named Northern California chairman of the Californians For Yes on 15, the November ballot initiative to restrict the governor's veto power over state employees' pay increases.

Kent, former chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, said that during the past six years Gov. Ronald Reagan "has arbitrarily vetoed pay adjustments recommended by his own board and approved by the state Legislature. There is simply no sound reason for this, with the present huge surplus of $256 million in the state general fund and another $400 million anticipated by fiscal 1972-73."

McGovern Talks To Polite Legionnaires

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, hoping to tell "what sort of man I am," defended his defense budget and his patriotism before the American Legion convention today.

The Democratic presidential candidate, wearing his blue Legion cap from the Mitchell, S.D., post, got polite applause and sometimes silence when he told the legionnaires his proposed $30 billion cut in the defense budget would still leave the United States strong enough to resist any threat.

After the Legion address, the big item on McGovern's schedule was a meeting with party kingmaker Mayor Richard J. Daley. The confrontation in party headquarters was to be the first meeting between the candidate and the mayor since McGovern forces helped keep Daley and his Chicago delegation out of the Democratic National Convention last month.

McGovern has called Illinois essential to his presidential hopes and Daley is generally regarded as essential to Democrats hoping to carry Illinois.

Before launching into his prepared text before the legionnaires, McGovern told them, "There has been so much baloney about me both in the press and (from) my opponents that I'd like to take this opportunity to tell you what kind of man I am."

"Number one, with every fiber of my being, I love America," the World War II bomber pilot said. "It is the greatest nation in the world and I would gladly sacrifice my life to serve it in whatever way I can.

"It has been good to me, the son of a poor clergyman."

The legionnaires applauded him when he plumped for benefits for Vietnam veterans and "better and independent" Veterans Administration hospitals. There was little other applause, although McGovern got a 10-second standing ovation at the end of his speech.

McGovern met Tuesday at the LBJ ranch with former President Lyndon B. Johnson, with whom he has had sharp past differences on foreign policy. McGovern said Johnson gave him some "good, homey, down-to-earth advice" on how to unite the Democratic party and to win the November elections.

"I have never found the President warmer and more encouraging in his support," he said after he and Sargent Shriver, his vice presidential running-mate, met with Johnson.

Trustees Ask Closer Ties With Cities

The Cotati School District board asked last night that Rohnert Park and Cotati allow it to advise on mutual city and school problems.

Board secretary Miriam Horne said the board asked that Rohnert Park advise the board when school matters are to be considered at city council or planning commission meetings so a representative can be present. They said that in the past the council and commission have considered school problems without notifying the board.

The board also asked that the City of Cotati seek comments from the board before approving tentative maps for subdivisions. The board said it would comment on whether school facilities can acommodate children from the proposed subdivisions and will recommend whether the subdivision be approved or denied.

The board approved the city-school coordinating committee as the agency to advise cities on the impact subdivisions have on the school district and agreed the committee should study ways to allieviate school problems and seek assistance from the cities.

Sniperscope Traps Young Firebugs

San Rafael police nabbed two 14-year-old firebugs Monday night after three fires were set between Racquet Club Drive and K Street in Sun Valley.

Police, who were staked out in the area, caught the youths with the aid of a Vietnam-developed nightscope that allows surveillance in total darkness.

One of the youths was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday and the other was released to the custody of his parents.

The identities of the two juveniles were withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Deputy Police Chief Thomas L. Stephenson said the two are suspected of setting 10 fires this year and predicted that up to 12 arson cases will be cleared from previous years.

He said the youths could give no reason for setting the fires other than "the excitement and feeling of putting one over on the authorities."

He said the fires Monday were set by a simple timing device which allows an arsonist to leave an area before the fire breaks out.

Police and firemen had been staked out in Sun Valley since Friday, according to Stephenson.

to be left in "landscaped, unenclosed open space," it appeared to him that structures and parking and driveway facilities took up much more than half of the land.

Although at least 21 per cent of the land is to be left in open space at the Fourth Street frontage under the city-county agreement, several commissioners wondered whether the structures could be moved toward Fourth 10 feet to enable more open area at the rear of the property. Seeking more open space members also called for elimination of nine of 36 parking stalls proposed at Fifth Avenue and A Street in addition to the multilevel garage which would hold 260 cars.

Albert Bianchi, attorney for McKeon, told the commission McKeon believed the currently proposed layout of the buildings offered the least obstruction to the mission, although saying the commission could alter the scheme if it wanted.

The county has been trying to sell the courthouse square for years, although stymied by a high asking price and squabbles with the city over the nature and scope of development.

WAR

fighter-bombers knocked out five attacking tanks, raising the total Communist tank losses there to 225 since the Communist offensive began last spring.

UPI photographer Jeff Taylor said the shelling of Thang Binh below Da Nang was carried out by North Vietnamese who captured the town of Que Son and nearby Base Camp Ross last weekend. Thang Binh is the last major South Vietnamese base between the Communists and the sea and its fall would increase the threat to Da Nang and the coastal regions to the south.

UPI reporter Ed Basset reported from the area that the Saigon government had begun an investigation into the loss of Camp Ross. Its defenders fled, leaving behind at least six 105mm howitzers and four 155mm howitzers.

Several fights were reported in the Que Son area where a government force was trying to block further Communist advances. Militia operating out of Camp Baldy, 10 miles northeast of Que Son and about 15 miles below Da Nang, killed 26 Communists in a fight today. South Vietnamese planes knocked out another longrange Communist 130mm gun in the same area, bringing to eight the number destroyed this week.

Military officers at Da Nang said six huge 140mm Soviet-made rockets, the largest conventional rocket in the North Vietnamese inventory, smashed into the city before dawn today, wounding 11 civilians and destroying five homes.

The rockets, with a range of just over six miles (10.5 kilometers) have often been found around Da Nang but never used in an attack on the city itself, military spokesmen said.

Taylor saw a North Vietnamese soldier who jumped or was pushed from a low-flying South Vietnamese Air Force helicopter near Thang Binh.

Taylor said the man dropped from the helicopter as it flew over Highway 1 at an altitude of about 40 feet. "The chopper was going full speed (about 100 miles an hour) and it suddenly dipped to one side, a body came out, and the helicopter just straightened up and flew away, gaining altitude as it went," Taylor said.

The North Vietnamese soldier, dressed in Communist uniform with cutoff short pants, hit a small roadside shrine and lay lifeless, he said.

South Vietnamese officers at Da Nang, asked about the incident, said they knew nothing about it, according to Bassett.

Hospital Confronts Fire Tab

Marin General Hospital — which has always had fire protection from the Kentfield Fire Protection District for a token $1 a year — is being asked to pay $10,059 this year.

Marin Hospital District board was told last night by member Thomas K. Procter, that the hospital's fire protection committee had been notified of the new billing by the Kentfield District.

The district was given until Aug. 31 to make up its mind on the proposed contract, said hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Marin General Hospital, located in county territory, is an exempt organization and as such doesn't pay taxes to the fire district, said Bolinger, and hitherto has contracted for protection for $1.

The chairman of the fire district, W. J. Williams, told the Independent-Journal today that the board decided the contract should be revised "and the hospital should be charged accordingly to anyone else."

Bolinger said the district had included enough money for fire protection in its 1972-73 budget to meet the $10,059 figure and instructed its fire protection committee to complete negotiations on the contract with the Kentfield district.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

VOLUNTEERS — Reveived the volunteers' annual report and was told the volunteers' annual luncheon meeting will be Oct. 11 at the Meadow Club.

STOCK — Was told sale of 929 shares of Stauffer Chemical Co. stock given by Howard Good of Kentfield realized $34,578.86; the pledge will be used to buy an argon laser photocoagulator for the radiotherapy department.

SUMMONS — Heard that three summonses and complaints had been forwarded to the hsopital insurance carrier — on behalf of Michael K. Culbertson, William Whitelaw and Suzanne Sumers.

PLAN — Approved a utilization review plan aimed at reducing patient-stay time.

DEFER — Approved a request for May C. Malloy, information clerk's normal retirement date to be deferred.

AIR CONDITIONING — Approved a maximum cost of $4,479 for installation of air conditioning in the hearing and speech and EEG laboratories.

TOUR — Toured the hospital's remodelling projects — the completed intensive care nursery, the radiotherapy department construction, and the new coronary intensive care unit.

Warrant Issued In Prescription Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for June Rose Robinson, 24, of San Francisco, when she failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on a charge of trying to use a forged prescription.

Mrs. Robinson was arrested June 13 when she reportedly tried to use the prescription to get drugs at Payless Drug Store in San Rafael.

GOP Central Unit Picks Vice Chairman

Robert D. Huber of Mill Valley last night was elected vice chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

An attorney, he will fill the vacancy created last month when William S. Richards was elected chairman. The term expires in January.

OBITUARIES

CHILTON R. BUSH

STANFORD (UPI) — Prof. Chilton R. Bush, who devoted his life to the upgrading of American journalism, died of cancer yesterday at age 76.

The retired head of Stanford University's communications department was a pioneer in opinion polling and his textbook, "Newspaper Reporting of Public Affairs," is the standard in its field.

Bush retired in 1961 after 27 years at Stanford, but continued to be a consultant to the profession.

Known as "Chick" to reporters and editors nationwide, Bush founded the California Newspaper Publishers Association editors' conference, which had its 34th annual meeting this year.

Both in and out of the classroom, Bush worked to upgrade American journalism, not by criticizing the press but by helpful work designed to increase the journalists' awareness of their responsibility to society.

In 1934, he started one of the nation's first on-the-job programs for beginning reporters at the now defunct San Francisco News.

Bush started a doctoral program in communications research at Stanford in 1952 and launched the Institute of Communications Research in 1955.

His Alma Mater, University of Wisconsin, in its citation for "Distinguished service to journalism," said he was "a reporter and editor who took the experience of the newsroom and made it meaningful in the classroom."

Bush received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at Wisconsin and taught at the university from 1925 to 1934 when he came to Stanford.

MRS. McMACKIN

Jewell Marguerite McMackin, 52, of 5935 Redwood Highway, Novato, a civilian employee at Hamilton Air Force Base, collapsed while boarding a plane this morning and was pronounced dead on arrival at the base hospital at 7:15 a.m.

Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas reported that Mrs. McMackin had a history of heart trouble. She was the wife of Wilbur McMackin.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Chapel of Marin.

JOHN MACKENZIE

John Mackenzie of Mill Valley died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 89.

A native of Scotland, he had lived in California and Marin County eight years, residing at 33 West Blithedale Avenue. Prior to his retirement, he was part owner of a mortgage and loan company in Spokane, Wash. for 42 years.

Mackenzie is survived by a daughter, Helen Karrer, and two grand-daughters, all of Mill Valley.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Russell and Gooch funeral home in Mill Valley. Burial will be private.

MARY BROOKE

In an obituary published yesterday, the Independent-Journal incorrectly identified Lindsay Lee of Dutch Flat, Placer County, as the son of Mary L. Brooke of Mill Valley, who died Friday.

Lindsay Lee is Mrs. Brooke's daughter.

DEATH NOTICE

MACKENZIE — In Mill Valley, Aug. 22, 1972, John Mackenzie, loving father of Mrs. Helen Karrer of Mill Valley, loving grandfather of Margaret and Helen Karrer, both of Mill Valley. A native of Scotland, aged 89.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral services Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Memorial Chapels of Russell and Gooch, 270 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley. Interment, private. (8/23)

WASTE

by the project.

Vandenberg said the reclamation project called for putting treated wastewater onto the disposal sites by spray irrigation, intermittent flooding or letting it flow in shallow sheets across the sites. These methods could be used in forests, pasture and crop lands and grassy areas, he said.

The water, after final purification by percolating through the soil, would be reclaimed from wells or by using an underground tile drainage system, the colonel explained. The soil would filter pollutants out of the wastewater.

The corps' study noted that when the future wastewater planning is completed in 1974 under the joint federal-state study, the plans will determine water quality control in California "for years to come."

It stressed that reusing wastewater instead of dumping it into the bay or ocean was the only way to prevent any pollution of state waters. Even the host complete conventional treatment of wastewater leaves 20 per cent of poisonous heavy metals in the effluent, the report said.

The reclamation project would remove up to 99 per cent of pollutants, including heavy metals, the report stated.

The corps, without explanation, assumed that all lands required for the system would be purchased in fee. Vandenberg told newsmen he did not know how much of the $5.3 billion would be for land purchase.

The report estimated that operation and maintenance of the project would cost $138 million a year, but added that "the profit from crops harvested on land sites and the value of reclaimed water would tend to offset these costs."

The report noted that the corps excluded as potential land application sites all lands in parks and wildlife refuges.

The regional board expressed surprise at the $5.3 billion price tag, and said it will discuss the report at its Sept. 14 meeting at 9:30 a.m. in the State Building, Oakland.

Only No Vote Cast By Jensen

The sole vote against San Rafael's $8,000 funding of the city's chamber of commerce as reported yesterday was cast by Councilman Fred E. Jensen. Mention of Jensen's opposition to the measure was cut in the composing room.

Another story yesterday on the San Rafael City Council's deadlock votes on Peacock Gap Unit 5 said Mayor C. Paul Bettini moved to continue the matter after "two faultless votes". Actually, Bettini made the move after two fruitless votes.

Tax Rate Set By Fairfax Trustees

The Fairfax School District board last night set a tax rate of $3.855 per $100 assessed valuation for 1972-73, down 10 cents from last year.

The new tax rate will finance a budget of $1,308,114 for 1972-73, up from last year's $1,198,250 spending program, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

He said this year's lower tax rate was due to an increase in assessed valuation of about $2.5 million.

He said that he expected the district's enrollment of about 1,060 students to remain the same "for some time to come."

The Fairfax School District board also:

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Sept. 12 at White Hill School.

Population Up, But At Lower Rate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —California's population has climbed to 20.52 million, but a lower birth rate has helped slow the increase.

The state Department of Finance reported Tuesday that a provisional estimate of the population showed an increase of 239,000, or 1.2 per cent, during the fiscal year ending July 1. This compares with a 260,000 increase the previous year.

Finance Director Verne Orr attributed a decline in the rate of natural population increase—the excess of births over deaths—as a major reason for the slower rate of population increase.

He said the natural increase was estimated at 147,000 for 1971-72, down sharply from the 184,000 of the previous year.

But the natural population decrease was offset by a rise in the net migration, which increased 11,000 during the year to total 55,000. Californians returning from military service also increased from 42,000 in 1970-71 to 56,000 in 1971-72.

Los Angeles County, which has the greatest number of residents in the state, continued its population decline, dropping by 64,200 during the year to total 6.96 million.

Pentagon Paperwork Investigation Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., called for a congressional investigation of Pentagon paperwork Tuesday noting that when his military manpower subcommittee asked the Defense Department for one copy of every standard form used in the Pentagon, he received 11,916.

He said they measured almost 100 square feet and weighed more than 200 pounds.

WHY YOU SHOULD FLY TWA TO THE EAST COAST THIS SUMMER.

TWA can give you a better deal to New York, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, or Baltimore than any other airline.

And what you're about to read should prove that.

However, if you've already made some plans, or even bought tickets on some other airline, let us remind you of one other service we offer.

NEW FAMILY FARES.

First, we help you choose the best fare.

If all you're looking for is a low family fare, no ground accommodations included, these new discount fares are your best bet.

To qualify for them, you must fly to and return from the same East Coast city. You must fly on a Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday. You must stay no less than a week, no more than a month. And you must be a family of at least three (not counting children under 2). And you must leave and return before September 14th.

Once you're on the East Coast, we can help you save even more money with some optional low cost sightseeing, hotel or car deals. (See the opposite page.)

Now for those of you interested in more than just a low fare, let's talk about a complete package, with airfare and ground accommodations.

TWA's GETAWAY NEW YORK. AIRFARE, HOTEL. $293.

For only $293, we'll give you a round trip to New York and 4 days and 3 nights at a great hotel (price based on double occupancy). Plus you'll have an enormous choice of places to go and things to do: a Broadway show, dinners, dancing, guided tours, horseback riding, many, many things, including an Avis car if you want.

If you want a complete New York package, this is the best one going.

SPECIAL SUMMER SERVICE.

In honor of summer, we've made some cool additions. New summer salads and some new summer drinks. Like a Cloud Kahlua. Cuba Libre. An icy milk punch. And more. (Nominal charge for drinks in coach.)

Plus, as always, you'll find TWA's Ambassador Service, which means more comfortable seats in first class and coach.

A choice of 3 meals in coach and 5 in first class, a choice of 2 movies, and faster ground service.

SOME FUN ALONG THE WAY.

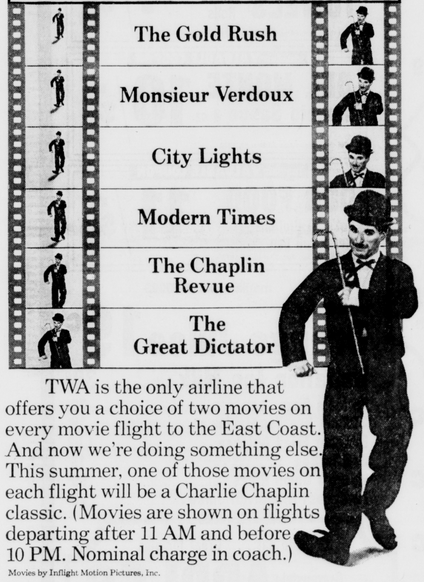
While the kids entertain themselves at their seats, coloring, reading story books, etc., you can be relaxing in our comfortable coach lounge. A great place to meet people, have a drink, play cards, or just wile away the time until you land.

GROUND AND IN-FLIGHT AMBASSADORS TO HELP YOU.

Our Ground Ambassadors will be at the departure lounge to help you with your needs. If you want to leave a message for your office, or make sure there's a courtesy cart for your baby when you land. Anything.

And in the air, you'll have our In-Flight Ambassador on 747s to help you reserve a rental car, or a hotel room, or again, for any help you might need.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN FILM FESTIVAL.



TWA is the only airline that offers you a choice of two movies on every movie flight to the East Coast. And now we're doing something else. This summer, one of those movies on each flight will be a Charlie Chaplin classic. (Movies are shown on flights departing after 11 AM and before 10 PM. Nominal charge in coach.)

Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

WE EVEN SAVE YOU MONEY ON THE GROUND.

Once you arrive on the East Coast, we have all sorts of optional plans to help you see a lot more without spending a lot more.

SIGHTSEEING NEW YORK.

For $28 per adult and $27 per child under 12, we'll give your family an enormous choice of places to go and things to do: dinners, dancing, guided tours, horseback riding, many, many things.

HOTEL AND SIGHTSEEING. $65 PER PERSON.

This gives your family 3 nights at a great hotel in New York (prices based on triple occupancy) plus even more choices of sightseeing, including an Avis car if you want.

HOTEL AND HERTZ CAR.

You can get 6 nights at a fine hotel in New York for $93 per person, or in Boston for $89 per person, or in Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia for $77 per person (prices based on triple occupancy) plus a rental car for four days with unlimited mileage. What's more, you'll also get sightseeing and dining bonuses.

HERTZ CAR.

Rent a standard or intermediate Ford from Hertz with unlimited mileage. Just pay for the gas, and return the car to the city where you rented it. These are the special vacation rates:

4 days—$75 5 days—$93
6 days—$108 7 days—$119

With these rates you'll also get bonuses on dining and other attractions.

PLUS A TWA GETAWAY GUIDEBOOK.

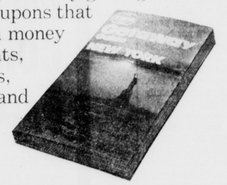
Not only are they great guidebooks, they have coupons that can save you money on restaurants, hotels, shops, sightseeing and more.



TWA's GETAWAY CARD.

You can use our Getaway Credit Card to charge airfare, hotels, meals, cars and TWA tours. And then take up to two years to pay.

*Getaway is a service mark owned exclusively by TWA.

For more information, call your travel agent or TWA.

TWA

MORE AIRLINE FOR YOUR MONEY.

COACH LOUNGES. Only TWA gives you a coach lounge on nearly every single flight to the East Coast, 747s and 707s. And TWA has the only 747 to Washington.

Hub Council Restricts Gasoline Price Signs To Station Windows

The San Anselmo City Council —told last night by service station operators that they were against permitting free-standing or pumptop price signs — made provision only for window signs.

Representatives of the Independent Service Station Operators protested a proposal that would allow free-standing price signs at service stations.

They said they surveyed the 13 service stations in the city and found only one owner in favor of them. If they were allowed, they argued, owners would use them to post things other than the price of gasoline, such as the price of oil or tire sales.

Councilmen agreed, but pointed out that they were informed by the city attorney that price signs cannot be prohibited, although currently not provided for in the sign ordinances.

Public Works Director Charles R. Leitzell said the only signs provided for were temporary window signs.

The service station operators said their survey showed that Fairfax and Larkspur allow free-standing price signs and San Rafael allows both free-standing and pump top signs, but they insisted that they don't want any in San Anselmo.

If price signs are allowed, the oil corporations owning stations would invariably install them creating eyesores, they complained.

After lengthy discussion, council approved the following provision for service stations.

"Not more than three signs, the total area of such signs not to exceed 100 square feet. One of said signs may be free-standing, provided its area does not exceed 100 square feet. One of said signs may be free-standing, provided its area does not exceed 40 square feet and it displays only the oil company name and/or emblem. One sign may be a price sign of permanent nature, within the allocation of window space otherwise permitted."

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

KAUFMAN EASEMENT — Delayed until Sept. 12 action on a request for an encroachment easement by Mozart Kaufman for property bordering on San Anselmo creek.

STREETS AND TRAFFIC — Discussed and praised a report from the Streets and Traffic Committee. Leitzell said many recommendations have been implemented, including marking street parking stalls on the north side of Red Hill Avenue, arranging for better night lighting in the Red Hill Shopping Center area and preparing to install a guardrail to stop eastbound cars from making U-turns across the divider strip on Red Hill Avenue to get to Orange Julius, Baskin-Robbins or to go west.

CARRIAGE HOUSE — Awarded a $4,636 contract to Kunst Brothers of San Rafael for exterior painting of the main house and carriage house at Robson-Harrington Park.

COUNCIL DOOR — Awarded a $355 contract to Ron Roberts to install a door on the council chambers to eliminate noise from the police department.

STREET WORK — Awarded a contract for $3,500 to Slurry Seal Co., of Santa Rosa and Redwood City for slurry sealing of city streets.

PRELIMINARY PROPOSAL — Approved a proposal of Hoffman and Albritton for preliminary engineering for the exchange of property of John Gay, owner of The Bourbon Shop, in the city at Greenfield Avenue and Sequoia Drive at Red Hill Avenue.

HOUSING COMMITTEE — Named to the City-County Planning Council's housing committee Jack Olive and Jan Fairchild.

CITY ATTORNEY — Approved of the City Attorney's estimate that he devoted 49 per cent of his time to work as city attorney from May 2, 1950 to March 3, 1972, to qualify for retirement credit.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Sept. 12 at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

Buresh To Retire As Hub Counsel

John G. Buresh, San Anselmo's city attorney for the past 22 years, announced his retirement last night.

He told the San Anselmo City Council the effective date depends on state processing of his relirement claim.

Mayor Warren R. Perry expressed the city's gratitude for Buresh's service over the years and said things will not be the same with someone else in his place.

Buresh, 62, has served as the city attorney since May, 1950. In 1963, he ran unsuccessfully for San Rafael city attorney.

He is a past president of the Marin County Bar Association, a past chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee and past county chairman for the gubernatorial campaign of William F. Knowland.

Board Sets Tour

Directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District will tour the Vierra property which the district is in the process of purchasing to extend its watershed at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The board will leave from the district office.

Church Body Sheds Africa Stocks

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (UPI)—The World Council of Churches has decided to sell its holdings in corporations doing business with white-ruled African nations and colonies.

The 250-member church federation's policy-making Central Committee took the step Tuesday in a resolution protesting racial discrimination in Africa.

Officials would not disclose the amount the council has invested in such companies, saying only that it was "small," and did not name the firms involved. Total council corporate investments amount to $3.6 million, officials said.

The 120-member policy committee adopted the resolution almost unanimously by a show of hands. The move came against the advice of the council's finance committee, which said it saw "little value" in withdrawing the investments, a step it labeled the "easy way out" and which "does little to alert corporation management and other investors to their involvement in strengthening oppressive regimes."

The council also called on President Nixon to withdraw all U.S. troops from Indochina immediately and halt the bombing of North Vietnam's dike system. A council statement said the organization is "convinced that continued United States military presence — whether through Vietnamization, the air war or in any form —is detrimental to peace in Indochina."

The fund-withdrawal resolution called on the finance committee to "sell forthwith existing holdings and to make no investments after this date in corporations which ... are directly involved in investment in or trade with any of the following countries: South Africa, Namibia (South West Africa), Rhodesia, Angola, Mozambique and Guinea-Bissao, and to deposit none of its funds in banks which maintain direct banking operations in those countries."

The resolution urged member churches, Christian agencies and individuals to press corporations into withdrawing investments from the countries named. It also urged a campaign to discourage white migration to South Africa, saying such migration "perpetuates and aggravates racial discrimination in the labor market."

Citizens To List Open Space Goals

C. William Thomas, chairman of the Corte Madera Planning Commission, was authorized last night to work with a citizens' committee on establishing open space purchase priorities.

The action came after the commission considered an excerpt from the town council's June 19 meeting, which suggested all remaining undeveloped parcels exceeding one acre in the town be acquired for public use.

Arthur N. Morrison, town engineer, said a map was displayed to the capacity audience showing 52 such parcels in the town.

The audience participated "at great length," said Morrison and Thomas was assigned to help the committee — headed by Valerie Carlson — come up with a list of priorities on which parcels are most desirable, then report back to the commission.

Morrison said many residents appeared to want all 52 parcels for public use "but the practical ones realize this is impractical from the standpoint of finance."

In other action the planning commission decided to ask the town attorney's opinion on the legality of issuing building permits to two developments under Corte Madera's emergency building moratorium.

Morrison said tentative maps for the Uplands apartments and for an eight-lot development in Hidden Valley had been approved before the moratorium.

However, commissioners asked whether the moratorium (which specifically placed a ban on "building") stopped the issuance of building permits.

The planning commission recommended the town council adopt a part of the proposed shoreline policy, reported Morrison, with a statement of purpose defining the "indispensable role" of the town's tidelands, shoreline, waterways, beaches, and mudflats and salt marshes.

The general statement of preservation alluded to uncontrolled filling which could destroy the delicately balanced biological system, and was, said Morrison, in essence, "a don't disturb the shoreline" policy.

The commission adjourned to Aug. 30 at 7:30 p.m. to consider the areas of the town to be included within the boundaries of its redevelopment agency, an action requested by town Manager Ronald E. Bartels.

Pentagon Paper Mountain Bared

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When a House Armed Services subcommittee asked the Defense Department for one copy of every standard form used at the Pentagon, it received 11,916 forms.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., asked Tuesday for an investigation of Pentagon paper policies declaring that "there is...a fantastic amount of wasted time, effort and money in filling out forms nobody reads or acts upon."

Pike said the material he received weighed more than 200 pounds and measured almost 100 square feet.

Warrant Out On Burglary

A bench warrant with bail set at $25,000 has been issued in Marin Superior Court for Gordon Jerome Phillips, 30, of San Francisco, who failed to show up last week for a jury trial on a burglary charge.

Phillips was chased and caught May 11 by two off-duty San Rafael policemen after he reportedly fled from an H street house that had been broken into.

Rooney Says Religion Helps

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Actor Mickey Rooney, trying to obtain full custody of four children by his fifth wife, told a judge Tuesday that religion had helped him curb his temper.

Rooney has applied to the court for custody of the children—three girls and a boy ranging in age from 9 to 12—who are now cared for by their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Thomason.

INJURED HIKER GETS LIFT OFF MOUNTAIN

Supported by fellow hikers, 13-year-old Suzanne Rider of Mill Valley is carried off Mount Tamalpais on a stretcher as an ambulance attendant looks on. Suzanne broke her leg when she slipped and fell into a ravine while hiking with a girlfriend yesterday afternoon. Her companion notified the ranger at the Marin County Fire lookout tower and an ambulance was summoned. She was taken to Franklin Hospital, San Francisco, where her father, Dr. Richard Rider, is a surgeon.

Highway 101 Projects In Progress

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Two outside southbound lanes of Waldo Grade will be closed from the tunnel to the Golden Gate Bridge from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for paving.

2. The inside southbound lane between Marin City and the South end of the Richardson Bay Bridge will be closed from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for median work.

3. The outside southbound lane north of the Greenbrae interchange will be closed from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for slab removal.

4. One southbound lane near the Sportsmen's Lodge in Novato will be closed from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for drainage work.

5. The northbound outside lane 1.5 miles north of Washington Street in Petaluma will be closed from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. for slab replacement.

Sonoma Board Backs Bay Wildlife Refuge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has endorsed plans for a 16,800-acre wildlife refuge on San Pablo Bay.

The refuge begins at the mouth of the Petaluma River opposite Black Point and extends into Solano County, but 11,800 acres are in Sonoma County. The refuge will be maintained by the federal Migratory Birds Commission after local agencies officially designate the area as a refuge.

Richard Brower of the Bureau of Sport Fishing and Wildlife will manage the proposed refuge and told the supervisors Monday that 97 per cent of the birds on the Pacific Flyway use the area as a rest point. He said several endangered species inhabit the area. The federal government has been buying land in the area for two years.

The supervisors heard only one complaint on the plan when William Bisso of Sonoma said the bird population will increase and eat crops raised by local ranchers.

Heifetz Recital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Violinist Jascha Heifetz will present a solo recital on Oct. 23, his first solo appearance in Los Angeles in the last 17 years.

Petaluma Restores Bus Riding For Three Schools

The Petaluma Board of Education agreed last night to restore some busing service to three elementary schools.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said he recommended that bus transportation be resumed at Penngrove, McDowell and Grant Schools. All busing was dropped from the district in an economy move, but the board agreed to spend up to $10,000 on busing with extra funds that have been received from the state.

Meyer said the plan will include transferring students in the Linda Del Mar subdivision from the Cherry Valley School attendance area and placing them in the McKinley School area so busing won't be needed.

He said that bus service still won't be as complete as last year and that students might arrive at schools nearly an hour before classes begin. He said parents will be organized to supervise students during that time period.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

COMMUNICATION — Decided against forming a new committee to improve communication with the public and agreed instead to strengthern the advisory committees and parent-teacher associations.

TEACHERS — Hired and set salaries for four new teachers including Edith Howes, $7,294; Marilyn Mee, $7,185; Donna Radich, $7,294; and Katherine Saltzstein, $8,307.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 7 p.m. to tour the nearly complete Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School and to be followed with a closed session with teacher organization representatives to discuss personnel problems and grievances.

Uruguay, U.S. Set Extradition Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Uruguay have agreed to amend their extradition treaty to include aircraft hijacking, narcotics offenses and diplomatic kidnaps.

The State Department said Tuesday the amendments were approved by administration officials from Uruguay and the United States last week. They will take effect upon ratification by the U.S. Senate and the Uruguayan Parliament.

Council Recall Drive Brewing In Novato

Recall action against two Novato city councilmen, George C. Quesada and Fred F. Ruegg will be undertaken in October, according to Betty Machado, leader of the recall.

The move to recall originated after the two councilmen refused last week to reconsider condemnation of a strip of property along Hill Road, Mrs. Machado said.

At that time residents accused the council of condemning one man's property for the benefit of another and without adequate public discussion.

Mrs. Machado said the recall petitions won't be circulated until Oct. 15 because Ruegg, elected in April, won't be subject to recall until he has served six months.

Nominated to replace Quesada and Ruegg will be Geoffrey J. Bywater, a parks and recreation commissioner, and John C. Schoonover, planning commission chairman, unsuccessful candidates in the April council election, Mrs. Machado said.

About 4,000 signatures will be necessary for a recall election, she said. A recall committee will prepare the "wording of the petition," Mrs. Machado reported.

Protesting residents said the action wasn't in the public interest and was a case of seizing one person's property to benefit another, Paul Pickart, who needed to widen the road for his apartment project adjacent to Hill Junior High School.

Last week the two councilmen, despite a petition from 63 residents requesting a public hearing, failed to make a motion to reconsider the matter.

They had been advised in a memorandum from Acting City Atty. Ed Grundstrom to refrain from public comment on the Lieb property, since it might prejudice the city's case if the matter goes to court.

47th Stanford Heart Plant

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Surgeons headed by Dr. Norman E. Shumway have operated successfully on Stanford University Medical Center's 47th heart transplant patient.

An unidentified 47-year-old man was the second person within four days to receive a transplanted heart.

Last Thursday, a 26-year-old man received a heart transplant. Both patients were in satisfactory condition.

Ticket Outlet

New Paper Items For Parties

Associated Press

Nowadays paper cups, plates, soup and salad bowls and dessert dishes come in such attractive patterns they can be used for parties.

A recent addition to this paperware comes in the Pennsylvania Gaudy Dutch design. This pattern features red and yellow colors, teamed with brown and white, and was originally used on toleware. All the Gaudy Dutch paperware is glazed and the 7-ounce dessert dishes may be used for baking at or up to 350 degrees; they go through the baking process without deterioration of color and design. Here's how to use these dessert dishes to make a Pennsylvania Dutch Peach Pudding.

PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH PEACH PUDDING

- 1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup milk
- 2 pounds fresh peaches, about 12 small or 5 large
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped if desired

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and ½ cup of the sugar; add egg and vanilla; beat well. Beat in the flour mixture alternately with the milk. Set this batter aside.

Peel and cut into ½-inch slices enough peaches to make 4 cups. Stir the remaining ¼ cup sugar into the peaches.

Spoon sugared peaches into six 7-ounce Gaudy Dutch design glazed paper dessert dishes. Divide any juice from peaches among the dishes.

Spoon batter onto top of peaches. No need to spread batter because it spreads during baking.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until topping is browned-40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold; top, if you like, with whipped cream.

Makes six servings.

Note: Juices bubble up and may boil over; if they do, protect oven by putting a cookie sheet or piece of foil on shelf below pudding. Dishes may be placed on a cookie sheet before baking rather than on oven rack, if you like.

Pork Storage Needs Lower Temperature

Fresh pork should be stored in the coldest part (temperature as low as possible without actually freezing the meat) of the refrigerator or in the compartment designed for meat storage.

Fresh pork prepackaged for self-service should be stored in the refrigerator in the original wrapping not to exceed 2 days, or it may be frozen without rewrapping and stored in the freezer one to two weeks. For longer freezer storage the original package should be overwrapped with special freezer material.

Fresh pork, not prepackaged, should be removed from the market wrapping paper, wrapped loosely in waxed paper or aluminum foil and refrigerated, as prepackaged meat, not to exceed two days.

SMOKED PORK should be stored in its original wrapper in the refrigerator, not to exceed one to two weeks. Canned hams, unless storage recommendations on the can read to the contrary, should be refrigerated in the unopened can until ready to serve cold or to be heated for serving hot.

COOKED PORK should be wrapped, or covered, and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator within one to two hours after cooking.

Apples To Reach Markets Earlier

Shoppers may look for California's Red Delicious, Golden Delicious and Jonathan apples in the markets this week, two weeks earlier than usual. Dry, warm weather through most of the year has resulted in an earlier crop.

The Sebastopol area Delicious and Jonathans were approved for shipment last week, and the Watsonville Red Delicious were ready four days later.

Watsonville's Newtown Pippins can be expected within a week or two.

The apple supply is reported good this year by growers, says the California Apple Advisory Board.

Authentic Indian Dinner For Parents And Teachers

An authentic Indian dinner will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Illichs of Larkspur tomorrow, to the staff and parents of new students of the Independent Learning School in Corte Madera.

Julia and Chitresh Das, who is a teacher at the Ali Akbar School of Indian Dance, will prepare the spicy chicken curry of his native India. Das will entertain dinner guests with a story from Hindu mythology using mime.

The evening is planned to attract interest in a concert of dance and music from North India on Sept. 7 at 8 p.m. at Veterans' Auditorium in San Francisco to benefit the Independent Learning School.

In India the cooking is very different from one province to the next because of its population's immobility, its differing fruits, vegetables and cooking oils, and its tribal customs, according to Das.

Spicier foods, popular in the cool northern mountain regions, are considered "too heating" in tropical climates such as Calcutta's.

DAS EXPLAINED the religious ban on eating beef in India saying, "If beef were slaughtered Indians would not have cattle to till their fields, to provide dung for cooking fires and for plastering their mud huts. And there would be no milk." Fifty kinds of sweets are made from milk in India.

"You hear of the starvation in India; it is because of the unequal distribution of foods, which are plentiful in some areas," he said.

"You think that some Americans are poor. But those people have stoves and refrigerators; that is luxury by Indian standards," he said.

The men and children are served first, then the women eat at the second sitting, when a middle class Indian family dines. They sit on mats or low platforms, because few families own tables, and eat from a common bell metal platter of rice.

Holding the palm upward, the fingers scoop up a bit of rice. The chicken is torn with the fingers.

"Indians eat a lot of chicken," said Mrs. Das who was a dance student of her husband's father in India several years ago where she also learned Indian cookery.

CHICKEN CURRY WITH YOGURT

(serves six)

Approximately 12 large chicken pieces (legs, thighs and breasts)

- 6 to 8 wings
- 3 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1½ medium onions, chopped evenly
- 8 cloves garlic, grated
- 1½ inch stem of fresh giner root, grated
- 6 whole cloves
- 1 teaspoon cuminseed
- 2 large fresh tomatoes, sliced
- 8 peeled cardamom seeds
- 4 whole bay leaves
- ¼ teaspoon cumin powder
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash turmeric
- ¾ teaspoon mace
- 1 teaspoon ground red chili powder or 5 whole dried red chilies crushed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon yogurt
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup peas (mushrooms, carrots or mixed vegetables) or ¼ cup raisins or currants

Wash chicken pieces and set aside. In a heavy pot, large enough for chicken to be covered by water, heat oil over medium or medium high heat. Add onions and fry until very limp and just a bit golden, about 5 minutes.

Add garlic, ginger, cloves and cuminseeds. Stir and fry 5 to 10 minutes.

Then add tomatoes, mash and stir. Fry about 5 minutes until sauce begins to form. Sprinkle water in pot as needed to prevent sticking.

Now add cardamoms, bay leaves, cumin powder, cinnamon, turmeric, mace, chili powder and salt. Stir and cook a few minutes, sprinkling water as needed to prevent sticking. Then remove from heat, add yogurt and blend well.

Replace on medium heat. Add 2 cups of water and stir. Add chicken and, if needed, more water to cover the chicken.

Let cook for about 30 minutes with lid on. Stirring occasionally. Remove lid, add vegetables or raisins, and continue to cook until most of the water is evaporated and what remains is more like a sauce.

Serve this spicy curry over rice.

(The Northern Indian curry may seem quite hot to American palates. A little judicious experimenting with the spices, especially the chilies, is suggested.)

Three-Bean Salad A Pleasure To Serve

The ever popular three-bean salad is a real patron-pleaser. Use equal amounts of cooked red kidney, great northern and drained canned green beans. Put drained beans in a bowl.

Pour on Italian-type dressing over all. Add sweet onion rings and thin sliced celery. Mix carefully. Chill several hours, or overnight. Serve in crisp lettuce cups.

Try Consomme Inside Tomato For Cool Treat

Serve as an appetizer or cold summer soup in small ice-lined bowls . . .

JELLIED CONSOMME IN FRESH TOMATO SHELLS

- 1 10½ oz. can beef consomme
- 6 medium size fresh tomatoes
- Salt
- 2 tablespoons dairy sour cream
- Dill weed or parsley sprigs

Method: Refrigerate consomme for at least four hours so it will jelly. To peel tomatoes, pour boiling water over them. Let stand for one minute. Rinse with cold water and peel. Slice off stem end and scoop out the center. (This is easy to do if you own a serrated grapefruit spoon). Turn upside down on paper towel to drain. Chill. Salt tomato cavity. Spoon jellied consomme into center. Put a teaspoon of sour cream on top and garnish with either dill weed or parsley sprigs. Makes six servings.

A SUNDAY OUTING

Old-Fashioned Idea Is Big Winner

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

An old-fashioned Sunday outing with a picnic lunch, homemade ice cream, and straw hats sounds like a page out of any Gay Nineties scrapbook.

But it's the favorite party idea of a very "today" young girl, Lydia Anne Hodson of Lexington, Ky.

The party idea won Lydia a $2,500 college scholarship and first place in the 1972 America's Junior Miss Hostess Awards.

Lydia's scholastic average is A and she's won several honors, including the National Council of Teachers of English Award, 1972; National Honor Society membership; and National Forensic League degree of merit.

Her hobbies include writing poetry, painting and sculpture, horseback riding, and theater. Her reasons for an old-fashioned party are logical.

"A PARTY theme centered around the romantic, harmonious, turn of the century is a good remedy to relieve present-day tensions," said Lydia.

"I'd have the guests dress in Gay Nineties costumes and ride tandem bicycles to a local park. The girls would carry baskets of food such as potato salad, corn on the cob, fried chicken — and after lunch everybody would help crank the ice cream.

"Good food is basic to good parties," Lydia said.

Her potato salad features a blend of potatoes, chopped celery, onion, eggs, salt, tomatoes, French dressing, and mayonnaise. An herb-butter recipe flavors the corn on the cob.

Decorations for the tablecloths include old-time pictures surrounded by fresh flowers, and place cards featuring drawings of a man and woman of the period.

The winning theme for Lydia's party is "Picnic In a Park Gazebo." The menu includes potluck potato salad, beaten biscuits with sliced ham, fried chicken foil-baked corn on the cob, old-time custard ice-cream, and lemonade.

Here are two of the winning recipes:

POTLUCK POTATO SALAD

- ⅓ cup French dressing
- 6 cooked medium potatoes, peeled, cubed
- 1¼ cups chopped celery
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- Cherry tomatoes for garnish(optional)

Pour dressing over warm potatoes; chill 2 hours. Add remaining ingredients, mixing lightly. Chill. Garnish with cherry tomatoes, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

OLD-TIME CUSTARD ICE CREAM

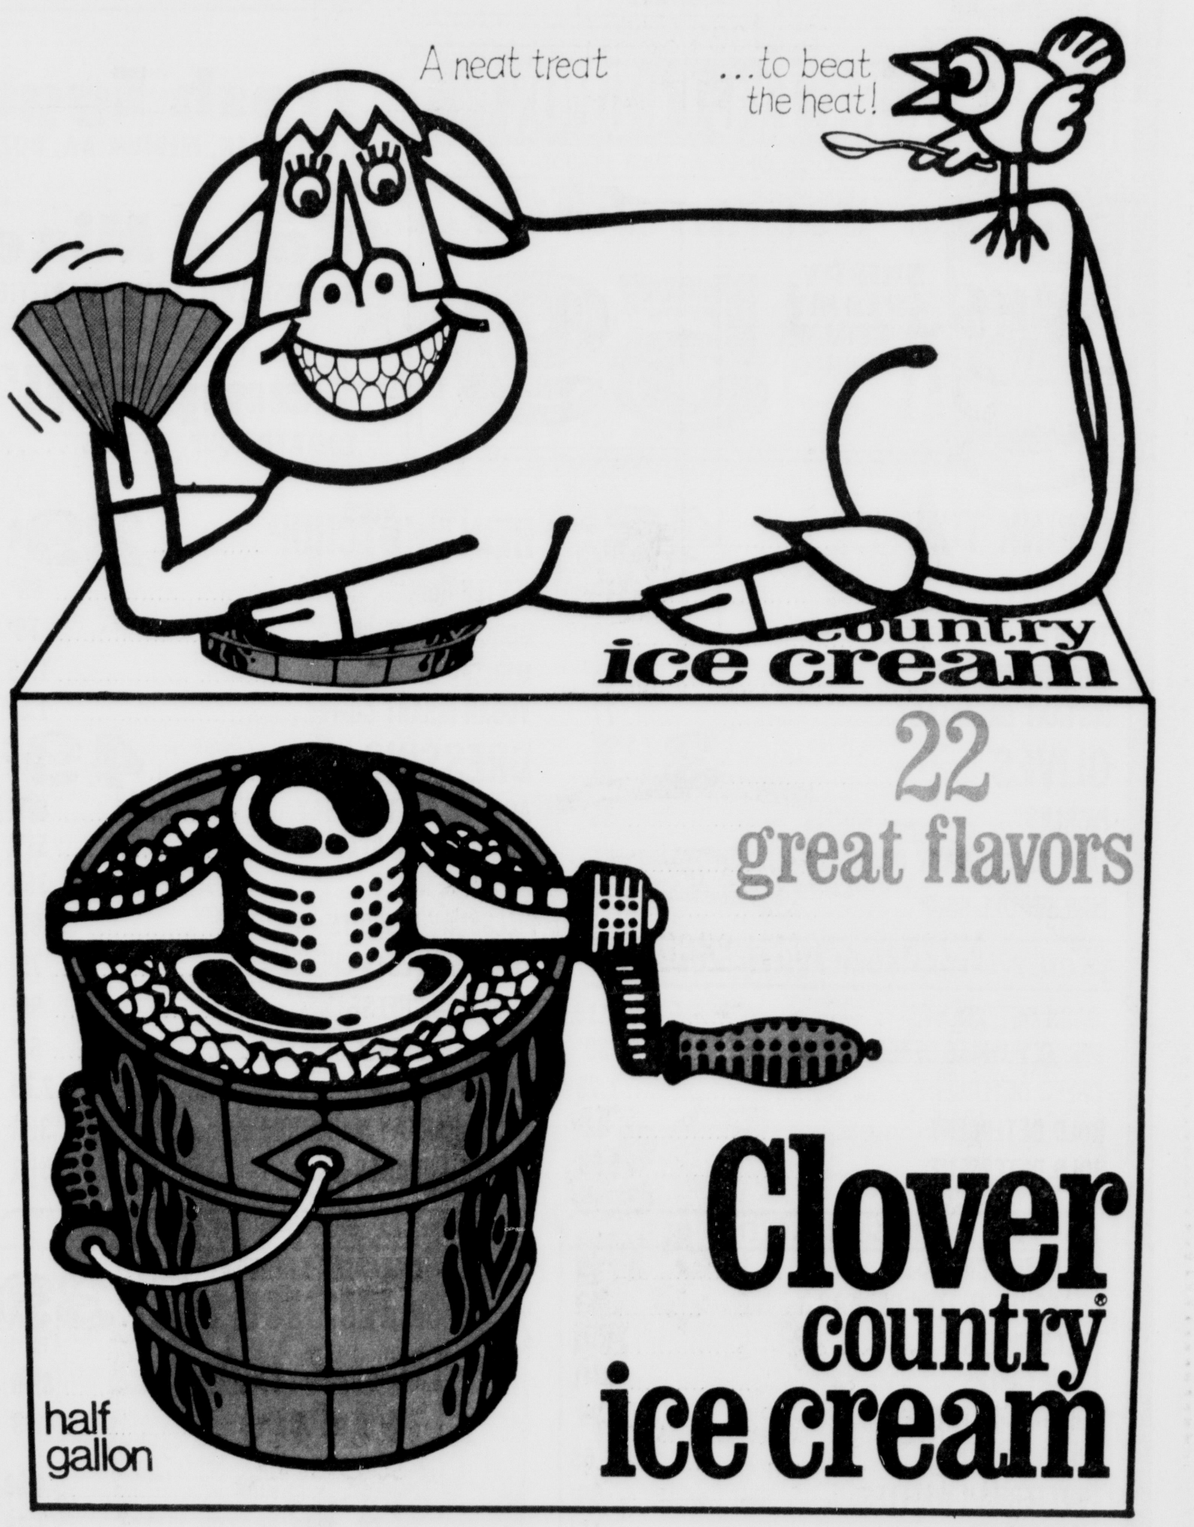
- 1½ cups sugar
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 quart milk
- 4 eggs, beaten
- 1 quart heavy cream
- 3 tablespoons vanilla extract
- Toppings of butterscotch, chocolate fudge, caramel or walnut.

Combine sugar, flour, and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring until thickened. Stir small amount of hot mixture into eggs. Return to hot mixture. Cook 2 minutes over low heat, stirring constantly. Chill. Stir in cream and vanilla: Freeze in ice cream freezer. Serve with assorted ice cream toppings. Makes 2½ quarts.

A WINNING picnic menu is made up of old-fashioned favorites; potato salad, fried chicken and corn on the cob. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

Sour Cream Bowl

Peel and slice 2 medium cucumbers. Pour over them a dressing made by blending together 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 ½ tablespoons vinegar and 1 small onion, grated. Chill. Serve with any meat or fish.



Russian Food Hearty, Simple And Plentiful

Russians are hearty eaters and while their food may be simple, it is always plentiful.

Generally four meals are served daily. These include breakfast, lunch, dinner and a late evening snack around the samovar. The samovar means "self-cooker." Russians use the samovar solely to heat the water for their tea. They never make the tea itself in the samovar.

Because the Russians enjoy conviviality while eating and the food is so delicious, you might like to have an authentic Russian dinner.

Your menu could include piroshki (meat filled pies) served as appetizers before the meal. Served along with this, would be pieces of French roll spread with cheese and toasted. These are called Grenki, and they can be served as appetizers or along with the soup, which is a Russian favorite. The most common type of soup is cabbage soup which makes a nutritious main course served with a container of sour cream.

Finally, no Russian menu could be complete without kasha, which is any grain baked for hours in a slow oven. For a vast majority of Russians, soup and kasha form the staple diet throughout the year.

CABBAGE SOUP

3 pounds beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 pound beef soup bones
1 clove garlic, skewered on wood pick
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
1 tablespoon salt
3 carrots, cut in ½-inch pieces
2 cups thinly sliced onions
2 pounds cabbage, quartered, cored, coarsely chopped
2 small turnips, diced
3 stalks celery, cut in 1-inch pieces
3 large boiling potatoes, peeled, cut in ½-inch dice
1 No. 2½ can (3½ cups) tomatoes, chopped

In a heavy 7½-quart Dutch Oven, bring beef, bones, garlic, bay leaf, parsley, dill, salt, and 4 quarts water to a boil. Simmer 2 hours, skimming foam knd excess fat as they rise to surface. With slotted spoon remove bones, garlic and bay leaf. Add onions, cabbage, carrots, turnips and celery. Simmer 30 minutes. Add potatoes and tomatoes; cook another 30 minutes. Taste for seasoning. Garnish with fresh minced parsley. Serve a bowl of sour cream on the side. Makes 7 quarts.

New Rules For Pork

Both boneless and bone-in roasts of pork should be cooked to an internal temperature of 170 degrees. Research studies show that they need not be cooked to 185 degrees as was formerly recommended.

BAKED BUCKWHEAT KASHA

1 egg, beaten
1½ cups coarse buckwheat groats
2 cups chopped onion
2 Tablespoons butter
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
3 Tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water

Stir egg into buckwheat groats in skillet. Heat, stirring, till each grain is separate and dry. Transfer to roaster. Saute onions in skillet in 2 Tablespoons butter 5 minutes until just soft; add to groats. Cook mushrooms in 3 Tablespoons butter 3 minutes; add to groats. Add salt; stir in boiling water. Cover; bake at 350° for 50 to 60 minutes. Kasha should be moist and fluffy — grains separate — not mushy.

No Need To Thaw

Don't hesitate to cook a frozen roast in its frozen state. Its eating quality and yield will be comparable to that of a cooked fresh or thawed roast.

Peaches Add Eye Appeal

Summer's juiciest sun ripened peaches are too lovely to be hidden under even the best of upper crusts. The golden slices seem meant to show off between the openings of woven lattice. Don't let the peach season pass without making Fresh Peach Lattice Pie at least once.

FRESH PEACH LATTICE PIE

1 recipe double crust pastry
½ to ⅔ cup sugar
1½ to 2 tablespoons corn starch
⅛ teaspoon salt
5 cups peeled, sliced ripe peaches
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon margarine

Mix together sugar, corn starch and salt; sprinkle over peaches. Add lemon juice and toss together until well coated. Line a 9-inch pie pan with one half of pastry allowing 1 inch overhang. Fill shell with peach mixture and dot with margarine. Roll remaining pastry into 12-inch circle. Cut into 10 (½-inch strips with pastry wheel or knife. Place five of the strips across filling. Weave lattice crust with remaining strips by folding back alternate strips as each cross strip is added. Fold trimmed edge of lower crust over ends of strips; seal and flute. Bake in a 425° F. (hot) oven 30 to 35 minutes or until browned.

WOMAN IN MAN'S JOB

Jackie Oder Is Huge Rig's Boss

By GAY PAULEY

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Jackie Oder, five-feet-3 and 125 pounds, travels the open road with 72,000 pounds of gross weight as her responsibility.

Mrs. Oder drives her own tractor-trailer rig transcontinentally solo except for a seven-pound dachshund companion and is one of the few women in this tradionally masculine world.

"I haven't run into any resentment from men," she said. "There's a great fraternity among those on the road. The men know this is a tough job and I'm doing a good job."

AS FOR that lightweight female pulling tons around, she said, "You don't need a lot of muscle, just tensile tensils strength. And I don't hustle freight. The terminals load my cargo."

Even so, the statistics are amazing for the 48-year-old woman who went into truck driving three yearsago to keep faith with her second husband, Robert, an Air Force career man killed on his third tour in Vietnam. The couple had planned to become a driving team when he retired.

Mrs. Oder's rig, manufactured by White Motors, represents an investment of $45,500. It's 40 feet long, weighs 32,000 pounds and can pack a freight load of 40,000 pounds.

We talked while her westbound cargo was being loaded at the Brady Motorfrate terminal in Jersey City. She has a long term lease of her rig to Brady. The load headed to Omaha, Neb., was a mixture of commodities, but her West to East run from Omaha always is beef or pork, she said.

MRS. ODER logs about 12,000 miles per month (most of it night driving), clears about $1,100 per month, and said the longer she drives the better she likes the job.

"I don't know of other women driving solo," she said, "but there are increasing numbers of husband-wife teams on the road. Most truck stops realize this and are providing things like shower facilities for women too."

The U.S. Department of Transportation tries to assure that truckers don't get overly tired — Mrs. Oder said it requires drivers to take an eight-hour break every 10 hours. Most rigs have two drivers, so they can spell each other, say four hours on, four off.

WHEN MRS. Oder begins to tire, she just pulls off the road and sleeps. She's not fearful. There's the dog, Half Pint, who considers the tractor his own and most of the rest areas are fairly well lighted, she said.

She's made certain the cab is as comfortable as possible for her and puppy, who was born in the first rig she owned.

The cab is air-conditioned, equipped with radio and television and she's made a mini-dressing room out of the area that a second driver would use. She also carries roller skates so she can get in some exercise at stops.

She always carries snack packs and fresh fruit but also insures herself with one good meal a day. The more sophisticated stops are providing better meals for drivers, she said, realizing that "you can't very well go to a local drive-in with a 40-foot rig."

Mrs. Oder, who now calls Sioux City, Iowa, her home, is of Irish ancestry, but was born in China where her father was in the U.S. Navy. Leading the life of the military brat and later married into the military, she has lived all over the United States and Western Europe.

SHE STUDIED law at the University of Madrid and also attended the University of Maryland and Central Tech in Kansas City.

The driver is an expert horsewoman, used to drive racing cars, is a member of the International Sky Divers Association and she also motorcycles.

"I met my second husband when I hit him with a motorbike in San Francisco," she recalled. "He stepped off a curb in my path."

His death in 1966 in Vietnam left her alone (four children from her two marriages are dead) except for her many interests and the promise to him that if anything happened she'd use some of the insurance to invest in a rig.

Vows Are Repeated At Lake Tahoe

Cathy Lynn Nelsen of Oakland and John Dennis Blanchfield of Corte Madera were married at Lake Tahoe, Nev., in an evening rite on Aug. 12.

The couple will live in Oakland after their wedding trip to several islands in Hawaii. A reception will be held for them Sept. 3 at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David R. Palmer of Corte Madera. John is also the son of the late John Belair Blanchfield.

Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Nelsen of Fresno. Currently tutoring at the University of California at Berkeley, she is a graduate of Bullard High School and U.C. The bride is also the sister of Stan W. Nelsen.

John is a graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco and attends the College of Marin. He is employed with Podesta and Baldocchi Florists in San Francisco.

Charles G. Blanchfield is his brother.

FOR FALL, IT'S WOOL

Zoe Seegos Marries In Novato Rite

Zoe Angelique Seegos and Michael Matheson were married at St. Anthony's Church in Novato on Aug. 13.

Zoe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Constantine Seegos of Novato and Michael is the son of Mr and Mrs. Gerald Matheson of Sebastopol.

The bride chose Tandra Hearell as her maid of honor and bridesmaids were Joanne Hunter of Novato, Randi Schepps of San Anselmo, Jody Laken of Novato and Dee Dee Franzi of Greenbrae.

William Schact of San Rafael was best man and ushering guests to their seats were Harold Hickey and Steve Nelson of San Rafael and Robert Franzi of Greenbrae.

Following a reception at Novato Community House, the couple went on a wedding trip to Canada. They will live in Novato.

The bride graudated from San Marin High School. She is the sister of John and Philip Bernardi. Mrs. Grace Marcucci of San Jose is their local grandmother.

The bridegroom graduated from Novato High School and is employed at E. D. Bullard in Sausalito. He is the brother of Sherylin Bullock of Duluth, Minn.

August 1974 Wedding Plans Are Announced

The engagement of Diane Uilani Chadwick to William Earl Schultz has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jene H. Chadwick of Woodacre.

Diane has three sisters, Darleen, Denice and Julie Chadwick, and one brother, Jay Chadwick.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Schultz of Fairfax are the parents of the future bridegroom. His sisters are Amy Schultz, Mrs. Jerry Feickert and Mrs. Charles Alvarez. F. W. Schultz of Fairfax is his grandfather.

Diane and William are graduates of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed by Atlas Electric and Engineering Co. in San Francisco, and the future bridegroom is employed by the Marin County Fire Department at Woodacre.

The couple plans to be married in August 1974 and to attend the University of California together in the fall of 1974.

Miss Black U.S. Has High Goals

By JOHN KIRSHON

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't represent black or white, but teen-agers everywhere," said 15-year-old Cynthia Lewis, winner of the Miss Black Teen-Age America Contest.

"Winning the contest will help me fulfill some of my goals for the future."

And goals she has. Miss Lewis, a sophomore honor student at Lamarck-Fleming High School in Houston, is a poised, soft-spoken young woman who wants to go to Harvard.

"It's been my ambition since early childhood to be a lawyer because this will give me the chance to help my people help themselves," she said. And Miss Lewis combines abilities she believes will prepare her well for reaching her ambition.

In the pageant's talent competition she read a dramatic speech from Joan of Arc from the book by J. Williams, as well as George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

In fact, Miss Lewis's major interest is oratory and she has won three first prizes in speech contests in her native city of Houston — the Sam Houston prose reading contest, the district speech meet and the city-wide oratory contest.

BUT JOAN of Arc has a special place and meaning in the contest-winner's life: "Like John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King she worked for what she believed in. And I identify with that."

What, then, is the appeal of woman's liberation to someone who is young, black and beautiful?

"As far as job equality and equal opportunity, I am all in favor of woman's lib, but digging ditches? No. I do think it will be more of a handicap being a woman than being black in reaching my ambition as a lawyer."

Besides being an honor student and possessing a prize-winning speaking voice, Miss Black Teen-Age America is active in community affairs and is her school's official representative for Seventeen magazine.

Miss Lewis made her pageant debut in the Miss Texas teenage contest. The Houston fashion models guild picked 19 girls from the state as contestants and when she was announced the winner it meant becoming Texas's entry in the national contest and a ticket to New York.

"I had positive thoughts all the way here," she declared. Judged on personality, talent, achievement and an outgoing youthful look, contestants from 36 states gathered in Madison Square Garden for the Miss Black Teen-age America pageant. After two hectic and exciting days of competition — including talent, dance, achievement, personality and evening gown — Cynthia was named one of five semi-finalists.

WHEN ASKED the question, "What gift would you give to the world?" before the large audience and the contest's judges, Cynthia replied, "I would give love, but not without peace" and moments later she was announced as winner.

As the winner of the second annual Miss Black Teen-Age Contest, which is sponsored by Pepsi-Cola, Eastern Airlines and Sheraton Hotels, Miss Lewis will be awarded a $1,500 cash "self-achievement award," trips to Disney World and Puerto Rico and numerous wardrobe and gift prizes. During the year of her reign she will make personal appearance tours across the country.

This year's reigning titleholder believes she now has a duty to the teen-agers of America to tell them to "get involved in civic and community projects and help other people who are less fortunate than they."

Is she interested in trying for another pageant crown?

"Oh yes," she said. "Next year I'm going to try for Miss U.S.A."

Special Care For Custom Garments

Those handy hangtags giving cleaning instructions on ready to wear garments are denied the home seamstress who deals with unmarked fabric bolts.

Polyester doubleknits can be either dry cleaned or laundered. If laundered, hand wash or use a gentle machine cycle, warm water and mild detergent. Hang to dry. Use dryer only if equipped with air-only setting.

Banlon is a nylon fabric with a smooth surface which retards soiling. For this reason, water should be warm, not hot, and the wash cycle short.

MR. AND MRS. GARY JOSEPH NEGHERBON
Married in Mill Valley
(Block and Associates photo)

Newlywed Negherbons To Live In East Bay

Trudy Chapman of Mill Valley and Gary Joseph Negherbon of Oakland exchanged nuptial vows Saturday in a noon ceremony at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. James Harold Chapman of Mill Valley and the late Mr. Chapman, had as her maid of honor her sister, Elizabeth Chapman of Mill Valley. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Cheryl Negherbon of Oakland, Elaine Holland of Chico and Mrs. Bill Nelson of San Rafael.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Negherbon of Oakland, was served as best man by Ralph Sorani of Castro Valley. Ushers were Joseph Benassini of Oakland, Bob Baldwin of Moraga and Bob McGuiness of Oakland.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley. On their return from a wedding trip to the islands of Oahu and Kauai, Hawaii, the couple will live in the East Bay.

The bridegroom graduated from St. Mary's High School and St. Mary's College and is employed with Negherbon Lincoln-Mercury in Oakland. He is the grandson of Mrs. Leo Negherbon of Castro Valley and Mrs. Joseph Benassini of Oakland.

Eileen Herold Is Wed

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael was the setting Sunday for the wedding of Eileen Herold of Novato and Joseph Lee Koschalk of Brighton, Colo.

Eileen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Herold of Novato. She chose as her only attendant Debbie Dorion of San Anselmo.

Dean Baccei of Fairfax served as best man and ushers were Paul Frosdick of Stockton and John Nugent of San Jose.

A wedding reception was held at Marin Valley Mobile Country Clubhouse prior to a brief wedding trip.

Eileen will be a freshman and Joseph will start his third year at University of Nevada in Reno.

The bride, the sister of Thomas Herold of Incline Village, Nev., graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo. She has been employed at Coit Drapery Cleaners and Yvonne Von Broeckel Montessori Nursery School in San Rafael.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Koschalk. He graduated from San Rafael Military Academy. He is the brother of Jack Koschalk, counselor at Hanna School for Boys in Sonoma, and Mrs. Betty Howe of Denver, Colo.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Married In A Daze, Now He Wants To Get An Annulment

DEAR HELEN:

A J.P. married us on a wild weekend trip to Las Vegas. It seemed a good idea at the time but I admit I was partly smashed.

We've been fighting together eight months and I want out, but she doesn't. I've remembered a couple of technicalities that might get me an annulment. What do you think?

First, when the J.P. read off the usual mumbo jumbo my mind wandered, and when he asked "Do you take this woman. . .etc.?" I just nodded my head, so he said, "I do," prompting me, and I said "Yeah." Later we kidded each other about which man my "wife" married — me or the guy who said "I do." (That was before regret set in.)

Second, I discover in looking over the license that my name isn't spelled right. They've got it Robert Smith instead of Rupert Smithe, and Robert Smith could be 10,000 other men. (The J.P. had been tippling too.) I signed several things that night, but my signature is a scrawl when I'm drunk.

An annulment is easier and cheaper than a divorce. Is it possible? — RUPERT SMITHE (Not my real name but you get the idea)

DEAR RUPERT:

Probably not, but only a lawyer can tell you for sure. Maybe he might make "unsound mind" a case for annulment. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband's brothers are big burly men who think throwing their babies high in the air and catching them, or balancing a nine-month-old by one foot (also high above their heads) is fine just because she laughs.

Their wives think we are "overprotective" because I keep poisons in unreachable places and medicines locked up. I don't leave razor blades, knives or scissors around, and think it's better to put candy away than constantly say "No-no."

Their standard remark is "They have to learn some time," and they imply that we'll either bring up a sissy or a child who rebels and leaves home early.

I've got to the point where I'm going to say something nasty if they don't stop harping. How can I shut them up? — YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Why don't you throw the book at them? Dr. Spock's, I mean. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

About the woman who was less than thrilled when her husband brought home tickets to a live baseball game (saying she had enough TV sports without that).

I'm disgusted with females who expect support and love from their husbands but who can't give them a weekend to enjoy sports. Why don't these selfish dames become interested in their men's hobbies, sit down and enjoy the games too? Why waste time sulking because they get less attention than the TV screen?

My marriage isn't perfect but it's happy because I've learned to give as well as receive, and we both go on the theory that when "love is blind" to minor faults it sees the major blessings twice as clearly. — A.S.

DEAR A.:

Happy football season to you, too.

(As one of those people who can't get enthralled with spectator sports, I take my irrepressible force out on the typewriter when my husband becomes an immovable object in front of the Saturday TV screen.) — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Style Hints For Mother-To-Be

Styles may go out of fashion, but babies keep coming. Here are some style hints for the mother-to-be.

Style choices are plentiful this year. Among them count this season's one or two-piece dresses with pleats that remain flat as the mother expands, as well as the up-to-date "smock" look and the fasionable "peasant-dress" stylej

As for colors, anything that is flattering goes. However, for those women whose complexions tend to become a bit sallow, pink and red are especially flattering.

Royal Pleasure

During the reign of Charles I of England, ice cream was held in such high esteem that he ordered it confined to the royal table only.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ANDERSON

Fair-Bardello Rite In Virginia Church

Robert Thomas Fair of Mill Valley claimed Maryann Elizabeth Bardello of Springfield, Va., as his bride Saturday in a noon nuptial mass at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Annandale, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph C. Bardello of Springfield, and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rodden Fair of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Frank A. Damico of Myersdale, Pa., was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. Robert Scott Craig of Pennsylvania, and the bridegroom's sister, Elizabeth J. Fair of Mill Valley, and Dianne M. Drahot of Oaha, Neb.

Kenneth William Fair of Mill Valley served his brother as best man. Ushers were another brother, Richard Alfred Fair of Mill Valley, William James Talbott III of San Bruno, John S Sweet of Larkspur and Philip C. Johnson of Goshen, Ind.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Springfield Golf and Country Club. The couple will live in San Francisco on their return from a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands.

A graduate of Robert E. Lee High School in Springfield and St. Mary's College at Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., the bride is employed at the Bank of America in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and the University of Santa Clara and is attending the University of San Francisco Law School. He has another sister, Joan Marie Fair of Mill Valley, and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Weiss of Mill Valley.

New Safety Rules For Play Vehicles

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The federal government has decided to take another step toward stemming the rising rate of serious accidents involving recreational vehicles.

It published a set of regulations last week designed to provide more information to prospective purchasers about the hazards of overloading and wrong-loading camper-trucks, one of the most popular type of recreational vehicle.

"Campers," as they are known to most people, consist of a cabin fitted onto a pickup truck. Their relatively low price compared to other types of mobile living facilities and their versatility have helped create record sales.

Already, there are an estimated 3.5 million recreational vehicles (RVs) on the road. Sales have risen more than 600 per cent since 1960.

ACCIDENTS HAVE also increased, although statistics about them are scarce. From the little data available, however, it is clear that many of the problems could be avoided if users knew more about them.

The new rule, which tightens a previous proposal, requires that both the owner's manual and a permanent label on the vehicle disclose the total weight of the attached camper, including standard equipment and supplies, such as bottled gas and even the ce in the refrigerator.

The manual also would have to disclose weights for optional accessories and illustrate the vehicle's center of gravity under various conditions.

THE NEW regulations reflect the principal causes of accidents involving campers: loading them beyond capacity and loading them so that the center of gravity is too far back for adequate control of the vehicle in high winds or on winding roads.

In many accidents, tires and wheels have disintegrated because of excessive loads. Apparently, too few people realize the close relationship between vehicle weight and tire size and inflation. At high speeds and in hot weather, temperatures may get high enough to burn up tires.

A survey by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which published the safety rules, showed that one-fourth of the campers checked in 1969 were carrying loads too great for the tires. One dealer has estimated that the figure is more likely to be about 60 per cent.

The new standards do not attack another common problem, flimsiness of construction of the camper itself. The Recreational Vehicle Institute, the industry's trade association, has tried to set up standards but has been successful only in regard to plumbing, electrical and heating elements.

VOLUNTARY IMPROVEMENTS have been made by numerous manufacturers. They include better tires and stronger construction. Leaders of the industry recognize the importance of safety for long-term sales. Most of the problems have come from lesser known firms that have rushed into the business with low-price rigs that ignore important safety factors.

For present and prospective owners of campers, the new government regulations could serve as warning signals. Although they are not due to take effect until next January, they point up the importance of checking total weight and the balance of weight before starting a trip. Tires that are too small or under-inflated are invitations to disaster.

Measuring The Baby For Shoes

The National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers offers this tip about caring for the infant's feet:

Although in some cases stretch yarns now provide growing room, infants' socks are still carefully sized to provide comfort and proper fit.

You should measure your children's feet often to make sure that their shoes and socks are not too small.

If the child is old enough to stand alone, you can place a ruler flat on the floor and let the child step down to record the length of the foot. If an infant is too young to stand, then gently press the ruler against the sole of the foot to get your measurement.

Use this "inch measurement" — not age — as a guide when buying shoes and socks.

Court Alterations Agreed For Wheelchair Judge

After two rounds of debate, supervisors stuck by their decision to spend $4,735 immediately so newly appointed Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas can maneuver his wheelchair onto a courtroom bench in time for his inauguration Friday.

Thomas suffered crippling gunshot injuries to his spine in the Aug. 7, 1970, shoot-out at Marin Civic Center when Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, three convicts and a teenaged conspirator were killed. Thomas, then assistant district attorney, recently was appointed to the Municipal Court judgeship.

County Administrator John F. Barrows told supervisors yesterday morning that widening the rear doors to three of the four municipal court courtrooms in the hall of justice, building a portable ramp and remodeling the judges' restroom would cost $9,300, according to the county public works department.

Presiding Judge Robert A. Smallman, learning of the board's midmorning decision to remodel only one courtroom, appeared late in the afternoon to protest.

"I was appalled at the price of cutting four doors," Smallman told supervisors, "but I implore you — in essence you're making Judge Thomas a second-class judge by saying 'you can't handle cases' in all four municipal courtrooms."

Smallman explained that traffic court must be conducted in room 11, and the criminal calendar in room 9 because of proximity to the clerk's office and to holding cells for prisoners.

Smallman, while urging that all courtrooms be altered to enable Thomas to shift from one to the other, nevertheless made it plain that such shifting has its hardships and cited occasional separation from his carved wooden eagle as an example.

"Courtroom 7 was mine, and I put up my three-foot eagle," Smallman said. Due to shifting to hear different types of cases, "most of the time I'm without my eagle," he complained in a mild voice. "The eagle's been in my family over 90 years. It sat in my grandfather's federal courtroom in Ohio."

Board members unanimously agreed that Barrows should report next week on the least costly way to make all four courtrooms accommodate Thomas's wheelchair, but said they wanted only one courtroom remodeled immedaitely.

The supervisors made no promises about Smallman's eagle.

County Embarrassed—It Broke San Rafael's Sign Ordinance

Red-faced county officials today were asking San Rafael city fathers' forgiveness for violating the city's sign ordinance.

It seems those blue flags hanging from Fourth Street light poles to ballyhoo the Marin County Fair are illegal. Fair Manager Marcell McCoy learned the fact yesterday, after the flags had been up a scant 24 hours.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini told her the flags must come down, Mrs. McCoy told the board of supervisors late in the day.

She had checked with the city manager's office, the Jaycees and other organizations which gave the go-ahead, Mrs. McCoy said. But the sign law was changed in January, and Bettini said it forbids such flags, she reported.

"I'm told the only exception is Red Tag Days" for downtown merchant sales, Mrs. McCoy replied.

Board chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. instructed County Administrator John F. Barrows to seek a solution with city officials. "Remind them the fairgrounds is in the city and any sales tax collected will help the city," he suggested.

"I hope the board remembers this when we get someone in front of us on a violation," Baar added. "Even a county can do wrong."

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Norman Campbell to the board of appeals; Joaquin Gallardo and Leland S. Bright to the human rights commission, and Terrell Clinton and Ginny Lamer to the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee.

HEARINGS — Scheduled a rezoning hearing for Casa Madera near Corte Madera Sept. 5, an appeal of approval of master plan for Collins and Curren property in the San Rafael area Sept. 12, rezoning for Gilbert Allard in the Strawberry area Sept. 12, and master plan amendment for Lucas Valley unit 10 on Aug. 29.

WORKSHOP — Heard at a workshop with the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee that the housing subcommittee will conduct a countywide survey similar to the one it conducted in San Rafael in an effort to find emergency housing. Also, it was reported that public education is needed in Marin for a better understanding of the food stamp program so that recipients are not resented in retail stores by clerks and shoppers as they sometimes are in Marin.

PRAISE — Praised the department of public works for receiving the Paul Wood memorial safety award for the best safety record of seven North Coast counties during the past fiscal year.

ACCEPTANCE OF LAND — Accepted a strip of land along Fairfax-Bolinas Road dedicated to the county by Gilbert P. and Gayle R. Murphy.

BIDS — Authorized opening of bids Sept. 11 for replacing 500 feet of trunk sewer main near Flamingo Road and Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley.

LEASE — Approved a lease agreement between the Belvedere-Tiburon branch of the Marin County Library and Belvedere Land Co. for $555 monthly rent for five years.

DRUG EDUCATION — Renewed a contract with Catholic Social Services for a drug education program for teen-agers and young adults at a cost to the county of $13,200.

CONSOLIDATION — Authorized the consolidation of a $500,000 municipal bond election in Novato for swimming pool facilities with the Nov. 7 statewide election.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Entered an agreement with Larskpur to provide a recreational program for senior citizens at a cost to the county of $300.

CLASSIFICATION — Authorized the classification of a senior typist position in comprehensive health planning, on the recommendation of Jane Waggener, personnel analyst.

PROTEST — Heard protests from the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen on lowering the structural fire tax for support of the Marin County Fire Department. The group said a decrease only increases the burden for structual fire protection upon property owners in incorporated cities.

PATROL — Deferred action for three weeks on a request to the San Rafael City Council to augment police patrol services at the civic center. Supervisors believed they needed more information on the present level of police protection at the county facility as compared to protection of private facilities in the city.

WITHDRAWAL — Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, head of the department of health services, deleted his request for a new position of education and planning coordinator at a salary of $7,044. He said he believes the department "can provide this function adequately from within the department with present personnel." He had requested the position Aug. 4.

MAINTENANCE — Continued the salary of $1,805 per month for a chief of planning and administration in the health service department, on Dr. Cooke's recommendation. Personnel director Maren Rinne had suggested it be lowered to a range of $1,454 to $1,767 per month.

PROJECTOR — Authorized $554.20 to County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli for purchase of a 16-millimeter projector for use in training programs.

CANDIDATE — Refused to abolish county policy of requiring election candidates to pay in advance for including their qualifications statements in the sample ballot mailing. Gregory C. Fearon, candidate for Marin Junior College District board, asked abolition of the deposit rule, citing a recent state appellate court decision. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the decision was held in abeyance, because the state Supreme Court is to hear the matter in September.

TRANSPORTATION — Put over to next Tuesday the hearing on Phase Two of the Balanced Transportation Program.

FOSTER HOME — Adopted a resolution approving a new rate of $1,074 per month for each county court ward placed in the Sunny Hills institution.

ABATEMENT — Continued hearing on assessment of a lein and abatement of the Rodriguez property on Shoreline Highway near Marshall, where septic tank problems have occurred.

GRADING — Instructed resident Kenneth Carpenter of Panoramic Highway, and the county public works department to get together in settlement of continuing controversy over a grading permit for Carpenter's driveway. Carpenter told the board that Irving L. Schwartz, county land development engineer, was "on an ego trip" and refused to issue the permit.

Nothing Unexpected In Miami, Tass Says

MOSCOW (UPI)—The official news agency Tass told Soviet citizens today "nothing unexpected" was happening at the Republican convention in Miami Beach.

"Party bosses have taken measures in good time to preclude any criticism of government policy," Tass said. "Nothing unexpected has happened so far."

Ross Traffic Tangles Vex Supervisors

Everyone agreed at the Marin County Board of Supervisors meeting yesterday that there is a serious traffic problem at Ross General Hospital. No one, however, could decide what to do about it.

So the issue was referred back to the public works department with instructions to confer with Ross and hospital officials and make recommendations.

The matter was introduced by Ray W. Foreaker Jr., county department of public works director, who summarized the problem with this observation:

"Whatever changes can be made at this time will only be a band-aid on a problem requiring major surgery, i.e., the widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through Ross to four lanes."

He told the board that, "because of extremely high traffic densities on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, it is frequently virtually impossible to make the left turn movement either entering or leaving the hospital."

Hospital officials had suggested installation of a conventional traffic signal at the hospital entrance, but Foreaker said it would only cause more congestion and delay emergency vehicles.

Hospital officials also recommended an emergency signal light that would be activated by emergency room personnel when an emergency vehicle is entering or leaving the hospital. While calling such a signal "less objectionable" and "reasonable", Foreaker pointed out that it would cost about $14,000.

Supervisors were cool to such an idea, contending that it could actually hinder emergency vehicles if activated a few seconds too soon, blocking other cars in front of the emergency vehicle. And, they said, if a patient was being transported in a family car, it would be difficult for emergency room personnel to spot the approaching car and activate the signal at the proper time.

Muscular Dystrophy Fund-Raiser Slated

A skate-a-thon aimed at raising funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America will be held from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday at Marin Skateland, 863 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

Donations received at the door will be contributed to the Jerry Lewis Telethon on Labor Day weekend for the benefit of the association.

Marinview 5th-Unit Plans Change Hands

Plans for the fifth unit of the controversial Marinview subdivision above Tamalpais Valley were returned yesterday to the Marin County Planning Commission for modification.

The action by the board of supervisors came on a 4-0 vote after three hours of arguments over soil stability hazards, low-cost housing and revival of the memory of bitter feuding two years ago over the subdivision.

L.P. Bernard, who lives at 303 Bristol Place in Marinview Unit One, and Supervisor Michael Wornum said the original master plan for all nine units of Marinview "drawn in blood" in hearings during 1969 and 1970.

School officials, neighbors and conservationists had protested the ridgeline development, cited traffic hazards and school crowding and voiced fears of landslides, Bernard remainded the board. He said the board had reached a firm agreement that the developers could build no more than 285 homes served by Countryview Drive.

On July 24, the planning commission voted 4-1 to approve Unit Five, and allowed the developer, Alan R. Allan to exceed the total by six homes if they were earmarked for low or moderate income housing.

"There's no question the 285 is sacred," Wornum said, adding that he did not believe the developer's soil experts who yesterday contradicted the county's own geologic hazards survey made by state geologist Salem Rice.

Rice was not present. Attorney Albert Bianchi, spokesman for the developer, urged that the board postpone its decision until next Tuesday so the soil stability controversy could be settled with Rich present.

But Bernard and Mrs. Robert Julin of the Tamalpais Task Force successfully urged that Unit Five plans be sent back to the planning commission for incorporation in all overall reevaluation of the Marinview master plan.

Supervisors unanimously opposed allowing the six extra homes, even for moderate or low-cost housing. "I don't believe it was ever intended to put low-income homes on top of a ridge," Wornum said. "As far as I'm concerned, the six units are out."

About two dozen residents of Marinview and Tamalpais Valley attended the hearing.

McGovern Plan For Defense Hit

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, insisting he was not engaging in partisan politics, said during a visit here that Sen. George McGovern's proposed military cutbacks would "amount to unilateral disarmament."

Laird emphasized Tuesday that he has tried to be "religiously bipartisan," but said he "cannot sit by and allow someone to make those charges" that the defense budget could be almost halved without jeopardizing the national security.

"A cut in the nature of $20 or $30 billion would amount to unilateral disarmament and would gravely endanger our national security, severely impair the prospects of peace and put an end to successful negotiations toward greater international stability," Laird said.

Border Closed

BANGKOK (UPI) — The governor of northeastern Thailand's Nakhorn Phanom province said today that a 75-mile stretch of the Thai-Lao border had been closed since last week because of reports that Communist terrorists were ready to infiltrate after training in Laos.

Collision Hurts Motorcyclist

A Petaluma youth was critically injured in a car-motorcycle accident at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at Washington and Keller Streets, Petaluma.

Robert R. Scott, 18, of 229 Keokuk Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital and transferred to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with severe head injuries.

Police said his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Jeanne Ann Luther, 18, of 11 Kazen Way, Petaluma. Scott was thrown from the motorcycle and struck his head on the pavement. He was not wearing a protective helmet.

Holdup Suspect Pleads Innocent

Larry Paul Slager, 25, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of being one of three men who held up two persons in a San Rafael parking lot on Aug. 14.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Slager was arrested after being identified as one of the men who robbed Joseph D. Patric and Rich Johns at 19:30 p.m. in the Mayfair Market lot. The victims said one of the robbers said he had a gun and demanded a watch.

Two other men charged with the same crime, Lonnie Lawder Rivas of Petaluma and Joseph Rivera, also known as Herman Sanchez, of San Rafael, have not appeared in court.

Chamber Backs Tax Revision

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has endorsed with reservations a business tax proposal by the Mill Valley City Council.

The chamber on Monday said it would support Mill Valley's proposed 25 per cent increase in the business tax, but with the stipulation that license fees be adjusted downwards for small businesses and increased for larger firms.

Chamber president Samuel W. Schneider told the Independent-Journal his group would present a tentative rate schedule to the Mill Valley City Council at the next council meeting.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Declarer Has An Easier Time Than Defense In Playing Hand

Declarer's play is easier than defense because declarer sees his partner's hand (the dummy) and therefore knows the combined resources. He wins a trick where it will do him the most good. The defenders must guess at their combined strength and often base their play on such rules as "second-hand low" or "third-hand high," instead of on the basis of sure knowledge. The difference shows up in hands like today's.

EAST WINS

West opened the three of spades, and East won the first trick with the queen. He returned the ten of spades to dummy's king, and declarer next led a low diamond from the dummy.

It would be easy for East to find the right play if he could see his partner's hand. The average defender would play a low diamond from the East hand, and the average West player would take the first diamond trick with the king.

LOOKS DANGEROUS

Even this would be all right, if West promptly shifted to hearts. Since this would look dangerous, however, West probably would continue with another spade, and the defense would then collapse. South would win with the ace of spades and knock out the ace of diamonds, after which he would easily win the rest of the tricks.

All of this may sound difficult, but it can be reduced to very simple terms. When your partner opens a long suit against notrump, it is up to you to win tricks quickly and plug away at your partner's suit. The time for your partner to win a trick is when he has set up his suit and is ready to cash.

EAST PLAYS ACE

Following this principle, East should hop up with the ace of diamonds as soon as that suit is led. He leads his last spade, setting up West's long suit. West gets the next diamond trick and is ready to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ - K 6
♥ - A J 9 4
♦ - 8 5 4
♣ - K J 10 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

Some conservative experts would pass this borderline hand, but most would choose to open because of the 10 of clubs and the nine of hearts. You tend to make the aggressive move with a borderline hand when you have good intermediate cards (tens and nines) in your long suits.

Accident Time

The accident in which Geoffrey McNew, 10, of 212 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre, received a broken leg happened about 8 p.m. Friday and not at 10:05 p.m. as reported Monday in the Independent-Journal.

Experts Start To Fix Pieta

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican art experts are about to begin the delicate task of gluing and shaping the battered pieces of Michelangelo's Pieta statue.

"Only an expert, upon close examination, would be able to tell there had been any work done," said Deoclecio Redig de Campos, director of the Vatican Museum.

On May 21, Laszlo Toth, 34, a geologist, walked into St. Peter's Basilica and battered the masterpiece that depicts the Madonna holding the dead Jesus in her arms.

Preliminary work toward restoring the 6-foot-7 statue began almost immediately.

Within hours, workmen had collected the fragments, about 50 in all.

"We collected everything but the most minute of chips," De Campos said.

To replace those missing fragments, about 100 grams of material will be chipped off the statue's base.

At first it was feared that the Virgin Mary's left eyelid, sculptured to show the suffering of the Mother of Christ, had been chipped off. Closer examination revealed it was dented - a difficult but not impossible job to restore, experts say.

De Campos, Vittorio Federici of the Vatican's scientific research laboratories, and two other experts have studied photographs and a plastic replica of the masterpiece. This replica, made 30 years ago, is preserved in St. Peter's Sacristy.

Work is continuing in the Vatican's laboratories and the statue has not yet been touched. One problem still to be resolved is the type of adhesive to bind shattered parts.

Federici is experimenting with glues from the United States, France, Germany and Italy; some of resinous bases, others artificial, others developed by the Vatican experts.

The Pieta may go on view again next year. Plans are under way to erect a glass barrier between it and the public.

In prison, Toth has been undergoing psychiatric tests. Charged with damaging a work of art and offending a religious object, he faces up to four years in jail.

Riles Blasts Schools Critics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California schools chief Wilson Riles says it is fashionable to criticize the public schools.

And certain critics, he told the Ninth California Labor Federation conference Monday "would destroy our public system and carry us back to education for the elite."

He made the remarks in a prepared address.

Folk-Rock Fete In Terra Linda Church

A community folk-rock celebration of worship will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at Faith Lutheran Church, 355 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda.

Those attending should bring pillows, pads or mats for floor siting, according to Pastor Bliss W. Bellinger.

1 Pct. Pay Hike Offer For Teachers

The Novato Unified School District board has trimmed $70,617 from its $10,800,214 budget for 1972-73 in an effort to free funds for salary raises.

Trustees agreed Monday night to offer employees a 1 per cent pay raise, using undistributed reserve and funds trimmed from other areas of the budget.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley estimated a 1 per cent raise would require $65,500 for teachers and $11,000 for nonteaching personnel.

"We're the only district in Marin that hasn't given teachers a raise in two years," Mobley said. Last year the district granted only the annual step increases.

Teachers, seeking a 5.5 per cent pay raise, recommended that the board cut the budget, particularly the athletic program, to make the raise possible.

Trustee Carolyn M. Carbtree said the 1 per cent was "a minute token, but we have made the effort to show our heart is in the right place."

Trustees voted 4-3 against cutting soccer, wrestling, cross-country and water polo at a saving of $3,000 in coaching salaries. Voting for the cuts were Jan Murray, Marett B. Boissevain and William G. Schneeflock.

Among the cuts made were $34,052 from the operation and maintenance program; a 5 per cent reduction in instructional spending, $15,000; elimination of the job of administrative assistant, held last year by Edith Pewitt, $12,840, and reduction in the capital outlay for buildings, $2,500.

The board also hired Carl Carlson from Berkeley School District as assistant principal at Sinaloa Junior High School at $15,293 a year, and Ethel Lagle as an elementary teacher at $8,496 a year.

The board's next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Elevator Falls 15 Floors; Rider Walks Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— James Rafferty, 34, plunged 15 stories in a runaway elevator Tuesday and walked away from the accident.

Rafferty was dismantling part of the roof on an elevator cab at a hotel and the cab broke loose.

"I knew I had to get off my feet or the impact would kill me," he said.

He said he dropped to his back to spread the force of the landing. Seconds after the crash, he said, he got up and walked to a medical office where he underwent an examination.

"We can't find a thing wrong with him," Dr. Joseph McGuinness said.

Rafferty said he felt fine and was ready to go back to work.

Two Musicals Scheduled At College of Marin

College of Marin Drama Department has scheduled two musicals "Oliver" and "Fiddler on the Roof", and Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" as major productions for the coming school year.

"Fiddler on the Roof" and "The Crucible" will be staged at the College's Fine Arts Theater. "Oliver" will be presented at Theater III at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Miller's powerful play about the Salem witch trials will be performed 13 times from Oct. 19 to Nov. 4

"Oliver" will have 19 performances, opening Nov. 30 and running until Dec. 23.

The college's music department will provide music for "Fiddler on the Roof" which is set to open next year on March 29 for 11 shows.

Auditions begin a few weeks after college starts on Sept. 11. Students will earn from 1 to 3 units for their performances.

Judge Rules Out Antiwar Suit

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A suit by a group of Oregon residents asking for an end to the war in Southeast Asia was dismissed Tuesday by a federal judge.

The suit asked the court to issue an injunction prohibiting further expenditure or allocation of funds for the war.

U.S. District Judge James Burns said the plaintiffs lacked a legal basis in the suit and that their complaint failed to state a case.

New Marin Civic Ballet School Will Be Previewed Next Week

A public preview of the new Marin Civic Ballet School with dance classes in action will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the new location, 100 Elm Street near Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

The extensive facility, formerly the Marist Seminary, was purchased by the Marin Civic Ballet Association and was remodeled. Guests will be guided on a tour of the school, will see various dance classes in action, then be served refreshments.

Classes in modern dance, jazz, dance for women only, preschool ballet, elementary ballet, intermediate and advanced ballet will be previewed. These classes will be conducted by the director of the school, Leona Norman, and her associate teachers, Judy White, Norbert Vesak and Charles Perrier.

Miss White is director of the Apprentice Group of the Marin Civic Ballet Company. Vesak is a choreographer with 50 ballet and modern dance works to his credit and is presently resident choreographer and director of ballet to the San Francisco Opera. Perrier, a choreographer, dancer and teacher, has been a leading member of the Marin Civic Ballet Company since 1967 and currently heads a Renaissance music and dance company.

In the fall semester, classes in lighting, stage production, yoga and dance composition also will be offered. Registration for classes began today. On preview day next Tuesday, registrations also will be accepted.

Credit Card Charges To Superior Court

A San Francisco woman yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of using a credit card fraudulently at a Northgate Shopping Center music shop July 28.

Mary Ann Correia, 24, is to appear in Superior Court Sept. 5. She was arrested after she reportedly tried to use a stolen card to make a purchase at the San Rafael store.

A BIG ONE GETS TOPPED

COUNTRY FAIR AT HUB

Paraders, Beauties, Feast And Sale Set

Smokey the Bear and Buffalo Bill will march down San Anselmo Avenue at high noon Saturday.

Antics of the pair will be a part of San Anselmo's third annual Country Fair Days festival, which comes to the city this Friday and Saturday.

The festival, sponsored by the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, will treat the city to marching bands, drill teams, prancing horses, beauty queens, clowns and floats.

The festival will also feature pony rides, street dancing, a barbeque and refreshments.

Merchants along San Anselmo Avenue will spice the weekend's events with a two-day sale beginning Friday morning, according to Paul Brand, festival chairman.

Highlighting the festivities will be the Country Fair Days parade on Saturday. More than 100 units from throughout Marin and Northern California will participate, Brand said.

The parade begins at 11 a.m. and will wind up San Anselmo Avenue from Bolinas to Bridge avenues. A delegation from the San Anselmo Police Department will head the march, which will include state and county legislators aboard antique fire engines.

The parade will also feature military bands, majorettes, the Coast Guard drill team from Petaluma, the Marin Mounted 4-H Club, the KTIM princesses and a host of clowns, beauty queens, floats and antique cars.

Parking will be banned along the parade route on San Anselmo Avenue from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. The stretch of road between Bolinas and Bridge Avenue would be closed to all vehicles from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Portions of Tunstead Avenue will be closed from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday to make way for a street dance and chicken barbecue. High Country, a bluegrass band, will provide the music for the dance.

Folk and square dancing is sveduled to begin immediately after the parade on San Anselmo Avenue at Belle Avenue, Brand said. A variety of artisan's booths and refreshment stands will be set up along San Anselmo.

A dunk tank, children's fair and food booths will be set up on the city parking lot across from the Tamalpais Theater, and the San Francisco Palace of Arts and Sciences will have an exhibit on San Anselmo Avenue near Tamalpais Avenue.

The San Anselmo Ascenders - Explorer Scouts from Post 315 - will construct towers on the lot across from the Tamalpais Theater and demonstrate climbing skills.

Year's Delay On Outlawing Raw Sewage

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Richardson Bay Sanitary District yesterday won a one-year extension of its deadline to stop dumping raw sewage in Richardson Bay when wet weather overtaxes its system. (Another sewage story, page 1.)

The Regional Water Quality Control Board granted the extension to Sept. 1, 1973, after arguments by the district that it had done as much as it could to correct the problem with limited funds.

The board voted unanimously despite a plea from the attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District that the board ban all further sewer permits and revoke all outstanding permits as having been issued illegally. The attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, said he was writing as a private taxpayer.

Developer Paul Broman, whose Strawberry Cove apartment project long was opposed by the district, told the board that Kaufmann's objections were contrary to assurances by the district that it would drop its opposition after Broman dedicated a chunk of his property to the district.

The board also granted a one-year extension to the City of Petaluma to comply with board requirements for sewage treatment. The deadline was extended to Nov. 30, 1974, after the board's staff noted that the work was delayed because of state red tape.

CIVIC CENTER HIGH-RISE

Plans Revised, Still Opposed

A revised master plan for a six-story office building, restaurant and other development on a hill north of the Marin Civic Center was approved last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission amid renewed citizen opposition. (Another planning commisuion story, page 1.)

As at earlier hearings, Terra Linda residents fretted that the project, proposed by contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen of San Rafael, would stifle traffic and blot the skyline.

Nicolaisen, who already has a use permit for the development, which will be known as Northgate East, earlier had proposed construction of a 10-story office building a 240-room motel. The plans now call for a 362-foot-long office building, 10,600-square-foot restaurant and service station and car wash.

Although a traffic consultant to Nicolaisen said the project wouldn't seriously affect traffic at the adjoining Terra Linda interchange of Highway 101, residents said cars generated by the development would make an already inadequate facility worse.

Critics, including County Planning Commissioner Jack G. Nixon and Richard L. Less, a member of the Terra Linda Community Services District board, were unswayed by proposals not to permit direct access from the project into the intersection and to ban left turns onto the highway by northbound traffic on Civic Center Drive.

Nixon said the left turn ban would burden the 101 interchange at Lucas Valley, a situation which he claimed also needed improvement.

City Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner told the commission of discussions among city, county and state Division of Highways officials over planned improvements to the Terra Linda and Lucas Valley interchanges, as well as the one at North San Pedro Road.

Nixon believed, however, the time for such improvements was before development came to the region.

Although some members of the audience suggested revocation of approval given Nicolaisen to date, Hotchner found no legal grounds to do so.

Beyond the Nicolaisen development critics raised the impact the Sears store at the Northgate Shopping Center and the planned Firemen'a Fund computer center at Lucas Valley Road and 101 would have on traffic in the vicinity.

Amid further concern over visibility of Nicolaisen's building, the commission was told by the contractor's representatives of plans to plant trees of up to 40 feet to soften the building's impact.

Representatives of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board charged they had been misled by Nicolaisen when the agency approved a sewer line extension for the project, and the possibility the approval may be rescinded was raised.

Board members Frank Solomon Jr. and Gene H. Dyer said Nicolaisen had led the agency to believe that community objections to the plan had been met. But Albert Bianchi, attorney for Nicolaisen, said his client had referred to an earlier stage in the proceedings over which there was no controversy at that time.

Discussion Set In Dollar Estate Flap

Controversy over proposed development of the Robert Dollar estate in San Rafael will be aired at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speakers will be George J. Silvestri Jr. and Barbara Parker, members of the San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee; Thomas E. Schaal, owner of the property, and Gilbert P. Murphy, architect and designer of the apartment and townhouse complex proposed for the site.

Questions may be phoned in during the live broadcast, which will be aired again on tape at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Town Meeting Warmup Will Be Tonight

The San Rafael Town Meeting Association tonight will hold its last general meeting prior to the Oct. 14 Town Meeting.

Today's meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Whistlestop Depot, 930 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael.

"We'll be discussing the committee structure, format and publicity for the Town Meeting" association chairman Steven B. Sachs said.

Tonight's meeting also will deal with specific discussion topics, group moderators and ways to "turn on" residents to get them to attend the meeting, Sachs said, adding that tonight is the last chance citizens will have in helping organize the event.

The town meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 14 in Dominican College in San Rafael, he said.

Collegians To Live In Tam Fire Stations

Directors of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District agreed yesterday to establish a program in which college students will live at the district's two fire stations and receive a small amount of money in exchange for working for the department.

The board will decide how many students will participate in the "sleeper program" as soon as it has determined how much money is available in the 1972-73 district budget.

District Secretary Bernard Lenhart said the students selected may work as dispatchers, clear fire trails or even help in fighting fires. The students may live at the firehouses the year round, or during the school year or just in the summer.

Northgate East Plan Opposed In Terra Linda

The Terra Linda Community Services District board last night unanimously objected to proposed development of a graded hillside east of Highway 101 and north of the civic center.

A recommendation urging the rejection of contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen's Northgate East project will be sent to the San Rafael City Council, according to board member Richard L. Less.

He said that the board was appalled that the Nicolaisen proposal for an office complex on the 15-acre parcel was approved by the San Rafael Planning Commission last night.

"I went directly to the board meeting from the planning commission and board members couldn't believe the project was going to proceed," Less said.

Traffic generated by the project would "make it almost impossible for Terra Linda residents to get to the Northgate Industrial Park" and to medical facilities on Professional Center Parkway, according to Less.

Less said that board representatives would appear before the council to oppose the proposal.

The Terra Linda Community Services District board also:

FIREMEN'S FUND — Detached from the district the Lucas Green parcel on Highway 101 across from Northgate Industrial Park where Firemen's Fund Insurance Co. plans to build a multimillion dollar computer center.

ROTARY CLUB — Announced that the Terra Linda Rotary Club had donated a hydraulic jack to the Terra Linda Fire Department.

NURSERY — Renewed the lease of the Terra Linda Nursery Cooperative for one year at $1,170. The day care facility rents space in the community center.

ANNEXATION — Decided to hold an informational meeting on annexation of the district to San Rafael at 8 p.m. Sept. 20 inthe community center.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 20.

Antidrug Center Wins Nod For Move; Neighbors Worry

Marin Open House, the antidrug facility which needs a new home, was given permission last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission to move temporarily into a small office building formerly occupied by the Marin Economic Opportunity Council.

But at least two businessmen neighbors of the building at 915 C Street, between Fourth and Third streets, didn't like it.

One, Valerie Fisher, owner of a sewing machine and vacuum cleaner center next door at 914 C, said: "I have had two years of EOC. . .I might just as well close my door and go out to the Northgate Shopping Center."

When EOC and its "rowdy" element moved out recently, Mrs. Fisher said, she and her husband "toasted with champagne." Now, she said, she feared trouble all over again.

She was joined in a letter to the commission by a representative of McPhail's appliances across the street, although Ray Hoeflein, owner of Cal's Steak House at Third and C, said that if facility operators "will do the things they say they'll do, I'll pull in my wings and go along."

Dr. Roger Smith, Marin Open House director, said the facility had to move from its present quarters at 1327 Lincoln Avenue to make way for a senior citizens housing development. He promised the facility would be "much more responsible" neighbors than the EOC, noting operations would be reduced drastically once Open House moved into a permanent home in six months.

Smith said the C Street facility ultimately would become Marin Open House's vocational training office, housing job counselors and related services.

The new move didn't generate the heated controversy that arose when Marin Open House moved into its Lincoln Avenue headquarters.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

INDUSTRIAL PARK — Granted a use permit to Robert L. Goetz for industrial park development on 22.5 acres behind Northgate Industrial Park. Office, manufacturing and light industrial uses are planned.

APARTMENTS — Granted a use permit and design approval for a 104-unit apartment development proposed by Robert O. Valentine at Professional Center Parkway and Channing Way.

COMMERCIAL — Gave a use permit to Frank Rosenmayr for an apartment unit behind a commercial building at 1569 Fourth Street.

DREDGE — Gave permission to the County of Marin to place spoils from a Gallinas Creek dredging project on property within the city.

APARTMENTS — Granted a use permit and design approval to Irvin Hille for a 20-unit apartment development at 312 First Street.

WAREHOUSE — Granted a use permit to John Kuntz and Alfred Dalecio for construction of warehouse and other light industrial and commercial facilities at 11 Alto Street.

REPAIR — Approved a use permit for an auto repair shop on the property of John D. Graham at 279 Jacoby Street.

Bay Bottomland Lease Extended

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Fish and Game Commission has extended for four years the lease of the Menlo Park Aquaculture Corp. on 10 acres of bottomland at the north end of Tomales Bay.

The commission approved the extension for a $100 annual fee at a meeting Friday, according to Frank Hubbard, information officer.

The firm, which has leased the ocean bottom for the past two years, plans to use the land for experimental shellfish culture, he said.

Here's a really well-cared-for little Chev. Camaro 2-dr. hardtop sport coupe that we just took in trade from the original owner on a new Buick Skylark.

This all-gold Camro has white vinyl top and matching custom bucket seats along with all the Chev. luxury extras like automatic, radio, heater, V-8 engine, power steering, w/w tires, etc. This low mileage little coupe would make the perfect back-to-school car for some Marin family. XKB 641.

Brush Fire Perils Condor

FILLMORE (UPI)—Two major brush fires, one of them in a rugged area of the Los Padres National Forest which hasn't been burned since 1933, continued to race out of control in Southern California today.

The larger fire, apparently started by campers playing with fireworks in a remote canyon area of the Los Padres National Forest, flared up during the night and quickly expanded to more than 6,000 acres — moving to within one-half mile of the Sespe Wildlife Refuge.

The refuge is the home of the California condor, the largest bird of prey in the world and the biggest land bird in North America. There are only about 60 birds of the endangered species left alive.

The other major blaze is the arson-caused Vista fire, which has charred 1,530 acres of "extremely heavy brush" in steep terrain in the San Jacinto Mountains south of Banning.

A third, smaller fire on the Morongo Indian Reservation about two miles north of Banning and about seven miles from the San Jacinto fire, was declared contained at 6 a.m. today after burning 130 acres. The cause of that fire is under investigation.

A U.S. Forest Service spokesman said the Sespe fire —the largest brush fire of the season in California —was being pushed southwest under mild Santa Ana wind conditions.

Seven air tankers, which Tuesday dropped 24,600 gallons of fire retardant before being forced to quit because of darkness, rejoined the battle at dawn today.

The forest service said 350 men were on the lines, relieving a force of 150 who worked through the night. No estimate of the fire's perimeter was available because of the intensity of the flames and the heavy smoke. The spokesman said an overfight of a plane armed with an infrared sensor would be made to determine the extent of the blaze and to pinpoint hotspots.

Firefighters planned to take a stand on Topa Topa Ridge, which lies between the advancing flames and the wildlife refuge. "If we can stop it there, we'll save the refuge," a spokesman said. Otherwise, he predicted the blaze was "almost certain to run into the sanctuary before we can control it."

Wildlife experts said most of the condors were away from the refuge at this time of the year, hunting in higher mountains, and only about 15-20 birds stayed behind. They said some nesting sites on the other side of the sanctuary, nearly 15 miles from the fire front, could be endangered.

The temperature was over 100 degrees when the fire was noticed late Tuesday afternoon and more of the same was expected today.

The Vista fire, which a forest service spokesman said was burning in steep terrain where brush grew 15-20 feet high, spread more than 600 acres during the night, mostly due to 40 mile an hour Santa Ana winds, which a spokesman said had decreased to mild by dawn.

Six air tankers and 850 men were battling the blaze, which firemen said was the first in that area since 1928. The fire forced closure of California 243 between Banning and Idyllwild — the highway along which firemen believe the blaze was set.

The fire was less than one mile from the Riverside County Probation Camp and the Twin Peaks Ranch for Boys, but it has not damaged any structures although a fence at the boys' ranch was burned.

Two smaller fires, including the 130-acre blaze on the Morongo reservation, broke out near the major blazes. The one near the Sespe fire covered six acres south of Piru.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Low Blood Pressure May Not Be A Cause For Major Alarm

A. S. writes: "I am a 38-year-old banker with no particular problems, except that I am always tired, frequently drowsy, and feel lightheaded, especially when I stand or exert myself.

My doctor says I have low blood pressure (under 100), but he doubts if this has anything to do with my symptoms. He won't give me medication to raise tha blood pressure level and insists that I'm lucky and will outlive most of my friends. What do you think?"

I agree, assuming the doctor gave you a thorough examination to rule out certain diseases associated with hypotension (low blood pressure). Many energetic men who have low blood pressure also have these manifestations. In addition, there are strong and energetic men who have low pressure.

Hypotension is usually harmless, depending upon age, sex, race, and environment. Many doctors will agree with your physician that low blood pressure promises longevity and that those with hypotension often escape arteriosclerotic heart disease. Insurance statistics covering several million policy holders verify this contention. As a result, hypotension, per se, is not considered a disease and should not be treated.

CONVERSELY, this banker has many vague symptoms that could stem from boredom, inactivity, underweight and inadequate diet. If the shoe fits, wear it by getting more exercise, balanced meals and cultivating interesting hobbies and ways to spend leisure time. On the other hand, more rest may be the answer if the fatigue stems from too much work. And what about emotional causes?

There are but a few organic causes for hypotension. For example, the blood pressure drops after hemorrhage, heart attacks, and during an addisonian crisis. More obvious causes include a wasting disease, such as cancer and malnutrition. Certain heart defects are associated with hypotension, especially when the output of the heart is so low that a normal pressure cannot be maintained.

POSTURAL HYPOTENSION differs from the ordinary type in that the blood pressure definitely drops from normal to low levels whenever the person stands from a recumbent or stooping position. The use of certain drugs can cause this and so can a decreased tone in the blood vessels caused by flabby muscles. In other words, the brain does not get enough blood when the person changes posture.

Jefferson Airplane In Ohio Fracas

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Bill Thompson, manager of the Jefferson Airplane, threatened legal action Tuesday against city and police officials for a melee at the Rubber Bowl in which eight policemen were injured and 30 persons were arrested.

Thompson said an attorney here would file suit against the city and police for "assaulting members of the group" during the Monday night concert by the rock group.

Two of those arrested were lead singer Grace Slick, 32, and guitarist Paul Kantner, 31, both of Bolinas. They pleaded innocent to several charges stemming from the disturbance.

Authorities said the trouble started when another group urged the 18,000 spectators to leave their seats and dance onto the football field. Signs had been posted there to keep off because it had been seeded for the football season.

Hunderds ignored the signs and tramped on the new grass, and police moved in.

Later when the Jefferson Airplane was on stage, a bomb threat was telephoned to the Rubber Bowl office, causing a search of the area. Then Charles Casady, 32, equipment manager for the group, allegedly began yelling at police, and was led off the stage by officers.

A scuffle ensued when Miss Slick and about 20 spectators tried to stop officers from taking Casady away.

Patrolman R.E. Gott said she grab ed his whistle chain made a clawing motion at his face, scratched his arm and took a punch at him as he tried to arrest her.

Kantner, 31, was charged with assaulting a policeman and profanity.

Kantner was released on $700 bond, Miss Slick on $500 and Casady on $200.

Novato Extends Flood Plain Ban 120 Days

The Novato City Council last night extended building controls on the lower Novato Creek flood plain for 120 days, well short of the period requested by Marin County.

In a unanimous vote, the council extended the one-year interim ordinance, which limits development to 25 per cent of the ponding area of a parcel.

The extension was the final one that the city could grant and the controls will be lifted at the end of 120 days unless a final ordinance is adopted.

County Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. had recommended by letter that the council extend the emergency interim ordinance for one year to permit time for a final ordinance to be completed, heard and adopted.

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said only 120 more days should be allowed and fellow councilmen agreed.

Marin County has extended the ordinance for nine months in its area.

Foreaker had advied that "it would not be wise to extend the ordinance for a period of less than one year because it cannot be determined just how long the revision and adoption process will take. Should the interim ordinance expire prior to the adoption of final ordinance, the results could be severe."

The council rejected bids to exclude the McPhail, Tuckey and Hertz properties, about 35 acres, north of Novato Creek and west of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. tracks, from the controls.

The Novato City Council Also:

PARKS — Named the Novato Creek beautification project west of Seventh Street "Gerner Park" in honor of Lee Gerner who worked on its design and construction and changed the name of Novato Creek Park to Miwok Park, on which the Novato Rotary Club will spend $3,000 for barbecue pits and picnic tables.

SWIM POOL — Approved a contract with Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch of San Mateo for bond service at 1 per cent of the bonds for a second city-owned swimming pool. The size, location and cost of the pool have not been determined yet, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said.

DEVELOPMENTS — Approved master plans for the 519-acre Pacheco Ranch west of Highway 101 north of Big Rock Ridge for 650 to 700 housing units, offices, light industry and shopping areas, and for an additional six spaces for Los Robles Mobile Homes on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

HOUSING — Heard a report from Wallace K. Sheppard, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority on the past year's activities of the authority which is moving to Northgate and planning a 17-home project for the Black Point area of Novato.

PARK — Authorized Brown to negotiate with Harry Heifetz on the purchase of approximately 13 acres at the top of the hill east of South Novato Boulevard and south of Sunset Parkway for a park or open space.

HEARINGS — Set 8 p.m., Oct. 3 for public hearings on annexation of 94 acres between Olive Avenue and Railroad Avenue south of Oleander Avenue and the same time for hearing on annexation of 16 acres on H Lane and Laguna Vista Drive.

POLICY — Ordered staff to redraft a proposed resolution of city policy on city condemnation of property.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved Russell G. Quinnell paying $14,700 in lieu of installing improvements on an apartment house project at 1509 to 1521 South Novato Boulevard and the Schulz townhouse project paying $1,350 in lieu of street improvements on San Marin Drive at San Mateo Way.

RAMPS — Received a report that it would cost $5,040 to install ramps at the intersections on Grant Avenue for the users of wheel chairs. The council ordered Brown to investigate how many persons used wheel chairs while shopping in Novato.

CONFERENCE — Named Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and George C. Quesada to attend the League of California Cities conference Oct. 15 to 18 in Anaheim.

HOUSING — Received a letter from the Lynwood Park Improvement Association setting forth its opposition in the event construction of housing for students is proposed at Indian Valley Colleges, declaring Indian Valley a community college to which students go from their own homes, and not a residential college.

APPOINTMENTS — Postponed until 8 p.m. next Tuesday a closed meeting to appoint members to the parks and recreation commission and the environmental quality committee. It will also review plan of the Kenney project for 2,300 housing units on 700 acres in Black Point.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 5 p.m. Monday at Pioneer Memorial Park to go over the plans of the citizens to preserve Novato's historical landmarks to preserve the pioneer cemetery.

Rail Blasted On Service To Patrons

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A passenger train advocate has accused the Southern Pacific Railroad of a campaign to wipe out Amtrak, the government passenger rail corporation.

The executive director of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, Joseph Vranich, charged the Southern Pacific with a continuing effort to rid itself of passenger service by exerting pressure in Washington.

He said the railroad maintains a public relations campaign against passenger trains and provides terrible service on trains it runs under contract to Amtrak.

A spokesman for Southern Pacific in San Francisco denied the charge. "The railroads are partners in an extremely difficult enterprise, the task of which is not made easier by irresponsible and unjust criticism such as this," he said.

The spokesman said Southern Pacific has spent considerable money to improve Amtrak's operating performance over its lines. "For example, we have improved service on the Sunset Limited between Los Angeles and New Orleans ... at an annual payroll cost increase of $450,000 and an outlay of $68,000 for new facilities."

Vranich made the charges Tuesday in a speech before the 6,000 member Railroad Passengers Association, a consumer group representinging train riders.

He said much of the blame for Amtrak's problems lies with the White House and predicted the service "will die an early death" unless the President exerts leadership.

Vranich said he had learned that Southern Pacific chief executive B. F. Biagini had almost succeeded in persuading the President to veto the original Amtrak legislation.

He claimed routes were eliminated from the plan because of pressure on the President.

Vranich also charged that Nixon's appointments to Amtrak's board were distinguished for a lack of dedication to modern rail passenger service, a lack of knowledge and experience with railroads.

He said one member heads a bus company that lobbys against Amtrak, and three other members have publicly stated they believe there is no future for passenger rail service in the United States.

2 Men Leap To Death Off Bridge

Two men, one a former nurse and merchant mariner and the other a student at University of California, within 15 minutes of each other, leaped to their deaths from the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

The former nurse, Chris Welles, 27, of San Francisco, perched himself on a thin girder outside the east railing for several minutes before he jumped, according to California Highway Patrolman James W. Schulze.

Schulze said he arrived at the scene and talked with Welles for about 10 minutes before the man made a sign of the cross and leaped at 1:15 p.m.

Welles was troubled by family problems and was upset over being rejected recently by a local junior college, Schulze said.

His body has not yet been recovered.

Schulze returned to his patrol car and was heading toward the Coast Guard office when he saw another man gazing despondently over the east railing. Moments later, Robert MacKowsky, 22, of Oakland, jumped off the bridge, just south of the south tower.

A witness who was fishing from Fort Point reported he saw a body in the water for about five minutes before it was swept out to sea, highway patrol spokesmen said.

At about 6 p.m., a fishing boat called the Ah Choo picked up the body and towed it to coast guard facilities.

Friends who identified MacKowsky said he had been depressed recently and had sought professional help Monday.

Open Space Hills Rule

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night approved an intermim open space element that calls for keeping Petaluma's hills free from development.

The interim plan must be adopted by Aug. 31 to meet state requirements and will be the basis for the final open space element that willbecome part of the city general plan by next June.

Planner Charlotte Teeples said the plan very generally sets goals of retaining open space around the city and recommends an open space corridor along San Antonio Creek be created as a buffer between the long range development of Novato and Petaluma.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said he hoped that state and federal grants might become available in the near future to begin purchasing land as open space as has been done in Marin County.

Auto Thief Gets Jail, Probation

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has placed Richard Brian Wosser, 30, of San Francisco on probation for five years and gave him a six-month jail sentence.

However, he allowed Wosser credit for the three months he has already spent in jail and said Monday that he could serve the balance of the term in a halfway house program in San Francisco.

Wosser was arrested June 6 near Sausalito after a records check showed the car he was driving was stolen. Last month he pleaded guilty to auto theft.

Fall Program Set By Novato Rec

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is taking reservations for its fall program activities, according to Ronald Pugh, publicity director.

Activities will include yoga, cake decorating, belly dancing, golf instruction, tennis instruction and women's slim-trim, he said.

Further information can be obtained at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Louisiana Has 'Gator Surplus

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A spokesman for the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission says Louisiana which has too many alligators may soon start exporting the giant reptiles for restrocking purposes.

"The requests are coming in," assistant director Richard Yancey said Tuesday. "Publicity seems to have stimulated interest in the situation."

The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission's request for 65 alligators will be considered by the Louisiana Commission Aug. 29. Arkansas has already received 48 of the large reptiles and a request for 100 more was approved by the commission last Friday.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon Monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, significant air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sourses, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

San Francisco Bay Area: Fair through Thursday but with patchy fog and low clouds near the coast increasing tonight and extending inland locally. Little change in temperatures. Highs today and Thursday in the upper 60s near the coast and into the 80s inland. Lows tonight in the mid 50s to low 60s. Light westerly winds increasing to 10 to 25 mph afternoons.

Northwestern California: Patchy fog and low clouds increasing slightly tonight. Otherwise fair through Thursday. Little temperature change. Highs today, low tonight and high Thursday at Fort Bragg 66, 45 and 63, Ukiah 100, 60 and 98.

Northern and Central California: Fair through Thursday except patchy fog and low clouds along the coast increasing tonight.

PUBLIC NOTICE

August 16, 1972

is hereby given that the Western Union Telegraph Company applied to the Federal Communications Commission on the 7th day of August 1972 for permission to offer telegraph service to the residents of San Rafael, California in a new manner.

The company's proposal calls for the sending and receiving of messages and money orders and physical delivery service in San Rafael to be provided by the Yellow Cab Company, 20A Bellam Blvd., San Rafael, California, which will be the agent of the telegraph company observing open hours from 8AM to 11PM Monday-Friday, 8AM to 10PM Saturday and 9AM to 5:30PM Sunday.

Telephone acceptance of telegrams will continue to be provided toll free on an "always open" basis through the Western Union office at San Francisco, California. Telephone delivery of telegrams will also be provided through the San Francisco "always open" Western Union office, at no added cost to the public.

A local toll free telephone number of reaching the always-open office at San Francisco is in the Marin County telephone directory.

The hours of operation under the new proposed plan are equal to the combined hours presently observed at the company's office and the after-hours agency.

If permission for this change in method of service in San Rafael is granted the operations will be transferred from the Western Union telegraph office at 1004 Tamalpais Street to the new agency without interruption in service.

Any member of the public desiring to express an opinion on this application may communicate in writing with the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554 on or before September 5, 1972.

Sausalito Trustees Seek Own Attorney

Trustees of the Sausalito School District have asked Director Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg to find a private attorney to represent the district in any legal action against the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The board acted Monday after the Marin County Counsel's office, which represents both the district and the supervisors, indicated it would go to court for the supervisors in any suit between both bodies.

The district is considering suing the supervisors for tax funds for the federally-financed, county-operated public housing in Marin City.

Lindberg said that, although the district educates approximately 160 students from public housing, it receives tax revenue on the property from the county.

The board will probably not decide whether to bring the suit until it hires an attorney and receives his advice, he added.

The Sausalito School District Board Also:

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to reemploy Shirley McGarth as school secretary and Pauline Lea as district secretary. Both had been dismissed earlier this year when their positions were cut, but were rehired when openings became available.

NURSE — Agreed to hire Marion Dreyfus as a part-time (two days a week) school nurse at $4,608 a year. The nurse's position, eliminated in budget reductions last year was reinstated part time since the county schools office will no longer provide nursing services for the district.

LEASE — Authorized leasing the district's old firehouse at Manzanita School to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for an auto hobby center.

REFURBISHMENT — Voted to spend approximately $3,000 for renovations to King and Bayside Schools, including several large doors between classrooms to facilitate team teaching and water and sewer hookups for new classroom sinks.

CENTRAL SCHOOL — Learned that the Tamalpais High School District is no longer interested in using Central School. The Sausalito City Council is considering the school for a new city hall.

MEETING — Agreed to set a public meeting between the superintendents of the Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts to discuss possible merger of the two districts. The meeting will probably be held the first week in September at a date and place to be announced. Also discussed will be ways the districts can work together more closely.

COMMITTEE — Learned from the superintendent that no one has yet volunteered to serve on a committee to formulate a master plan for the district and agreedto submit a list of names at its Sept. 5 meeting.

NEGOTIATIONS — Met in closed session for about an hour to instruct its negotiator in bargaining with employee organizations.

College, I-J Joint Class Scheduled

The Independent-Journal and Sonoma State College will cosponsor a course this October aimed at teaching secondary school teachers how to use newspapers as an educational tool.

The course will run from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. Oct. 6 and 13 and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 7 and 14 at Vallecito School in San Rafael.

Educators will instruct elementary and secondary teachers on using daily newspapers as a device to teach language arts, social studies, mathematics, consumer education and science.

The course will carry two semester units of credit.

More information is available from the Office of Instruction Services and Continuing Education, Sonoma State College, Rohnert Park.

Kansas UFO's May Be Balloons

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Those red, orange and green unidentified flying objects seen bobbing above the Central Kansas plains for the past few weeks may be nothing more than helium-filled weather balloons, an Army-Navy store owner says.

She should know, June Friedman said Tuesday, since she has sold about 100 of the six-foot balloons in the past three weeks to purchasers who told her they attach flashlights inside and outside to "scare my neighbors to death."

Police, however, said the UFOs are too fast to be balloons.

Theft Ring Pair Sent To Jail

Two Marin painters linked to a San Francisco burglary ring yesterday were sent to jail by Judge Peter Allen Smith in Marin Superior Court.

John Ackbarri, 33, of Novato, was placed on probation for three years and ordered to jail for nine months. Rochelle Louis Fisher, 21, of Santa Venetia, who did not have as long a criminal record as Ackbarri, was placed on probation for two years and sent to jail for 90 days.

They had been convicted in June by a jury of receiving stolen property. The trial was heard by Smith, a municipal court judge sitting in superior court.

They were convicted of receiving organs and speakers worth about $60,000 stolen from a San Francisco music company.

Testimony during the trial indicated Fisher helped deliver merchandise stolen by his brother, an ex-convict. Stolen articles were found at both men's homes when they were arrested last October.

'I Can't Be Beaten'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, who used his tough cop background to defeat a liberal Republican last November, predicted Tuesday "nobody could beat me if I decided to run for governor."

Brundage Era In Olympics Rapidly Approaches Its End

36-31 Vote To Oust Rhodesia Called 'Mistake' By Brundage

MUNICH (UPI)—A tired Avery Brundage sighed today and said: "I think it was a serious mistake." He looked every one of his 84 years.

It was after midnight and Brundage just had returned from a reception offered by Willie Daume, chairman of the German Organizing Committee. He tried to appear jovial as he bid his friends and colleagues "good night." It was a poor effort.

"I am very disappointed," he said. "There can be no doubt about that."

He paused, thought a while, and added: "The discussions were long and protracted. Perhaps some people became confused."

Rhodesia had been dear to his heart. He wanted to see it compete. He thought the IOC had worked out a satisfactory compromise with the African nations. He was wrong. A vote of 36-31 spelled Rhodesia's expulsion from the games.

Asked if he thought the movement could ever be the same again, he said: "I hope the decision does not set a precedent. That would be a very dismal outlook."

Brundage said he was disappointed with the way the decision was reached.

"There were other ways to accomplish the same end," he said. "It could have been achieved without the loss of face by anyone."

The Chicago millionaire, head bowed, said: "I hope the movement can survive, but the decision was an enormous setback. There can be no question of that."

Brundage did not see the decision as a personal defeat.

"It was a defeat for the principles which have guided the IOC for so many years," he said.

Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, a member of the executive Board, said: "Perhaps our decision was wrong, but it helped save the Games. A new president will soon take office. He will have to bring the movement into the times in which we live."

There were conflicting opinions about why the decision went against Rhodesia.

The consensus was Brundage erred on a matter of procedure and the Marquis of Exeter was over zealous in his support of Rhodesia.

One member present at the meeting said: "Exeter pressed too hard. Why, he hardly gave the Rhodesians a chance to talk. He must have answered about 25 questions.

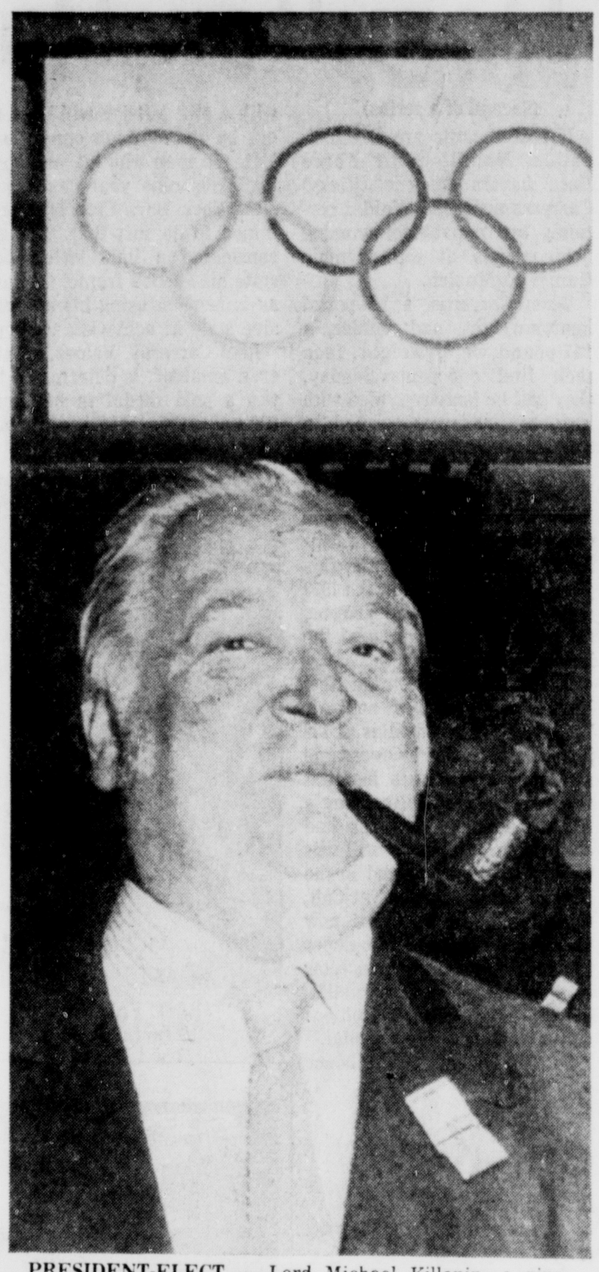
"In the end, the 12 uncommitted members probably voted the other way."

Brundage was charged with making an error in the way he framed his question.

"He asked us to vote on whether Rhodesia stayed or went," the anonymous member said." He should of first asked us if it had complied with the conditions laid down for its participation.

"A yes there and we would have taken care of the African argument. Then there may have been a different answer about whether Rhodesia could compete."

Perhaps the most telling comment of all came when a member said: "It was not the Brundage of old. His was the performance of a tired man."



PRESIDENT-ELECT — Lord Michael Killanin, a pipe-smoking Irishman, was elected President of the International Olympic Committee in a two-man race with French Count Jean de Beaumont, and will succeed Avery Brundage of the United States at the end of the current Olympics. (UPI Telephoto)

Lord Killanin Of Ireland Picked As Next President Of The IOC

MUNICH (UPI)—Bluff, jovial Lord Michael Killanin of Ireland, businessman and a one-time newspaper writer, today was elected President of the International Olympic Committee to succeed retiring Avery Brundage of the United States.

The "Brundage Era" in the Olympics, which stretched for 20 years, came to an end when Killanin won election from the I. O. C. Congress in a two-man race with Count Jean de Beaumont of France.

Killanin, 58, was elected for an eight-year term. The vote total was not announced. Willie Daume, chairman of the German Organizing Committee for these Olympic Games, defeated four other candidates to win the vacant Vice-Presidential spot left open by Killanin's accession.

Killanin, an extremely popular figure who has few enemies among the top officials of world amateur sports, takes over the reins of the Olympic movement at a time when the Olympics are being criticized from many quarters, and only a few hours after Brundage lost one of his last battles as the I. O. C. voted to oust Rhodesia from the current Games.

Killanin, who is expected to inaugurate many changes in the Olympics, reminded newsmen in his first remarks after election that Brundage's term of office lasts through the current Games.

"Please don't expect the President-elect to make any policy statements," he said, "because Mr. Brundage is in charge. The I. O. C. is in the hands of Avery Brundage until the end of the Games."

Brundage was accompanied by members of his nine-man Executive Board, which included both Killanin and de Beaumont, when he made the official announcement of Killanin's election to members of the news media.

Killanin thanked Brundage and then announced that the Chicago millionaire had been elected an honorary life president of the IOC.

Brundage then retured to the microphone and said: "The I.O.C. has also decided that the ballots cast for each candidate will never be disclosed."

While Brundage made the an-

Briles' One-Hitter Stops Giants, 1-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Too bad for the San Francisco Giants that they had to be around when Nelson Briles of Pittsburgh tossed "the best game I've ever pitched."

Briles stopped the Giants on one hit Tuesday night and the Bucs shoved across an unearned run in the first inning against Juan Marichal in a 1-0 squaker.

Briles, now 12-5, retired 20 straight batters before Ken Henderson, the National League's hottest hitter of the moment, lined a 0-1 pitch sharply down the first-base line. Willie Stargell jumped high for the smash but the ball came off his glove and trickled into right field for a single. It was the 18th consecutive game in which Henderson has gotten a base hit.

It was a redeeming effort anyway for the Giants' Juan Marichal, who struggled to a 5-13 record before last night and had back problems. His eight-hitter was by far Marichal's best performance since his season-opening shutout, but the way his luck has been this year, it was par for the course that he should throw it on a night that belonged to Briles.

Briles, the former Santa Clara hurler who aspires to be an actor, afterwards called it his all-time best game although he conceded that his fifthgame victory over Baltimore in the 1971 World Series was almost as good. He gave up two hits in that one.

"That's a helluva humbling feeling when you see a ball trickle off a glove and you know it's in for a hit. You want to say 'try it again. Let's have an instant reply,'" Briles mused.

Stargell said "I really feel I should have caught the ball. When I came down after jumping for it. I thought I had it. And when I saw it going to the outfield, it stunned me. I can't say if I jumped too high or not enough. It happened too quickly."

But Briles wasn't about to offer any complaint about Stargell's play. Stargell got three of the eight hits surrendered by Marichal and doubled home Roberto Clemente with the game's only tally with two down in the first after Clemente had gone to second on a Tito Fuentes throwing error.

The Giant infield settled down after that and pulled off repeated sparkling plays to stop Pittsburgh the rest of the way. There were three San Francisco twin killings and shortstop Chris Speier handled 12 chances without a miscue. But Marichal still saw his record sink to 5-14.

Mieuli Says Thurmond Pact Near

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Golden State Warriors owner Franklin Mieuli feels he is close enough to agreement on a new contract for Nate Thurmond that the veteran center "will report when practice starts Sept. 15 in San Jose."

Mieuli held a summit conference Tuesday with Thurmond's financial advisor, Bob Bartels. An optimistic Mieuli called the session "fruitful" and Bartels said only "we made some progress."

Thurmond is in the third or option year of a contract under which he received $150,000. He seeks a new contract for more money and for several more years, which apparently is okay with Mieuli.

Thurmond, moving into his ninth year with the Warriors, reportedly has been offered a million-dollar package by the American Basketball Association.

Riva Ridge Drug Furor Still Rages

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UPI)—A state official says the trainer of Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge, who may have been drugged before an Aug. 5 race here, should have guarded the animal while it was stabled in Monmouth Park quarters.

Keene Daingerfield, state racing stewart at Monmouth Park, said Tuesday the animal's safety was "the basic responsibility of the trainer and those directly working for him." Riva Ridge is trained by Lucian Laurin.

WORKOUT

Meanwhile, the horse went through a short workout in Saratoga Springs, N.Y. yesterday, and jockey Ron Turcotte pronounced the colt "in beautiful condition." Riva Ridge's next race probably will be at Atlantic City Sept. 16.

Riva Ridge was a favorite to capture this year's triple crown in the nation's three major races, won the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont but trailed the pack Aug. 5 by six lengths to finish fourth at the Monmouth Park Invitational.

INVESTIGATING

On Monday, it was revealed the FBI, state police, the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Association and the State Racing Commission were investigating the possibility the horse was drugged before the race.

The possibility of such a scandal escalated when the owner of the horse, Mrs. Helen Tweedy, said in Saratoga, N.Y., she had ordered blood and urine tests on Riva Ridge after the race. The tests were conducted by Dalare Associates of Collingswood and Philadelphia.

TRANQUILIZER

Daingerfield said the tests produced "traces of a tranquilizer drug of the nature of Promazine," but said the tests did not meet state regulations. He said results alone were not enough reason for disciplinary action.

A spokesman for the state Racing Commission said results of an investigation which began Aug. 16 would probably be released Thursday, but added, "It would be premature to comment on the results."

SECURITY

Daingerfield said 24-hour guards had been posted at the barn where Riva Ridge was quartered before the Aug. 5 race. He said the security at the track "is equal to any place in the country. But the track is not obligated to assign security guards," he said.

Officials said the horse was isolated from others at the stable according to temporary housing practices for animals usually running in one race. Because of the horse's brief stay at Monmouth Park, one state official involved in the investigation said "that could lead to various conclusions" about the incident, including the possibility the horse was drugged prior to his arrival at the track.

Daingerfield said Monday the drug could have been administered to the animal from eight to 48 hours before the test, which began the morning after the race and completed the following day.

W. C. HANSON

68-Year-Old Man To Run In Dipsea

W. C. Hanson and the late Vince Lombardi would never agree, but perhaps that's the reason nobody has ever compared the Dipsea race to professional football.

"Winning isn't everything — it's the only thing," said Lombardi when he was creating championship pro teams in the mid-1960s.

"I'm really not in it to win," said Hanson, at press time the oldest entrant in the race at age 68. "It's a wonderful sort of get-together and there's good fellowship in it."

This year's Dipsea, the 62nd annual grueling footrace along the trail from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach, will begin Sunday at 10 a.m. Some 1,400 entrants are expected.

It's the fourth straight Dipsea for Hanson, who was born in San Jose on Aug. 3, 1904. He didn't compete in the race until he was 65.

"I heard so much about it for 30 or 40 years that I finally decided to go and find out what it was all about. I've enjoyed it each year. But I'm just sort of participating and not racing."

Hanson is an avid backpacker and generally goes hiking on Mt. Tamalpais once a week with a friend who lives in the same apartment building in San Francisco, Peter Bogich, 70. He also runs in other races, such as the annual Bay-to-Breakers in the city. He belongs to the Olympic Club.

"Last year I ran the Dipsea race in about an hour and 20 minutes. My pacer is Mrs. Boitano — you know, Mike's mother." Mike Boitano won the race last year. At the age of 9, he is 59 years younger than Hanson. What generation gap?

When reached by phone yesterday, Hanson had just returned from wome work on the course. "I have a bad Achilles tendon, and it's limited my training, but I was able to go over there this morning and do four round trips on the stairs in hiking boots. That's 5,000 stairs."

"I never ran competitively before the Dipsea. I wrestled and participated in gymnastics when I was younger, but I was only average," the retired Standard Oil Co. employee said.

"My doctor in Mill Valley says I'm in very good condition. He says there's no reason why I can't continue backpacking and running in the Dipsea for quite a few years."

49ers Tab Taylor For 2 Positions

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—With cornerback Jim Johnson and free safety Mike Simpson both sidelined with shoulder separations, it means that Bruce Taylor will have to fill in at both positions for the San Francisco Forty Ninerss Sunday when the Denver Broncos come calling.

"Oh sure I'll play safety when Dick (Nolan) asks me," Taylor said Tuesday at training camp here. "I know I have to help out now. But I hope when the season starts, I'll be able to stay at corner. I like corner better; I like the challenge of taking a receiver man-to-man."

Taylor said that switching between the two jobs hurts his concentration.

With Johnson out, Taylor expects that life at cornerback will be easier since opposing quarterbacks undoubtedly will test rookies Windlan Hall and Ralph McGill on the other corner.

"I know what it's like," said Taylor, "because I got the same treatment as a rookie. Even now, I have to figure that the other team is going to throw my way 75 per cent of the time when Jimmy (Johnson) is in there."

The Niners hope that both Johnson and Simpson will be back in action by the time the season starts.

Suburban's Nystrom Shines in 13-1 Romp

Joe Nystrom pitched his fourth consecutive sterling game for Suburban Auto against Sohner Tree Service, and got two hits and four runs-batted-in in the process, as Suburban clobbered the Treemen, 13-1, in a San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Softball game.

In other games, Industrial Credit Co. squeezed by Loose, 10-9, Perry's outscored Connection, 9-7; Marin Wheels bombed Joe America II, 12-4, and Vendors blanked Booby's, 6-0.

Paradise Wins Drake Cage Title, 70-61

Paradise Pharmacy, behind the 22-point shooting of Dave Lee and Bob Heaney, clinched the Drake Summer Basketball League championship with a 70-61 victory over the Olympic Club of Marin.

Ralph Ogden also scored 22, but for the Olympic Club. The playoffs begin tonight in the Drake gym at 7:30.

Italian Club Opens Play In DiMaggio

Under new management and suffering from a slightly depleted lineup, the Italian Club of Marin County will take the field tonight at Wilson Park in Vallejo for the opening round of the 1972 California Joe DiMaggio League baseball tournament.

Coach Dan Abballo has gone on vacation, and Redwood High School's varsity coach Al Endriss has just returned from his, in time to lead the Larkspur team against Vallejo tonight at 8:30.

MISSING

Missing from the Italian Club roster will be John Billings, who by this time is lying on Waikiki Beach in Hawaii and possibly Mike Connor. Endriss said, "I just came in around 6 o'clock last night and they filled me in then. Connor is at a basketball camp, but he may return for the game. I won't know, though, if he's coming until he actually does.

What may hurt even more, however, is the probable presence on the mound tonight of Vallejo's Steve Copeland. A sixth-round draft choice for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1971, Copeland played that year for St. Vincent's High School in Vallejo, and saw action in the North-South state all-star game. Last season, he pitched on the varsity at the California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo (formerly Cal Poly).

UNSURE

Endirss was unsure about whom he would start in the opening round game. "I'd guess we'd go with (Gene) Frey or (Mark) Ruggles," he mused.

THREE

As Marin's representative to that tourney, the team was allowed to select three players from the rest of the local league, and chose Don Bianchini, Steve Sherry, and Billings of Toby's Truckers. According to Endriss, the Italian Club will not be able to replace Billings, or Connor should he not be able to participate in the game, with further selections.

"If they're both gone, our outfield would probably be (Matt) Gondak, (Gino) Pomilia, and (Jim) Caito," Endriss said.

Thompson Gets Legion Award

Jim Thompson, a .321 hitter for the Novato Post 540 American Legion baseball team, was named most valuable player at an awards dinner last night held at the Officers' Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Greg Mazeres (.333), who led the team in doubles with nine, won the batting championship. The Wayne Armostrong Memorial Award for sportsmanship went to Dave Ilchert, and the "Most Inspirational" nod was given to Dave Ilchert.

The Novato team won the 5th District Championship, but lost in the Area tourney for the legion teams.

A's Beat Tigers In 'Brawl-Game'

DETROIT (UPI)—For two teams which sometimes seem to act like they don't want to win their respective division titles, the Oakland A's and Detroit Tigers sure put up a scrap.

Oakland beat Detroit 6-3 Tuesday night in the baseball game, but the free-for-all they had in the seventh inning ended up pretty much a draw.

In fact, the worst injured among the combatants was a nonplayer, coach Irv Noren of Oakland. He suffered a multistitch cut over the left eye when blind-sided by an unidentified participant.

"It was exciting," Manager Dick Williams of Oakland said as his team retained its half-game lead over Chicago in the American League West.

"I was up in the press box watching it with you," cracked Manager Billy Martin of Detroit after his Tigers stumbled again but still managed to retain their half-game edge over Baltimore, which also lost, in the AL East.

Home runs by Joe Rudi, winning pitcher John Odom, and Angel Mangual doomed Mickey Lolich to his 10th defeat instead of the 20th victory he was after.

The brawl started with two out in the seventh and Odom, who had singled on second after reliever Bill Slayback had thrown a wild pitch high and inside to Bert Campaneris, who grounded out later.

The count on Mangual was one strike when Slayback threw a wild pitch behind him and then started to cover the plate, Mangual charged because he'd heard Martin order Slayback to pitch him tight and immediately both benches plus bullpens were empty.

"Slayback was under orders to pitch him tight," Martin admitted. "He'd been hitting pitches that were outside and over the plate so we wanted to pitch him inside this time.

"Any ball club that wants to fight with our ball club had better think twice," Martin said. "We don't go looking for fights, but we protect each other real good."

"They're fighting for a pennant; We're fighting for a pennant," Williams said. "The least thing can set something off. This is good," he said. "You don't like to see fights, but it's good to see them react."

Mike Epstein, Dave Duncan and Sal Bando of the A's were getting in more than their share of the scuffling along with Gates Brown, Ike Brown and Willie Horton of the Tigers.

When the pushing, shoving, punching and tackling was all over, the 30,490 partisans began raining beer and beer cups plus other debris on the Oakland players as they returned to the dugout and bullpen.

Slayback and Mangual were ejected along with Ike Brown, who was put for starting the incident all over after it had died down. The whole affair lasted about 15 minutes.

Odom gave up hits to the first two batters he faced-a single to Dick McAuliffe and Willie Horton's ninth home run but didn't allow another until Mickey Stanley doubled with two out in the seventh. Ed Brinkman's leadoff double in the eighth drove him out and brought in Darold Knowles.

Reds, Pirates May Print Series Tickets

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates, current leaders in the National League's west and east divisions respectively, have been given permission by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to begin printing World Series tickets.

Meanwhile 10 other clubs were authorized by the commissioner to begin printing tickets for the league championship series.

Chicago, Oakland, Baltimore, Detroit, Minnesota, Boston, New York and Cleveland were given the go-ahead for league championship series in the American League while Houston and Los Angeles were approved in the National League.

The league championship series will begin Saturday Oct. 7—three days after the close of the regular season. The American League series will open in the park of the western division winner while the National League will begin in the eastern division winner's park. Should Oakland win the AL west or Los Angeles in the NL west, Monday Oct. 9 will be designated as a travel date in the best of five series.

The World Series will begin on Saturday Oct. 14 with Monday Oct. 16 and Friday Oct. 20 set aside for travel. Except for Saturday and Sunday, all World Series games will be played at night.

Kuhn also directed all contending teams to submit their 25-man eligibility rosters to the baseball office no later than Sept. 1.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boating Rescue And 'Float Plan'

The biggest problem faced by the men who must search for a missing boat is that very often they don't know where to start.

Almost invariably people who start out on a cruise, a boat camp-out, or a canoe trip in wilderness areas, never leave a clear cut plan of their route or objective with any responsible person.

Those who do stand a much better chance of being found or rescued if they should get into serious difficulties.

Many attempts have been made by public-spirited bodies to institute a system much like the fliers use. When a pilot takes off on a cross country flight he usually files a flight plan with some competent authority. Then if he's forced down and overdue, finding him is reduced to the simple expedient of following his route.

A comparable idea for boats has been called a "float plan" and there are still some yacht clubs and marinas across the country which have printed forms or duplicated slips available at their headquarters so that when a member takes off on a cruise he can jot down his itinerary and his estimated time of arrival at various points.

If he doesn't show up at reasonable intervals at any of these points, a check back to the last point he touched can reduce the area of search in many cases by hundreds of square miles. This is particularly true of coastal cruising.

And anyone venturing into our northwoods on a canoe trip or even a day's boat camping trip should leave an outline of their proposed route with someone who can relay it to a search and rescue authority if they are overdue.

Nobody is as aware of how big this country is as the Coast Guard skippers who have searched miles of coastal tidelands or the pilots who have flown search missions over Northern Michigan looking for a pinpoint that is a wrecked boat or a lost canoe.

With the growth in cruising, overnight boat-camping and wilderness travel a few new problems have been introduced, as these questions show:

Q. Is there a universal distress signal?

A. The closest to this is the International distress signal, made by displaying a square and circle together in any shape or form. The shapes can be flags flying on a mast, a blanket and a ball of clothes laid out on rocks, designs tramped out in the sand, or snow, or anything similar. Pilots the world over are trained to look for such shapes.

Q. I've heard about a new distress signal. What is it?

A. You must mean the one advocated by the Coast Guard for small boaters. It's made by standing up on the highest point of your boat (or wherever you are) and slowly raising and lowering the arms at the sides. It's recognized instantly anywhere in the U.S. or Canada.

Q. Is distress signalling equipment required on an ocean cruising boat?

A. Not by law, but common sense dictates having it aboard. Many a Coast Guard search and rescue officer who has spent fruitless days hunting a lost boat could make out a good case for it being compulsory.

Q. On inland waters is a mirror a good signalling device?

Miss Walsh Loses In Pennsylvania

Fourth-seeded Sharon Walsh of San Rafael was defeated, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, yesterday in the second round of the $15,000 Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships.

Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo defeated defending titleholder Eliza Pande of Palo Alto, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Second-seeded Pat Walkden Pretorius, from South Africa, was beaten by Laurie Fleming, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 5-7, 6-1, 6-4, after the South African doubles faulted on match point.

In other matches, top-seeded Virginia Wade of England rallied to beat Jane Stratton of Salt Lake City, 6-2, 7-6; and third-seeded Kazuko Sawametsu of Japan defeated Janet Haas of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-2, 6-1.

In the men's play, the three contract pros, Tom Okker of Holland and Mark Cox and Roger Taylor of England, all were extended to three set matches in gaining the third round.

BOXERS VALDEZ, CARRERAS

Hamilton Duo Eyes Olympic Gold

(Second of a series)

If past records are any indication, Hamilton Air Force Base boxers Ricardo (Ricky) Carreras and Jesse Valdez certainly are capable of winning gold medals at the Olympic Games in Munich.

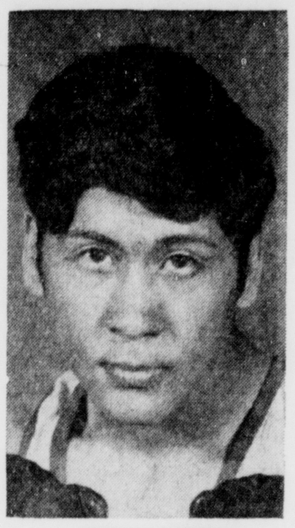
When Carreras, a 119-pound bantamweight, and Valdez, a 147-pound welterweight, face their first opponents Sunday, they will be heavily armed with numerous crowns earned in amateur boxing circles since 1964.

Carreras, a 22-year-old New York City native, has twice won the national Amateur Athletic Union 119-pound title, this year and last; and won the 1970 and 1972 inter-service crowns, the first at 125 pounds and the latter at 119.

In 1969, he also won the New York Golden Gloves and Air Training Command titles at 132 pounds. This year, he overcame mononucleosis to win his first Olympic berth. Until earning a trip to Munich, Carreras had claimed "my biggest thrill was winning a bronze medal in the Pan American Games" at Cali, Colombia, last year. But now the boxing sergeant, who hopes to become an electrician after completing his military stint, has an even loftier ambition: win an Olympic gold medal.

To do so, the gifted boxer with a stiff left jab will have to get by some rough opposition. Yet, the man who learned boxing skills nine years ago in a New York Boys Club is determined to do just that. Though considered a light hitter, despite his 5-foot-9 frame, Carreras is bent on using his aggressive style in achieving victory.

Like Carreras, Valdez, a veteran amateur, is determined to win a gold medal in his first Olympic try. While realizing this will be no easy task, Valdez believes he can do so. And experiences garnered in his long, successful amateur career may prove handy in an Olumpic ring.



JESSE VALDEZ

Valdez, an alternate at the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo as a 147-pounder, considers himself "stronger, more mature, and mentally alert" now. If his 220-bout career, featuring 205 victories, can be used as an argument in his favor, Valdez's personal assessment is indeed accurate.

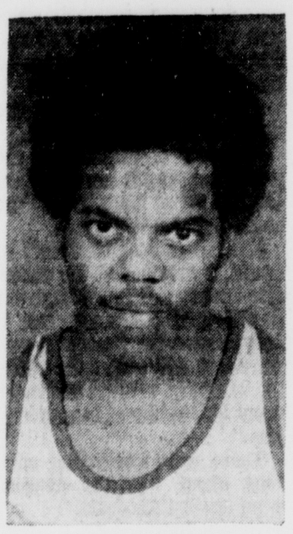
While his physical capabilities are significant, so are his title-laden experiences. For instances, he was the Houston Golden Gloves 156-pound ruler in 1962 and 1964 through 1967, Texas state amateur champion in 1964 through 1968, and Pan American bronze medal winner in 1967.

He was also the 1969 and 1971 winner in the 147-pound division during the Soviet Union-United States boxing duels, plus the 1970 and 1971 All-American, 147-pounds. Valdez was also acclaimed the outstanding fighter in the Consiel International de Sporte Militaire (military Olympics) and in the 1970 Pacific AAU.

In addition to winning an Olympics berth this year, he found time to earn the interservice 147-pound boxing crown.

With such an impressive boxing background, it comes as nor surprise that Valdez, like Carreras, must considered a gold medal contender.



RICKY CARRERAS

Sumo Wrestler Gets His Day

HONOLULU (UPI) —Today is "Takamiyama Day" in Hawaii in honor of home-town hero Jesse Kuhaulua, first non-Japanese ever to win a major Sumo event.

Kahaulua, known as Takamiyama to millions of Sumo fans in Japan, captured the Nagoya Grand Sumo Tournament last month.

He is due at Honolulu International Airport today and will have a round of celebrations in his honor. Thursday, he returns to his home island of Maui where other programs and festivities are planned.

Linemen Held Key To Raider Success

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The front four in an Oakland Raiders defense that has held opponents without a touchdown in the last nine quarters of National Football League exhibition play are a testimonial to the club's success with the draft, says personnel director Ron Wolfe.

Wolfe pointed out Tuesday that ends Horace Jones and Tony Cline and tackle Carlton Oats were Raider draft picks. Tackle Tom Keating, the other member of the front four, was drafted by Buffalo as a fifth choice in 1964 and acquired by trade.

Jones, drafted No. 12 in 1971 and a starter in his rookie year, was a player "everybody knew about," Wolfe said.

Meanwhile, from a Los Angeles hospital, Madden received an encouraging report on rookie running back Ray Jamieson who received spinal cord damage and a dislocated vertebrae in Saturday night's Rams game. Doctors said Jamieson was making progress and had slightly more movement in his arms and legs than on Monday.

COACH VS. MAGAZINE

Woody Hayes' Feud With Playboy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Woody Hayes isn't changing his hardline attitude toward Playboy magazine despite the publication's flattering prediction his Ohio State Buckeyes will be the nation's No. 1 football team this season.

The magazine would like to include Ohio State players on its All-American teams, but Woody frowns on his players taking the weekend excursion to Hugh Hefner's pad for parties and the required photo-taking session.

Playboy staffer Anson Mount, who selects the team, wants the veteran Ohio State coach to change his mind. But Woody says the subject doesn't even interest him.

"It's not worthwhile to talk about," Woody said Tuesday afternoon. "I've got more important things to do."

Asked if he was pleased to be rated No. 1, Woody said, "I don't care if we're first or 100th, it's winning games on the field that counts. I'm an old coach and my life style is not the same as that magazine," he said. But he begged off being drawn into a controversy. "I don't find this worthwhile to discuss."

Mount was anxious to discuss the situation.

"Woody Hayes is the only coach who's ever refused to let a player come to Chicago to be included in Playboy's All-America team," Mount said in a telephone interview from Chicago. "But that's Woody's problem, not Playboy's.

"It's not Playboy being cheated, but the would-be All-American that Woody doesn't allow in our magazine," he said. Mount says the Buckeyes have "all around tremendous team strength" this year and he didn't single out an Ohio Stater on his 1972 team. But he has tried in past years.

In 1970 Mount selected Ohio State defensive back Jack Tatum for Playboy's team, but Tatum was not allowed to attend the May weekend of parties and pictures. So rather than leave a vacancy in Playboy's team photo, Mount scratched Tatum and replaced him with Notre Dame's Clarence Ellis.

Mount defended the policy of excluding a first choice if he can't pose for pictures. "Why should we let Woody ruin the whole thing?" Mount asked. "If we didn't have one of our players here the picture would be ruined.

Mount claims Woody's policy hasn't prejudiced Playboy from initially selecting Ohio State players for its all-star team. Mount said Tatum was not the only Buckeye he has wanted and probably will not be the last.

"I think Ohio State will have the best team in the nation this year and if that happens it's very likely I'll pick another Ohio State player next year and try to get Woody to give in," Mount said.

But he added that if Woody holds out, so will he.

"If O.J. Simpson was playing for Ohio State and Woody wouldn't let him come to Chicago, then O.J. Simpson wouldn't be a Playboy All-American," said Mount, who did pick Simpson during his stellar days at the University of Southern California.

Mount said he receives letters of praise from both players and parents after the Chicago weekend and when the selections appear in print. He said the president of Purdue University flew his school's selections to Chicago in the university airplane.

Brave Avoids Doghouse With Game-Winning Blow

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As he was accepting congratulating for his game-winning homer in the Atlanta Braves' come-from-behind 11-7 victory over the hapless Philadelphia Phillies, pitcher Ron Reed walked over to Breazeale and gave him a firm handshake.

"Friends," Reed said, "we're more than even." Breazeale answered, "it was my fault." Fault? Didn't Breazeale win the game? He did. But first, he almost lost it.

"Maybe now this gets me even with Reed," Breazeale said. "He was pretty upset with me and he had a right to be." Breazeale had raised Reed's ire when he made a costly mental error that helped the Phils get two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

After Don Money homered to break a 4-4 tie, Larry Bowa hit a two out, one-hop grounder to Breazeale, who was playing first because Manager Eddie Mathews was resting Hank Aaron.

The inning seemed over but Breazeale, after he fielded the ball, started to trot nonchalantly to the bag to retire Bowa. He had forgotten that Bowa is a speedster and by the time Breazeale started to run, Bowa had the jump on him and beat him to the bag.

Reed, the Atlanta starter, was upset and was promptly tagged for two unearned runs and the score was 7-4 instead of 5-4.

That's just what he did. He came to the plate with two on and the Braves trailing 7-5 and he slammed Billy Wilson's first pitch for a three-run homer that made it 8-7. The Braves then added three more runs to complete a seven-run uprising.

In the other games, Cincinnati downed Montreal 5-3, New York edged Houston 4-2, Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 1-0, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 1-0 and Chicago edged San Diego 4-3.

Johnny Bench, playing rightfield while Bill Plummer handles the catching chores, drove in two runs with his 28th homer in the first inning as Cincinnati downed Montreal. Plummer also did his share with a solo homer in the ninth inning while Pete Rose chipped in with a solo homer in the sixth inning.

Jim Beauchamp, who hit a pair of homers on Monday night, drove in all four runs to hand Tom Seaver his 15th victory as New York topped Houston. Beauchamp snapped a 2-2 deadlock in the eighth inning with a two-run single off loser Dave Roberts. Beauchamp also had a run-scoring single and a solo homer.

Al Downing pitched a nine-hitter to give Los Angeles the victory over St. Louis. Willie Davis singled in the only run of the game in the first inning. Lou Brock of St. Louis stole his 50th base—tying Ty Cobb's major league mark of stealing 50 bases or more in eight different seasons.

Ferguson Jenkins, who always seems to get his 20 victories, got closer to the mark as he picked up his 18th with a five-hitter in Chicago's triumph over San Diego. The Cubs collected 12 hits while pinning the loss on Steve Arlin.

Giants Lose Ron Johnson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Giants thought they saw a silver lining Sunday but things were cloudy again by Tuesday.

The Giants snapped a nine-game pre-season losing streak Sunday by earning a 31-31 tie with the New York Jets, mostly on the heroics of Randy Johnson and Bob Tucker. Johnson threw two TD passes to Tucker, who caught eight passes for the day, and ran for another score.

But it was discovered Tuesday that Johnson suffered a separated shoulder on the final play of the game when he was tackled while attempting to pass by Jet tackle John Little. Johnson completed 24 of 40 passes against the Jets and assured himself of the starting job over veteran Norm Snead. But he'll be out for three weeks, and hopes to be ready for the season opener Sept. 17 at Detroit.

But how effective he'll be after the three-week layoff is a big question mark for the Giants.

In other news from the training camps, the Los Angeles Rams announced that defensive back Kermit Alexander has a broken right elbow and will be out of action four-to-six weeks. The Rams already have problems in their defensive backfield with Jim Nettles injured. Los Angeles acquired defensive back Al Clark from Detroit Tuesday as insurance.

Coach Tom Landry of Dallas said Jack Concannon, the newly acquired quarterback, may see limited action Saturday night when the Cowboys take on the Jets. Landry also disclosed that Calvin Hill is suffering from a bruised elbow and that Mike Montgomery, acquired from San Diego in the Duane Thomas trade, may see more action at running back.

Jets' coach Weeb Ewbank said that Steve Tannen earned a starting berth with his outstanding play at left cornerback in the tie with the Giants. Tannen made a key pass deflection to prevent a touchdown that would have put the Giants ahead. The Jets put linebacker Chuch Kyle on waivers but recalled injured waivers on return specialist Gary Hammond when a claim was made.

Steve Zabel, expected to replace Tim Rossovich at middle linebacker for Philadelphia, suffered a knee injury Tuesday. He will not require surgery but will undergo therapy at the Eagles' camp. Zabel's injury came only two days after Rossovich, traded to San Diego, suffered a similar injury and required surgery.

Pete Brown, Cincinnati's Director of Player Personnel, said he feels Greg Cook, who earned Rookie of the Year honors in the American Conference in 1969, may play again. Cook, a quarterback, has undergone three operations in the past two years to correct damage to his shoulder.

Starr, who retired this year after 15 years as a quarterback for the Packers, has been prominent as a Republican campaigner and, when he was honored with a special day in Green Bay two years ago, President Nixon was present to take part in the festivities.

Lynn Dickey, who is battling with Dan Pastorini to be the Houston Oilers' first string quarterback, says the man who moves the team best is the man who gets the job.

"Performance is the thing," said Dickey, who will start against the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night. "The man who moves the team is the man who plays. He should be the man who plays."

Dickey and Pastorini have split the quarterbacking chores in three pre-season games. Both are two-year veterans.

The calls that decide victory or defeat for the Denver Broncos this year may be coming from the sidelines.

Red Sox Creep Close To Lead

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

While Detroit and Oakland were busy brawling on the field, Boston inched a bit closer to the Tigers in the American League East yesterday by winning a slugfest from Kansas City, 10-7.

Carl Yastrzemski celebrated his 33rd birthday for the Red Sox by hitting his fourth homer of the season. He drove in two runs, as did teammates Carlton Fisk and John Kennedy, as fourth-place Boston moved to within 2½ games of the front-runnng Tigers.

Elsewhere in the league, Oakland beat Detroit, 6-3 California blanked Baltimore 2-0, Chicago edged New York 5-4, Cleveland slid past Minnesota 3-2 and Texas nipped Milwaukee 2-1.

Nolan Ryan's four-hitter prevented the slumping Orioles from gaining any ground as Bob Oliver drove in one Angel run and scored the other. Ryan struck out 11 in sending the Orioles to their sixth loss in eight games.

Dick Allen's 31st homer with Buddy Bradford aboard in the fifth lifted the White Sox to a come-from-behind triumph over the Yankees. Mike Andrews also drove in two runs as the Yankees blew a 4-0 lead.

Gaylord Perry chalked up his 19th victory for Cleveland with the help of defensive replacement Tommy McCraw. McCraw singled home Buddy Bell with the winning run after two were out in the ninth inning.

In the showdown of cellar-dwellers, Rich Hand and Casey Cox combined on a two-hitter as Texas squeezed by Milwaukee.

KILLANIN

nouncement, Killanin and de Beaumont stood on either side of the president.

Killanin, a rumpled, heavy-set man who is seldom seen without his pipe, has been an author, a film producer, a sports administrator, and is a banker. He and de Beaumont, 68, had been candidates for the Presidency since Brundage announced that he would not seek re-election.

Neither man was publicly associated with either side in the dispute over Rhodesia, a dispute in which many believe the I. O. C. suffered a loss of prestige.

Commenting on the fact that the I. O. C. reversed its position under pressure in barring Rhodesia from the Games Tuesday, Killanin said, "It is true that the politicians have taken over, but I remain an optimist and the I. O. C. will now have to do some serious thinking."

Asked whether he agreed with the decision to expel Rhodesia, he said: "I always have to support the majority."

Killanin, aware of the task ahead, said, "I would have been very happy not to have been elected. I fear there are some sleepless nights ahead."

Asked if he agreed with Brundage's view that the Winter Games should be "given a decent burial at Denver," Killanin said, "I have no thoughts either way. Not coming from a winter sports country, I don't get too excited. If the Games are run properly, it will be all right."

De Beaumont, the defeated candidate, said, "I am now the senior Vice-President and I am sure there will be very close cooperation between myself and Killanin."

Daume said, "I did not really want to stand as a Vice-President, but the pressure from my friends within the IOC was too great."

Referring to Killanin, he said, "I believe my colleagues have made a wise choice. I have personally cooperated with him very well during the organizing of the Games and I have nothing but admiration for him."

Daume, who made one of the strongest opening speeches at the opening of the session, said, "We face difficult times ahead. The I. O. C. must have a strong and effective administration to solve the problems ahead. I have confidence that Killanin will succeed."

Six Miles From Munich— The Horror Of Dachau

By MILTON RICHMAN

DACHAU (UPI)—Something made me come back here.

I'm not sure what. All I know is I made two trips.

This place isn't that big for repeat visits.

There was a time that once you came here, you never left. Even now, the majority of those who see Dachau once generally leave it at that.

I came back for a number of reasons, I suppose.

Maybe I couldn't believe what I had seen the first time.

Maybe the thought occurred to me had it not been for a matter of geography, an accident of birth perhaps you'd call it, I might've wound up here myself.

Or maybe this really is all tied in with the Olympics and the racial issue which threatened Saturday's Opening Ceremony in Munich, only six miles down the road from here.

Getting here was no trouble at all. It never has been down through the years.

I took that first right outside the Olympic Village, the one leading into Dachauer Strasse, kept going nine kilometers until I came up against a high barbed-wire fence and a sudden dryness in my mouth, and there I was, in a completely different world.

The abject misery of Dachau's quarter of a million victims hits you immediately when you walk into the barracks and see those pitifully small, insufferably crowded triple-tiered partitions which served as "beds" and general living quarters for those unfortunates imprisoned by Adolf Hitler.

He talks about the Blockfuhrers, those who continually harassed the prisoners.

" ... Frequently they come and rip the beds apart, flinging the bedding in all directions. It needs one of them only to be in a vile rage or a drunken temper. If he finds a bunk badly made, the culprit's number is taken and reported, his punishment being an hour's hanging at the stake by the wrists tied together behind the back ..."

There was no such thing as escape. You can see why, too.

First, there's this deep ditch eight feet wide which fronts an electrically charged barbed-wire fence.

Even if you're Superman and make the fence though, there's another one in front of that and there's barbed wire on top of it also.

No one makes that first fence though.

If a prisoner even so much as steps on the strip of grass in front of the ditch, never mind the fence, the SS guards simply shoot him dead without warning.

Dachau was the first of 22 concentration camps Hitler had built in Germany.

For the opening of the Olympics Saturday, there will be a gala ceremony in nearby Munich.

For the opening of Dachau, situated on the grounds of a one-time munitions' factory, there was merely a brief announcement in a Munich newspaper.

"On Wednesday, March 22, 1933," it said, "the first concentration camp will be opened in the vicinity of Dachau. It can accommodate 5,000 people. We have adopted this measure, undeterred by paltry scruples, in the conviction that our action will help to restore the calm to our country and is in the best interests of our people."

The announcement was signed by Munich's Commissioner of Police — Heinrich Himmler.

Dachau stands today pretty much as it did when Hitler used it as one of his chambers of horrors from 1933 until 1945.

There is a museum here ngw and to get to it you have to walk on the same hard crushed rock its victims did and you see the same 32 huge burial pits they did except when they saw them they were open and not covered over by asphalt as they are now.

It looks like one of those pennant-clinching scenes, with everyone laughing, and was taken on April 29, 1945 when the Americans liberated the camp.

Outside the museum, you see the grisly ovens where the bodies were burned. More than 30,000 died in Dachau.

"It is a shame so many people still think the people of Dachau are bad," one localite said to me. "We are Bavarian people, friendly people, who have worked hard all our lives. We were never told what really went on in the concentration camp, only that bad people were put in there, people who drank and didn't want to work. When we'd see the prisoners marching to work we would put bread and potatoes on the window-sill for them. Most of the people here in Dachau don't want this place (the concentration camp memorial site) because they feel many of those coming to Munich for the Olympics also will come here to see this and not understand we had nothing to do with it."

Some of the Olympic competitors already have made the six-mile trip from Munich to this small paper-mill town.

They go through the camp, never saying much, but most look at a memorial stone near the exit which, in four different languages, says "Never Again."

For most Olympic visitors, one trip generally does it.

But something made me come back here.

Hull Files Antitrust Countersuit Against Black Hawks And NHL

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CHICAGO — Hockey star Bobby Hull today filed an antitrust countersuit in federal court against the Chicago Black Hawks, seeking to affirm his right to jump to the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

Hull's action named the National Hockey League, its commissioner-president Clarence Campbell and every league team as defendants.

The suit asked no specific monetary damages. Hull's attorney, Jerome Torsmen, said a declaration in favor of Hull would be more important to Hull than money.

The suit was an answer to a suit filed against Hull last week by the Black Hawks, who seek an injunction to prevent their star from joining the Jets.

Baseball

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday moved Billy Conigliaro to the voluntary retirement list after receiving a letter from the former Boston Red Sox player saying he does not want to return to pro ball.

Conigliaro, 25, who was obtained in the mammoth 10-player Milwaukee-Boston trade last year, began this season as a starter in the Brewer outfield but on June 25 walked out on the team and announced his retirement.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — San Juan, led by the six-hit pitching of Elgardo Salgado, defeated Windsor, Ontario, 3-1 and Hammond, Ind., nipped Vienna, Va., 2-1, Tuesday in the opening round of the 26th Little League World Series.

Two games were scheduled today. Taipei, Taiwan, met New York City, and Pearl City, Hawaii, clashed with Madrid, Spain.

Boxing

MEXICO CITY — The World Boxing Council (WBC) Tuesday authorized an elimination fight for the World Middleweight title between Emile Griffith of New York and Jean-Claude Boutier of France.

The fight will be held shortly in Paris under the auspices of French promoter Charles Michaelis and the winner will earn the right to face the current World Middleweight champion, Carlos Monson of Argentina.

Tennis

NEW YORK — Reigning champions Stan Smith and Billie Jean King will assume familiar roles when the U.S. Open Tennis championship at Forest Hills, N.Y. begins play Aug. 30-Sept. 10.

Smith, victor in last year's men's field that was depleted by defections of Lamar Hunt's contract pros and Mrs. King, recent Wimbledon queen, have been named top seeds in the upcoming tourney.

For the first time this year, the Forest Hills tournament will bring together amateurs, independent professionals and Hunt's contract pros who have not mixed in any tourney since the Australian Open in January.

Trapshooting

VANDALIA, Ohio — Veldon Smith, a 27-year-old constrcution worker from Brownsburg, Ind., made trapshoot history at the 73rd annual Grand American Tournament Tuesday as he broke 100 straight targets in doubles.

Smith, a three-year shooter, posted the first doubles score here in Class C competition, for shooters averaging only from 82 to 86 per cent.

The all-new Mark II heads Toyota's 17-model lineup for 1973. Powered by a six-cylinder engine, the Mark II is offered in three models: A two-door hardtop (above), a four-door sedan and a four-door station wagon. The Mark II offers such no-cost extras as tinted glass, nylon pile carpeting, rear window defroster, front disc brakes and double-white-stripe tires. The new cars will go on sale Friday. Marin dealers are Dexter Toyota in San Rafael and Novato Toyota in Novato.

TRAVEL STOCKS DOWN

Loss Triggered By Holiday Inn

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The travel stocks haven't been having much of a holiday in the stock market as of late.

Triggered by a 10-point loss to 40 in the shares of Holiday Inn the last week of July, most of the lodging stocks have fallen faster than a bellboy's hand opens for a tip.

Oddly, Holiday Inn's troubles were not related to the lodging part of its business. A strike at its TCO Bus Company (Trailways) was the main culprit, dragging second-quarter profits for the parent corporation of a few pennies below last year's comparable period.

But that was enough to stun Wall Street — as if no one in investment circles were aware that a bus strike had even been under way. And, although similar strikes were not hampering other lodging companies, many were hammered to new yearly lows.

For example, Hilton Hotels Corporation, which was as high as 60 early in 1972, dropped 4 ¾ the final week of July to 33 ¾, a new low for the year and as low as it has been since the bear-market days of mid-1970. TravelLodge and Royal Inns also declined to new lows, and Sonesta International hovered in the 6 range, a point or so above its 1971 and '72 bottom and far below its peak of 21 set in 1969.

Howard Johnson, trading as high as 54, near its 1972 high of 59, and Hyatt, which edged within 1 ⅛ of its yearly peak of 34, bucked the trend. Ramada Inns and Marriott held stable in a range midway between their 1972 extremes.

What's causing the general upset?

Says an analyst with one of the nation's multibillion-dollar mutual fund complexes: "We sold our Holiday Inns a few quarters back. But in all honesty it has nothing to do with TCO's bus strike. The strike had not even occurred, although we knew negotiations were coming up. We just felt that if we wanted to hold a position in this industry, there were one or two attractive companies — other companies."

For example? "Marriott," says the analyst, "has been able to attain 80 percent occupancy, staying close to that even in bad times. Holiday Inns trails that by 10 to 30 percent, depending on the times. For the first half, Holiday Inns occupancy has been 69 percent, 2 percent above a year ago. Holiday Inns has had to generate all its business from one concept, roadside traffic. Marriott has built up a resort and specialty service image in addition to roadside."

Aside from that, the analyst continues, "Marriott has always done very well with its food operations. People who stay at Marriott tend to eat there. But Holiday Inns has had continuing problems with its food operation." F. W. Adams, Holiday Inns treasurer, agrees: "Food is about a break-even propositon with us."

Jim Berdell, analyst with Mitchum, Jones & Templeton in San Francisco, stresses the size of Holiday Inns as a negative. "It has 200,000 rooms — a very large base from which to grow at the rate it had in the past. Do you realize that the next largest is Ramada with 40,000 rooms?" However, Adams expects large overseas growth in Europe and the Far East, and possibly Russia, to be a future source of profit growth. Nonetheless, Berdell is down on Holiday Inns, except for the possibility of a short-term technical rebound back toward 50, some of which has already taken place the first week of August.

Berdell also feels Hilton has the potential to snap back some. But he doesn't view it as a stock with potential to grow over the long haul.

Market Mixed At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, failing to find direction, closed mixed to slightly lower today in moderately active trading.

Prices were lower in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The news background was skimpy and of little encouragement to investors. Speculation is spreading throughout Wall Street that major banks are about to raise their prime rates a quarter point to 5½ per cent.

Also, the dollar came under renewed pressure on foreign markets, a discouragement to Wall Street. The stock market also saw some profit taking, which was viewed as normal in light of recent gains.

General Motors and Ford moved higher much of the day. Both reported substantially higher mid-August automobile sales.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Superscope Outlook Clouded; Rheingold Recovering Slowly

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 500 shares of Superscope (ASE) at $24 per share. Do you think it will ever recover to that level? — V.S.

A. The outlook for Superscope, the sole U.S. distributor of Sony consumer-type tape recorders and magnetic tape, is clouded. Sony has refused to renew their contract, which expires Dec. 1, 1974, and a suit has been filed by Superscope to prevent the contract loss. In 1971, Sony products accounted for 80 per cent of Superscope sales. The remainder was derived from its Marantz subisidary's line of stereo products. Late in 1971, 50 per cent control of Standard Radio was acquired. This Japanese company will manufacture a line of home entertainment products under the Superscope label. Standard will also increase production of a medium/lower priced line for Marantz.

In 1971, Superscope sales were up 17 per cent with most of the gain from the Marantz line. Through the first half of the current year, sales gained at a faster rate of 25 per cent year to year and earnings kept pace. If Superscope is successful in boosting contributions from this subsidiary as well as from its newly introduced Superscope line, loss of the Sony distribution rights will be buffered.

Q. Some time ago I purchased 100 share of Rheingold (NYSE at 34½. Should I hold for recovery? — F.F.

A. The large first quarter loss came as a surprise to investors, consequently shares dropped sharply. Although a profit was reported in the second quarter, on a year-to-year basis earnings were off 31 per cent. Sales, on the other pand, were higher each quarter and up 3.7 per cent for the six months. National Beverages, acquired in January, was the primary factor in the higher sales figure. However, rising brewing costs and reduced beer sales have had an adverse effect on margins.

Future market action of these shares will be largely determined by whether Rheingold can increase its share of the beer market and the rate of growth achieved by the newly acquired soft drink bottler.

Redwood Bancorp Takes Over San Rafael Bank

Redwood Bancorp became the sole owner of the Redwood Bank in San Rafael under a reorganization that went into effect this month. The reorganization was approved last March by the bank's shareholders.

Byron W. Leydecker, bank president, announced that Redwood Bank shareholders automatically became shareholders of Redwood Bancorp. They own the same number of shares in the bank holding company as they previously owned in the bank.

"It is not necessary for the holding company to issue new stock certificates, since outstanding bank stock certificates now represent Redwood Bancorp stock," said Leydecker. "Therefore, there is no need to have your present stock certificates reissued."

At present, Redwood Bancorp has no subsidiaries other than Redwood Bank, but a number of other opportunities are being evaluated, said Leydecker. "This now completed reorganized corporate structure in management's opinion provides an opportunity for greater growth, diversification and profitability, than formerly existed."

We Inch Toward The Centimeter

It didn't make a very big splash in the news columns when the Senate voted to put the United States on the metric system — not so big, for instance as the antics of the Republican convention. But its long-range importance is great.

If the House of Representatives goes along with the bill the Senate approved last Friday, an 11-member board will prepare within 18 months a plan for converting our inches, miles, acres, quarts, gallons, bushels, etc., etc., to the system in use in all the rest of the industrial nations in the world. The goal is to put U.S. weights and measures on the metric system within 10 years.

It won't be simple. But it's been done elsewhere, and there's no reason it can't be done here. And the benefits are considerable.

SUPPOSE, for instance, you need a part for a foreign-made piece of machinery. It should be possible to duplicate the part at an American machine-tool shop.

But everything about that part, from its overall dimensions to the thread of its screws or bolts, will be in centimeters and millimeters. And everything in the American machine-tool shop will be in inches and fractions of inches. So about all you can do —unless you want to pay a young fortune to duplicate a simple part —is send abroad for it, and wait

WE INHERITED our complicated system of weights and measures from the English. Soon after independence, we dropped their pounds, shillings and pence for a metric system currency: dollars and cents.

The English, on the other hand, clung to 12 pence to a shilling and 20 shillings to the pound until just last year. But in the meantime they adoped metric measurements for every- thing except land. And they were among the last nations to do so.

We, however, are only now inching toward the centimeter.

WHILE CONVERTING the quart to cubic centimeters and the mile to kilometers may give us some headaches in the next few years, think what a boon the new system will be to school children!

No longer will they need tables showing that there are 16 drams in an ounce, 43,560 square feet in an acre, and 1,728 cubic inches in a cubic foot in order to solve those story problems. Everything will be in tens, hundreds, and thousands.

It may be so simple the schools won't even need the "new math."

SACRAMENTO SCENE

State Embarked On Costly, Perhaps Tragic Experiment

By RUS WALTON

Public education in California is about to embark upon a tragic and costly mistake which could damage the lives of millions of children for years to come.

State education leaders and lobbyists are pushing for an extensive and expensive program of early schooling. The goal is to have every child enrolled in school by age four and as early as three years and nine months.

Early schooling has become State Supt. Wilson Riles' holy grail. He sees it as "just the beginning" of his plan for total educational reform.

Governor Reagan has expressed support of the pre-school or early education concept. All but one of the 10-member State Board of Education voted approval of the Riles plan. And, the proposal has already slipped through key legislative committees and the State Senate.

With such formidable support, early schooling is close to becoming the law of the state.

A FULL-BLOWN drive for early schooling started in 1971 with a special task force appointed by Superintendent Riles. That group of educational advisors submitted its finding on Nov. 26, 1971.

The thrust of the report is that schooling is desirable for all 4-year-olds. A five-year plan for achieving that goal was set forth. The goal is to be accomplished by providing both academic and personal development for each child.

The legislative push for early schooling was embodied in three Riles-authored bills introduced during the 1972 session. Funds to implement these bills were included in the compromise tax reform program worked out by Gov. Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Last-minute opposition forced tax reformers to modify the early schooling funding so that the $25 million was redirected to programs in the existing kindergarten through third grade structure. However, legislator-opponents to early schooling see this as simply a strategic maneuver by Riles and the education lobby. There is little doubt that early education will continue to be their chief definite aim in coming sessions of the legislature.

EARLY SCHOOLING would be costly. It is estimated that by the fifth year annual expenses would be $359 million. However, researchers point out that total is based on a $500-$600 cost per child. New York state, which is wrestling with a similar program, estimates the per-child costs between $1,500 and $1,800 — three times the Riles estimate.

Finances are not the major point of concern.

Many have strong philosophical objections to the plan. They feel the state gets its mitts, and its molds, on the children soon enough.

Philosophical objections are well-founded. But, there are other serious anxieties.

It is what early schooling can do to the child — physiologically and psychologically — which should concern every parent; should, in fact, concern every educator who is motivated by the best interests of the child rather than the special interests of the educational empire.

THE RILES PLAN flies in the face of a great body of professional and definitive research which demonstrates that early schooling can be severely damaging — devastating — to the child.

As one group of researchers recently reported: "It would be hard to find an area of educational research more definitive than that on child development and school entry age. It is difficult to see how planners can review this evidence and conclude that four or five-year-olds should be in school, much less three-year-olds."

A detailed and documented critique of the Riles early school plan was published in the June, 1972, issue of Phi Delta Kappa, journal of the national honorary educational fraternity. The principal author is Dr. Raymond S. Moore, former teacher, principal and superintendent in California schools. Dr. Moore is now chief executive of the Hewitt Research Center and professor of education at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich.

Writes Dr. Moore: "In short, it appears that California's planners, and others with similar plans, have either overlooked, ignored, or seriously misinterpreted responsible research."

Or, one might add, allowed personal fantasies to override facts.

Bobby Fischer's 'Win': Bad Name For America

So Bobby Fischer has won the coveted world championship chess title from the Russian Boris Spassky.

It was good that it wasn't on TV for long, bad enough to read about it without having to watch it.

Too damned bad he won, as all he really won was a bad name for the U.S.A. right at a time when we need just the opposite.

God forbid that we ever have another American victor in an international competition of his calibre!

He is a disgrace to us all.

Various Methods To Prevent Decay

Reader Betty Franklin has an unusual knowledge of the affairs of the dental profession, but from personal knowledge and from consultation with authoritative sources in the California Dental Association, I would like to correct the errors in her Aug. 14 letter.

Plastic fissure sealants are available to dentists as one of many approaches to preventive treatment. They are used for specific purposes for specific patients. This is not and never will be a widespread public health measure in any way comparable to water fluoridation.

"Operation Brush-In" conducted last year in the San Jose area looks like a promising method of teaching school children self-application of topical fluoride. We hope when this study is completed it will be found effective. However, it cannot accomplish what fluoridation can. This approach is offered as a supplement to the proven effectiveness of water fluoridation, not as a substitute for it.

California Senate Bill 1396, the Way Bill, will require county public health departments, with the help of dentists, to implement preventive topical fluoride methods in schools. Again this is proposed as a supplemental, not substitute measure. . .

Retort To Letter On Ballot Measure

An appalling lack of knowledge was evident in the letter by Eris Dreykus (Aug. 7) in regard to the farm worker initiative which will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot in California.

The author made a common mistake. He took the propaganda issued by the United Farmworkers Union at face value. Every point he made can be easily refuted, but those points are not pertinent to the issue — the agricultural labor relations act, or initiative.

This act simply brings order out of the chaos that has prevailed in farm labor. It is a reasoned and legally sound measure setting up procedures for farm workers to determine by secret ballot elections — the way industrial workers have done for decades — what union, if any, they want to represent them.

The act establishes a five-man appointive board to administer the procedure. Just as the National Labor Relations Act does, this state measure outlaws the secondary boycott. It protects both workers and growers by defining certain unfair labor practices that both must avoid.

The vast majority of today's farm labor force in California is comprised of stable, local residents. Only about 13 per cent are transients. . .

Those, such as Mr. Dreykus, who buy the "Grapes of Wrath" concept of the farm workerin California are living in the past, about 40 years behind the times.Today's agricultural workers deserve the opportunity to speak for themselves as the first class citizens they are. They deserve the protections afforded by the agricultural labor relations act. . .

Does Larkspur Have Too Many Police?

I regard raising the taxes in Larkspur to hire two additional policemen as an unnecessary expenditure. The present number of men on the force apparently have nothing to do but harrass local citizens.

Every night I drive two of my sons to Redwood High School at 6 to practice Pop Warner football. I pick them up at 8 p.m. Last Thursday night, I and all the other parents, came to pick up the boys. Many of us stopped in the parking lot beside the curb, which is painted red all the way around. We all remained in the driver's seat, most with the motors running. No one was blocking traffic or creating a hazardous situation in any way, and were prepared to move if necessary. I was there less than five minutes.

Would you believe two Larkspur policemen came into that parking lot telling us to move on or get into a proper parking space? In principle, they were correct, but in fact I judge this to be sheer harrassment of innocent hard working housewives. Why they see fit to hassle honest, concerned, tax paying local citizens is beyond me. But their reputation of running a speed trap is well known. My impression is, they have nothing else to do. So why hire two more policemen?

In these days of lessening respect for the law, I think the L.P.D. would benefit from better public relations, which could be easily achieved by using common sense and consideration. Police Chief McIntosh of Corte Madera has outlined our city's police priorities. Traffic enforcement, such as this nonsense, is number five out of six listed.

Thank God and Chief McIntosh, we live in the City of Corte Madera and not in the Police State of Larkspur.

Nixon's Best Re-election Bet: Stressing 'Generation Of Peace'

MIAMI BEACH — As this exuberant Republican convention comes to its climax, President Nixon has not yet decided what will most help him get re-elected

If Senator McGovern centers his campaign on Richard Nixon the man, then the President may well decide that the Republicans should reply in kind by making George McGovern the man the main Republican target.

I doubt it will work out that way.

AS THE NIXON-McGOVERN confrontation begins to take shape, it seems to me:

That the deep divergence on issues will be more influential, more decisive, than the difference in personality between the two candidates.

That the issue which will in the end most benefit Nixon in the campaign will be his venturesome and productive initiatives in foreign policy.

Why? Because what the President has been doing in foreign policy bears directly on the prospects of a more stable peace — for the United States and for the world.

ON THE BASIS of past voting patterns, the American voters are not going to elect anybody just because he conducts a good summit conference, knows how to spell Metternich and can say "dear friends" in Chinese.

But effectively and visibly going after the goal of "a generation of peace" can win an election and the President is becoming increasingly convinced that the best thing he has going for him in this campaign is the peace issue.

He believes that the American people are coming to see that he has been carefully and constructively laying the building blocks of a more stable world — and that they would like more of the same during his next term.

They are not puny; they border on the momentous — like these:

1—The nuclear arms agreement signed by the United States and the Soviet Union. It begins to put a brake on the costs and perils of the nuclear weapons race. It is a watershed event, valuable in itself It is invaluable as a sign of things to come. Few believed it possible— it has been possible.

2—Winding down the U.S. combat role in Vietnam and persuading Moscow and Peking to help bring a negotiated peace.

3—Averting war in the Middle East— an achievement now aided by the withdrawal of large Russian forces from Egypt.

4—Bringing about a summit meeting with the Soviets which is already reducing the causes of the cold war and leading to wide-ranging joint enterprises between the two governments in outer space, pollution control, medical research, trade and expanded cultural exchange.

5—The launching of a new policy toward the People's Republic of China with the goal of ending tension between Washington and Peking and bringing China out of its long self-imposed isolation.

6—Promoting a four-power agreement to insure orderly access to West Berlin.

7—Preparing for a NATO-Warsaw Pact security conference designed to cut back the military forces of both sides in Europe.

IF THE ECONOMY were going to pieces, if inflation were rising and employment were dropping — this issue would dominate all others. But with inflation dropping and employment rising, the issue of "a generation of peace" may well turn out to be the most compelling of all.

Republicans Loath To Apply 'One-Man, One-Vote' Principle

MIAMI BEACH — Many Americans got the mistaken impression 10 years ago that the principle of equal representation in politics had been settled once and for all, and that not only governmental bodies but at least the national workings of the major parties would promptly reflect that principle.

The Republicans have not heard about it yet — or, more exactly? they have indeed heard about it, and seen it in operation here during the Democratic gathering a month ago, and they don't like what they saw. The more conservative among them, who are in the majority, are deathly afraid that the same thing could happen to them.

IN 1962, the court headed by Mr. Eisenhower's appointee, Earl Warren, ruled in Baker vs. Carr that the lower house of the Tennessee Legislature was wrongly apportioned to the advantage of the smaller rural counties. By a 6-2 decision, the Supreme Court decided that malapportionment violated the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment — which of course it did.

That it took until 1962 to get such a ruling, followed up by a series of other one-man, one-vote decisions in the next two years, was no great advertisement for the dispatch with which our system brings practice into line with the theory. The idea of proportional representation had been formalized 175 years earlier, when the constitutional convention created a bicameral Congress with a proportional House to balance the Senate.

All those years in between, many of the states had relied on their own law as justification for the knowing robbery of the cities and populous suburbs in state legislative politics. But Archibald Cox, the solicitor general, argued successfully that in extending the protection of the14th Amendment to all Americans, the federal courts were not limited to remedies in state law.

COMMON SENSE says that if the principle applies to state legislatures each dealing only with a subdivision of the nation, it should apply to the national bodies that govern all 50 states. The court backed up common sense in requiring congressional reapportionment. Yet only this year, when the Democrats came here last month, was it finally applied to party politics and thus spread beyond the legislative over into the dominant government branch, the executive.

You may think, and unquestionably most of the Republicans here do, that what the Democrats did here serves best as a negative guide, a handbook of exactly how not to proceed. If bringing even lower-case democracy into the Grand Old Party risks nominating anybody like George McGovern, this convention can do without it, thank you. In fact, if it merely means there is a lesser chance of nominating Mr. Agnew for President four years from now, that is a chance many conservative, rural, small-state Republicans do not want to take.

The way in which they have moved to insure the vice president's 1976 chances and their own party control, however, crosses the border from conservatism into reaction.

ALL THE STIRRING documentary films and all the shows of unanimity forthcoming cannot obscure that fact: The Republican National Committee has recommended and the convention is expected to approve not an advance into the future, but a turning back. Rather than bringing the party closer to fair representation for all by giving the bigger states proportional representation, they have instead increased the strength of the smaller, more conservative states even beyond their earlier unfair share.

Enough big-state Republicans see this for what it is to keep fighting against it. As Gov. Francis Sargent of Massachusetts told the committee, its action "may have set in motion forces that guarantee that 10 years from now the Republican Party will no longer exist . . . The goal must be to make the party a mirror of this nation."

Well, the governor is a politician and his political future may depend heavily on whether the GOP modernizes or not. He may overstate the case a little. Instead of determining whether the party exists a decade from now, what happens on apportionment at this convention may merely determine whether it enlarges on its current opportunity to become a broad-based competitor with the Democrats or reverts to the small-town, country-club exclusivity that made it so ineffectual during most of the past half-century.

Meanwhile, Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew have been apprised of the situation, and assured the convention that they are strictly neutral.

Bright Annuals Will Enhance Juniper-Planted Hillside

It was pleasant to learn that banks of annual flowers will be planted on the barren hillside sloping down to the bus depot in San Anselmo.

The project — by Marin Senior Coordinating Council, Family Mix, and youngsters from the Volunteer Bureau — will entirely alter the aspect of the area. They will build a retaining wall, and plant shrubs.

Between the evergreens it is intended to keep a succession of annuals.

Flowers appear to be becoming obsolete in any form of public landscaping in Marin County. Everything gets landscaped up to the hilt, of course, but it's all low-maintenance vegetation. Junipers in all shapes and sizes.

What no one seems to realize is that junipers, hardy beyond belief, keep on growing.

No one considers the fact that our descendants will be forced to chop their way through juniper jungles with machetes.

A COMPLICATED bureaucratic technicality looks like delaying the opening of the College of Marin's child care center to October. Funding for the project is under AB 734, and this law requires that the college, and the not the county schools office, become the legal operator of the center.

Both the college district and the county board of education will have to approve contracts on Sept. 5 and 6 before actual work on the center can begin.

It's not good news for the needy students who intend to leave their children in the center while they take classes. The first few weeks of school are bad enough, without worrying about baby-sitting.

But Jared B. Sharon, director of community and college development, tells me the delay will probably increase the reservoir of student volunteer laborers to work on converting the center. They'll just have to work faster.

MORE VETERANS than ever are expected to enroll in College of Marin classes this fall, most of them Vietnam returnees. Last year more than 1,200 veterans took credit classes there, using their GI Bill entitlements.

A major help to them is an emergency loan fund set by the Associated Students. The vets can dip into this while waiting for their first government checks.

If they're enrolled full-time they receive $175 a month under the GI Bill, but there's often a time gap after they start classes until the money arrives. The fund made $2,500 available last year.

APPROVING CONDITIONS under which Paul Vincilione can fill the flatlands alongside Magnolia Avenue, the Larkspur City Council last week laid out guidelines on cubic yardage, damage bonds, truck ingress and egress, even down to the street being broom swept.

But what they really meant was voiced in an aside by Councilman Alfred Malvino.

"Just make sure it doesn't come from the top of the hill," he muttered.

The rest of the council, involved in litigation over the Little King Mountain grading, muttered its assent.

Announcement Of Concessions, Programs, Exhibits For Fair

The program, exhibitors and concessionaires for the 1972 Marin County Fair, only eight days away, have been announced by the fair management.

The fair, marking its second year in San Rafael, will begin its five-day run Aug. 31, with a potpourri of exhibits, entertainment, commercial displays and refreshments.

The fair, to be held at the 80-acre fairgrounds at the Civic Center, will run from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Marcelle McCoy, fair manager, said the fair exhibits and entertainment offer something of interest to all visitors — from the youngest to oldest of residents.

There will be professional florticulture exhibits of gardens and plant collections and displays by amateurs of plant specimens, bonsai, begonias, African violets, geraniums and pelargoniums.

In the horticulture section, there will be exhibits of fruit and pod vegetables, leafy and stem vegetables, bulb and tuber vegetables, vine crops, fruits and nuts.

The art display will feature a juried art show of paintings, sculpture and graphics, as well as competition in photography and color slides.

For the youngsters there will be a kiddie train, children's circus, carnival, boat rides and puppet show. There will also be free outdoor entertainment with a schedule of magic acts and music — including rock and roll of the 1950s.

The art, photography, color slides and tropical gardens will be shown in the exhibition hall of the Veterans Memorial Building, while in the auditorium theater old-time movies will be featured.

In the evening, the Marin Civic Ballet will perform in the theater on Aug. 31, hypnotist Arthur Ellen on Sept. 1 and 2, and motion picture actor Bob Cummings will act as master of ceremonies Sept. 3 during presentation of awards to film competition winners.

Also part of the fair will be many local nonprofit organizations operating booths providing a variety of food and drink. Several dozen local business firms will display a variety of merchandise.

Volunteers with booths offering information on their organizations are: Marin chapters of American Cancer Society, March of Dimes, Marin Association for Mental Health, Marin County Heart Association, Marin County Republican Central Committee, Planned Parenthood, Voice for the Unborn.

Organizations serving as concessionaires are: Behavior Therapy Institute with corn on the cob, watermelon slices, orange drink; B'nai B'rith Women, Tamar Chapter, with sandwiches, potato salad, apple strudel, iced tea, coffee; Boy Scout Troop 61, Santa Venetia with hamburgers, coffee; Business and Professional Women of Marin with cotton candy, candied apples, cookies; Campfire Girls, Golden Gate Council, with sno cones; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Greenbrae Ward with hot dogs, scones, soft drinks; Church of Jesus Chirst of Latter-day Saints, San Rafael Ward with peanut brittle, corn dogs, root beer floats, salt water taffy; Greek Orthodox Church Ladies Auxiliary with Greek pastries;

International Footprint Ass'n., Chapter 16, with Program sales; Job's Daughters, Bethel 246 with Frostees, sundaes; Marin Buddhist Church with Japanese food; The Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, with Pepsi Cola, root beer, Sprite; Northgate Lions Club as parking attendants; Rainbow Girls, San Rafael Assembly, with tacos, pizza, beans, coffee, lemonade, milk, iced tea; Ross Valley Players with chicken dinners, beer; Theta Rho Girls, Chaparral Chapter, with spaghetti dinners, Y.M.C.A., San Rafael, with make-up and toys.

Garden exhibitors are: Pacific Plant Growers of Colma, Santa Venetia Nursery of Santa Venetia, Lila's Nursery and West End Nursery of San Rafael, Crane's Nursery of Calistoga, Dolinsek Begonia Gardens of Cotati, East Bay Nursery of Berkeley, Lyal Nickals of San Leandro and Egger and Son of Mill Valley.

GOP Convention Expenses High

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Republicans are shelling out "something less" than $2 million to put on their 1972 convention here, about twice as much as their 1968 convention cost. But they expect to wind up in the black.

Revenue from ads in their official program will total $1.6 million. Also they started with a surplus of $165,000 from the previous convention, also held here. One reason for the big jump in costs, they said, was the switch in sites after work already had been started on facilities in San Diego.

Muscular Dystrophy Talent Show Set

The program will include singing, dancing, skits, game booths ADX and RFX refreshments. Sponsoring the show are Ellen Doyle, 15; Peggy Doyle, 14; Michelle Doyle, 10, and Joan Madsen, 13.

Governor's Veto Saves 'Discredited' Testing

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

California will continue to give mandatory academic ability ("IQ") tests to pupils in its public elementary and high schools. Governor Reagan has vetoed a bill (AB 483 by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco) which would have outlawed such tests.

Assemblyman Brown based his attack on the tests largely on the premise that they are unfair to children from disadvantaged neighborhoods, especially Negroes from inner-city slums. But his attack was part of a wider war against mandatory testing. Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, has assailed the "IQ" tests. The California Teachers Association supported Brown's bill.

THERE IS LITTLE doubt that there has been unfairness in the way the so-called "IQ" tests have been used. Solely on the basis of such tests, children have been labeled "slow" or "advanced" and placed in slow or advanced class sections — often misplaced.

So devoted to the test results have educators become that pupils who failed to measure up in class to what was expected on the basis of "IQ" scores have been called "under-achievers," and those who learned faster than the tests indicated they would have been called "over-achievers." As Banesh Hoffman commented in his book, "The Tyranny of Testing": "If the tests say the student is able, then able he is, no matter what his teachers think; and if the tests say he is not, nothing he does will make him otherwise."

It is the fault of educators that the public regards these as intelligence tests. They are not. They are tests of the child's over-all level of academic achievement, not of his native intelligence.

PROPERLY USED, they really test the schools, and the teachers, quite as much as they test the children. If average achievement levels (so-called "IQ"s) in a school district decline between first grade and sixth grade, it is logical to blame the school, not the children.

This may explain why California teacher organizations, which beat the drums for testing only a few years ago, now have turned against it.

In February, 1964, the California Department of Education reported with some pride: "Pupils in California public schools scored slightly above national averages on academic ability tests (IQ) and standardized achievement tests ... as revealed by results of tests administered to nearly three-quarter million pupils."

The State Department of Education had nothing against tests then. Neither did the California Teachers Association.

UNFORTUNATELY, this report was not to be repeated. California pupils shortly thereafter fell below national averages on the tests, and have remained so despite huge infusions of state and federal funds on the simplistic premise that money cures anything.

So faced with proof that spending money for "remedial education" has not made an appreciable difference, the educator establishment has decided that the tests themselves must be discredited. Now it blames the public for placing too much reliance on tests — reliance which the educators themselves promoted.

The reason may be that California parents have refused to accept the premise that their children are less able than average children nationwide. The parents, instead, have blamed the schools for the low test scores.

Using the test scores to evaluate teachers as well as pupils was proposed by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas in his tenure revision bill introduced in last year's legislature. It provided that their pupils' scores on state tests be considered in evaluating teachers for tenure or for discharge or return to probationary status.

That, of course, was amended out of the bill before it became law. Better to discredit the tests instead!

Cafeteria Faces End Of An Era

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Clinton's Cafeteria, a landmark on San Francisco's Market Street since 1899 will serve its last meal on Saturday.

"We have come to the end of an era," said Paul C. Mills, president of the Clinton Cafeteria Co. which operates the restaurant that still features white tablecloths and cloth napkins.

He said the cafeteria did $1.2 million in business in 1950, but that the past few months losses have run $10,000 a month.

At one time, there were seven Clinton's Cafeterias, three of them with orchestras.

EXPERT OPINION

Man Of Future To Be Familiar

DAVIS, (AP) — Man of the future is often pictured in science fiction as having evolved in strange ways- with a large domed head and short arms. But a noted expert on evolution says man in 25,000 years probably will look pretty much like he does today.

Dr. G. Ledyard Stebbens, founder of the genetics department at the University of California at Davis, says man will continue to develop, changing his society and culture and even the workings of his mind-but not his basic physical appearance.

"You could take a Cro-Magnon man and clean him up and dress him in modern clothing and parade him down Madison Avenue," said Dr. Stebbens, and he would not attract any special notice.

"The same probably would be true if you could transport a modern man 25,000 years into the future. Changes that affect our outward appearance would not be very great," he said.

The reason, he said, is that man has largely short-circuited his physical evolution through the development of tools and Technology. He has no need to evolve new forms or new physical capabilities because he can invent machines to extend the natural limits on his capabilities.

Man survives not by changing physically, Stebbens said but by changing his environment and by developing new techniques to deal with his environment.

"Man has the ability to occupy new habitats without any change in his genes more than any other animal," Stebbens said.

Oddly enough, he added, the result is that man is more adaptable-not less. Instead of fragmenting into several different species, each specializing in a separate environment, mankind remains a single family, with a single, rich genetic legacy, on which to draw in adapting to change, he said.

The huge reservoir of human genes throughout the world represents mankind's major resource for adjusting to the unknown demands of the future, Stebbens said.

But, he said, because those genes all come from Homo sapiens who look basically pretty much the same as each other, the continued mixing and sharing of various genes should not produce a physically different creature from the man of today.

Traditional evolutionary theory focuses on mutation as the active agent in development of new adaptations. But Steppens said man's future is more secure relying on breeding from the existing gene reservoir than on mutations — those random freak changes that occur in genes when the normal processes go mysteriously awry.

"Nothing could please an animal breeder more," Stebbens said, referring to the enormity of the human gene reservoir. "Advancement in evolution depends on the size of the gene pool.

"Mutation is an extremely rare process. You have to rely on what's there — you cannot rely on mutation too much," for improving the human race, he said.

Stebbens is a man who should know about how long it takes for small changes to evolve. Author of several texts on evolution he has been working since 1943 on a single species of South African grass whose genes he has modified to make it grow better on shaded hillsides.

His experiments he said, are the only instance so far of an organism being synthesized, released into the wild and its adaption closely monitored. In another 30 years, he said, the synthetic strain might acquire the characteristics of a few species.

Stebbens was hired by the University of California as a research geneticist at Berkeley in 1935. He stayed at Berkeley until 1950 when, as a full professor, he was transfered to the Davis campus to found the genetics department.

Article 'No Influence On Police Shakeup'

BOSTON (UPI)—Mayor Kevin H. White has denied that published reports of a potential scandal in the Police Department influenced a departmental shakeup on the highest levels last week.

But, the mayor added, no city employe, including policemen, would be granted immunity should charges stem from an investigation now being conducted by Suffolk County District Attorney Garrett F. Byrne.

High-Rise Plan For Courthouse Square Approved

San Rafael Planners' Action Comes Sooner Than Expected

By DAVID DIETZ

In a surprise move, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved a use permit and basic design for development of courthouse square. (Other planning commission stories, page 23.)

Plans by McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento for an eight-story office building, a two-story office structure and a multilevel parking garage were shown the public for the first time.

Action on the multimillion dollar project — seen as a necessity for future downtown economic stability — had not been expected last night, but the commission was mindful of a timetable under which McKeon must pay the city $640,000 for the balance of the cost of the land by Oct. 25. The firm already has paid $10,000.

Although passing the use permit and general architectural plans along to the council, the commission said it would meet in special session Sept. 7 to consider design specifics and traffic and environmental studies which have not been completed.

Jean Wasp of 2 Mountain View Avenue said the box-like eight-story structure, proposed for construction parallel to A Street, "looks like a small Fairmont Hotel tower." She told the commission the city had an opportunity to encourage development that would enhance Mission San Rafael Archangel behind the square and at the same time attract the shopper's dollar to the community.

William Rowan of 55 Marguard Avenue said he didn't beliave McKeon had lived up to the spirit of an agreement between the city and county under which McKeon would be given development rights. The county still owns the land.

While Rowan said he understood 50 per cent of the site was

Nixon Will Accept Nomination Tonight

Speech Will Dwell On His Record

While Nixon worked this morning on the final phrases of his speech, an estimated 4,500 demonstrators plotted to ring the perimeters of convention hall. They hoped to so disrupt the entryways that Nixon would deliver pis speech to a half-empty auditoriium.

But police were ready too. So were 5,500 National Guard and regular Army soldiers who have been on standby, positioned a few minutes from the area, if the demonstrators' final stand strikes violence with the convention's final session.

White House sources cautioned reporters against anticipating any bombshell-type announcement on the war, despite last week's activity when Nixon's foreign policy adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, visited Paris for private peace talks and then went to Saigon to confer with South Vietnamese leaders.

Nixon will discuss "in clear terms the great issues of 1972 at home and throughout the world," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. He said reporters should not expect "any major new announcements" relating to Vietnam.

Kissinger himself said there would be no "spectaculars" in Nixon's acceptance speech, which is expected to last about a half hour. Other sources said it would concentrate on "what we've done —and what we plan to do."

As for Vietnam, Kissinger said, "We are making a very deliberate and a very serious effort...We are not going to say anything of substance about these talks."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Nixon told him his speech would deal "heavily" with foreign policy.

Even without a major development on the war, Nixon is expected to deal extensively with Southeast Asia —particularly the Vietnam troop level of some 40,000 compared to more than a half million when he took office.

Communist spokesmen at Paris talks labeled as "entirely false" a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers — subsequently partly disavowed by the White house —that peace was possible by fall.

Beyond Vietnam Nixon is likely to review his global peaceseeking missions to China and Russia —a theme which has pervaded the three days of the convention.

GOP VS. DEMO

The Platforms: How They Rate

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The platforms adopted by the Democratic and Republican conventions display wide differences on war policy, welfare and education.

But they also show the parties share a few of the same opinions and that both fear to attack some of the same issues.

The Democrats propose a guaranteed income "substantially above the poverty level," while the Republicans "flatly oppose" any guaranteed income.

The Democrats say busing "must continue to be available" to end segregation, but the Republicans say racial busing must be stopped even if a constitutional amendment should be necessary.

However, both platforms support women's rights and child care, and both parties were afraid even to mention abortion in their platforms.

Here is a comparison of Democrat and Republican views on major issues:

Vietnam—The Democrats call for immediate withdrawal from Indochina subject only to release of prisoners and an accounting of the missing. The Republicans also insist on an accounting of the prisoners and missing, but said they would seek a Vietnam settlement "which will permit the people of Southeast Asia to live in peace under political arrangements of their own choosing."

Labor—The Democrats support repeal of right-to-work laws, raising the minimum wage to $2.50 an hour, and support the right of farm workers to form unions. The Republicans do not mention the minimum wage or farm unions, but in a major concession neither do they mention their long-standing support for right to work laws. The GOP pledges better safety laws and better pension plans, and praises collective bargaining as the "cornerstone" of GOP labor relations policy.

Marijuana—the Republicans oppose the legalization of marijuana, but the Democratic platform contains no specific mention of marijuana.

Defense spending—The Democrats call for unspecified "substantial" reductions in military spending while the Republicans say that such cuts would be "worse than misguided; they would be dangerous."

Child care—Both platforms advocate comprehensive child care programs, but the Republicans emphasize such programs must be locally controlled and voluntary.

Youth—Both platforms advocate lowering the legal age of accountability to 18.

Health—The Democrats advocate federally funded and administered national health insurance while the Republicans

Russ Chess Error Aids Fischer Lead

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —Bobby Fischer claimed—and got—a draw tonight in the 17th game of his world championship chess match with Boris Spassky when the Russian comitted such a blunder he sat staring at the board in wide-eyed disbelief at his own move.

Spassky, apparently on the way to a hard fought victory today, repeated the same move three times—which makes the game a draw if his opponent claims one.

The draw earned Fischer another half point and preserved his full three-point lead over Spassky, 10 points to 7. The American now needs only 2 1-2 points to fullfill a 20-year-old dream and become the first American world chess champion.

One rule of international chess stipulates that if the same position occurs three times during a game with the same player to move, the game can be declared a draw should one of the players make the claim.

After his 45th move, Fischer looked over the board for about half a minute, then arched his forefinger and summoned arbiter Lothat Schmid to the board. Fischer simply pointed to the board.

Schmid returned to his table and wrote something down. Fischer then shot out of his chair, walked over to the arbiter's table and scribbled something himself. Schmid then came over to the chessboard with the official scoresheet, Fischer extended his hand to Spassky and the game was declared drawn.

Spassky sat staring at the board in wide-eyed disbelief. Spassky's 41st move was sealed when the game was adjourned Tuesday night. His aides complained about the same time that Fischer might be using "chemical substances and electronic devices" to gain an advantage — a charge that brought explosive laughter from Fischer.

Schmid said a team of experts would be called in to examine the room.

"I cannot tell you what the experts will be looking for," Schmid said. "It's something quite new to me."

Mill Valley's Chief Terzich Will Retire

Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich, a member of the police department for 19 years, announced today that he will retire at the end of October.

He told the Independent-Journal today that he will recommend that the city council appoint Capt. William Walsh as his successor.

In a letter submitted yesterday to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, Chief Terzich requested that he be admitted to the Public Employees Retirement Association as soon as possible.

He will become 65 on Oct. 12 and expects about $700 per month in Social Security and retirement benefits. Currently, he receives $1,425 per month as chief, a position he has held for more than 11 years.

Terzich joined the Mill Valley Police Department as a patrolman in 1953, after previous work as a detective at the Fairmont Hotel, a guard at San Quentin Prison, a deputy with the Marin County Sheriff's Department and an officer with the Willows Police Department in Glenn County.

DAN TERZICH
Retiring in October

While he has been offered a number of jobs in the security field, Terzich said his plans for the future are indefinite.

He is a native of Alaska and was reared in Angels Camp, Calaveras County. He has lived in Marin County for the past 33 years.

Drug Abuse Center Is Phased Out

By JEFF GREER

Marin's Drug Abuse Bureau was quietly phased out of existence yesterday as Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos swapped the operation for permission to establish a new county crime lab. (Other Supervisors stories, page 9.)

The board of supervisors unanimously voted to transfer $5,000 in Drug Abuse Bureau funds and $7,700 in reserves to hire contractors to get the new laboratory going by Nov. 15.

Sheriff's Lt. James C. Schwedhelm and two drug abuse investigators will be returned to the sheriff's investigation division, but Schwedhelm will play a special role, acting as intelligence man and liasion with state and federal agents as well as city police conducting drug probes in Marin.

The two investigators will return to solving burglaries, juvenile offenses and the general run of crime as well as drug cases.

The drug bureau was created in May 1967 with a five-man staff and a $52,5877budget, after the county grand jury persuaded supervisors that "the lives of our children and the future of our country" were menaced by increasing narcotcs crimes. The bureau was established to work both within and outside cities in Marin.

By 1969, Supervisor Michael Wornum was protesting that the bureau's budget had soared to $117,000, while about 90 per cent of the agents' arrests were for narcotics possession rather than sales.

In budget hearings in subsequent years, supervisors whittled bureau manpower and funding.

Michael A. Chrystal, county administrator analyst, estimated yesterday that the new county lab could save about $19,000 of the $52,000 budgeted for making alcohol, narcotic and other tests through contracting private laboratories by the end of fiscal 1972-73.

The state will contribute $2,000 toward the estimated $32,500 cost of remodeling county office space for the lab, Chrystal said.

Corps' Waste Water Cost Jolts Officials

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — A lot of lip service has been given to future reuse of sewage and industrial wastewater, but yesterday it got its first price tag — $5.3 billion for the 12 Bay Area and Delta counties. (Another sewage story, page 23.)

The largest water reclamation project in the world, if undertaken, it would preserve some 255,000 acres as open land to be purchased with part of that money, land needed to absorb the region's projected wastewater flow of 1.5 billion gallons a day by the year 2000. That's almost 400 square miles, the equivalent of about 80 per cent of Marin's total land area.

Large portions of west Marin and Sonoma are being studied for lands that would receive the treated wastewater.

The price tag and other details of the mammoth project were disclosed yesterday by the Army Corps of Engineers before the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Three hearings on the report will be held by the corps, including one in Marin at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 25 in the supervisors chambers of the Marin Civic Center. The other hearings will be in Sacramento and San Jose.

The $800,000 corps report was done as part of a long-range plan for wastewater in the region.

The project envisioned by the corps would be a complete reversal of the $2 billion plan drafted three years ago by the state, a plan calling for conventional treatment of wastewater and discharging it into the ocean off San Mateo County. The state itself, however, subsequently upgraded its standard for ocean disposal of wastewater, thus the $2 billion cost of the 1969 plan would escalate to pay for a much higher degree of treatment.

Water quality control officials since 1969 also have switched their stress from conventional treatment to reuse of wastewater. Their new preference, however, has run into the problem of finding a market for this water.

The corps' preliminary report did not deal with the problem of whether there would be a market for the recycled wastewater. Its final report is due next June.

Col. William E. Vandenberg told newsmen that work on the project could not begin until at least 1975, and that construction could be completed between 1985 and 2000.

He assured the board that such a project would not mean abandonment of costly conventional sewage facilities to be built in the next three years, but did not explain that assurance's apparent contradiction with the fact that much of those new facilities consist of major pipes discharging wastewater into the bay and hence banned

Reds Use Big Guns In Da Nang Shelling

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces threatening Da Nang shelled the city with heavy rockets for the first time today and set fires blazing in the district town of Thang Binh, 20 miles to the south. They also moved to within two miles of the Marble Mountain military complex just outside Da Nang and hit it with a dozen short range mortars.

It was the fourth rocket attack on Da Nang this month but it was the first time the Communists used their big 140mm (5.5 inch) rockets which weigh 88 pounds. The North Vietnamese also have brought tanks and heavy artillery into areas south of Da Nang in the growing threat to the country's second largest city. Previous attacks were by much smaller rockets.

U.S. fighter-bombers and B52s, blocked by bad weather from attacking North Vietnam, concentrated on targets in South Vietnam and carried out the heaviest assaults in three months. Waves of B52s dropped 2,500 tons of bombs, mostly in the northern area near Da Nang and Quang Tri.

The North Vietnamese launched new counterattacks in the Quang Tri area 40 miles north of Da Nang in an attempt to drive back South Vietnamese marines trying to recapture the fallen town. South Vietnamese

$2.7 Million Budget Set; Novato Holds To Tax Rate

The Novato City Council last night adopted a $2.7 million budget for the current fiscal year and adopted a tax rate of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the same as last year. (Another Novato City Council story, page 34.)

The adopted budget is $156,775 higher than the $2,543,225 budget projected in June. The difference was $30,095 grant for police training form the state, a carry-over of $50,755 in capital improvement funds and an increase of $75,925 in unallocated reserve, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The $2.7 million budget consists of the $1,908,795 operating budget and $791,205 capital improvement budget.

An increase of more than 8 per cent in the assessed valuation of the city made it possible to increase expenditures while lowering the tax rate from the previously projected 96 cents to 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, Brown said.

The council also adopted budgets for three maintenance districts, with the city paying one fourth of them. The San Main Park Maintenance District's $22,500 budget was approved, the city to pay $5,600; Lynwood Maintenance District, $2,680, the city to pay $670; Monte Maria Community Services District, $1,800, the city to pay $450.

Top Officials Will Skip Peace Session

PARIS (UPI)—The chief negotiators for North Vietnam and the United States will not attend the 156th session tomorrow of the deadlocked Paris peace talks, delegation spokesmen said today.

Other delegation members instead will represent Hanoi and Washington at the conference.

Sausalito Tax Rate Is $1.485

For the third year in a row, the Sausalito City Council last night set the city's 1972-73 tax rate at $1.485 per $100 assessed valuation.

The rate will generate $541,582 in revenue for the city, including $77,317 for the library; $328,232, general fund; $74,035, employee retirement, and $61,998 for bond indebtedness and interest.

The council also agreed to consider formation of a redevelopment agency to develop the Marinship area when it meets Sept. 5.

CONVENTION COMPROMISE

Reagan Sides With Small States

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Californians cast all their 96 votes for President Nixon's renomination, as per script, but surprised the GOP convention by finding the solution to its biggest headache: How to seat delegates at the 1976 convention.

California, the nation's most populous state, sided with the smallest states Tuesday to push through a delegation allocation formula fiercely opposed by many large industrial states.

"If you see a fight and a little fellow is getting clobbered," Gov. Ronald Reagan told California delegates, "maybe you should step in and help."

But Reagan also felt, a top aide reported, that California frequently is more in tune politically with smaller, more conservative states than larger, liberal ones.

The new rule could help conservative candidates for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination —such as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or Reagan.

The California governor all week has been careful in public statements to keep the door slightly ajar for another possible White House bid.

Asked about the 1976 election by newsmen Tuesday, Reagan answered:

"You're talking to me about '76. I haven't even decided about '74" when he steps down as governor and is considering running for Democrat Alan Cranston's senate seat.

As for whether he will be too old at age 65 to run, the handsome former actor told California delegates, "they tell me Verdi was 80 when he wrote the opera Falstaff."

On the convention floor Tuesday night, millionaire oil industrialist Henry Salvatori volunteered to a reporter he was not unhappy that Nixon is president instead of Reagan, but "'76 is another year." Salvatori was one of Reagan's chief campaign contributors four years ago.

Reagan, chairman of the California delegation, cast the state's votes for Nixon in honor "of that beautiful resort city, San Diego" which originally had planned to host the convention. The governor also noted Nixon was a California native son.

California delegates waved placards and small American flags and were inundated in a sea of balloons as Nixon's official renomination was announced. The vote was 1,347 to 1.

There were scattered boos in the convention hall when maverick California Rep. Paul N. McCloskey was delivered the one New Mexico vote he won in that state's primary.

Nixon captured California's entire bloc of delegates by sweeping the winner-take-all June 6 primary with 90 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Reagan sat in the presidential box with First Lady Pat Nixon and the President's daughters, Tricia and Julie, during the nominating.

Reagan delivered one of the convention speeches in favor of the delegation allocation formula, dubbed "the California Compromise." He said it preserved "checks and balances" between large and small states.

The convention Rules Committee had been wrestling with a new delegation apportionment formula for days.

NOMINATION CELEBRATION — Red, white and blue balloons float through the air in the Republican National Convention hall in Miami Beach, Fla, after a roll call of states gave President Richard M. Nixon the nomination for another term. Only one delegate voted for anyone else — Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California received a lone vote from New Mexico in last night's nomination session. Bank Holdup Ends In Shooting At Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents shot and killed one alleged bank robber and captured his accomplice early today at Kennedy airport as the pair prepared to board a private jet for a flight out of the country. Seven hostages they had held for more than 14 hours were unharmed.

The gunmen, one a self-admitted homosexual demanding the release of his male "wife" from a mental ward, had robbed a Brooklyn branch of the Chase Manhattan bank of $29,000 yesterday afternoon and then held the employees hostage when they were surprised by police.

Police identified the dead man as Salvatore Natriaili but said his address and age were not immediately available.

In a drama that stretched through the night, the gunmen negotiated with FBI agents and police on their demands for the plane and a car to take them to the airport. A two-engine Hansa jet was brought to the airport about 2:30 a.m.

At 3:40 a.m. a limousine pulled up in front of the one-story bank and the homosexual, John Wojtowicz, came out of the building with a rifle slung over his shoulder to search the car.

Wojtowicz, who had earlier demended the release of his male "wife" from a hospital psychiatric ward, then surveyed the street, apparently looking for the hidden police sharpshooter.

Satisfied, he got into the car with his accomplice, the hostages and an FBI agent for the driver. They drove off for the airport, arriving there at 4:45 a.m.

John F. Malone, special agent in charge of the FBI's New York office, told a news conference that the limousine was diverted as the plane approached and one of the men was shot. The second gave himself up, he said.

Malone said the men were armed with a rifle and a machine gun.

The gunmen originally seized nine hostages but released the bank guard, Calvin Jones, three hours after the holdup, and left one woman hostage when they drove off with six other women and the bank manager.

The 13-hour drama at the bank was punctuated by several bizarre incidents. Homosexual friends of Wojtowicz came to visit him at the bank and kissed him as he stood in the doorway while a crowd of hundreds of onlookers cheered.

Panic May Have Caused Bomb To Blow Early

BELFAST (UPI)—Investigators said today a bomb blast that killed eight persons at a customs post yesterday may have gone off prematurely when a warning siren panicked the bombers, who were among the victims, into dropping the device.

The death toll from the explosion in Newry, 32 miles south of Belfast near the border with the Irish Republic, was the worst since July 31 when a bomb hidden in a car exploded and killed nine persons in Claudy, near Londonderry. The Newry deaths and another in Belfast yesterday brought to 527 the number of killings in three years of Northern Ireland sectarian violence.

In other incidents Tuesday, the army said a sniper shot and seriously wounded a soldier in Belfast's Catholic Andersonstown area. In anotherpart of the capital, a gunman shot a Protestant in the leg as he opened the door of his home.

Police today said the victim in Belfast's killing was a highranking member of a Protestant workers group. He was identified as James F. Johnston, 40, a truck driver found shot dead in his van in the city's Roman Catholic Falls Road area. He was hooded and his hands were tied behind his back, police said.

Among the dead in the Newry explosion were four customs officers, two truck drivers and the bombers. Six other persons were injured, one seriously.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Closed Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal court judge, citing a need to protect the constitutional rights of suspects, has barred the release of all pretrial testimony in the case of the Watergate Five.

The ruling yesterday by U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey means that sworn statements to be taken from several Nixon administration and reelection campaign officials will be withheld from the public until after the Nov. 7 presidential election.

Two of the officials to be questioned in the Democratic party's $1 million suit are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Nixon campaign finance director Maurice Stans.

No Gas Leakage

HONOLULU (UPI) — An Army decontamination team landed on remote Johnston Island yesterday and reported there was apparently no leakage of America's war gas from a pounding of the atoll by Hurricane Celeste.

The storm lashed the island Sunday with 45 foot waves and 150 mile-per-hour winds.

A destroyer lay anchored offshore today, waiting for the team of chemical, biological and nuclear experts to complete its report.

Not Meddling

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (UPI) — Pierre Salinger said yesterday he was not meddling in foreign affairs when he discussed the fate of American war prisoners with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

"In no way did this impede the effort to negotiate peace," said Salinger, a key aide to Democratc presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

Salinger, here to speak at the convention of the Michigan Building Trades Council, shrugged off a charge by Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater that he may have violated a federal law in meeting with North Vietnamese officials.

Hijackers Surrender

CAIRO (UPI) — A South Yemeni airliner hijacked yesterday over the Mediterranean Sea and flown to Libya, landed at Cairo today, the Middle East News Agency said.

The three hijackers — two men and a woman — remained behind in Benghazi as did three other passengers among the 61 persons aboard the Al Yemda DC6 airliner, the agency said.

It quoted passengers who arrived in Cairo as saying: "The three hijackers surrendered with their weapons to Libyan authorities when the plane landed in Benghazi" last night.

Newspaper Destroyed

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Crusading East Tennessee publisher Dan Hicks' newspaper was destroyed by fire early today and the sheriff's department said arson was suspected.

Hicks, who has been burned out, beaten and shot at for his stories on local politics, was slightly injured when he attempted to save historical records in the Monroe County Democrat.

Monroe County Sheriff Kenneth Davis said arson was suspected.

Safety Guarantee

TOKYO (UPI) — North Korea issued a formal statement today guaranteeing the safety of South Korea officials and newsmen traveling to Pyongyang for the opening of the Red Cross talks next Wednesday on improving North-South relations.

Hits Arab World

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets today criticized the Arab world for insufficient unity and individual Arab leaders for "underestimating" the seriousness of the Middle East situation and recommended alliance with Russia.

An article in Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, also said the pledges of the American Republican and Democratic parties to support Israel showed how "illusory" were Arab hopes for an agreement with the United States.

Sibley Slated To See Psychiatrist

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)— Frank M. Sibley, charged with riding a bicycle into the Reno airport and hijacking a jet for $2 million ransom, will see a psychiatrist, his attorney said Tuesday night.

"He's certain his emotional health is good and he's not fearful of meeting with a psychiatrist," said court-appointed attorney Irving Paul Jr. Sibley allegedly hijacked a jet from Reno to Vancouver, B.C. and then to Seattle, demanding $2 million ransom in what he said was a protest against President Nixon and the Vietnam War. He was shot by FBI agents posing as pilots.

Silent-Film Fans Mourn Valentino

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is 46 years today since the death of Rudolph Valentino, the great lover of the silent screen, touched off a tumult of mourning across the nation.

Many still remember. They planned to gather again, as they have for decades on this day, before Valentino's tomb in Hollywood Memorial Park. Singer Rudy Vallee will deliver the eulogy.

Chicken Pox Kills Children Who Suffer From Leukemia

By JAY GOODWIN

Right now, throughout Marin County, there are a handful of families who live in constant fear that their child will be exposed to chicken pox.

While most children can contract chicken pox and recover in a matter of weeks, these dozen children could die if they are exposed to this relatively common disease.

They are children suffering from leukemia who are being treated with immuno-suppressant drugs. The drugs retard the spread of leukemia in their young bodies, but they also leave the children incapable of producing the antibodies needed to fight chicken pox.

Thus the same medication which keeps these young leukemia patients alive can render them vulnerable to a most unnecessary death.

For years this situation has existed, leaving parents of leukemia-striken children petrified whenever a case of chicken pox is reported at their child's school. Helplessly, they are forced to keep their children away from school, hoping the disease will once again spare their son or daughter.

At last relief for these families may be on the horizon.

A San Rafael pediatrician, Dr. Arthur R. Ablin, and two physicians from San Francisco have recently taken the first steps toward ending a nightmare that has haunted some Marin families and others like them throughout the bay area.

Doctors have learned that blood plasma from adults who have recently contracted a disease called shingles can supply the antibodies missing in the leukemia patient.

Technically called herpes zoster, shingles is an adult version of chicken pox which usually causes a rash to break out around the torso. Healthy adults who contract shingles produce antibodies to fight the virus which can also be used to fight chicken pox.

Doctors have long suspected that the plasma of shingles patients might be valuable as preventive medication for leukemia patients exposed to chicken pox. But, up until recently, there has been no organized campaign in the bay area to collect this plasma and make it available to patients on a large scale.

Last month, a group of doctors at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco and the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco began to fill this vacuum and attract large quantities of shingles plasma.

Ablin called the lack of this blood shameful. Shaking his head, he admitted the plasma has never been solicited in an organized fashion before, but couldn't explain why.

"Right now, there must be half a dozen people in Marin County with zoster who could easily donate a pint of blood. But, I don't blame patients. Up until now, they haven't known about our need."

He reached into a filing cabinet and pulled out a folder with the medical history of an 11-year-old leukemia patient. The young boy had been treated for leukemia for years. In 1969, he contracted zoster and was unable to resist the virus with any natural antibodies. The relatively mild disease ran wild in the child's body and decayed one quarter of his scalp, forehead and cheek.

Ablin pointed out that this patient had contracted zoster, not chicken pox, but claimed the damage would have been the same. Both diseases could have been retarded if his patient had received a preventive transfusion of plasma from a shingles patient, the doctor believed.

"Not every kid who has leukemia and contracts chicken pox does," he said, pointing to the snapshots of his patient's scarred face. "But look at the complications."

While leukemia patients are most likely to suffer from cases of chicken pox, children who have undergone transplant operations are also vulnerable.

In an effort to collect the valuable plasma, a Bay Area-wide appeal to shingles patients has been issued by the doctors.

Since only the plasma portion of the blood is needed for children, the donations will be collected by a technique known as plasmapheresis. The donor gives his usual gift of blood, but the blood bank immediately separates the plasma from the red cells and returns the red cells to the donor. Blood is being collected at the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco.

To qualify as a donor, a person must be between 18 and 66 and be recuperating from a case of shingles that began seven to 28 days before the time of donation.

Further information on the blood drive may be obtained by calling Ablin.

Magee Ejected For 14th Time

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the 14th time since his case was transferred to San Francisco, convict Ruchell Magee was ejected from the courtroom Tuesday. This time for swinging a fist at bailiffs.

He failed to land a blow during the outburst which followed an admonition from Judge Morton Colvin that he stop disrupting pre-trial proceedings.

Magee, a San Quentin Prison convict, is charged with murder because of an unsuccessful escape attempt in 1970 at the Marin County Civic Center in which four persons were killed, including a judge.

Greek Ship Sinks; 11 Aboard Are Lost

ATHENS (UPI) — The ministry of merchant marine yesterday announced the loss of the 2,800-ton freighter Suzy off the coast of Albania on Sunday. Eleven persons went down with the ship, and eight were saved.

The announcement said the Suzy had sailed from Durazzo, Albania, with a cargo of tar and was heading for the Greek port of Patras when she sank 15 miles from Albania. Officials said the cause of the sinking was not known.

Marinite Will Take Shaheen School Post

Dr. Steven P. Morena of Larkspur will replace Dr. Thomas Shaheen as superintendent of schools in San Francisco, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Dr. Shaheen, it was reported, has received a $55,000 settlement and will resign later this week. Shaheen's contract with the school board — at $42,000 a year — has two years to run.

Although most school board members refused to comment, one member expressed surprise at the accuracy of the information obtained by the Independent-Journal and other newspapers.

The school board is expected to make an official announcement Friday.

A spokesman for the San Francisco Community College District — where Morena is assistant chancellor in charge of administration — said nothing was known of any plans Morena might have and said he was away on vacation.

Morena, who is 51, is a native of San Francisco. He served in the Navy and graduated in 1947 from San Francisco State College. He received a master's degree in administration in 1949 from Stanford University.

After teaching in San Francisco public schools, he returned to Stanford in 1963 for a doctorate in guidance and administration.

He then joined the staff of Laney Community College in Oakland but left a few months later to take the second-highest job with the newly-formed community college district.

"oppose nationalized compulsory health insurance." The Republicans propose a program financed by employers, employes and the federal government to provide comprehensive health care insurance.

Gun control — Republicans pledge to safeguard the right of responsible citizens to own firearms, but to "intensify efforts to prevent criminal access to all weapons including special emphasis on cheap, readily obtainable handguns." But the GOP said states should have the primary responsibility for gun control. The Democrats advocate legislation to "control the improper use of handguns," especially cheap handguns called "Saturday night specials."

Privacy—Both platforms call for freedom from invasion of individual privacy, but the Democrats attack the Republicans through a call for an end to "the epidemic of wiretapping."

North Marin Presses Air Base Fight

The North Marin Federation of Homeowners, representing 12 homeowner associations, will carry its fight against joint civilian-military air use at Hamilton Air Force Base to the county, president Guthrie R. Green reported today.

With petitions bearing 4,610 signatures against joint use, the federation was successful Monday night in its bid to have the Novato City Council oppose joint use.

Local approval of any civilian air use at the base however rests with Marin County, and Green said "the officers and directors of the federation will continue their efforts to defeat any over-ride attempts on this issue at the county level.

Novato residents have opposed joint use because they believe it would bring noise and air pollution, create more traffic and have a detrimental effect on the semi-rural atmosphere of the community.

Former aviation Commissioner Ben Ostlind and others favoring joint use say those objecting are acting on misinformation and that none of those adverse developments would occur, but rather would be prevented.

26 Apartment Units Denied

A preliminary application to the Larkspur Architectural Review Committee for a 26-unit apartment project on South Eliseo Drive was denied Monday night.

Building technician Randall Walker said the review application by Leverage Funding Co. was for a double lot fronting on Corte Madera Creek.

The committee asked that the project's creek frontage design be restudied, he said, since it appeared too massive for the location.

Cyclist Run Over Twice In Mishap

A 19-year-old Southern Californian was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple injuries received when he was thrown from his motorcycle yesterday and run over by at least two vehicles.

Mark Hall of Torrance, Los Angeles County, suffered head injuries, a ruptured bladder, multiple cuts and a broken leg in the 11:40 p.m. accident which occurred southbound on Highway 101 near the Ignacio Interchange.

The California Highway Patrol said Hall was possibly entering the highway from the on-ramp when he hit a curb and was thrown into the fast traffic lane.

A pickup truck driven by John F. Calverly, 45, of Sebastopol, struck the motorcycle and may have run over Hall, according to officers, who said the motorcycle and the youth were then struck by a car driven by Dennis A. Webster, 22, of 91 Rosemont Avenue, San Anselmo. The Webster car rolled over after hitting the youth.

Officers said a car driven by Lydia May Angelini, 45, of 37 Knoll Way, San Rafael, was southbound on the highway. Mrs. Angelini saw an unidentified man waving a flare on the right side of the freeway and moved to the left, running over Hall, the highway patrol said.

Chase Nets Escapers In Bel Marin

Two men police say escaped yesterday from the Sierra Conservation Camp in Jamestown, Fresno County, were captured in Bel-Marin Keys after a high-speed chase at 4:22 a.m. today.

Booked into Marin County Jail by San Rafael police and held without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court were Martin Ervin Murrill, 28, and Charles John Lares, 24, both of no known address.

They were arrested on suspicion of car theft and receiving stolen property.

According to police, an officer sighted a car reported stolen on Highway 101 near the Lucas Valley overpass early today. The car sped up Nave Drive after a short chase on Highway 101, skidded onto Bel-Marin Keys Road and slid over an embankment.

The men, who fled from the vehicle on foot, were later found hiding nearby, police said.

Guilty Plea To Shooting Charge

Betty Jo Smith, 41, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of firing shots at her estranged husband's home.

Sentencing was set Monday for Sept. 22.

Mrs. Smith, who earlier had been charged with a felony assault count, fired a volley into the San Rafael apartment of her husband, James, on April 17.

Police and other security forces were already taking precautions to see that his aircraft lands as far removed as possible from protest groups outside on the street.

Agnew remained in seclusion in a home loaned to him by a wealthy Miami businessman, working on his speech and playing tennis.

On the morning after his renomination — unanimous except for a single vote that New Mexico was required to cast for Paul N. McCloskey—Nixon studied and worked alone at his villa 10 miles from the convention scene.

The rest of his family was politicking actively along the beach, however. First Lady Pat Nixon, who has been highly visible since arriving last weekend, visited the Florida delegation this morning and told them.:

"Dick wanted me to bring my greetings to you and to tell you he looks forward to seeing you tonight."

Nixon's acceptance speech, drafted on 12 pads of yellow legal-sized pages, will make carefully considered appeals to blacks, Democrats and the youth—the latter a theme he has orchestrated throughout the convention.

To chants of "four more years, four more years!" Nixon stressed youth's new and untested political muscle when he arrived here Tuesday and again at a Miami stadium rock concert where he delivered what amounted to an unofficial acceptance speech in the embrace of black entertainer Sammy Davis Jr.

"We've got just as good a shot at it (the youth vote) as the other side," he said.

Predicting his own re-election he also pledged to work "in the next four years" toward assuring equal opportunity for blacks and the poor.

Nixon was elected vice president in 1952 and 1956, but lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy by a hair in 1960 and won just as narrowly in 1968. Now, he made it clear, he is out to win with an avalanche of votes, shedding forever the loser's image that dogged his earlier career.

Minutes before, balloons had showered upon them as the results of their balloting were announced—Nixon's renomination by a vote of 1,347 to 1.

The delegates scorned reforms proposed by liberals which could have hampered Agnew in a bid next time for the presidential nomiation.

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a leader earlier in the week of the fight to alter the delegate selection formula for 1976, sat silent while others carried the battle to the convention floor at Tuesday• afternoon's session.

Conservatives had claimed that Percy's efforts were self-serving. But the senator made a $50 bet with television newsman Roger Mudd thet he would not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1976.

The reformers wanted to change the system which awards extra delegates to stalwartly Republican states, usually rural, small and conservative, at the expense of big states where moderate and liberal Republicans come from.

But the reformers were defeated by a vote of 910 to 434.

Clarke Reed of Mississippi said the liberal proposal would have given Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace the right to repeat his old refrain—that "There's not a dime's worth of difference" between the two major parties.

Arguing for change, William F. McLaughlin, Michigan state chairman, told the convention in a booming voice that "we have to go to the women, to the ghettoes, to the campuses and say, 'We want you.'"

Kent Heads Drive For Proposition 15

Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands has been named Northern California chairman of the Californians For Yes on 15, the November ballot initiative to restrict the governor's veto power over state employees' pay increases.

Kent, former chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, said that during the past six years Gov. Ronald Reagan "has arbitrarily vetoed pay adjustments recommended by his own board and approved by the state Legislature. There is simply no sound reason for this, with the present huge surplus of $256 million in the state general fund and another $400 million anticipated by fiscal 1972-73."

McGovern Talks To Polite Legionnaires

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, hoping to tell "what sort of man I am," defended his defense budget and his patriotism before the American Legion convention today.

The Democratic presidential candidate, wearing his blue Legion cap from the Mitchell, S.D., post, got polite applause and sometimes silence when he told the legionnaires his proposed $30 billion cut in the defense budget would still leave the United States strong enough to resist any threat.

After the Legion address, the big item on McGovern's schedule was a meeting with party kingmaker Mayor Richard J. Daley. The confrontation in party headquarters was to be the first meeting between the candidate and the mayor since McGovern forces helped keep Daley and his Chicago delegation out of the Democratic National Convention last month.

McGovern has called Illinois essential to his presidential hopes and Daley is generally regarded as essential to Democrats hoping to carry Illinois.

Before launching into his prepared text before the legionnaires, McGovern told them, "There has been so much baloney about me both in the press and (from) my opponents that I'd like to take this opportunity to tell you what kind of man I am."

"Number one, with every fiber of my being, I love America," the World War II bomber pilot said. "It is the greatest nation in the world and I would gladly sacrifice my life to serve it in whatever way I can.

"It has been good to me, the son of a poor clergyman."

The legionnaires applauded him when he plumped for benefits for Vietnam veterans and "better and independent" Veterans Administration hospitals. There was little other applause, although McGovern got a 10-second standing ovation at the end of his speech.

McGovern met Tuesday at the LBJ ranch with former President Lyndon B. Johnson, with whom he has had sharp past differences on foreign policy. McGovern said Johnson gave him some "good, homey, down-to-earth advice" on how to unite the Democratic party and to win the November elections.

"I have never found the President warmer and more encouraging in his support," he said after he and Sargent Shriver, his vice presidential running-mate, met with Johnson.

Trustees Ask Closer Ties With Cities

The Cotati School District board asked last night that Rohnert Park and Cotati allow it to advise on mutual city and school problems.

Board secretary Miriam Horne said the board asked that Rohnert Park advise the board when school matters are to be considered at city council or planning commission meetings so a representative can be present. They said that in the past the council and commission have considered school problems without notifying the board.

The board also asked that the City of Cotati seek comments from the board before approving tentative maps for subdivisions. The board said it would comment on whether school facilities can acommodate children from the proposed subdivisions and will recommend whether the subdivision be approved or denied.

The board approved the city-school coordinating committee as the agency to advise cities on the impact subdivisions have on the school district and agreed the committee should study ways to allieviate school problems and seek assistance from the cities.

Sniperscope Traps Young Firebugs

San Rafael police nabbed two 14-year-old firebugs Monday night after three fires were set between Racquet Club Drive and K Street in Sun Valley.

Police, who were staked out in the area, caught the youths with the aid of a Vietnam-developed nightscope that allows surveillance in total darkness.

One of the youths was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday and the other was released to the custody of his parents.

The identities of the two juveniles were withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Deputy Police Chief Thomas L. Stephenson said the two are suspected of setting 10 fires this year and predicted that up to 12 arson cases will be cleared from previous years.

He said the youths could give no reason for setting the fires other than "the excitement and feeling of putting one over on the authorities."

He said the fires Monday were set by a simple timing device which allows an arsonist to leave an area before the fire breaks out.

Police and firemen had been staked out in Sun Valley since Friday, according to Stephenson.

to be left in "landscaped, unenclosed open space," it appeared to him that structures and parking and driveway facilities took up much more than half of the land.

Although at least 21 per cent of the land is to be left in open space at the Fourth Street frontage under the city-county agreement, several commissioners wondered whether the structures could be moved toward Fourth 10 feet to enable more open area at the rear of the property. Seeking more open space members also called for elimination of nine of 36 parking stalls proposed at Fifth Avenue and A Street in addition to the multilevel garage which would hold 260 cars.

Albert Bianchi, attorney for McKeon, told the commission McKeon believed the currently proposed layout of the buildings offered the least obstruction to the mission, although saying the commission could alter the scheme if it wanted.

The county has been trying to sell the courthouse square for years, although stymied by a high asking price and squabbles with the city over the nature and scope of development.

WAR

fighter-bombers knocked out five attacking tanks, raising the total Communist tank losses there to 225 since the Communist offensive began last spring.

UPI photographer Jeff Taylor said the shelling of Thang Binh below Da Nang was carried out by North Vietnamese who captured the town of Que Son and nearby Base Camp Ross last weekend. Thang Binh is the last major South Vietnamese base between the Communists and the sea and its fall would increase the threat to Da Nang and the coastal regions to the south.

UPI reporter Ed Basset reported from the area that the Saigon government had begun an investigation into the loss of Camp Ross. Its defenders fled, leaving behind at least six 105mm howitzers and four 155mm howitzers.

Several fights were reported in the Que Son area where a government force was trying to block further Communist advances. Militia operating out of Camp Baldy, 10 miles northeast of Que Son and about 15 miles below Da Nang, killed 26 Communists in a fight today. South Vietnamese planes knocked out another longrange Communist 130mm gun in the same area, bringing to eight the number destroyed this week.

Military officers at Da Nang said six huge 140mm Soviet-made rockets, the largest conventional rocket in the North Vietnamese inventory, smashed into the city before dawn today, wounding 11 civilians and destroying five homes.

The rockets, with a range of just over six miles (10.5 kilometers) have often been found around Da Nang but never used in an attack on the city itself, military spokesmen said.

Taylor saw a North Vietnamese soldier who jumped or was pushed from a low-flying South Vietnamese Air Force helicopter near Thang Binh.

Taylor said the man dropped from the helicopter as it flew over Highway 1 at an altitude of about 40 feet. "The chopper was going full speed (about 100 miles an hour) and it suddenly dipped to one side, a body came out, and the helicopter just straightened up and flew away, gaining altitude as it went," Taylor said.

The North Vietnamese soldier, dressed in Communist uniform with cutoff short pants, hit a small roadside shrine and lay lifeless, he said.

South Vietnamese officers at Da Nang, asked about the incident, said they knew nothing about it, according to Bassett.

Hospital Confronts Fire Tab

Marin General Hospital — which has always had fire protection from the Kentfield Fire Protection District for a token $1 a year — is being asked to pay $10,059 this year.

Marin Hospital District board was told last night by member Thomas K. Procter, that the hospital's fire protection committee had been notified of the new billing by the Kentfield District.

The district was given until Aug. 31 to make up its mind on the proposed contract, said hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Marin General Hospital, located in county territory, is an exempt organization and as such doesn't pay taxes to the fire district, said Bolinger, and hitherto has contracted for protection for $1.

The chairman of the fire district, W. J. Williams, told the Independent-Journal today that the board decided the contract should be revised "and the hospital should be charged accordingly to anyone else."

Bolinger said the district had included enough money for fire protection in its 1972-73 budget to meet the $10,059 figure and instructed its fire protection committee to complete negotiations on the contract with the Kentfield district.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

VOLUNTEERS — Reveived the volunteers' annual report and was told the volunteers' annual luncheon meeting will be Oct. 11 at the Meadow Club.

STOCK — Was told sale of 929 shares of Stauffer Chemical Co. stock given by Howard Good of Kentfield realized $34,578.86; the pledge will be used to buy an argon laser photocoagulator for the radiotherapy department.

SUMMONS — Heard that three summonses and complaints had been forwarded to the hsopital insurance carrier — on behalf of Michael K. Culbertson, William Whitelaw and Suzanne Sumers.

PLAN — Approved a utilization review plan aimed at reducing patient-stay time.

DEFER — Approved a request for May C. Malloy, information clerk's normal retirement date to be deferred.

AIR CONDITIONING — Approved a maximum cost of $4,479 for installation of air conditioning in the hearing and speech and EEG laboratories.

TOUR — Toured the hospital's remodelling projects — the completed intensive care nursery, the radiotherapy department construction, and the new coronary intensive care unit.

Warrant Issued In Prescription Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for June Rose Robinson, 24, of San Francisco, when she failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on a charge of trying to use a forged prescription.

Mrs. Robinson was arrested June 13 when she reportedly tried to use the prescription to get drugs at Payless Drug Store in San Rafael.

GOP Central Unit Picks Vice Chairman

Robert D. Huber of Mill Valley last night was elected vice chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

An attorney, he will fill the vacancy created last month when William S. Richards was elected chairman. The term expires in January.

Only No Vote Cast By Jensen

The sole vote against San Rafael's $8,000 funding of the city's chamber of commerce as reported yesterday was cast by Councilman Fred E. Jensen. Mention of Jensen's opposition to the measure was cut in the composing room.

Another story yesterday on the San Rafael City Council's deadlock votes on Peacock Gap Unit 5 said Mayor C. Paul Bettini moved to continue the matter after "two faultless votes". Actually, Bettini made the move after two fruitless votes.

OBITUARIES

CHILTON R. BUSH

STANFORD (UPI) — Prof. Chilton R. Bush, who devoted his life to the upgrading of American journalism, died of cancer yesterday at age 76.

The retired head of Stanford University's communications department was a pioneer in opinion polling and his textbook, "Newspaper Reporting of Public Affairs," is the standard in its field.

Bush retired in 1961 after 27 years at Stanford, but continued to be a consultant to the profession.

Known as "Chick" to reporters and editors nationwide, Bush founded the California Newspaper Publishers Association editors' conference, which had its 34th annual meeting this year.

Both in and out of the classroom, Bush worked to upgrade American journalism, not by criticizing the press but by helpful work designed to increase the journalists' awareness of their responsibility to society.

In 1934, he started one of the nation's first on-the-job programs for beginning reporters at the now defunct San Francisco News.

Bush started a doctoral program in communications research at Stanford in 1952 and launched the Institute of Communications Research in 1955.

His Alma Mater, University of Wisconsin, in its citation for "Distinguished service to journalism," said he was "a reporter and editor who took the experience of the newsroom and made it meaningful in the classroom."

Bush received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at Wisconsin and taught at the university from 1925 to 1934 when he came to Stanford.

MRS. McMACKIN

Jewell Marguerite McMackin, 52, of 5935 Redwood Highway, Novato, a civilian employee at Hamilton Air Force Base, collapsed while boarding a plane this morning and was pronounced dead on arrival at the base hospital at 7:15 a.m.

Deputy Coroner Bill J. Thomas reported that Mrs. McMackin had a history of heart trouble. She was the wife of Wilbur McMackin.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Chapel of Marin.

JOHN MACKENZIE

John Mackenzie of Mill Valley died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 89.

A native of Scotland, he had lived in California and Marin County eight years, residing at 33 West Blithedale Avenue. Prior to his retirement, he was part owner of a mortgage and loan company in Spokane, Wash. for 42 years.

Mackenzie is survived by a daughter, Helen Karrer, and two grand-daughters, all of Mill Valley.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Russell and Gooch funeral home in Mill Valley. Burial will be private.

MARY BROOKE

In an obituary published yesterday, the Independent-Journal incorrectly identified Lindsay Lee of Dutch Flat, Placer County, as the son of Mary L. Brooke of Mill Valley, who died Friday.

Lindsay Lee is Mrs. Brooke's daughter.

DEATH NOTICE

MACKENZIE — In Mill Valley, Aug. 22, 1972, John Mackenzie, loving father of Mrs. Helen Karrer of Mill Valley, loving grandfather of Margaret and Helen Karrer, both of Mill Valley. A native of Scotland, aged 89.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral services Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Memorial Chapels of Russell and Gooch, 270 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley. Interment, private. (8/23)

by the project.

Vandenberg said the reclamation project called for putting treated wastewater onto the disposal sites by spray irrigation, intermittent flooding or letting it flow in shallow sheets across the sites. These methods could be used in forests, pasture and crop lands and grassy areas, he said.

The water, after final purification by percolating through the soil, would be reclaimed from wells or by using an underground tile drainage system, the colonel explained. The soil would filter pollutants out of the wastewater.

The corps' study noted that when the future wastewater planning is completed in 1974 under the joint federal-state study, the plans will determine water quality control in California "for years to come."

It stressed that reusing wastewater instead of dumping it into the bay or ocean was the only way to prevent any pollution of state waters. Even the host complete conventional treatment of wastewater leaves 20 per cent of poisonous heavy metals in the effluent, the report said.

The reclamation project would remove up to 99 per cent of pollutants, including heavy metals, the report stated.

The corps, without explanation, assumed that all lands required for the system would be purchased in fee. Vandenberg told newsmen he did not know how much of the $5.3 billion would be for land purchase.

The report estimated that operation and maintenance of the project would cost $138 million a year, but added that "the profit from crops harvested on land sites and the value of reclaimed water would tend to offset these costs."

The report noted that the corps excluded as potential land application sites all lands in parks and wildlife refuges.

The regional board expressed surprise at the $5.3 billion price tag, and said it will discuss the report at its Sept. 14 meeting at 9:30 a.m. in the State Building, Oakland.

Tax Rate Set By Fairfax Trustees

The Fairfax School District board last night set a tax rate of $3.855 per $100 assessed valuation for 1972-73, down 10 cents from last year.

The new tax rate will finance a budget of $1,308,114 for 1972-73, up from last year's $1,198,250 spending program, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

He said this year's lower tax rate was due to an increase in assessed valuation of about $2.5 million.

He said that he expected the district's enrollment of about 1,060 students to remain the same "for some time to come."

The Fairfax School District board also:

CONFERENCE — Agreed to attend an all-day career education conference Oct. 7 at the College of Marin.

SCIENCE LAB — Learned from the Lawrence Hall of Science at U.C. Berkeley that a portable science lab would be available for district use this school year.

STUDENT TEACHER — Signed an agreement with San Francisco State College providing for a student teacher for the district.

ATTENDANCE — Approved the shuffle of three children to the San Anselmo School District, and accepted one child each from the San Anselmo and San Rafael school districts.

FILL — Decided to meet at 7 p.m. Sept. 12 at White Hill School to determine if fill should be dumped on low areas on school grounds.

FLOOR TILE — Continued consideration of a proposal to replace carpet with floor tile in the White Hill School art room.

STILL ACT — Reviewed a draft of an employee evaluation policy in accordance with the Stull Act, but put over adoption of the policy until Sept. 12.

ADJOURNAMENT — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Sept. 12 at White Hill School.

Population Up, But At Lower Rate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —California's population has climbed to 20.52 million, but a lower birth rate has helped slow the increase.

The state Department of Finance reported Tuesday that a provisional estimate of the population showed an increase of 239,000, or 1.2 per cent, during the fiscal year ending July 1. This compares with a 260,000 increase the previous year.

Finance Director Verne Orr attributed a decline in the rate of natural population increase—the excess of births over deaths—as a major reason for the slower rate of population increase.

He said the natural increase was estimated at 147,000 for 1971-72, down sharply from the 184,000 of the previous year.

But the natural population decrease was offset by a rise in the net migration, which increased 11,000 during the year to total 55,000. Californians returning from military service also increased from 42,000 in 1970-71 to 56,000 in 1971-72.

Los Angeles County, which has the greatest number of residents in the state, continued its population decline, dropping by 64,200 during the year to total 6.96 million.

Pentagon Paperwork Investigation Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., called for a congressional investigation of Pentagon paperwork Tuesday noting that when his military manpower subcommittee asked the Defense Department for one copy of every standard form used in the Pentagon, he received 11,916.

He said they measured almost 100 square feet and weighed more than 200 pounds.

WHY YOU SHOULD FLY TWA TO THE EAST COAST THIS SUMMER.

TWA can give you a better deal to New York, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, or Baltimore than any other airline.

And what you're about to read should prove that.

However, if you've already made some plans, or even bought tickets on some other airline, let us remind you of one other service we offer.

We accept their tickets at our ticket counters.

NEW FAMILY FARES.

First, we help you choose the best fare.

If all you're looking for is a low family fare, no ground accommodations included, these new discount fares are your best bet.

To qualify for them, you must fly to and return from the same East Coast city. You must fly on a Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday. You must stay no less than a week, no more than a month. And you must be a family of at least three (not counting children under 2). And you must leave and return before September 14th.

Once you're on the East Coast, we can help you save even more money with some optional low cost sightseeing, hotel or car deals. (See the opposite page.)

Now for those of you interested in more than just a low fare, let's talk about a complete package, with airfare and ground accommodations.

TWA's GETAWAY NEW YORK. AIRFARE, HOTEL. $293.

For only $293, we'll give you a round trip to New York and 4 days and 3 nights at a great hotel (price based on double occupancy). Plus you'll have an enormous choice of places to go and things to do: a Broadway show, dinners, dancing, guided tours, horseback riding, many, many things, including an Avis car if you want.

If you want a complete New York package, this is the best one going.

SPECIAL SUMMER SERVICE.

In honor of summer, we've made some cool additions. New summer salads and some new summer drinks. Like a Cloud Kahlua. Cuba Libre. An icy milk punch. And more. (Nominal charge for drinks in coach.)

Plus, as always, you'll find TWA's Ambassador Service, which means more comfortable seats in first class and coach.

A choice of 3 meals in coach and 5 in first class, a choice of 2 movies, and faster ground service.

SOME FUN ALONG THE WAY.

While the kids entertain themselves at their seats, coloring, reading story books, etc., you can be relaxing in our comfortable coach lounge. A great place to meet people, have a drink, play cards, or just wile away the time until you land.

GROUND AND IN-FLIGHT AMBASSADORS TO HELP YOU.

Our Ground Ambassadors will be at the departure lounge to help you with your needs. If you want to leave a message for your office, or make sure there's a courtesy cart for your baby when you land. Anything.

And in the air, you'll have our In-Flight Ambassador on 747s to help you reserve a rental car, or a hotel room, or again, for any help you might need.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN FILM FESTIVAL.

TWA is the only airline that offers you a choice of two movies on every movie flight to the East Coast. And now we're doing something else. This summer, one of those movies on each flight will be a Charlie Chaplin classic. (Movies are shown on flights departing after 11 AM and before 10 PM. Nominal charge in coach.)

Movies by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc.

WE EVEN SAVE YOU MONEY ON THE GROUND.

Once you arrive on the East Coast, we have all sorts of optional plans to help you see a lot more without spending a lot more.

SIGHTSEEING NEW YORK.

For $28 per adult and $27 per child under 12, we'll give your family an enormous choice of places to go and things to do: dinners, dancing, guided tours, horseback riding, many, many things.

HOTEL AND SIGHTSEEING. $65 PER PERSON.

This gives your family 3 nights at a great hotel in New York (prices based on triple occupancy) plus even more choices of sightseeing, including an Avis car if you want.

HOTEL AND HERTZ CAR.

You can get 6 nights at a fine hotel in New York for $93 per person, or in Boston for $89 per person, or in Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia for $77 per person (prices based on triple occupancy) plus a rental car for four days with unlimited mileage. What's more, you'll also get sightseeing and dining bonuses.

HERTZ CAR.

Rent a standard or intermediate Ford from Hertz with unlimited mileage. Just pay for the gas, and return the car to the city where you rented it. These are the special vacation rates:

4 days—$75 5 days—$93
6 days—$108 7 days—$119

With these rates you'll also get bonuses on dining and other attractions.

PLUS A TWA GETAWAY GUIDEBOOK.

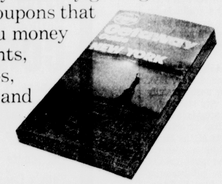
Not only are they great guidebooks, they have coupons that can save you money on restaurants, hotels, shops, sightseeing and more.



TWA's GETAWAY CARD.

You can use our Getaway Credit Card to charge airfare, hotels, meals, cars and TWA tours. And then take up to two years to pay.

*Getaway is a service mark owned exclusively by TWA.

For more information, call your travel agent or TWA.

TWA

MORE AIRLINE FOR YOUR MONEY.

COACH LOUNGES. Only TWA gives you a coach lounge on nearly every single flight to the East Coast, 747s and 707s. And TWA has the only 747 to Washington.

Hub Council Restricts Gasoline Price Signs To Station Windows

The San Anselmo City Council —told last night by service station operators that they were against permitting free-standing or pumptop price signs — made provision only for window signs.

Representatives of the Independent Service Station Operators protested a proposal that would allow free-standing price signs at service stations.

They said they surveyed the 13 service stations in the city and found only one owner in favor of them. If they were allowed, they argued, owners would use them to post things other than the price of gasoline, such as the price of oil or tire sales.

Councilmen agreed, but pointed out that they were informed by the city attorney that price signs cannot be prohibited, although currently not provided for in the sign ordinances.

Public Works Director Charles R. Leitzell said the only signs provided for were temporary window signs.

The service station operators said their survey showed that Fairfax and Larkspur allow free-standing price signs and San Rafael allows both free-standing and pump top signs, but they insisted that they don't want any in San Anselmo.

If price signs are allowed, the oil corporations owning stations would invariably install them creating eyesores, they complained.

After lengthy discussion, council approved the following provision for service stations.

"Not more than three signs, the total area of such signs not to exceed 100 square feet. One of said signs may be free-standing, provided its area does not exceed 100 square feet. One of said signs may be free-standing, provided its area does not exceed 40 square feet and it displays only the oil company name and/or emblem. One sign may be a price sign of permanent nature, within the allocation of window space otherwise permitted."

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

KAUFMAN EASEMENT — Delayed until Sept. 12 action on a request for an encroachment easement by Mozart Kaufman for property bordering on San Anselmo creek.

STREETS AND TRAFFIC — Discussed and praised a report from the Streets and Traffic Committee. Leitzell said many recommendations have been implemented, including marking street parking stalls on the north side of Red Hill Avenue, arranging for better night lighting in the Red Hill Shopping Center area and preparing to install a guardrail to stop eastbound cars from making U-turns across the divider strip on Red Hill Avenue to get to Orange Julius, Baskin-Robbins or to go west.

CARRIAGE HOUSE — Awarded a $4,636 contract to Kunst Brothers of San Rafael for exterior painting of the main house and carriage house at Robson-Harrington Park.

COUNCIL DOOR — Awarded a $355 contract to Ron Roberts to install a door on the council chambers to eliminate noise from the police department.

STREET WORK — Awarded a contract for $3,500 to Slurry Seal Co., of Santa Rosa and Redwood City for slurry sealing of city streets.

PRELIMINARY PROPOSAL — Approved a proposal of Hoffman and Albritton for preliminary engineering for the exchange of property of John Gay, owner of The Bourbon Shop, in the city at Greenfield Avenue and Sequoia Drive at Red Hill Avenue.

HOUSING COMMITTEE — Named to the City-County Planning Council's housing committee Jack Olive and Jan Fairchild.

CITY ATTORNEY — Approved of the City Attorney's estimate that he devoted 49 per cent of his time to work as city attorney from May 2, 1950 to March 3, 1972, to qualify for retirement credit.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Sept. 12 at 8 p.m. in City Hall.

Buresh To Retire As Hub Counsel

John G. Buresh, San Anselmo's city attorney for the past 22 years, announced his retirement last night.

He told the San Anselmo City Council the effective date depends on state processing of his relirement claim.

Mayor Warren R. Perry expressed the city's gratitude for Buresh's service over the years and said things will not be the same with someone else in his place.

Buresh, 62, has served as the city attorney since May, 1950. In 1963, he ran unsuccessfully for San Rafael city attorney.

He is a past president of the Marin County Bar Association, a past chairman of the Marin County Republican Central Committee and past county chairman for the gubernatorial campaign of William F. Knowland.

Board Sets Tour

Directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District will tour the Vierra property which the district is in the process of purchasing to extend its watershed at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The board will leave from the district office.

Church Body Sheds Africa Stocks

UTRECHT, The Netherlands (UPI)—The World Council of Churches has decided to sell its holdings in corporations doing business with white-ruled African nations and colonies.

The 250-member church federation's policy-making Central Committee took the step Tuesday in a resolution protesting racial discrimination in Africa.

Officials would not disclose the amount the council has invested in such companies, saying only that it was "small," and did not name the firms involved. Total council corporate investments amount to $3.6 million, officials said.

The 120-member policy committee adopted the resolution almost unanimously by a show of hands. The move came against the advice of the council's finance committee, which said it saw "little value" in withdrawing the investments, a step it labeled the "easy way out" and which "does little to alert corporation management and other investors to their involvement in strengthening oppressive regimes."

The council also called on President Nixon to withdraw all U.S. troops from Indochina immediately and halt the bombing of North Vietnam's dike system. A council statement said the organization is "convinced that continued United States military presence — whether through Vietnamization, the air war or in any form —is detrimental to peace in Indochina."

The fund-withdrawal resolution called on the finance committee to "sell forthwith existing holdings and to make no investments after this date in corporations which ... are directly involved in investment in or trade with any of the following countries: South Africa, Namibia (South West Africa), Rhodesia, Angola, Mozambique and Guinea-Bissao, and to deposit none of its funds in banks which maintain direct banking operations in those countries."

The resolution urged member churches, Christian agencies and individuals to press corporations into withdrawing investments from the countries named. It also urged a campaign to discourage white migration to South Africa, saying such migration "perpetuates and aggravates racial discrimination in the labor market."

Citizens To List Open Space Goals

C. William Thomas, chairman of the Corte Madera Planning Commission, was authorized last night to work with a citizens' committee on establishing open space purchase priorities.

The action came after the commission considered an excerpt from the town council's June 19 meeting, which suggested all remaining undeveloped parcels exceeding one acre in the town be acquired for public use.

Arthur N. Morrison, town engineer, said a map was displayed to the capacity audience showing 52 such parcels in the town.

The audience participated "at great length," said Morrison and Thomas was assigned to help the committee — headed by Valerie Carlson — come up with a list of priorities on which parcels are most desirable, then report back to the commission.

Morrison said many residents appeared to want all 52 parcels for public use "but the practical ones realize this is impractical from the standpoint of finance."

In other action the planning commission decided to ask the town attorney's opinion on the legality of issuing building permits to two developments under Corte Madera's emergency building moratorium.

Morrison said tentative maps for the Uplands apartments and for an eight-lot development in Hidden Valley had been approved before the moratorium.

However, commissioners asked whether the moratorium (which specifically placed a ban on "building") stopped the issuance of building permits.

The planning commission recommended the town council adopt a part of the proposed shoreline policy, reported Morrison, with a statement of purpose defining the "indispensable role" of the town's tidelands, shoreline, waterways, beaches, and mudflats and salt marshes.

The general statement of preservation alluded to uncontrolled filling which could destroy the delicately balanced biological system, and was, said Morrison, in essence, "a don't disturb the shoreline" policy.

The commission adjourned to Aug. 30 at 7:30 p.m. to consider the areas of the town to be included within the boundaries of its redevelopment agency, an action requested by town Manager Ronald E. Bartels.

Pentagon Paper Mountain Bared

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When a House Armed Services subcommittee asked the Defense Department for one copy of every standard form used at the Pentagon, it received 11,916 forms.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., asked Tuesday for an investigation of Pentagon paper policies declaring that "there is...a fantastic amount of wasted time, effort and money in filling out forms nobody reads or acts upon."

Pike said the material he received weighed more than 200 pounds and measured almost 100 square feet.

Warrant Out On Burglary

A bench warrant with bail set at $25,000 has been issued in Marin Superior Court for Gordon Jerome Phillips, 30, of San Francisco, who failed to show up last week for a jury trial on a burglary charge.

Phillips was chased and caught May 11 by two off-duty San Rafael policemen after he reportedly fled from an H street house that had been broken into.

Rooney Says Religion Helps

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Actor Mickey Rooney, trying to obtain full custody of four children by his fifth wife, told a judge Tuesday that religion had helped him curb his temper.

Rooney has applied to the court for custody of the children—three girls and a boy ranging in age from 9 to 12—who are now cared for by their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Thomason.

INJURED HIKER GETS LIFT OFF MOUNTAIN

Supported by fellow hikers, 13-year-old Suzanne Rider of Mill Valley is carried off Mount Tamalpais on a stretcher as an ambulance attendant looks on. Suzanne broke her leg when she slipped and fell into a ravine while hiking with a girlfriend yesterday afternoon. Her companion notified the ranger at the Marin County Fire lookout tower and an ambulance was summoned. She was taken to Franklin Hospital, San Francisco, where her father, Dr. Richard Rider, is a surgeon.

Highway 101 Projects In Progress

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. Two outside southbound lanes of Waldo Grade will be closed from the tunnel to the Golden Gate Bridge from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for paving.

2. The inside southbound lane between Marin City and the South end of the Richardson Bay Bridge will be closed from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for median work.

3. The outside southbound lane north of the Greenbrae interchange will be closed from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for slab removal.

4. One southbound lane near the Sportsmen's Lodge in Novato will be closed from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for drainage work.

5. The northbound outside lane 1.5 miles north of Washington Street in Petaluma will be closed from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. for slab replacement.

Sonoma Board Backs Bay Wildlife Refuge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has endorsed plans for a 16,800-acre wildlife refuge on San Pablo Bay.

The refuge begins at the mouth of the Petaluma River opposite Black Point and extends into Solano County, but 11,800 acres are in Sonoma County. The refuge will be maintained by the federal Migratory Birds Commission after local agencies officially designate the area as a refuge.

Richard Brower of the Bureau of Sport Fishing and Wildlife will manage the proposed refuge and told the supervisors Monday that 97 per cent of the birds on the Pacific Flyway use the area as a rest point. He said several endangered species inhabit the area. The federal government has been buying land in the area for two years.

The supervisors heard only one complaint on the plan when William Bisso of Sonoma said the bird population will increase and eat crops raised by local ranchers.

Heifetz Recital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Violinist Jascha Heifetz will present a solo recital on Oct. 23, his first solo appearance in Los Angeles in the last 17 years.

Petaluma Restores Bus Riding For Three Schools

The Petaluma Board of Education agreed last night to restore some busing service to three elementary schools.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said he recommended that bus transportation be resumed at Penngrove, McDowell and Grant Schools. All busing was dropped from the district in an economy move, but the board agreed to spend up to $10,000 on busing with extra funds that have been received from the state.

Meyer said the plan will include transferring students in the Linda Del Mar subdivision from the Cherry Valley School attendance area and placing them in the McKinley School area so busing won't be needed.

He said that bus service still won't be as complete as last year and that students might arrive at schools nearly an hour before classes begin. He said parents will be organized to supervise students during that time period.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

COMMUNICATION — Decided against forming a new committee to improve communication with the public and agreed instead to strengthern the advisory committees and parent-teacher associations.

TEACHERS — Hired and set salaries for four new teachers including Edith Howes, $7,294; Marilyn Mee, $7,185; Donna Radich, $7,294; and Katherine Saltzstein, $8,307.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Tuesday at 7 p.m. to tour the nearly complete Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School and to be followed with a closed session with teacher organization representatives to discuss personnel problems and grievances.

Uruguay, U.S. Set Extradition Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Uruguay have agreed to amend their extradition treaty to include aircraft hijacking, narcotics offenses and diplomatic kidnaps.

The State Department said Tuesday the amendments were approved by administration officials from Uruguay and the United States last week. They will take effect upon ratification by the U.S. Senate and the Uruguayan Parliament.

Council Recall Drive Brewing In Novato

Recall action against two Novato city councilmen, George C. Quesada and Fred F. Ruegg will be undertaken in October, according to Betty Machado, leader of the recall.

The move to recall originated after the two councilmen refused last week to reconsider condemnation of a strip of property along Hill Road, Mrs. Machado said.

At that time residents accused the council of condemning one man's property for the benefit of another and without adequate public discussion.

Mrs. Machado said the recall petitions won't be circulated until Oct. 15 because Ruegg, elected in April, won't be subject to recall until he has served six months.

Nominated to replace Quesada and Ruegg will be Geoffrey J. Bywater, a parks and recreation commissioner, and John C. Schoonover, planning commission chairman, unsuccessful candidates in the April council election, Mrs. Machado said.

About 4,000 signatures will be necessary for a recall election, she said. A recall committee will prepare the "wording of the petition," Mrs. Machado reported.

Protesting residents said the action wasn't in the public interest and was a case of seizing one person's property to benefit another, Paul Pickart, who needed to widen the road for his apartment project adjacent to Hill Junior High School.

Last week the two councilmen, despite a petition from 63 residents requesting a public hearing, failed to make a motion to reconsider the matter.

They had been advised in a memorandum from Acting City Atty. Ed Grundstrom to refrain from public comment on the Lieb property, since it might prejudice the city's case if the matter goes to court.

47th Stanford Heart Plant

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Surgeons headed by Dr. Norman E. Shumway have operated successfully on Stanford University Medical Center's 47th heart transplant patient.

An unidentified 47-year-old man was the second person within four days to receive a transplanted heart.

Last Thursday, a 26-year-old man received a heart transplant. Both patients were in satisfactory condition.

New Paper Items For Parties

Associated Press

Nowadays paper cups, plates, soup and salad bowls and dessert dishes come in such attractive patterns they can be used for parties.

A recent addition to this paperware comes in the Pennsylvania Gaudy Dutch design. This pattern features red and yellow colors, teamed with brown and white, and was originally used on toleware. All the Gaudy Dutch paperware is glazed and the 7-ounce dessert dishes may be used for baking at or up to 350 degrees; they go through the baking process without deterioration of color and design. Here's how to use these dessert dishes to make a Pennsylvania Dutch Peach Pudding.

PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH PEACH PUDDING

- 1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup milk
- 2 pounds fresh peaches, about 12 small or 5 large
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped if desired

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and ½ cup of the sugar; add egg and vanilla; beat well. Beat in the flour mixture alternately with the milk. Set this batter aside.

Peel and cut into ½-inch slices enough peaches to make 4 cups. Stir the remaining ¼ cup sugar into the peaches.

Spoon sugared peaches into six 7-ounce Gaudy Dutch design glazed paper dessert dishes. Divide any juice from peaches among the dishes.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until topping is browned-40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold; top, if you like, with whipped cream.

Makes six servings.

Note: Juices bubble up and may boil over; if they do, protect oven by putting a cookie sheet or piece of foil on shelf below pudding. Dishes may be placed on a cookie sheet before baking rather than on oven rack, if you like.

Pork Storage Needs Lower Temperature

Fresh pork should be stored in the coldest part (temperature as low as possible without actually freezing the meat) of the refrigerator or in the compartment designed for meat storage.

Fresh pork prepackaged for self-service should be stored in the refrigerator in the original wrapping not to exceed 2 days, or it may be frozen without rewrapping and stored in the freezer one to two weeks. For longer freezer storage the original package should be overwrapped with special freezer material.

Fresh pork, not prepackaged, should be removed from the market wrapping paper, wrapped loosely in waxed paper or aluminum foil and refrigerated, as prepackaged meat, not to exceed two days.

SMOKED PORK should be stored in its original wrapper in the refrigerator, not to exceed one to two weeks. Canned hams, unless storage recommendations on the can read to the contrary, should be refrigerated in the unopened can until ready to serve cold or to be heated for serving hot.

COOKED PORK should be wrapped, or covered, and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator within one to two hours after cooking.

Apples To Reach Markets Earlier

Shoppers may look for California's Red Delicious, Golden Delicious and Jonathan apples in the markets this week, two weeks earlier than usual. Dry, warm weather through most of the year has resulted in an earlier crop.

The Sebastopol area Delicious and Jonathans were approved for shipment last week, and the Watsonville Red Delicious were ready four days later.

Watsonville's Newtown Pippins can be expected within a week or two.

The apple supply is reported good this year by growers, says the California Apple Advisory Board.

Authentic Indian Dinner For Parents And Teachers

An authentic Indian dinner will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Illichs of Larkspur tomorrow, to the staff and parents of new students of the Independent Learning School in Corte Madera.

Julia and Chitresh Das, who is a teacher at the Ali Akbar School of Indian Dance, will prepare the spicy chicken curry of his native India. Das will entertain dinner guests with a story from Hindu mythology using mime.

The evening is planned to attract interest in a concert of dance and music from North India on Sept. 7 at 8 p.m. at Veterans' Auditorium in San Francisco to benefit the Independent Learning School.

In India the cooking is very different from one province to the next because of its population's immobility, its differing fruits, vegetables and cooking oils, and its tribal customs, according to Das.

Spicier foods, popular in the cool northern mountain regions, are considered "too heating" in tropical climates such as Calcutta's.

DAS EXPLAINED the religious ban on eating beef in India saying, "If beef were slaughtered Indians would not have cattle to till their fields, to provide dung for cooking fires and for plastering their mud huts. And there would be no milk." Fifty kinds of sweets are made from milk in India.

"You hear of the starvation in India; it is because of the unequal distribution of foods, which are plentiful in some areas," he said.

"You think that some Americans are poor. But those people have stoves and refrigerators; that is luxury by Indian standards," he said.

The men and children are served first, then the women eat at the second sitting, when a middle class Indian family dines. They sit on mats or low platforms, because few families own tables, and eat from a common bell metal platter of rice.

Holding the palm upward, the fingers scoop up a bit of rice. The chicken is torn with the fingers.

"Indians eat a lot of chicken," said Mrs. Das who was a dance student of her husband's father in India several years ago where she also learned Indian cookery.

CHICKEN CURRY WITH YOGURT

(serves six)

Approximately 12 large chicken pieces (legs, thighs and breasts)

- 6 to 8 wings
- 3 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1½ medium onions, chopped evenly
- 8 cloves garlic, grated
- 1½ inch stem of fresh giner root, grated
- 6 whole cloves
- 1 teaspoon cuminseed
- 2 large fresh tomatoes, sliced
- 8 peeled cardamom seeds
- 4 whole bay leaves
- ¼ teaspoon cumin powder
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash turmeric
- ¾ teaspoon mace
- 1 teaspoon ground red chili powder or 5 whole dried red chilies crushed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon yogurt
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup peas (mushrooms, carrots or mixed vegetables) or ¼ cup raisins or currants

Wash chicken pieces and set aside. In a heavy pot, large enough for chicken to be covered by water, heat oil over medium or medium high heat. Add onions and fry until very limp and just a bit golden, about 5 minutes.

Add garlic, ginger, cloves and cuminseeds. Stir and fry 5 to 10 minutes.

Then add tomatoes, mash and stir. Fry about 5 minutes until sauce begins to form. Sprinkle water in pot as needed to prevent sticking.

Now add cardamoms, bay leaves, cumin powder, cinnamon, turmeric, mace, chili powder and salt. Stir and cook a few minutes, sprinkling water as needed to prevent sticking. Then remove from heat, add yogurt and blend well.

Replace on medium heat. Add 2 cups of water and stir. Add chicken and, if needed, more water to cover the chicken.

Let cook for about 30 minutes with lid on. Stirring occasionally. Remove lid, add vegetables or raisins, and continue to cook until most of the water is evaporated and what remains is more like a sauce.

Serve this spicy curry over rice.

(The Northern Indian curry may seem quite hot to American palates. A little judicious experimenting with the spices, especially the chilies, is suggested.)

Three-Bean Salad A Pleasure To Serve

The ever popular three-bean salad is a real patron-pleaser. Use equal amounts of cooked red kidney, great northern and drained canned green beans. Put drained beans in a bowl.

Pour on Italian-type dressing over all. Add sweet onion rings and thin sliced celery. Mix carefully. Chill several hours, or overnight. Serve in crisp lettuce cups.

Try Consomme Inside Tomato For Cool Treat

Serve as an appetizer or cold summer soup in small ice-lined bowls . . .

JELLIED CONSOMME IN FRESH TOMATO SHELLS

- 1 10½ oz. can beef consomme
- 6 medium size fresh tomatoes
- Salt
- 2 tablespoons dairy sour cream
- Dill weed or parsley sprigs

Method: Refrigerate consomme for at least four hours so it will jelly. To peel tomatoes, pour boiling water over them. Let stand for one minute. Rinse with cold water and peel. Slice off stem end and scoop out the center. (This is easy to do if you own a serrated grapefruit spoon). Turn upside down on paper towel to drain. Chill. Salt tomato cavity. Spoon jellied consomme into center. Put a teaspoon of sour cream on top and garnish with either dill weed or parsley sprigs. Makes six servings.

A SUNDAY OUTING

Old-Fashioned Idea Is Big Winner

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

An old-fashioned Sunday outing with a picnic lunch, homemade ice cream, and straw hats sounds like a page out of any Gay Nineties scrapbook.

But it's the favorite party idea of a very "today" young girl, Lydia Anne Hodson of Lexington, Ky.

The party idea won Lydia a $2,500 college scholarship and first place in the 1972 America's Junior Miss Hostess Awards.

Lydia's scholastic average is A and she's won several honors, including the National Council of Teachers of English Award, 1972; National Honor Society membership; and National Forensic League degree of merit.

Her hobbies include writing poetry, painting and sculpture, horseback riding, and theater. Her reasons for an old-fashioned party are logical.

"A PARTY theme centered around the romantic, harmonious, turn of the century is a good remedy to relieve present-day tensions," said Lydia.

"I'd have the guests dress in Gay Nineties costumes and ride tandem bicycles to a local park. The girls would carry baskets of food such as potato salad, corn on the cob, fried chicken — and after lunch everybody would help crank the ice cream.

"Fun games to play would be horseshoes, 'Old Maid,' and croquet, with prizes of nosegays and straw hats to winners.

Her potato salad features a blend of potatoes, chopped celery, onion, eggs, salt, tomatoes, French dressing, and mayonnaise. An herb-butter recipe flavors the corn on the cob.

Decorations for the tablecloths include old-time pictures surrounded by fresh flowers, and place cards featuring drawings of a man and woman of the period.

The winning theme for Lydia's party is "Picnic In a Park Gazebo." The menu includes potluck potato salad, beaten biscuits with sliced ham, fried chicken foil-baked corn on the cob, old-time custard ice-cream, and lemonade.

Here are two of the winning recipes:

POTLUCK POTATO SALAD

- ⅓ cup French dressing
- 6 cooked medium potatoes, peeled, cubed
- 1¼ cups chopped celery
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- Cherry tomatoes for garnish(optional)

Pour dressing over warm potatoes; chill 2 hours. Add remaining ingredients, mixing lightly. Chill. Garnish with cherry tomatoes, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

OLD-TIME CUSTARD ICE CREAM

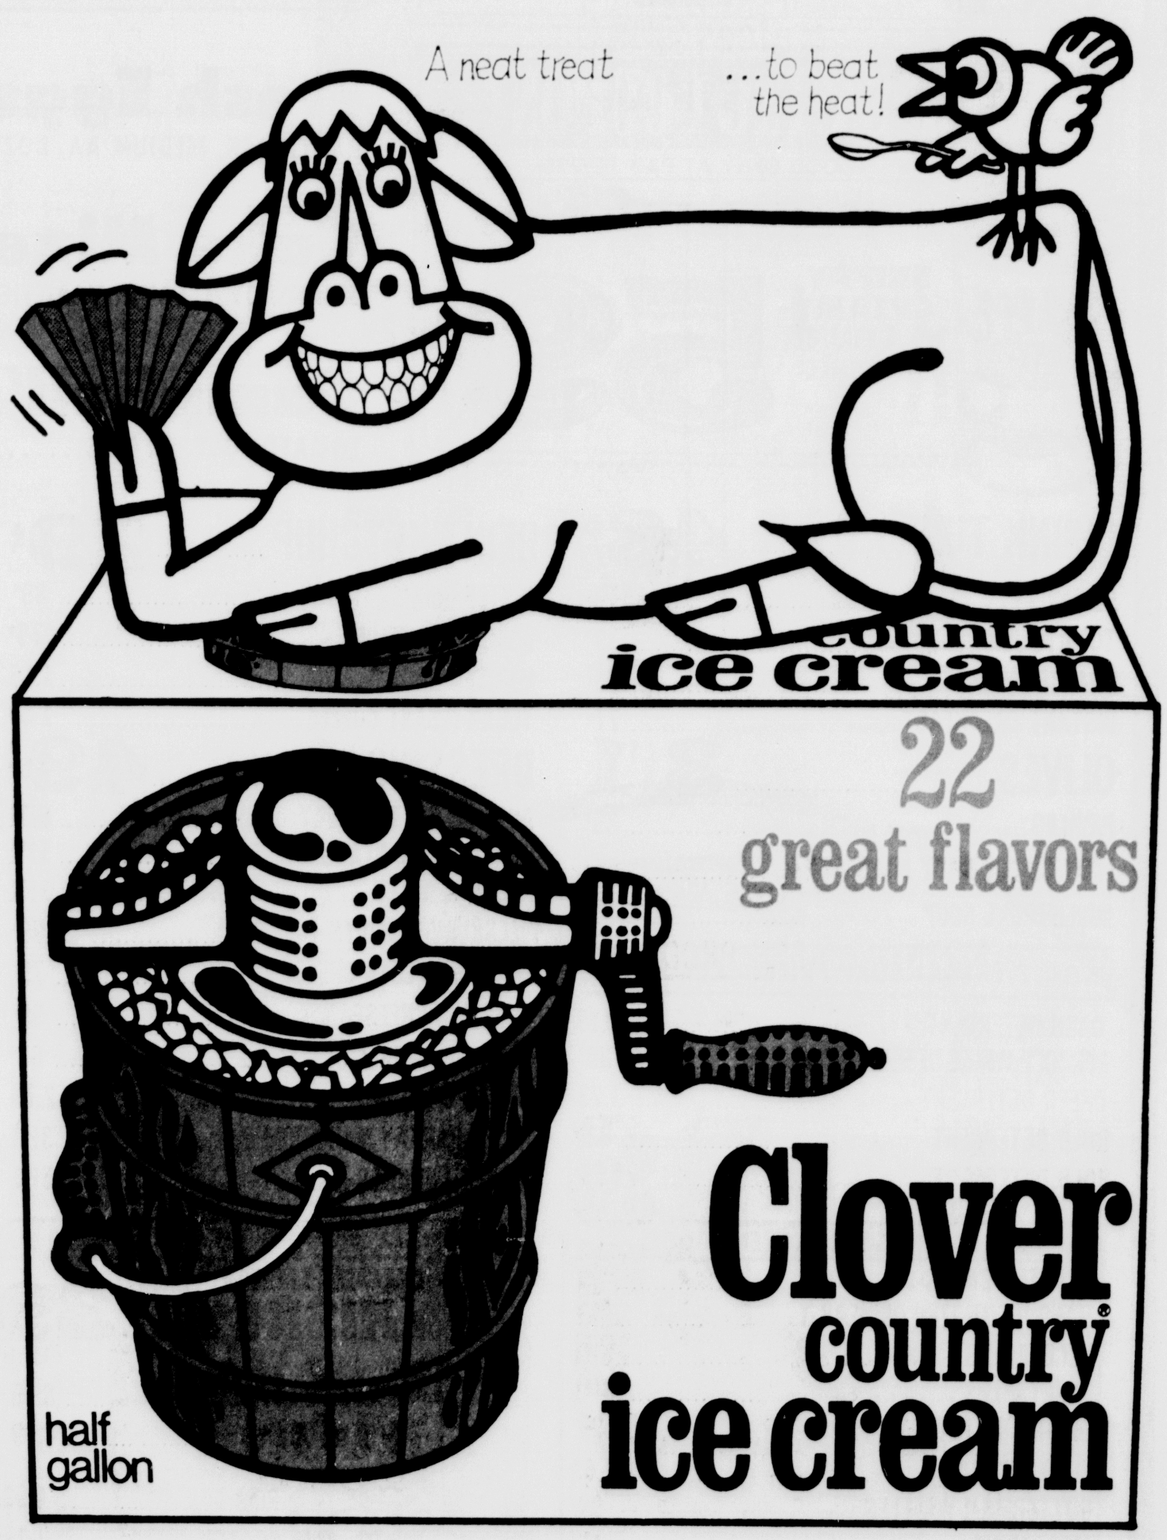
- 1½ cups sugar
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 quart milk
- 4 eggs, beaten
- 1 quart heavy cream
- 3 tablespoons vanilla extract
- Toppings of butterscotch, chocolate fudge, caramel or walnut.

Combine sugar, flour, and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring until thickened. Stir small amount of hot mixture into eggs. Return to hot mixture. Cook 2 minutes over low heat, stirring constantly. Chill. Stir in cream and vanilla: Freeze in ice cream freezer. Serve with assorted ice cream toppings. Makes 2½ quarts.

A WINNING picnic menu is made up of old-fashioned favorites: potato salad, fried chicken and corn on the cob. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

Sour Cream Bowl

Peel and slice 2 medium cucumbers. Pour over them a dressing made by blending together 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 ½ tablespoons vinegar and 1 small onion, grated. Chill. Serve with any meat or fish.



COOL IT!

Russian Food Hearty, Simple And Plentiful

Generally four meals are served daily. These include breakfast, lunch, dinner and a late evening snack around the samovar. The samovar means "self-cooker." Russians use the samovar solely to heat the water for their tea. They never make the tea itself in the samovar.

Because the Russians enjoy conviviality while eating and the food is so delicious, you might like to have an authentic Russian dinner.

Your menu could include piroshki (meat filled pies) served as appetizers before the meal. Served along with this, would be pieces of French roll spread with cheese and toasted. These are called Grenki, and they can be served as appetizers or along with the soup, which is a Russian favorite. The most common type of soup is cabbage soup which makes a nutritious main course served with a container of sour cream.

Finally, no Russian menu could be complete without kasha, which is any grain baked for hours in a slow oven. For a vast majority of Russians, soup and kasha form the staple diet throughout the year.

CABBAGE SOUP

3 pounds beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 pound beef soup bones
1 clove garlic, skewered on wood pick
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
1 tablespoon salt
3 carrots, cut in ½-inch pieces
2 cups thinly sliced onions
2 pounds cabbage, quartered, cored, coarsely chopped
2 small turnips, diced
3 stalks celery, cut in 1-inch pieces
3 large boiling potatoes, peeled, cut in ½-inch dice
1 No. 2½ can (3½ cups) tomatoes, chopped

In a heavy 7½-quart Dutch Oven, bring beef, bones, garlic, bay leaf, parsley, dill, salt, and 4 quarts water to a boil. Simmer 2 hours, skimming foam knd excess fat as they rise to surface. With slotted spoon remove bones, garlic and bay leaf. Add onions, cabbage, carrots, turnips and celery. Simmer 30 minutes. Add potatoes and tomatoes; cook another 30 minutes. Taste for seasoning. Garnish with fresh minced parsley. Serve a bowl of sour cream on the side. Makes 7 quarts.

New Rules For Pork

Both boneless and bone-in roasts of pork should be cooked to an internal temperature of 170 degrees. Research studies show that they need not be cooked to 185 degrees as was formerly recommended.

BAKED BUCKWHEAT KASHA

1 egg, beaten
1½ cups coarse buckwheat groats
2 cups chopped onion
2 Tablespoons butter
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
3 Tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water

Stir egg into buckwheat groats in skillet. Heat, stirring, till each grain is separate and dry. Transfer to roaster. Saute onions in skillet in 2 Tablespoons butter 5 minutes until just soft; add to groats. Cook mushrooms in 3 Tablespoons butter 3 minutes; add to groats. Add salt; stir in boiling water. Cover; bake at 350° for 50 to 60 minutes. Kasha should be moist and fluffy — grains separate — not mushy.

No Need To Thaw

Don't hesitate to cook a frozen roast in its frozen state. Its eating quality and yield will be comparable to that of a cooked fresh or thawed roast.

Peaches Add Eye Appeal

Summer's juiciest sun ripened peaches are too lovely to be hidden under even the best of upper crusts. The golden slices seem meant to show off between the openings of woven lattice. Don't let the peach season pass without making Fresh Peach Lattice Pie at least once.

FRESH PEACH LATTICE PIE

1 recipe double crust pastry
½ to ⅔ cup sugar
1½ to 2 tablespoons corn starch
⅛ teaspoon salt
5 cups peeled, sliced ripe peaches
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon margarine

Mix together sugar, corn starch and salt; sprinkle over peaches. Add lemon juice and toss together until well coated. Line a 9-inch pie pan with one half of pastry allowing 1 inch overhang. Fill shell with peach mixture and dot with margarine. Roll remaining pastry into 12-inch circle. Cut into 10 (½-inch strips with pastry wheel or knife. Place five of the strips across filling. Weave lattice crust with remaining strips by folding back alternate strips as each cross strip is added. Fold trimmed edge of lower crust over ends of strips; seal and flute. Bake in a 425° F. (hot) oven 30 to 35 minutes or until browned.

WOMAN IN MAN'S JOB

Jackie Oder Is Huge Rig's Boss

By GAY PAULEY

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Jackie Oder, five-feet-3 and 125 pounds, travels the open road with 72,000 pounds of gross weight as her responsibility.

Mrs. Oder drives her own tractor-trailer rig transcontinentally solo except for a seven-pound dachshund companion and is one of the few women in this tradionally masculine world.

"I haven't run into any resentment from men," she said. "There's a great fraternity among those on the road. The men know this is a tough job and I'm doing a good job."

AS FOR that lightweight female pulling tons around, she said, "You don't need a lot of muscle, just tensile tensils strength. And I don't hustle freight. The terminals load my cargo."

Even so, the statistics are amazing for the 48-year-old woman who went into truck driving three yearsago to keep faith with her second husband, Robert, an Air Force career man killed on his third tour in Vietnam. The couple had planned to become a driving team when he retired.

Mrs. Oder's rig, manufactured by White Motors, represents an investment of $45,500. It's 40 feet long, weighs 32,000 pounds and can pack a freight load of 40,000 pounds.

We talked while her westbound cargo was being loaded at the Brady Motorfrate terminal in Jersey City. She has a long term lease of her rig to Brady. The load headed to Omaha, Neb., was a mixture of commodities, but her West to East run from Omaha always is beef or pork, she said.

MRS. ODER logs about 12,000 miles per month (most of it night driving), clears about $1,100 per month, and said the longer she drives the better she likes the job.

"I don't know of other women driving solo," she said, "but there are increasing numbers of husband-wife teams on the road. Most truck stops realize this and are providing things like shower facilities for women too."

The U.S. Department of Transportation tries to assure that truckers don't get overly tired — Mrs. Oder said it requires drivers to take an eight-hour break every 10 hours. Most rigs have two drivers, so they can spell each other, say four hours on, four off.

WHEN MRS. Oder begins to tire, she just pulls off the road and sleeps. She's not fearful. There's the dog, Half Pint, who considers the tractor his own and most of the rest areas are fairly well lighted, she said.

She's made certain the cab is as comfortable as possible for her and puppy, who was born in the first rig she owned.

The cab is air-conditioned, equipped with radio and television and she's made a mini-dressing room out of the area that a second driver would use. She also carries roller skates so she can get in some exercise at stops.

She always carries snack packs and fresh fruit but also insures herself with one good meal a day. The more sophisticated stops are providing better meals for drivers, she said, realizing that "you can't very well go to a local drive-in with a 40-foot rig."

Mrs. Oder, who now calls Sioux City, Iowa, her home, is of Irish ancestry, but was born in China where her father was in the U.S. Navy. Leading the life of the military brat and later married into the military, she has lived all over the United States and Western Europe.

SHE STUDIED law at the University of Madrid and also attended the University of Maryland and Central Tech in Kansas City.

The driver is an expert horsewoman, used to drive racing cars, is a member of the International Sky Divers Association and she also motorcycles.

"I met my second husband when I hit him with a motorbike in San Francisco," she recalled. "He stepped off a curb in my path."

His death in 1966 in Vietnam left her alone (four children from her two marriages are dead) except for her many interests and the promise to him that if anything happened she'd use some of the insurance to invest in a rig.

FOR FALL, IT'S WOOL

Vows Are Repeated At Lake Tahoe

Cathy Lynn Nelsen of Oakland and John Dennis Blanchfield of Corte Madera were married at Lake Tahoe, Nev., in an evening rite on Aug. 12.

The couple will live in Oakland after their wedding trip to several islands in Hawaii. A reception will be held for them Sept. 3 at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David R. Palmer of Corte Madera. John is also the son of the late John Belair Blanchfield.

Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Nelsen of Fresno. Currently tutoring at the University of California at Berkeley, she is a graduate of Bullard High School and U.C. The bride is also the sister of Stan W. Nelsen.

John is a graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco and attends the College of Marin. He is employed with Podesta and Baldocchi Florists in San Francisco.

Charles G. Blanchfield is his brother.

Zoe Seegos Marries In Novato Rite

Zoe Angelique Seegos and Michael Matheson were married at St. Anthony's Church in Novato on Aug. 13.

Zoe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Constantine Seegos of Novato and Michael is the son of Mr and Mrs. Gerald Matheson of Sebastopol.

The bride chose Tandra Hearell as her maid of honor and bridesmaids were Joanne Hunter of Novato, Randi Schepps of San Anselmo, Jody Laken of Novato and Dee Dee Franzi of Greenbrae.

William Schact of San Rafael was best man and ushering guests to their seats were Harold Hickey and Steve Nelson of San Rafael and Robert Franzi of Greenbrae.

Following a reception at Novato Community House, the couple went on a wedding trip to Canada. They will live in Novato.

The bride graudated from San Marin High School. She is the sister of John and Philip Bernardi. Mrs. Grace Marcucci of San Jose is their local grandmother.

The bridegroom graduated from Novato High School and is employed at E. D. Bullard in Sausalito. He is the brother of Sherylin Bullock of Duluth, Minn.

Miss Black U.S. Has High Goals

By JOHN KIRSHON

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't represent black or white, but teen-agers everywhere," said 15-year-old Cynthia Lewis, winner of the Miss Black Teen-Age America Contest.

"Winning the contest will help me fulfill some of my goals for the future."

And goals she has. Miss Lewis, a sophomore honor student at Lamarck-Fleming High School in Houston, is a poised, soft-spoken young woman who wants to go to Harvard.

"It's been my ambition since early childhood to be a lawyer because this will give me the chance to help my people help themselves," she said. And Miss Lewis combines abilities she believes will prepare her well for reaching her ambition.

In the pageant's talent competition she read a dramatic speech from Joan of Arc from the book by J. Williams, as well as George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

In fact, Miss Lewis's major interest is oratory and she has won three first prizes in speech contests in her native city of Houston — the Sam Houston prose reading contest, the district speech meet and the city-wide oratory contest.

BUT JOAN of Arc has a special place and meaning in the contest-winner's life: "Like John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King she worked for what she believed in. And I identify with that."

What, then, is the appeal of woman's liberation to someone who is young, black and beautiful?

"As far as job equality and equal opportunity, I am all in favor of woman's lib, but digging ditches? No. I do think it will be more of a handicap being a woman than being black in reaching my ambition as a lawyer."

Besides being an honor student and possessing a prize-winning speaking voice, Miss Black Teen-Age America is active in community affairs and is her school's official representative for Seventeen magazine.

Miss Lewis made her pageant debut in the Miss Texas teen-age contest. The Houston fashion models guild picked 19 girls from the state as contestants and when she was announced the winner it meant becoming Texas's entry in the national contest and a ticket to New York.

"I had positive thoughts all the way here," she declared. Judged on personality, talent, achievement and an outgoing youthful look, contestants from 36 states gathered in Madison Square Garden for the Miss Black Teen-age America pageant. After two hectic and exciting days of competition — including talent, dance, achievement, personality and evening gown — Cynthia was named one of five semi-finalists.

WHEN ASKED the question, "What gift would you give to the world?" before the large audience and the contest's judges, Cynthia replied, "I would give love, but not without peace" and moments later she was announced as winner.

As the winner of the second annual Miss Black Teen-Age Contest, which is sponsored by Pepsi-Cola, Eastern Airlines and Sheraton Hotels, Miss Lewis will be awarded a $1,500 cash "self-achievement award," trips to Disney World and Puerto Rico and numerous wardrobe and gift prizes. During the year of her reign she will make personal appearance tours across the country.

This year's reigning titleholder believes she now has a duty to the teen-agers of America to tell them to "get involved in civic and community projects and help other people who are less fortunate than they."

Is she interested in trying for another pageant crown?

"Oh yes," she said. "Next year I'm going to try for Miss U.S.A."

August 1974 Wedding Plans Are Announced

The engagement of Diane Uilani Chadwick to William Earl Schultz has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jene H. Chadwick of Woodacre.

Diane has three sisters, Darleen, Denice and Julie Chadwick, and one brother, Jay Chadwick.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Schultz of Fairfax are the parents of the future bridegroom. His sisters are Amy Schultz, Mrs. Jerry Feickert and Mrs. Charles Alvarez. F. W. Schultz of Fairfax is his grandfather.

Diane and William are graduates of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed by Atlas Electric and Engineering Co. in San Francisco, and the future bridegroom is employed by the Marin County Fire Department at Woodacre.

The couple plans to be married in August 1974 and to attend the University of California together in the fall of 1974.

Special Care For Custom Garments

Those handy hangtags giving cleaning instructions on ready to wear garments are denied the home seamstress who deals with unmarked fabric bolts.

Polyester doubleknits can be either dry cleaned or laundered. If laundered, hand wash or use a gentle machine cycle, warm water and mild detergent. Hang to dry. Use dryer only if equipped with air-only setting.

Banlon is a nylon fabric with a smooth surface which retards soiling. For this reason, water should be warm, not hot, and the wash cycle short.

Newlywed Negherbons To Live In East Bay

Trudy Chapman of Mill Valley and Gary Joseph Negherbon of Oakland exchanged nuptial vows Saturday in a noon ceremony at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. James Harold Chapman of Mill Valley and the late Mr. Chapman, had as her maid of honor her sister, Elizabeth Chapman of Mill Valley. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Cheryl Negherbon of Oakland, Elaine Holland of Chico and Mrs. Bill Nelson of San Rafael.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Negherbon of Oakland, was served as best man by Ralph Sorani of Castro Valley. Ushers were Joseph Benassini of Oakland, Bob Baldwin of Moraga and Bob McGuiness of Oakland.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley. On their return from a wedding trip to the islands of Oahu and Kauai, Hawaii, the couple will live in the East Bay.

The bridegroom graduated from St. Mary's High School and St. Mary's College and is employed with Negherbon Lincoln-Mercury in Oakland. He is the grandson of Mrs. Leo Negherbon of Castro Valley and Mrs. Joseph Benassini of Oakland.

Eileen Herold Is Wed

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael was the setting Sunday for the wedding of Eileen Herold of Novato and Joseph Lee Koschalk of Brighton, Colo.

Eileen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Herold of Novato. She chose as her only attendant Debbie Dorion of San Anselmo.

Dean Baccei of Fairfax served as best man and ushers were Paul Frosdick of Stockton and John Nugent of San Jose.

A wedding reception was held at Marin Valley Mobile Country Clubhouse prior to a brief wedding trip.

Eileen will be a freshman and Joseph will start his third year at University of Nevada in Reno.

The bride, the sister of Thomas Herold of Incline Village, Nev., graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo. She has been employed at Coit Drapery Cleaners and Yvonne Von Broeckel Montessori Nursery School in San Rafael.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Koschalk. He graduated from San Rafael Military Academy. He is the brother of Jack Koschalk, counselor at Hanna School for Boys in Sonoma, and Mrs. Betty Howe of Denver, Colo.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Married In A Daze, Now He Wants To Get An Annulment

DEAR HELEN:

A J.P. married us on a wild weekend trip to Las Vegas. It seemed a good idea at the time but I admit I was partly smashed.

We've been fighting together eight months and I want out, but she doesn't. I've remembered a couple of technicalities that might get me an annulment. What do you think?

First, when the J.P. read off the usual mumbo jumbo my mind wandered, and when he asked "Do you take this woman. . .etc.?" I just nodded my head, so he said, "I do," prompting me, and I said "Yeah." Later we kidded each other about which man my "wife" married — me or the guy who said "I do." (That was before regret set in.)

Second, I discover in looking over the license that my name isn't spelled right. They've got it Robert Smith instead of Rupert Smithe, and Robert Smith could be 10,000 other men. (The J.P. had been tippling too.) I signed several things that night, but my signature is a scrawl when I'm drunk.

An annulment is easier and cheaper than a divorce. Is it possible? — RUPERT SMITHE (Not my real name but you get the idea)

DEAR RUPERT:

Probably not, but only a lawyer can tell you for sure. Maybe he might make "unsound mind" a case for annulment. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband's brothers are big burly men who think throwing their babies high in the air and catching them, or balancing a nine-month-old by one foot (also high above their heads) is fine just because she laughs.

Their wives think we are "overprotective" because I keep poisons in unreachable places and medicines locked up. I don't leave razor blades, knives or scissors around, and think it's better to put candy away than constantly say "No-no."

Their standard remark is "They have to learn some time," and they imply that we'll either bring up a sissy or a child who rebels and leaves home early.

I've got to the point where I'm going to say something nasty if they don't stop harping. How can I shut them up? — YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

Why don't you throw the book at them? Dr. Spock's, I mean. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

About the woman who was less than thrilled when her husband brought home tickets to a live baseball game (saying she had enough TV sports without that).

I'm disgusted with females who expect support and love from their husbands but who can't give them a weekend to enjoy sports. Why don't these selfish dames become interested in their men's hobbies, sit down and enjoy the games too? Why waste time sulking because they get less attention than the TV screen?

My marriage isn't perfect but it's happy because I've learned to give as well as receive, and we both go on the theory that when "love is blind" to minor faults it sees the major blessings twice as clearly. — A.S.

DEAR A.:

Happy football season to you, too.

(As one of those people who can't get enthralled with spectator sports, I take my irrepressible force out on the typewriter when my husband becomes an immovable object in front of the Saturday TV screen.) — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Style Hints For Mother-To-Be

Styles may go out of fashion, but babies keep coming. Here are some style hints for the mother-to-be.

Style choices are plentiful this year. Among them count this season's one or two-piece dresses with pleats that remain flat as the mother expands, as well as the up-to-date "smock" look and the fasionable "peasant-dress" style.

As for colors, anything that is flattering goes. However, for those women whose complexions tend to become a bit sallow, pink and red are especially flattering.

Royal Pleasure

During the reign of Charles I of England, ice cream was held in such high esteem that he ordered it confined to the royal table only.

Fair-Bardello Rite In Virginia Church

Robert Thomas Fair of Mill Valley claimed Maryann Elizabeth Bardello of Springfield, Va., as his bride Saturday in a noon nuptial mass at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Annandale, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph C. Bardello of Springfield, and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rodden Fair of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Frank A. Damico of Myersdale, Pa., was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. Robert Scott Craig of Pennsylvania, and the bridegroom's sister, Elizabeth J. Fair of Mill Valley, and Dianne M. Drahot of Oaha, Neb.

Kenneth William Fair of Mill Valley served his brother as best man. Ushers were another brother, Richard Alfred Fair of Mill Valley, William James Talbott III of San Bruno, John S Sweet of Larkspur and Philip C. Johnson of Goshen, Ind.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Springfield Golf and Country Club. The couple will live in San Francisco on their return from a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands.

A graduate of Robert E. Lee High School in Springfield and St. Mary's College at Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., the bride is employed at the Bank of America in San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and the University of Santa Clara and is attending the University of San Francisco Law School. He has another sister, Joan Marie Fair of Mill Valley, and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Weiss of Mill Valley.

New Safety Rules For Play Vehicles

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The federal government has decided to take another step toward stemming the rising rate of serious accidents involving recreational vehicles.

It published a set of regulations last week designed to provide more information to prospective purchasers about the hazards of overloading and wrong-loading camper-trucks, one of the most popular type of recreational vehicle.

"Campers," as they are known to most people, consist of a cabin fitted onto a pickup truck. Their relatively low price compared to other types of mobile living facilities and their versatility have helped create record sales.

Already, there are an estimated 3.5 million recreational vehicles (RVs) on the road. Sales have risen more than 600 per cent since 1960.

ACCIDENTS HAVE also increased, although statistics about them are scarce. From the little data available, however, it is clear that many of the problems could be avoided if users knew more about them.

The new rule, which tightens a previous proposal, requires that both the owner's manual and a permanent label on the vehicle disclose the total weight of the attached camper, including standard equipment and supplies, such as bottled gas and even the ce in the refrigerator.

The manual also would have to disclose weights for optional accessories and illustrate the vehicle's center of gravity under various conditions.

THE NEW regulations reflect the principal causes of accidents involving campers: loading them beyond capacity and loading them so that the center of gravity is too far back for adequate control of the vehicle in high winds or on winding roads.

In many accidents, tires and wheels have disintegrated because of excessive loads. Apparently, too few people realize the close relationship between vehicle weight and tire size and inflation. At high speeds and in hot weather, temperatures may get high enough to burn up tires.

A survey by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which published the safety rules, showed that one-fourth of the campers checked in 1969 were carrying loads too great for the tires. One dealer has estimated that the figure is more likely to be about 60 per cent.

The new standards do not attack another common problem, flimsiness of construction of the camper itself. The Recreational Vehicle Institute, the industry's trade association, has tried to set up standards but has been successful only in regard to plumbing, electrical and heating elements.

VOLUNTARY IMPROVEMENTS have been made by numerous manufacturers. They include better tires and stronger construction. Leaders of the industry recognize the importance of safety for long-term sales. Most of the problems have come from lesser known firms that have rushed into the business with low-price rigs that ignore important safety factors.

For present and prospective owners of campers, the new government regulations could serve as warning signals. Although they are not due to take effect until next January, they point up the importance of checking total weight and the balance of weight before starting a trip. Tires that are too small or under-inflated are invitations to disaster.

Further information about safe use of RVs can be obtained from the Recreational Vehicle Institute, 2720 Des Plaines Ave., Des Plaines, Ill., 60018.

Belvedere Nursery School Will Open

The Belvedere Nursery School on Cove Road will open the fall term on Sept. 18 with both a two-day-a-week program and a three-a-week program.

Principal Mrs. Barbara Ryall said that parents who have not enrolled their children may contact the school. Minimum age for children is 3.

Measuring The Baby For Shoes

The National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers offers this tip about caring for the infant's feet:

Although in some cases stretch yarns now provide growing room, infants' socks are still carefully sized to provide comfort and proper fit.

You should measure your children's feet often to make sure that their shoes and socks are not too small.

If the child is old enough to stand alone, you can place a ruler flat on the floor and let the child step down to record the length of the foot. If an infant is too young to stand, then gently press the ruler against the sole of the foot to get your measurement.

Use this "inch measurement" — not age — as a guide when buying shoes and socks.

Court Alterations Agreed For Wheelchair Judge

After two rounds of debate, supervisors stuck by their decision to spend $4,735 immediately so newly appointed Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas can maneuver his wheelchair onto a courtroom bench in time for his inauguration Friday.

Thomas suffered crippling gunshot injuries to his spine in the Aug. 7, 1970, shoot-out at Marin Civic Center when Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, three convicts and a teenaged conspirator were killed. Thomas, then assistant district attorney, recently was appointed to the Municipal Court judgeship.

County Administrator John F. Barrows told supervisors yesterday morning that widening the rear doors to three of the four municipal court courtrooms in the hall of justice, building a portable ramp and remodeling the judges' restroom would cost $9,300, according to the county public works department.

Presiding Judge Robert A. Smallman, learning of the board's midmorning decision to remodel only one courtroom, appeared late in the afternoon to protest.

"I was appalled at the price of cutting four doors," Smallman told supervisors, "but I implore you — in essence you're making Judge Thomas a second-class judge by saying 'you can't handle cases' in all four municipal courtrooms."

Smallman explained that traffic court must be conducted in room 11, and the criminal calendar in room 9 because of proximity to the clerk's office and to holding cells for prisoners.

Smallman, while urging that all courtrooms be altered to enable Thomas to shift from one to the other, nevertheless made it plain that such shifting has its hardships and cited occasional separation from his carved wooden eagle as an example.

"Courtroom 7 was mine, and I put up my three-foot eagle," Smallman said. Due to shifting to hear different types of cases, "most of the time I'm without my eagle," he complained in a mild voice. "The eagle's been in my family over 90 years. It sat in my grandfather's federal courtroom in Ohio."

Board members unanimously agreed that Barrows should report next week on the least costly way to make all four courtrooms accommodate Thomas's wheelchair, but said they wanted only one courtroom remodeled immedaitely.

The supervisors made no promises about Smallman's eagle.

County Embarrassed—It Broke San Rafael's Sign Ordinance

Red-faced county officials today were asking San Rafael city fathers' forgiveness for violating the city's sign ordinance.

It seems those blue flags hanging from Fourth Street light poles to ballyhoo the Marin County Fair are illegal. Fair Manager Marcell McCoy learned the fact yesterday, after the flags had been up a scant 24 hours.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini told her the flags must come down, Mrs. McCoy told the board of supervisors late in the day.

She had checked with the city manager's office, the Jaycees and other organizations which gave the go-ahead, Mrs. McCoy said. But the sign law was changed in January, and Bettini said it forbids such flags, she reported.

"Do you mean they're not going to have Christmas decorations in December," queried Supervisor Louis H. Baar.

"I'm told the only exception is Red Tag Days" for downtown merchant sales, Mrs. McCoy replied.

Board chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. instructed County Administrator John F. Barrows to seek a solution with city officials. "Remind them the fairgrounds is in the city and any sales tax collected will help the city," he suggested.

"I hope the board remembers this when we get someone in front of us on a violation," Baar added. "Even a county can do wrong."

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Norman Campbell to the board of appeals; Joaquin Gallardo and Leland S. Bright to the human rights commission, and Terrell Clinton and Ginny Lamer to the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee.

HEARINGS — Scheduled a rezoning hearing for Casa Madera near Corte Madera Sept. 5, an appeal of approval of master plan for Collins and Curren property in the San Rafael area Sept. 12, rezoning for Gilbert Allard in the Strawberry area Sept. 12, and master plan amendment for Lucas Valley unit 10 on Aug. 29.

WORKSHOP — Heard at a workshop with the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee that the housing subcommittee will conduct a countywide survey similar to the one it conducted in San Rafael in an effort to find emergency housing. Also, it was reported that public education is needed in Marin for a better understanding of the food stamp program so that recipients are not resented in retail stores by clerks and shoppers as they sometimes are in Marin.

PRAISE — Praised the department of public works for receiving the Paul Wood memorial safety award for the best safety record of seven North Coast counties during the past fiscal year.

ACCEPTANCE OF LAND — Accepted a strip of land along Fairfax-Bolinas Road dedicated to the county by Gilbert P. and Gayle R. Murphy.

BIDS — Authorized opening of bids Sept. 11 for replacing 500 feet of trunk sewer main near Flamingo Road and Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley.

LEASE — Approved a lease agreement between the Belvedere-Tiburon branch of the Marin County Library and Belvedere Land Co. for $555 monthly rent for five years.

DRUG EDUCATION — Renewed a contract with Catholic Social Services for a drug education program for teen-agers and young adults at a cost to the county of $13,200.

CONSOLIDATION — Authorized the consolidation of a $500,000 municipal bond election in Novato for swimming pool facilities with the Nov. 7 statewide election.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Entered an agreement with Larskpur to provide a recreational program for senior citizens at a cost to the county of $300.

CLASSIFICATION — Authorized the classification of a senior typist position in comprehensive health planning, on the recommendation of Jane Waggener, personnel analyst.

PROTEST — Heard protests from the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen on lowering the structural fire tax for support of the Marin County Fire Department. The group said a decrease only increases the burden for structual fire protection upon property owners in incorporated cities.

PATROL — Deferred action for three weeks on a request to the San Rafael City Council to augment police patrol services at the civic center. Supervisors believed they needed more information on the present level of police protection at the county facility as compared to protection of private facilities in the city.

WITHDRAWAL — Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, head of the department of health services, deleted his request for a new position of education and planning coordinator at a salary of $7,044. He said he believes the department "can provide this function adequately from within the department with present personnel." He had requested the position Aug. 4.

MAINTENANCE — Continued the salary of $1,805 per month for a chief of planning and administration in the health service department, on Dr. Cooke's recommendation. Personnel director Maren Rinne had suggested it be lowered to a range of $1,454 to $1,767 per month.

PROJECTOR — Authorized $554.20 to County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli for purchase of a 16-millimeter projector for use in training programs.

CANDIDATE — Refused to abolish county policy of requiring election candidates to pay in advance for including their qualifications statements in the sample ballot mailing. Gregory C. Fearon, candidate for Marin Junior College District board, asked abolition of the deposit rule, citing a recent state appellate court decision. County Counsel Douglas J. Mahoney said the decision was held in abeyance, because the state Supreme Court is to hear the matter in September.

TRANSPORTATION — Put over to next Tuesday the hearing on Phase Two of the Balanced Transportation Program.

FOSTER HOME — Adopted a resolution approving a new rate of $1,074 per month for each county court ward placed in the Sunny Hills institution.

ABATEMENT — Continued hearing on assessment of a lein and abatement of the Rodriguez property on Shoreline Highway near Marshall, where septic tank problems have occurred.

GRADING — Instructed resident Kenneth Carpenter of Panoramic Highway, and the county public works department to get together in settlement of continuing controversy over a grading permit for Carpenter's driveway. Carpenter told the board that Irving L. Schwartz, county land development engineer, was "on an ego trip" and refused to issue the permit.

Nothing Unexpected In Miami, Tass Says

MOSCOW (UPI)—The official news agency Tass told Soviet citizens today "nothing unexpected" was happening at the Republican convention in Miami Beach.

"Party bosses have taken measures in good time to preclude any criticism of government policy," Tass said. "Nothing unexpected has happened so far."

Ross Traffic Tangles Vex Supervisors

Everyone agreed at the Marin County Board of Supervisors meeting yesterday that there is a serious traffic problem at Ross General Hospital. No one, however, could decide what to do about it.

So the issue was referred back to the public works department with instructions to confer with Ross and hospital officials and make recommendations.

The matter was introduced by Ray W. Foreaker Jr., county department of public works director, who summarized the problem with this observation:

"Whatever changes can be made at this time will only be a band-aid on a problem requiring major surgery, i.e., the widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through Ross to four lanes."

He told the board that, "because of extremely high traffic densities on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, it is frequently virtually impossible to make the left turn movement either entering or leaving the hospital."

Hospital officials had suggested installation of a conventional traffic signal at the hospital entrance, but Foreaker said it would only cause more congestion and delay emergency vehicles.

Hospital officials also recommended an emergency signal light that would be activated by emergency room personnel when an emergency vehicle is entering or leaving the hospital. While calling such a signal "less objectionable" and "reasonable", Foreaker pointed out that it would cost about $14,000.

Supervisors were cool to such an idea, contending that it could actually hinder emergency vehicles if activated a few seconds too soon, blocking other cars in front of the emergency vehicle. And, they said, if a patient was being transported in a family car, it would be difficult for emergency room personnel to spot the approaching car and activate the signal at the proper time.

Muscular Dystrophy Fund-Raiser Slated

A skate-a-thon aimed at raising funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America will be held from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday at Marin Skateland, 863 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

Donations received at the door will be contributed to the Jerry Lewis Telethon on Labor Day weekend for the benefit of the association.

Marinview 5th-Unit Plans Change Hands

Plans for the fifth unit of the controversial Marinview subdivision above Tamalpais Valley were returned yesterday to the Marin County Planning Commission for modification.

The action by the board of supervisors came on a 4-0 vote after three hours of arguments over soil stability hazards, low-cost housing and revival of the memory of bitter feuding two years ago over the subdivision.

L.P. Bernard, who lives at 303 Bristol Place in Marinview Unit One, and Supervisor Michael Wornum said the original master plan for all nine units of Marinview "drawn in blood" in hearings during 1969 and 1970.

School officials, neighbors and conservationists had protested the ridgeline development, cited traffic hazards and school crowding and voiced fears of landslides. Bernard remainded the board. He said the board had reached a firm agreement that the developers could build no more than 285 homes served by Countryview Drive.

On July 24, the planning commission voted 4-1 to approve Unit Five, and allowed the developer, Alan R. Allan to exceed the total by six homes if they were earmarked for low or moderate income housing.

"There's no question the 285 is sacred," Wornum said, adding that he did not believe the developer's soil experts who yesterday contradicted the county's own geologic hazards survey made by state geologist Salem Rice.

Rice was not present. Attorney Albert Bianchi, spokesman for the developer, urged that the board postpone its decision until next Tuesday so the soil stability controversy could be settled with Rich present.

But Bernard and Mrs. Robert Julin of the Tamalpais Task Force successfully urged that Unit Five plans be sent back to the planning commission for incorporation in all overall reevaluation of the Marinview master plan.

Supervisors unanimously opposed allowing the six extra homes, even for moderate or low-cost housing. "I don't believe it was ever intended to put low-income homes on top of a ridge," Wornum said. "As far as I'm concerned, the six units are out."

About two dozen residents of Marinview and Tamalpais Valley attended the hearing.

McGovern Plan For Defense Hit

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, insisting he was not engaging in partisan politics, said during a visit here that Sen. George McGovern's proposed military cutbacks would "amount to unilateral disarmament."

Laird emphasized Tuesday that he has tried to be "religiously bipartisan," but said he "cannot sit by and allow someone to make those charges" that the defense budget could be almost halved without jeopardizing the national security.

"A cut in the nature of $20 or $30 billion would amount to unilateral disarmament and would gravely endanger our national security, severely impair the prospects of peace and put an end to successful negotiations toward greater international stability," Laird said.

Border Closed

BANGKOK (UPI) — The governor of northeastern Thailand's Nakhorn Phanom province said today that a 75-mile stretch of the Thai-Lao border had been closed since last week because of reports that Communist terrorists were ready to infiltrate after training in Laos.

Collision Hurts Motorcyclist

A Petaluma youth was critically injured in a car-motorcycle accident at 7:30 p.m. yesterday at Washington and Keller Streets, Petaluma.

Robert R. Scott, 18, of 229 Keokuk Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital and transferred to Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with severe head injuries.

Police said his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Jeanne Ann Luther, 18, of 11 Kazen Way, Petaluma. Scott was thrown from the motorcycle and struck his head on the pavement. He was not wearing a protective helmet.

Holdup Suspect Pleads Innocent

Larry Paul Slager, 25, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of being one of three men who held up two persons in a San Rafael parking lot on Aug. 14.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

Slager was arrested after being identified as one of the men who robbed Joseph D. Patric and Rich Johns at 19:30 p.m. in the Mayfair Market lot. The victims said one of the robbers said he had a gun and demanded a watch.

Two other men charged with the same crime, Lonnie Lawder Rivas of Petaluma and Joseph Rivera, also known as Herman Sanchez, of San Rafael, have not appeared in court.

Chamber Backs Tax Revision

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has endorsed with reservations a business tax proposal by the Mill Valley City Council.

The chamber on Monday said it would support Mill Valley's proposed 25 per cent increase in the business tax, but with the stipulation that license fees be adjusted downwards for small businesses and increased for larger firms.

Chamber president Samuel W. Schneider told the Independent-Journal his group would present a tentative rate schedule to the Mill Valley City Council at the next council meeting.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Declarer Has An Easier Time Than Defense In Playing Hand

Declarer's play is easier than defense because declarer sees his partner's hand (the dummy) and therefore knows the combined resources. He wins a trick where it will do him the most good. The defenders must guess at their combined strength and often base their play on such rules as "second-hand low" or "third-hand high," instead of on the basis of sure knowledge. The difference shows up in hands like today's.

Opening lead — ♠ 3

EAST WINS

West opened the three of spades, and East won the first trick with the queen. He returned the ten of spades to dummy's king, and declarer next led a low diamond from the dummy.

It would be easy for East to find the right play if he could see his partner's hand. The average defender would play a low diamond from the East hand, and the average West player would take the first diamond trick with the king.

LOOKS DANGEROUS

Even this would be all right, if West promptly shifted to hearts. Since this would look dangerous, however, West probably would continue with another spade, and the defense would then collapse. South would win with the ace of spades and knock out the ace of diamonds, after which he would easily win the rest of the tricks.

All of this may sound difficult, but it can be reduced to very simple terms. When your partner opens a long suit against notrump, it is up to you to win tricks quickly and plug away at your partner's suit. The time for your partner to win a trick is when he has set up his suit and is ready to cash.

EAST PLAYS ACE

Following this principle, East should hop up with the ace of diamonds as soon as that suit is led. He leads his last spade, setting up West's long suit. West gets the next diamond trick and is ready to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - K 6
♥ - A J 9 4
♦ - 8 5 4
♣ - K J 10 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

Some conservative experts would pass this borderline hand, but most would choose to open because of the 10 of clubs and the nine of hearts. You tend to make the aggressive move with a borderline hand when you have good intermediate cards (tens and nines) in your long suits.

Accident Time

The accident in which Geoffrey McNew, 10, of 212 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre, received a broken leg happened about 8 p.m. Friday and not at 10:05 p.m. as reported Monday in the Independent-Journal.

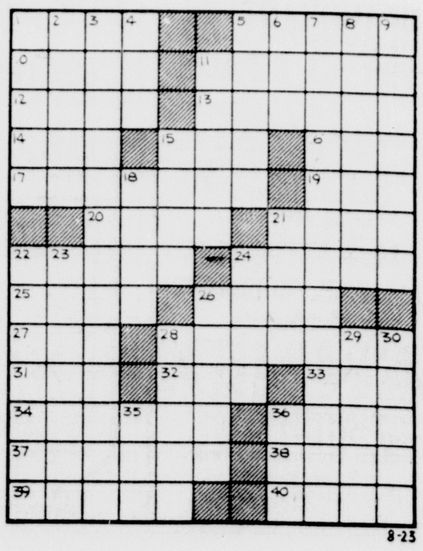
Yesterday's Answer



Experts Start To Fix Pieta

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican art experts are about to begin the delicate task of gluing and shaping the battered pieces of Michelangelo's Pieta statue.

"Only an expert, upon close examination, would be able to tell there had been any work done," said Deoclecio Redig de Campos, director of the Vatican Museum.

On May 21, Laszlo Toth, 34, a geologist, walked into St. Peter's Basilica and battered the masterpiece that depicts the Madonna holding the dead Jesus in her arms.

Preliminary work toward restoring the 6-foot-7 statue began almost immediately.

Within hours, workmen had collected the fragments, about 50 in all.

"We collected everything but the most minute of chips," De Campos said.

To replace those missing fragments, about 100 grams of material will be chipped off the statue's base.

At first it was feared that the Virgin Mary's left eyelid, sculptured to show the suffering of the Mother of Christ, had been chipped off. Closer examination revealed it was dented - a difficult but not impossible job to restore, experts say.

De Campos, Vittorio Federici of the Vatican's scientific research laboratories, and two other experts have studied photographs and a plastic replica of the masterpiece. This replica, made 30 years ago, is preserved in St. Peter's Sacristy.

Work is continuing in the Vatican's laboratories and the statue has not yet been touched. One problem still to be resolved is the type of adhesive to bind shattered parts.

Federici is experimenting with glues from the United States, France, Germany and Italy; some of resinous bases, others artificial, others developed by the Vatican experts.

The Pieta may go on view again next year. Plans are under way to erect a glass barrier between it and the public.

In prison, Toth has been undergoing psychiatric tests. Charged with damaging a work of art and offending a religious object, he faces up to four years in jail.

Riles Blasts Schools Critics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California schools chief Wilson Riles says it is fashionable to criticize the public schools.

And certain critics, he told the Ninth California Labor Federation conference Monday "would destroy our public system and carry us back to education for the elite."

He made the remarks in a prepared address.

Folk-Rock Fete In Terra Linda Church

A community folk-rock celebration of worship will be held from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at Faith Lutheran Church, 355 Los Ranchitos Road, Terra Linda.

Those attending should bring pillows, pads or mats for floor siting, according to Pastor Bliss W. Bellinger.

1 Pct. Pay Hike Offer For Teachers

The Novato Unified School District board has trimmed $70,617 from its $10,800,214 budget for 1972-73 in an effort to free funds for salary raises.

Trustees agreed Monday night to offer employees a 1 per cent pay raise, using undistributed reserve and funds trimmed from other areas of the budget.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley estimated a 1 per cent raise would require $65,500 for teachers and $11,000 for nonteaching personnel.

"We're the only district in Marin that hasn't given teachers a raise in two years," Mobley said. Last year the district granted only the annual step increases.

Teachers, seeking a 5.5 per cent pay raise, recommended that the board cut the budget, particularly the athletic program, to make the raise possible.

Trustee Carolyn M. Carbtree said the 1 per cent was "a minute token, but we have made the effort to show our heart is in the right place."

Trustees voted 4-3 against cutting soccer, wrestling, cross-country and water polo at a saving of $3,000 in coaching salaries. Voting for the cuts were Jan Murray, Marett B. Boissevain and William G. Schneeflock.

Among the cuts made were $34,052 from the operation and maintenance program; a 5 per cent reduction in instructional spending, $15,000; elimination of the job of administrative assistant, held last year by Edith Pewitt, $12,840, and reduction in the capital outlay for buildings, $2,500.

The board also hired Carl Carlson from Berkeley School District as assistant principal at Sinaloa Junior High School at $15,293 a year, and Ethel Lagle as an elementary teacher at $8,496 a year.

The board's next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Elevator Falls 15 Floors; Rider Walks Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— James Rafferty, 34, plunged 15 stories in a runaway elevator Tuesday and walked away from the accident.

Rafferty was dismantling part of the roof on an elevator cab at a hotel and the cab broke loose.

"I knew I had to get off my feet or the impact would kill me," he said.

He said he dropped to his back to spread the force of the landing. Seconds after the crash, he said, he got up and walked to a medical office where he underwent an examination.

"We can't find a thing wrong with him," Dr. Joseph McGuinness said.

Rafferty said he felt fine and was ready to go back to work.

Two Musicals Scheduled At College of Marin

College of Marin Drama Department has scheduled two musicals "Oliver" and "Fiddler on the Roof", and Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" as major productions for the coming school year.

"Fiddler on the Roof" and "The Crucible" will be staged at the College's Fine Arts Theater. "Oliver" will be presented at Theater III at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Miller's powerful play about the Salem witch trials will be performed 13 times from Oct. 19 to Nov. 4

"Oliver" will have 19 performances, opening Nov. 30 and running until Dec. 23.

The college's music department will provide music for "Fiddler on the Roof" which is set to open next year on March 29 for 11 shows.

Auditions begin a few weeks after college starts on Sept. 11. Students will earn from 1 to 3 units for their performances.

Judge Rules Out Antiwar Suit

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A suit by a group of Oregon residents asking for an end to the war in Southeast Asia was dismissed Tuesday by a federal judge.

The suit asked the court to issue an injunction prohibiting further expenditure or allocation of funds for the war.

U.S. District Judge James Burns said the plaintiffs lacked a legal basis in the suit and that their complaint failed to state a case.

New Marin Civic Ballet School Will Be Previewed Next Week

A public preview of the new Marin Civic Ballet School with dance classes in action will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the new location, 100 Elm Street near Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

The extensive facility, formerly the Marist Seminary, was purchased by the Marin Civic Ballet Association and was remodeled. Guests will be guided on a tour of the school, will see various dance classes in action, then be served refreshments.

Classes in modern dance, jazz, dance for women only, preschool ballet, elementary ballet, intermediate and advanced ballet will be previewed. These classes will be conducted by the director of the school, Leona Norman, and her associate teachers, Judy White, Norbert Vesak and Charles Perrier.

Miss White is director of the Apprentice Group of the Marin Civic Ballet Company. Vesak is a choreographer with 50 ballet and modern dance works to his credit and is presently resident choreographer and director of ballet to the San Francisco Opera. Perrier, a choreographer, dancer and teacher, has been a leading member of the Marin Civic Ballet Company since 1967 and currently heads a Renaissance music and dance company.

In the fall semester, classes in lighting, stage production, yoga and dance composition also will be offered. Registration for classes began today. On preview day next Tuesday, registrations also will be accepted.

Credit Card Charges To Superior Court

A San Francisco woman yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of using a credit card fraudulently at a Northgate Shopping Center music shop July 28.

Mary Ann Correia, 24, is to appear in Superior Court Sept. 5. She was arrested after she reportedly tried to use a stolen card to make a purchase at the San Rafael store.

A BIG ONE GETS TOPPED

COUNTRY FAIR AT HUB

Paraders, Beauties, Feast And Sale Set

Smokey the Bear and Buffalo Bill will march down San Anselmo Avenue at high noon Saturday.

Antics of the pair will be a part of San Anselmo's third annual Country Fair Days festival, which comes to the city this Friday and Saturday.

The festival, sponsored by the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, will treat the city to marching bands, drill teams, prancing horses, beauty queens, clowns and floats.

The festival will also feature pony rides, street dancing, a barbeque and refreshments.

Merchants along San Anselmo Avenue will spice the weekend's events with a two-day sale beginning Friday morning, according to Paul Brand, festival chairman.

Highlighting the festivities will be the Country Fair Days parade on Saturday. More than 100 units from throughout Marin and Northern California will participate, Brand said.

The parade begins at 11 a.m. and will wind up San Anselmo Avenue from Bolinas to Bridge avenues. A delegation from the San Anselmo Police Department will head the march, which will include state and county legislators aboard antique fire engines.

The parade will also feature military bands, majorettes, the Coast Guard drill team from Petaluma, the Marin Mounted 4-H Club, the KTIM princesses and a host of clowns, beauty queens, floats and antique cars.

Parking will be banned along the parade route on San Anselmo Avenue from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. The stretch of road between Bolinas and Bridge Avenue would be closed to all vehicles from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Portions of Tunstead Avenue will be closed from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday to make way for a street dance and chicken barbecue. High Country, a bluegrass band, will provide the music for the dance.

Folk and square dancing is sveduled to begin immediately after the parade on San Anselmo Avenue at Belle Avenue, Brand said. A variety of artisan's booths and refreshment stands will be set up along San Anselmo.

A dunk tank, children's fair and food booths will be set up on the city parking lot across from the Tamalpais Theater, and the San Francisco Palace of Arts and Sciences will have an exhibit on San Anselmo Avenue near Tamalpais Avenue.

The San Anselmo Ascenders - Explorer Scouts from Post 315 - will construct towers on the lot across from the Tamalpais Theater and demonstrate climbing skills.

Year's Delay On Outlawing Raw Sewage

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Richardson Bay Sanitary District yesterday won a one-year extension of its deadline to stop dumping raw sewage in Richardson Bay when wet weather overtaxes its system. (Another sewage story, page 1.)

The Regional Water Quality Control Board granted the extension to Sept. 1, 1973, after arguments by the district that it had done as much as it could to correct the problem with limited funds.

The board voted unanimously despite a plea from the attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District that the board ban all further sewer permits and revoke all outstanding permits as having been issued illegally. The attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, said he was writing as a private taxpayer.

Developer Paul Broman, whose Strawberry Cove apartment project long was opposed by the district, told the board that Kaufmann's objections were contrary to assurances by the district that it would drop its opposition after Broman dedicated a chunk of his property to the district.

The board also granted a one-year extension to the City of Petaluma to comply with board requirements for sewage treatment. The deadline was extended to Nov. 30, 1974, after the board's staff noted that the work was delayed because of state red tape.

CIVIC CENTER HIGH-RISE

Plans Revised, Still Opposed

A revised master plan for a six-story office building, restaurant and other development on a hill north of the Marin Civic Center was approved last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission amid renewed citizen opposition. (Another planning commisuion story, page 1.)

As at earlier hearings, Terra Linda residents fretted that the project, proposed by contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen of San Rafael, would stifle traffic and blot the skyline.

Nicolaisen, who already has a use permit for the development, which will be known as Northgate East, earlier had proposed construction of a 10-story office building a 240-room motel. The plans now call for a 362-foot-long office building, 10,600-square-foot restaurant and service station and car wash.

Although a traffic consultant to Nicolaisen said the project wouldn't seriously affect traffic at the adjoining Terra Linda interchange of Highway 101, residents said cars generated by the development would make an already inadequate facility worse.

Critics, including County Planning Commissioner Jack G. Nixon and Richard L. Less, a member of the Terra Linda Community Services District board, were unswayed by proposals not to permit direct access from the project into the intersection and to ban left turns onto the highway by northbound traffic on Civic Center Drive.

Nixon said the left turn ban would burden the 101 interchange at Lucas Valley, a situation which he claimed also needed improvement.

City Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner told the commission of discussions among city, county and state Division of Highways officials over planned improvements to the Terra Linda and Lucas Valley interchanges, as well as the one at North San Pedro Road.

Nixon believed, however, the time for such improvements was before development came to the region.

Although some members of the audience suggested revocation of approval given Nicolaisen to date, Hotchner found no legal grounds to do so.

Beyond the Nicolaisen development critics raised the impact the Sears store at the Northgate Shopping Center and the planned Firemen'a Fund computer center at Lucas Valley Road and 101 would have on traffic in the vicinity.

Amid further concern over visibility of Nicolaisen's building, the commission was told by the contractor's representatives of plans to plant trees of up to 40 feet to soften the building's impact.

Representatives of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board charged they had been misled by Nicolaisen when the agency approved a sewer line extension for the project, and the possibility the approval may be rescinded was raised.

Board members Frank Solomon Jr. and Gene H. Dyer said Nicolaisen had led the agency to believe that community objections to the plan had been met. But Albert Bianchi, attorney for Nicolaisen, said his client had referred to an earlier stage in the proceedings over which there was no controversy at that time.

Discussion Set In Dollar Estate Flap

Controversy over proposed development of the Robert Dollar estate in San Rafael will be aired at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speakers will be George J. Silvestri Jr. and Barbara Parker, members of the San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee; Thomas E. Schaal, owner of the property, and Gilbert P. Murphy, architect and designer of the apartment and townhouse complex proposed for the site.

Questions may be phoned in during the live broadcast, which will be aired again on tape at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Town Meeting Warmup Will Be Tonight

The San Rafael Town Meeting Association tonight will hold its last general meeting prior to the Oct. 14 Town Meeting.

Today's meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the Whistlestop Depot, 930 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael.

"We'll be discussing the committee structure, format and publicity for the Town Meeting" association chairman Steven B. Sachs said.

Tonight's meeting also will deal with specific discussion topics, group moderators and ways to "turn on" residents to get them to attend the meeting, Sachs said, adding that tonight is the last chance citizens will have in helping organize the event.

The town meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 14 at Dominican College in San Rafael, he said.

Collegians To Live In Tam Fire Stations

Directors of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District agreed yesterday to establish a program in which college students will live at the district's two fire stations and receive a small amount of money in exchange for working for the department.

The board will decide how many students will participate in the "sleeper program" as soon as it has determined how much money is available in the 1972-73 district budget.

District Secretary Bernard Lenhart said the students selected may work as dispatchers, clear fire trails or even help in fighting fires. The students may live at the firehouses the year round, or during the school year or just in the summer.

Northgate East Plan Opposed In Terra Linda

The Terra Linda Community Services District board last night unanimously objected to proposed development of a graded hillside east of Highway 101 and north of the civic center.

A recommendation urging the rejection of contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen's Northgate East project will be sent to the San Rafael City Council, according to board member Richard L. Less.

He said that the board was appalled that the Nicolaisen proposal for an office complex on the 15-acre parcel was approved by the San Rafael Planning Commission last night.

"I went directly to the board meeting from the planning commission and board members couldn't believe the project was going to proceed," Less said.

Traffic generated by the project would "make it almost impossible for Terra Linda residents to get to the Northgate Industrial Park" and to medical facilities on Professional Center Parkway, according to Less.

Less said that board representatives would appear before the council to oppose the proposal.

The Terra Linda Community Services District board also:

FIREMEN'S FUND — Detached from the district the Lucas Green parcel on Highway 101 across from Northgate Industrial Park where Firemen's Fund Insurance Co. plans to build a multimillion dollar computer center.

ROTARY CLUB — Announced that the Terra Linda Rotary Club had donated a hydraulic jack to the Terra Linda Fire Department.

NURSERY — Renewed the lease of the Terra Linda Nursery Cooperative for one year at $1,170. The day care facility rents space in the community center.

ANNEXATION — Decided to hold an informational meeting on annexation of the district to San Rafael at 8 p.m. Sept. 20 inthe community center.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 20.

Antidrug Center Wins Nod For Move; Neighbors Worry

Marin Open House, the antidrug facility which needs a new home, was given permission last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission to move temporarily into a small office building formerly occupied by the Marin Economic Opportunity Council.

But at least two businessmen neighbors of the building at 915 C Street, between Fourth and Third streets, didn't like it.

One, Valerie Fisher, owner of a sewing machine and vacuum cleaner center next door at 914 C, said: "I have had two years of EOC. . .I might just as well close my door and go out to the Northgate Shopping Center."

When EOC and its "rowdy" element moved out recently, Mrs. Fisher said, she and her husband "toasted with champagne." Now, she said, she feared trouble all over again.

She was joined in a letter to the commission by a representative of McPhail's appliances across the street, although Ray Hoeflein, owner of Cal's Steak House at Third and C, said that if facility operators "will do the things they say they'll do, I'll pull in my wings and go along."

Dr. Roger Smith, Marin Open House director, said the facility had to move from its present quarters at 1327 Lincoln Avenue to make way for a senior citizens housing development. He promised the facility would be "much more responsible" neighbors than the EOC, noting operations would be reduced drastically once Open House moved into a permanent home in six months.

Smith said the C Street facility ultimately would become Marin Open House's vocational training office, housing job counselors and related services.

The new move didn't generate the heated controversy that arose when Marin Open House moved into its Lincoln Avenue headquarters.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

INDUSTRIAL PARK — Granted a use permit to Robert L. Goetz for industrial park development on 22.5 acres behind Northgate Industrial Park. Office, manufacturing and light industrial uses are planned.

PEPPERLAND — Permitted continued parking arrangements at Pepperland rock hall on Francisco Boulevard.

APARTMENTS — Granted a use permit and design approval for a 104-unit apartment development proposed by Robert O. Valentine at Professional Center Parkway and Channing Way.

COMMERCIAL — Gave a use permit to Frank Rosenmayr for an apartment unit behind a commercial building at 1569 Fourth Street.

DREDGE — Gave permission to the County of Marin to place spoils from a Gallinas Creek dredging project on property within the city.

APARTMENTS — Granted a use permit and design approval to Irvin Hille for a 20-unit apartment development at 312 First Street.

WAREHOUSE — Granted a use permit to John Kuntz and Alfred Dalecio for construction of warehouse and other light industrial and commercial facilities at 11 Alto Street.

REPAIR — Approved a use permit for an auto repair shop on the property of John D. Graham at 279 Jacoby Street.

Bay Bottomland Lease Extended

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Fish and Game Commission has extended for four years the lease of the Menlo Park Aquaculture Corp. on 10 acres of bottomland at the north end of Tomales Bay.

The commission approved the extension for a $100 annual fee at a meeting Friday, according to Frank Hubbard, information officer.

The firm, which has leased the ocean bottom for the past two years, plans to use the land for experimental shellfish culture, he said.

Brush Fire Perils Condor

FILLMORE (UPI)—Two major brush fires, one of them in a rugged area of the Los Padres National Forest which hasn't been burned since 1933, continued to race out of control in Southern California today.

The larger fire, apparently started by campers playing with fireworks in a remote canyon area of the Los Padres National Forest, flared up during the night and quickly expanded to more than 6,000 acres — moving to within one-half mile of the Sespe Wildlife Refuge.

The refuge is the home of the California condor, the largest bird of prey in the world and the biggest land bird in North America. There are only about 60 birds of the endangered species left alive.

The other major blaze is the arson-caused Vista fire, which has charred 1,530 acres of "extremely heavy brush" in steep terrain in the San Jacinto Mountains south of Banning.

A third, smaller fire on the Morongo Indian Reservation about two miles north of Banning and about seven miles from the San Jacinto fire, was declared contained at 6 a.m. today after burning 130 acres. The cause of that fire is under investigation.

A U.S. Forest Service spokesman said the Sespe fire —the largest brush fire of the season in California —was being pushed southwest under mild Santa Ana wind conditions.

Seven air tankers, which Tuesday dropped 24,600 gallons of fire retardant before being forced to quit because of darkness, rejoined the battle at dawn today.

The forest service said 350 men were on the lines, relieving a force of 150 who worked through the night. No estimate of the fire's perimeter was available because of the intensity of the flames and the heavy smoke. The spokesman said an overfight of a plane armed with an infrared sensor would be made to determine the extent of the blaze and to pinpoint hotspots.

Firefighters planned to take a stand on Topa Topa Ridge, which lies between the advancing flames and the wildlife refuge. "If we can stop it there, we'll save the refuge," a spokesman said. Otherwise, he predicted the blaze was "almost certain to run into the sanctuary before we can control it."

Wildlife experts said most of the condors were away from the refuge at this time of the year, hunting in higher mountains, and only about 15-20 birds stayed behind. They said some nesting sites on the other side of the sanctuary, nearly 15 miles from the fire front, could be endangered.

The temperature was over 100 degrees when the fire was noticed late Tuesday afternoon and more of the same was expected today.

The Vista fire, which a forest service spokesman said was burning in steep terrain where brush grew 15-20 feet high, spread more than 600 acres during the night, mostly due to 40 mile an hour Santa Ana winds, which a spokesman said had decreased to mild by dawn.

Six air tankers and 850 men were battling the blaze, which firemen said was the first in that area since 1928. The fire forced closure of California 243 between Banning and Idyllwild — the highway along which firemen believe the blaze was set.

The fire was less than one mile from the Riverside County Probation Camp and the Twin Peaks Ranch for Boys, but it has not damaged any structures although a fence at the boys' ranch was burned.

Two smaller fires, including the 130-acre blaze on the Morongo reservation, broke out near the major blazes. The one near the Sespe fire covered six acres south of Piru.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Low Blood Pressure May Not Be A Cause For Major Alarm

A. S. writes: "I am a 38-year-old banker with no particular problems, except that I am always tired, frequently drowsy, and feel lightheaded, especially when I stand or exert myself.

My doctor says I have low blood pressure (under 100), but he doubts if this has anything to do with my symptoms. He won't give me medication to raise tha blood pressure level and insists that I'm lucky and will outlive most of my friends. What do you think?"

I agree, assuming the doctor gave you a thorough examination to rule out certain diseases associated with hypotension (low blood pressure). Many energetic men who have low blood pressure also have these manifestations. In addition, there are strong and energetic men who have low pressure.

Hypotension is usually harmless, depending upon age, sex, race, and environment. Many doctors will agree with your physician that low blood pressure promises longevity and that those with hypotension often escape arteriosclerotic heart disease. Insurance statistics covering several million policy holders verify this contention. As a result, hypotension, per se, is not considered a disease and should not be treated.

CONVERSELY, this banker has many vague symptoms that could stem from boredom, inactivity, underweight and inadequate diet. If the shoe fits, wear it by getting more exercise, balanced meals and cultivating interesting hobbies and ways to spend leisure time. On the other hand, more rest may be the answer if the fatigue stems from too much work. And what about emotional causes?

There are but a few organic causes for hypotension. For example, the blood pressure drops after hemorrhage, heart attacks, and during an addisonian crisis. More obvious causes include a wasting disease, such as cancer and malnutrition. Certain heart defects are associated with hypotension, especially when the output of the heart is so low that a normal pressure cannot be maintained.

POSTURAL HYPOTENSION differs from the ordinary type in that the blood pressure definitely drops from normal to low levels whenever the person stands from a recumbent or stooping position. The use of certain drugs can cause this and so can a decreased tone in the blood vessels caused by flabby muscles. In other words, the brain does not get enough blood when the person changes posture.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon Monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, significant air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sourses, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

San Francisco Bay Area: Fair through Thursday but with patchy fog and low clouds near the coast increasing tonight and extending inland locally. Little change in temperatures. Northwestern California: Patchy fog and low clouds increasing slightly tonight. Otherwise fair through Thursday. Little temperature change. Highs today, low tonight and high Thursday at Fort Bragg 66, 45 and 63, Ukiah 100, 60 and 98.

Northern and Central California: Fair through Thursday except patchy fog and low clouds along the coast increasing tonight.

Jefferson Airplane In Ohio Fracas

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Bill Thompson, manager of the Jefferson Airplane, threatened legal action Tuesday against city and police officials for a melee at the Rubber Bowl in which eight policemen were injured and 30 persons were arrested.

Thompson said an attorney here would file suit against the city and police for "assaulting members of the group" during the Monday night concert by the rock group.

Two of those arrested were lead singer Grace Slick, 32, and guitarist Paul Kantner, 31, both of Bolinas. They pleaded innocent to several charges stemming from the disturbance.

Authorities said the trouble started when another group urged the 18,000 spectators to leave their seats and dance onto the football field. Signs had been posted there to keep off because it had been seeded for the football season.

Hunderds ignored the signs and tramped on the new grass, and police moved in.

Later when the Jefferson Airplane was on stage, a bomb threat was telephoned to the Rubber Bowl office, causing a search of the area. Then Charles Casady, 32, equipment manager for the group, allegedly began yelling at police, and was led off the stage by officers.

A scuffle ensued when Miss Slick and about 20 spectators tried to stop officers from taking Casady away.

Patrolman R.E. Gott said she grab ed his whistle chain made a clawing motion at his face, scratched his arm and took a punch at him as he tried to arrest her.

Kantner, 31, was charged with assaulting a policeman and profanity.

Kantner was released on $700 bond, Miss Slick on $500 and Casady on $200.

Auto Thief Gets Jail, Probation

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has placed Richard Brian Wosser, 30, of San Francisco on probation for five years and gave him a six-month jail sentence.

However, he allowed Wosser credit for the three months he has already spent in jail and said Monday that he could serve the balance of the term in a halfway house program in San Francisco.

Wosser was arrested June 6 near Sausalito after a records check showed the car he was driving was stolen. Last month he pleaded guilty to auto theft.

Fall Program Set By Novato Rec

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department is taking reservations for its fall program activities, according to Ronald Pugh, publicity director.

Activities will include yoga, cake decorating, belly dancing, golf instruction, tennis instruction and women's slim-trim, he said.

Further information can be obtained at the department office, 917 Sherman Avenue, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Novato Extends Flood Plain Ban 120 Days

The Novato City Council last night extended building controls on the lower Novato Creek flood plain for 120 days, well short of the period requested by Marin County.

In a unanimous vote, the council extended the one-year interim ordinance, which limits development to 25 per cent of the ponding area of a parcel.

The extension was the final one that the city could grant and the controls will be lifted at the end of 120 days unless a final ordinance is adopted.

County Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. had recommended by letter that the council extend the emergency interim ordinance for one year to permit time for a final ordinance to be completed, heard and adopted.

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said only 120 more days should be allowed and fellow councilmen agreed.

Marin County has extended the ordinance for nine months in its area.

Foreaker had advied that "it would not be wise to extend the ordinance for a period of less than one year because it cannot be determined just how long the revision and adoption process will take. Should the interim ordinance expire prior to the adoption of final ordinance, the results could be severe."

The council rejected bids to exclude the McPhail, Tuckey and Hertz properties, about 35 acres, north of Novato Creek and west of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. tracks, from the controls.

The Novato City Council Also:

PARKS — Named the Novato Creek beautification project west of Seventh Street "Gerner Park" in honor of Lee Gerner who worked on its design and construction and changed the name of Novato Creek Park to Miwok Park, on which the Novato Rotary Club will spend $3,000 for barbecue pits and picnic tables.

SWIM POOL — Approved a contract with Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch of San Mateo for bond service at 1 per cent of the bonds for a second city-owned swimming pool. The size, location and cost of the pool have not been determined yet, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said.

DEVELOPMENTS — Approved master plans for the 519-acre Pacheco Ranch west of Highway 101 north of Big Rock Ridge for 650 to 700 housing units, offices, light industry and shopping areas, and for an additional six spaces for Los Robles Mobile Homes on Bel Marin Keys Boulevard.

HOUSING — Heard a report from Wallace K. Sheppard, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority on the past year's activities of the authority which is moving to Northgate and planning a 17-home project for the Black Point area of Novato.

PARK — Authorized Brown to negotiate with Harry Heifetz on the purchase of approximately 13 acres at the top of the hill east of South Novato Boulevard and south of Sunset Parkway for a park or open space.

HEARINGS — Set 8 p.m., Oct. 3 for public hearings on annexation of 94 acres between Olive Avenue and Railroad Avenue south of Oleander Avenue and the same time for hearing on annexation of 16 acres on H Lane and Laguna Vista Drive.

POLICY — Ordered staff to redraft a proposed resolution of city policy on city condemnation of property.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved Russell G. Quinnell paying $14,700 in lieu of installing improvements on an apartment house project at 1509 to 1521 South Novato Boulevard and the Schulz townhouse project paying $1,350 in lieu of street improvements on San Marin Drive at San Mateo Way.

RAMPS — Received a report that it would cost $5,040 to install ramps at the intersections on Grant Avenue for the users of wheel chairs. The council ordered Brown to investigate how many persons used wheel chairs while shopping in Novato.

CONFERENCE — Named Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and George C. Quesada to attend the League of California Cities conference Oct. 15 to 18 in Anaheim.

HOUSING — Received a letter from the Lynwood Park Improvement Association setting forth its opposition in the event construction of housing for students is proposed at Indian Valley Colleges, declaring Indian Valley a community college to which students go from their own homes, and not a residential college.

APPOINTMENTS — Postponed until 8 p.m. next Tuesday a closed meeting to appoint members to the parks and recreation commission and the environmental quality committee. It will also review plan of the Kenney project for 2,300 housing units on 700 acres in Black Point.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 5 p.m. Monday at Pioneer Memorial Park to go over the plans of the citizens to preserve Novato's historical landmarks to preserve the pioneer cemetery.

Louisiana Has 'Gator Surplus

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A spokesman for the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission says Louisiana which has too many alligators may soon start exporting the giant reptiles for restrocking purposes.

"The requests are coming in," assistant director Richard Yancey said Tuesday. "Publicity seems to have stimulated interest in the situation."

The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission's request for 65 alligators will be considered by the Louisiana Commission Aug. 29. Arkansas has already received 48 of the large reptiles and a request for 100 more was approved by the commission last Friday.

Rail Blasted On Service To Patrons

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A passenger train advocate has accused the Southern Pacific Railroad of a campaign to wipe out Amtrak, the government passenger rail corporation.

The executive director of the National Association of Railroad Passengers, Joseph Vranich, charged the Southern Pacific with a continuing effort to rid itself of passenger service by exerting pressure in Washington.

He said the railroad maintains a public relations campaign against passenger trains and provides terrible service on trains it runs under contract to Amtrak.

A spokesman for Southern Pacific in San Francisco denied the charge. "The railroads are partners in an extremely difficult enterprise, the task of which is not made easier by irresponsible and unjust criticism such as this," he said.

The spokesman said Southern Pacific has spent considerable money to improve Amtrak's operating performance over its lines. "For example, we have improved service on the Sunset Limited between Los Angeles and New Orleans ... at an annual payroll cost increase of $450,000 and an outlay of $68,000 for new facilities."

Vranich made the charges Tuesday in a speech before the 6,000 member Railroad Passengers Association, a consumer group representinging train riders.

He said much of the blame for Amtrak's problems lies with the White House and predicted the service "will die an early death" unless the President exerts leadership.

Vranich said he had learned that Southern Pacific chief executive B. F. Biagini had almost succeeded in persuading the President to veto the original Amtrak legislation.

He claimed routes were eliminated from the plan because of pressure on the President.

Vranich also charged that Nixon's appointments to Amtrak's board were distinguished for a lack of dedication to modern rail passenger service, a lack of knowledge and experience with railroads.

He said one member heads a bus company that lobbys against Amtrak, and three other members have publicly stated they believe there is no future for passenger rail service in the United States.

2 Men Leap To Death Off Bridge

Two men, one a former nurse and merchant mariner and the other a student at University of California, within 15 minutes of each other, leaped to their deaths from the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

The former nurse, Chris Welles, 27, of San Francisco, perched himself on a thin girder outside the east railing for several minutes before he jumped, according to California Highway Patrolman James W. Schulze.

Schulze said he arrived at the scene and talked with Welles for about 10 minutes before the man made a sign of the cross and leaped at 1:15 p.m.

Welles was troubled by family problems and was upset over being rejected recently by a local junior college, Schulze said.

His body has not yet been recovered.

Schulze returned to his patrol car and was heading toward the Coast Guard office when he saw another man gazing despondently over the east railing. Moments later, Robert MacKowsky, 22, of Oakland, jumped off the bridge, just south of the south tower.

A witness who was fishing from Fort Point reported he saw a body in the water for about five minutes before it was swept out to sea, highway patrol spokesmen said.

At about 6 p.m., a fishing boat called the Ah Choo picked up the body and towed it to coast guard facilities.

Friends who identified MacKowsky said he had been depressed recently and had sought professional help Monday.

Open Space Hills Rule

The Petaluma Planning Commission last night approved an intermim open space element that calls for keeping Petaluma's hills free from development.

The interim plan must be adopted by Aug. 31 to meet state requirements and will be the basis for the final open space element that willbecome part of the city general plan by next June.

Planner Charlotte Teeples said the plan very generally sets goals of retaining open space around the city and recommends an open space corridor along San Antonio Creek be created as a buffer between the long range development of Novato and Petaluma.

Planning Director William C. McGivern said he hoped that state and federal grants might become available in the near future to begin purchasing land as open space as has been done in Marin County.

PUBLIC NOTICE

August 16, 1972

is hereby given that the Western Union Telegraph Company applied to the Federal Communications Commission on the 7th day of August 1972 for permission to offer telegraph service to the residents of San Rafael, California in a new manner.

The company's proposal calls for the sending and receiving of messages and money orders and physical delivery service in San Rafael to be provided by the Yellow Cab Company, 20A Bellam Blvd., San Rafael, California, which will be the agent of the telegraph company observing open hours from 8AM to 11PM Monday-Friday, 8AM to 10PM Saturday and 9AM to 5:30PM Sunday.

Telephone acceptance of telegrams will continue to be provided toll free on an "always open" basis through the Western Union office at San Francisco, California. Telephone delivery of telegrams will also be provided through the San Francisco "always open" Western Union office, at no added cost to the public.

A local toll free telephone number of reaching the always-open office at San Francisco is in the Marin County telephone directory.

The hours of operation under the new proposed plan are equal to the combined hours presently observed at the company's office and the after-hours agency.

If permission for this change in method of service in San Rafael is granted the operations will be transferred from the Western Union telegraph office at 1004 Tamalpais Street to the new agency without interruption in service.

Any member of the public desiring to express an opinion on this application may communicate in writing with the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554 on or before September 5, 1972.

Sausalito Trustees Seek Own Attorney

Trustees of the Sausalito School District have asked Director Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg to find a private attorney to represent the district in any legal action against the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The board acted Monday after the Marin County Counsel's office, which represents both the district and the supervisors, indicated it would go to court for the supervisors in any suit between both bodies.

The district is considering suing the supervisors for tax funds for the federally-financed, county-operated public housing in Marin City.

Lindberg said that, although the district educates approximately 160 students from public housing, it receives tax revenue on the property from the county.

The board will probably not decide whether to bring the suit until it hires an attorney and receives his advice, he added.

The Sausalito School District Board Also:

EMPLOYMENT — Voted to reemploy Shirley McGarth as school secretary and Pauline Lea as district secretary. Both had been dismissed earlier this year when their positions were cut, but were rehired when openings became available.

NURSE — Agreed to hire Marion Dreyfus as a part-time (two days a week) school nurse at $4,608 a year. The nurse's position, eliminated in budget reductions last year was reinstated part time since the county schools office will no longer provide nursing services for the district.

LEASE — Authorized leasing the district's old firehouse at Manzanita School to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for an auto hobby center.

REFURBISHMENT — Voted to spend approximately $3,000 for renovations to King and Bayside Schools, including several large doors between classrooms to facilitate team teaching and water and sewer hookups for new classroom sinks.

CENTRAL SCHOOL — Learned that the Tamalpais High School District is no longer interested in using Central School. The Sausalito City Council is considering the school for a new city hall.

MEETING — Agreed to set a public meeting between the superintendents of the Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts to discuss possible merger of the two districts. The meeting will probably be held the first week in September at a date and place to be announced. Also discussed will be ways the districts can work together more closely.

COMMITTEE — Learned from the superintendent that no one has yet volunteered to serve on a committee to formulate a master plan for the district and agreedto submit a list of names at its Sept. 5 meeting.

NEGOTIATIONS — Met in closed session for about an hour to instruct its negotiator in bargaining with employee organizations.

College, I-J Joint Class Scheduled

The Independent-Journal and Sonoma State College will cosponsor a course this October aimed at teaching secondary school teachers how to use newspapers as an educational tool.

The course will run from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. Oct. 6 and 13 and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 7 and 14 at Vallecito School in San Rafael.

Educators will instruct elementary and secondary teachers on using daily newspapers as a device to teach language arts, social studies, mathematics, consumer education and science.

The course will carry two semester units of credit.

More information is available from the Office of Instruction Services and Continuing Education, Sonoma State College, Rohnert Park.

Kansas UFO's May Be Balloons

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Those red, orange and green unidentified flying objects seen bobbing above the Central Kansas plains for the past few weeks may be nothing more than helium-filled weather balloons, an Army-Navy store owner says.

She should know, June Friedman said Tuesday, since she has sold about 100 of the six-foot balloons in the past three weeks to purchasers who told her they attach flashlights inside and outside to "scare my neighbors to death."

Police, however, said the UFOs are too fast to be balloons.

Theft Ring Pair Sent To Jail

Two Marin painters linked to a San Francisco burglary ring yesterday were sent to jail by Judge Peter Allen Smith in Marin Superior Court.

John Ackbarri, 33, of Novato, was placed on probation for three years and ordered to jail for nine months. Rochelle Louis Fisher, 21, of Santa Venetia, who did not have as long a criminal record as Ackbarri, was placed on probation for two years and sent to jail for 90 days.

They had been convicted in June by a jury of receiving stolen property. The trial was heard by Smith, a municipal court judge sitting in superior court.

They were convicted of receiving organs and speakers worth about $60,000 stolen from a San Francisco music company.

Testimony during the trial indicated Fisher helped deliver merchandise stolen by his brother, an ex-convict. Stolen articles were found at both men's homes when they were arrested last October.

'I Can't Be Beaten'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mayor Frank L. Rizzo, who used his tough cop background to defeat a liberal Republican last November, predicted Tuesday "nobody could beat me if I decided to run for governor."

Brundage Era In Olympics Rapidly Approaches Its End

36-31 Vote To Oust Rhodesia Called 'Mistake' By Brundage

MUNICH (UPI)—A tired Avery Brundage sighed today and said: "I think it was a serious mistake." He looked every one of his 84 years.

It was after midnight and Brundage just had returned from a reception offered by Willie Daume, chairman of the German Organizing Committee. He tried to appear jovial as he bid his friends and colleagues "good night." It was a poor effort.

"I am very disappointed," he said. "There can be no doubt about that."

He paused, thought a while, and added: "The discussions were long and protracted. Perhaps some people became confused."

Rhodesia had been dear to his heart. He wanted to see it compete. He thought the IOC had worked out a satisfactory compromise with the African nations. He was wrong. A vote of 36-31 spelled Rhodesia's expulsion from the games.

Asked if he thought the movement could ever be the same again, he said: "I hope the decision does not set a precedent. That would be a very dismal outlook."

Brundage said he was disappointed with the way the decision was reached.

"There were other ways to accomplish the same end," he said. "It could have been achieved without the loss of face by anyone."

The Chicago millionaire, head bowed, said: "I hope the movement can survive, but the decision was an enormous setback. There can be no question of that."

Brundage did not see the decision as a personal defeat.

"It was a defeat for the principles which have guided the IOC for so many years," he said.

Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, a member of the executive Board, said: "Perhaps our decision was wrong, but it helped save the Games. A new president will soon take office. He will have to bring the movement into the times in which we live."

There were conflicting opinions about why the decision went against Rhodesia.

The consensus was Brundage erred on a matter of procedure and the Marquis of Exeter was over zealous in his support of Rhodesia.

One member present at the meeting said: "Exeter pressed too hard. Why, he hardly gave the Rhodesians a chance to talk. He must have answered about 25 questions.

"In the end, the 12 uncommitted members probably voted the other way."

Brundage was charged with making an error in the way he framed his question.

"He asked us to vote on whether Rhodesia stayed or went," the anonymous member said." He should of first asked us if it had complied with the conditions laid down for its participation.

"A yes there and we would have taken care of the African argument. Then there may have been a different answer about whether Rhodesia could compete."

Perhaps the most telling comment of all came when a member said: "It was not the Brundage of old. His was the performance of a tired man."

Lord Killanin Of Ireland Picked As Next President Of The IOC

MUNICH (UPI)—Bluff, jovial Lord Michael Killanin of Ireland, businessman and a one-time newspaper writer, today was elected President of the International Olympic Committee to succeed retiring Avery Brundage of the United States.

The "Brundage Era" in the Olympics, which stretched for 20 years, came to an end when Killanin won election from the I. O. C. Congress in a two-man race with Count Jean de Beaumont of France.

Killanin, 58, was elected for an eight-year term. The vote total was not announced. Willie Daume, chairman of the German Organizing Committee for these Olympic Games, defeated four other candidates to win the vacant Vice-Presidential spot left open by Killanin's accession.

Killanin, an extremely popular figure who has few enemies among the top officials of world amateur sports, takes over the reins of the Olympic movement at a time when the Olympics are being criticized from many quarters, and only a few hours after Brundage lost one of his last battles as the I. O. C. voted to oust Rhodesia from the current Games.

Killanin, who is expected to inaugurate many changes in the Olympics, reminded newsmen in his first remarks after election that Brundage's term of office lasts through the current Games.

"Please don't expect the President-elect to make any policy statements," he said, "because Mr. Brundage is in charge. The I. O. C. is in the hands of Avery Brundage until the end of the Games."

Brundage was accompanied by members of his nine-man Executive Board, which included both Killanin and de Beaumont, when he made the official announcement of Killanin's election to members of the news media.

Killanin thanked Brundage and then announced that the Chicago millionaire had been elected an honorary life president of the IOC.

Brundage then retured to the microphone and said: "The I.O.C. has also decided that the ballots cast for each candidate will never be disclosed."

While Brundage made the an-

Briles' One-Hitter Stops Giants, 1-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Too bad for the San Francisco Giants that they had to be around when Nelson Briles of Pittsburgh tossed "the best game I've ever pitched."

Briles stopped the Giants on one hit Tuesday night and the Bucs shoved across an unearned run in the first inning against Juan Marichal in a 1-0 squaker.

Briles, now 12-5, retired 20 straight batters before Ken Henderson, the National League's hottest hitter of the moment, lined a 0-1 pitch sharply down the first-base line. Willie Stargell jumped high for the smash but the ball came off his glove and trickled into right field for a single. It was the 18th consecutive game in which Henderson has gotten a base hit.

It was a redeeming effort anyway for the Giants' Juan Marichal, who struggled to a 5-13 record before last night and had back problems. His eight-hitter was by far Marichal's best performance since his season-opening shutout, but the way his luck has been this year, it was par for the course that he should throw it on a night that belonged to Briles.

Briles, the former Santa Clara hurler who aspires to be an actor, afterwards called it his all-time best game although he conceded that his fifthgame victory over Baltimore in the 1971 World Series was almost as good. He gave up two hits in that one.

"That's a helluva humbling feeling when you see a ball trickle off a glove and you know it's in for a hit. You want to say 'try it again. Let's have an instant reply,'" Briles mused.

Stargell said "I really feel I should have caught the ball. When I came down after jumping for it. I thought I had it. And when I saw it going to the outfield, it stunned me. I can't say if I jumped too high or not enough. It happened too quickly."

But Briles wasn't about to offer any complaint about Stargell's play. Stargell got three of the eight hits surrendered by Marichal and doubled home Roberto Clemente with the game's only tally with two down in the first after Clemente had gone to second on a Tito Fuentes throwing error.

The Giant infield settled down after that and pulled off repeated sparkling plays to stop Pittsburgh the rest of the way. There were three San Francisco twin killings and shortstop Chris Speier handled 12 chances without a miscue. But Marichal still saw his record sink to 5-14.

Mieuli Says Thurmond Pact Near

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Golden State Warriors owner Franklin Mieuli feels he is close enough to agreement on a new contract for Nate Thurmond that the veteran center "will report when practice starts Sept. 15 in San Jose."

Mieuli held a summit conference Tuesday with Thurmond's financial advisor, Bob Bartels. An optimistic Mieuli called the session "fruitful" and Bartels said only "we made some progress."

Thurmond is in the third or option year of a contract under which he received $150,000. He seeks a new contract for more money and for several more years, which apparently is okay with Mieuli.

Thurmond, moving into his ninth year with the Warriors, reportedly has been offered a million-dollar package by the American Basketball Association.

Riva Ridge Drug Furor Still Rages

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UPI)—A state official says the trainer of Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge, who may have been drugged before an Aug. 5 race here, should have guarded the animal while it was stabled in Monmouth Park quarters.

Keene Daingerfield, state racing stewart at Monmouth Park, said Tuesday the animal's safety was "the basic responsibility of the trainer and those directly working for him." Riva Ridge is trained by Lucian Laurin.

WORKOUT

Meanwhile, the horse went through a short workout in Saratoga Springs, N.Y. yesterday, and jockey Ron Turcotte pronounced the colt "in beautiful condition." Riva Ridge's next race probably will be at Atlantic City Sept. 16.

Riva Ridge was a favorite to capture this year's triple crown in the nation's three major races, won the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont but trailed the pack Aug. 5 by six lengths to finish fourth at the Monmouth Park Invitational.

INVESTIGATING

On Monday, it was revealed the FBI, state police, the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Association and the State Racing Commission were investigating the possibility the horse was drugged before the race.

The possibility of such a scandal escalated when the owner of the horse, Mrs. Helen Tweedy, said in Saratoga, N.Y., she had ordered blood and urine tests on Riva Ridge after the race. The tests were conducted by Dalare Associates of Collingswood and Philadelphia.

TRANQUILIZER

Daingerfield said the tests produced "traces of a tranquilizer drug of the nature of Promazine," but said the tests did not meet state regulations. He said results alone were not enough reason for disciplinary action.

A spokesman for the state Racing Commission said results of an investigation which began Aug. 16 would probably be released Thursday, but added, "It would be premature to comment on the results."

SECURITY

Daingerfield said 24-hour guards had been posted at the barn where Riva Ridge was quartered before the Aug. 5 race. He said the security at the track "is equal to any place in the country. But the track is not obligated to assign security guards," he said.

Officials said the horse was isolated from others at the stable according to temporary housing practices for animals usually running in one race. Because of the horse's brief stay at Monmouth Park, one state official involved in the investigation said "that could lead to various conclusions" about the incident, including the possibility the horse was drugged prior to his arrival at the track.

Daingerfield said Monday the drug could have been administered to the animal from eight to 48 hours before the test, which began the morning after the race and completed the following day.

W. C. HANSON

68-Year-Old Man To Run In Dipsea

W. C. Hanson and the late Vince Lombardi would never agree, but perhaps that's the reason nobody has ever compared the Dipsea race to professional football.

"Winning isn't everything — it's the only thing," said Lombardi when he was creating championship pro teams in the mid-1960s.

"I'm really not in it to win," said Hanson, at press time the oldest entrant in the race at age 68. "It's a wonderful sort of get-together and there's good fellowship in it."

This year's Dipsea, the 62nd annual grueling footrace along the trail from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach, will begin Sunday at 10 a.m. Some 1,400 entrants are expected.

It's the fourth straight Dipsea for Hanson, who was born in San Jose on Aug. 3, 1904. He didn't compete in the race until he was 65.

"I heard so much about it for 30 or 40 years that I finally decided to go and find out what it was all about. I've enjoyed it each year. But I'm just sort of participating and not racing."

Hanson is an avid backpacker and generally goes hiking on Mt. Tamalpais once a week with a friend who lives in the same apartment building in San Francisco, Peter Bogich, 70. He also runs in other races, such as the annual Bay-to-Breakers in the city. He belongs to the Olympic Club.

"Last year I ran the Dipsea race in about an hour and 20 minutes. My pacer is Mrs. Boitano — you know, Mike's mother." Mike Boitano won the race last year. At the age of 9, he is 59 years younger than Hanson. What generation gap?

When reached by phone yesterday, Hanson had just returned from wome work on the course. "I have a bad Achilles tendon, and it's limited my training, but I was able to go over there this morning and do four round trips on the stairs in hiking boots. That's 5,000 stairs."

"I never ran competitively before the Dipsea. I wrestled and participated in gymnastics when I was younger, but I was only average," the retired Standard Oil Co. employee said.

"My doctor in Mill Valley says I'm in very good condition. He says there's no reason why I can't continue backpacking and running in the Dipsea for quite a few years."

Suburban's Nystrom Shines in 13-1 Romp

Joe Nystrom pitched his fourth consecutive sterling game for Suburban Auto against Sohner Tree Service, and got two hits and four runs-batted-in in the process, as Suburban clobbered the Treemen, 13-1, in a San Rafael Recreation Department Adult Softball game.

In other games, Industrial Credit Co. squeezed by Loose, 10-9, Perry's outscored Connection, 9-7; Marin Wheels bombed Joe America II, 12-4, and Vendors blanked Booby's, 6-0.

49ers Tab Taylor For 2 Positions

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—With cornerback Jim Johnson and free safety Mike Simpson both sidelined with shoulder separations, it means that Bruce Taylor will have to fill in at both positions for the San Francisco Forty Ninerss Sunday when the Denver Broncos come calling.

"Oh sure I'll play safety when Dick (Nolan) asks me," Taylor said Tuesday at training camp here, "I know I have to help out now. But I hope when the season starts, I'll be able to stay at corner. I like corner better; I like the challenge of taking a receiver man-to-man."

Taylor said that switching between the two jobs hurts his concentration.

With Johnson out, Taylor expects that life at cornerback will be easier since opposing quarterbacks undoubtedly will test rookies Windlan Hall and Ralph McGill on the other corner.

"I know what it's like," said Taylor, "because I got the same treatment as a rookie. Even now, I have to figure that the other team is going to throw my way 75 per cent of the time when Jimmy (Johnson) is in there."

The Niners hope that both Johnson and Simpson will be back in action by the time the season starts.

Paradise Wins Drake Cage Title, 70-61

Paradise Pharmacy, behind the 22-point shooting of Dave Lee and Bob Heaney, clinched the Drake Summer Basketball League championship with a 70-61 victory over the Olympic Club of Marin.

Ralph Ogden also scored 22, but for the Olympic Club. The playoffs begin tonight in the Drake gym at 7:30.

Italian Club Opens Play In DiMaggio

Under new management and suffering from a slightly depleted lineup, the Italian Club of Marin County will take the field tonight at Wilson Park in Vallejo for the opening round of the 1972 California Joe DiMaggio League baseball tournament.

Coach Dan Abballo has gone on vacation, and Redwood High School's varsity coach Al Endriss has just returned from his, in time to lead the Larkspur team against Vallejo tonight at 8:30.

MISSING

Missing from the Italian Club roster will be John Billings, who by this time is lying on Waikiki Beach in Hawaii and possibly Mike Connor. Endriss said, "I just came in around 6 o'clock last night and they filled me in then. Connor is at a basketball camp, but he may return for the game. I won't know, though, if he's coming until he actually does.

What may hurt even more, however, is the probable presence on the mound tonight of Vallejo's Steve Copeland. A sixth-round draft choice for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1971, Copeland played that year for St. Vincent's High School in Vallejo, and saw action in the North-South state all-star game. Last season, he pitched on the varsity at the California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo (formerly Cal Poly).

UNSURE

Endirss was unsure about whom he would start in the opening round game. "I'd guess we'd go with (Gene) Frey or (Mark) Ruggles," he mused.

THREE

As Marin's representative to that tourney, the team was allowed to select three players from the rest of the local league, and chose Don Bianchini, Steve Sherry, and Billings of Toby's Truckers. According to Endriss, the Italian Club will not be able to replace Billings, or Connor should he not be able to participate in the game, with further selections.

"If they're both gone, our outfield would probably be (Matt) Gondak, (Gino) Pomilia, and (Jim) Caito," Endriss said.

Thompson Gets Legion Award

Jim Thompson, a .321 hitter for the Novato Post 540 American Legion baseball team, was named most valuable player at an awards dinner last night held at the Officers' Club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Greg Mazeres (.333), who led the team in doubles with nine, won the batting championship. The Wayne Armostrong Memorial Award for sportsmanship went to Dave Ilchert, and the "Most Inspirational" nod was given to Dave Ilchert.

The Novato team won the 5th District Championship, but lost in the Area tourney for the legion teams.

A's Beat Tigers In 'Brawl-Game'

DETROIT (UPI)—For two teams which sometimes seem to act like they don't want to win their respective division titles, the Oakland A's and Detroit Tigers sure put up a scrap.

Oakland beat Detroit 6-3 Tuesday night in the baseball game, but the free-for-all they had in the seventh inning ended up pretty much a draw.

In fact, the worst injured among the combatants was a nonplayer, coach Irv Noren of Oakland. He suffered a multistitch cut over the left eye when blind-sided by an unidentified participant.

"It was exciting," Manager Dick Williams of Oakland said as his team retained its half-game lead over Chicago in the American League West.

"I was up in the press box watching it with you," cracked Manager Billy Martin of Detroit after his Tigers stumbled again but still managed to retain their half-game edge over Baltimore, which also lost, in the AL East.

Home runs by Joe Rudi, winning pitcher John Odom, and Angel Mangual doomed Mickey Lolich to his 10th defeat instead of the 20th victory he was after.

The brawl started with two out in the seventh and Odom, who had singled on second after reliever Bill Slayback had thrown a wild pitch high and inside to Bert Campaneris, who grounded out later.

The count on Mangual was one strike when Slayback threw a wild pitch behind him and then started to cover the plate, Mangual charged because he'd heard Martin order Slayback to pitch him tight and immediately both benches plus bullpens were empty.

"Slayback was under orders to pitch him tight," Martin admitted. "He'd been hitting pitches that were outside and over the plate so we wanted to pitch him inside this time.

"Any ball club that wants to fight with our ball club had better think twice," Martin said. "We don't go looking for fights, but we protect each other real good."

"They're fighting for a pennant; We're fighting for a pennant," Williams said. "The least thing can set something off. This is good," he said. "You don't like to see fights, but it's good to see them react."

Mike Epstein, Dave Duncan and Sal Bando of the A's were getting in more than their share of the scuffling along with Gates Brown, Ike Brown and Willie Horton of the Tigers.

When the pushing, shoving, punching and tackling was all over, the 30,490 partisans began raining beer and beer cups plus other debris on the Oakland players as they returned to the dugout and bullpen.

Slayback and Mangual were ejected along with Ike Brown, who was put for starting the incident all over after it had died down. The whole affair lasted about 15 minutes.

Odom gave up hits to the first two batters he faced-a single to Dick McAuliffe and Willie Horton's ninth home run but didn't allow another until Mickey Stanley doubled with two out in the seventh. Ed Brinkman's leadoff double in the eighth drove him out and brought in Darold Knowles.

Reds, Pirates May Print Series Tickets

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates, current leaders in the National League's west and east divisions respectively, have been given permission by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to begin printing World Series tickets.

Meanwhile 10 other clubs were authorized by the commissioner to begin printing tickets for the league championship series.

Chicago, Oakland, Baltimore, Detroit, Minnesota, Boston, New York and Cleveland were given the go-ahead for league championship series in the American League while Houston and Los Angeles were approved in the National League.

The league championship series will begin Saturday Oct. 7—three days after the close of the regular season. The American League series will open in the park of the western division winner while the National League will begin in the eastern division winner's park. Should Oakland win the AL west or Los Angeles in the NL west, Monday Oct. 9 will be designated as a travel date in the best of five series.

The World Series will begin on Saturday Oct. 14 with Monday Oct. 16 and Friday Oct. 20 set aside for travel. Except for Saturday and Sunday, all World Series games will be played at night.

Kuhn also directed all contending teams to submit their 25-man eligibility rosters to the baseball office no later than Sept. 1.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boating Rescue And 'Float Plan'

The biggest problem faced by the men who must search for a missing boat is that very often they don't know where to start.

Almost invariably people who start out on a cruise, a boat camp-out, or a canoe trip in wilderness areas, never leave a clear cut plan of their route or objective with any responsible person.

Those who do stand a much better chance of being found or rescued if they should get into serious difficulties.

Many attempts have been made by public-spirited bodies to institute a system much like the fliers use. When a pilot takes off on a cross country flight he usually files a flight plan with some competent authority. Then if he's forced down and overdue, finding him is reduced to the simple expedient of following his route.

A comparable idea for boats has been called a "float plan" and there are still some yacht clubs and marinas across the country which have printed forms or duplicated slips available at their headquarters so that when a member takes off on a cruise he can jot down his itinerary and his estimated time of arrival at various points.

If he doesn't show up at reasonable intervals at any of these points, a check back to the last point he touched can reduce the area of search in many cases by hundreds of square miles. This is particularly true of coastal cruising.

And anyone venturing into our northwoods on a canoe trip or even a day's boat camping trip should leave an outline of their proposed route with someone who can relay it to a search and rescue authority if they are overdue.

Nobody is as aware of how big this country is as the Coast Guard skippers who have searched miles of coastal tidelands or the pilots who have flown search missions over Northern Michigan looking for a pinpoint that is a wrecked boat or a lost canoe.

With the growth in cruising, overnight boat-camping and wilderness travel a few new problems have been introduced, as these questions show:

Q. Is there a universal distress signal?

A. The closest to this is the International distress signal, made by displaying a square and circle together in any shape or form. The shapes can be flags flying on a mast, a blanket and a ball of clothes laid out on rocks, designs tramped out in the sand, or snow, or anything similar. Pilots the world over are trained to look for such shapes.

Q. I've heard about a new distress signal. What is it?

A. You must mean the one advocated by the Coast Guard for small boaters. It's made by standing up on the highest point of your boat (or wherever you are) and slowly raising and lowering the arms at the sides. It's recognized instantly anywhere in the U.S. or Canada.

Q. Is distress signalling equipment required on an ocean cruising boat?

A. Not by law, but common sense dictates having it aboard. Many a Coast Guard search and rescue officer who has spent fruitless days hunting a lost boat could make out a good case for it being compulsory.

Q. On inland waters is a mirror a good signalling device?

Miss Walsh Loses In Pennsylvania

Fourth-seeded Sharon Walsh of San Rafael was defeated, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, yesterday in the second round of the $15,000 Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships.

Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo defeated defending titleholder Eliza Pande of Palo Alto, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Miss Kiyomura, the U.S. girls 18-and-under grass court champion, scored on her fourth match point after Miss Pande fought off three match points in taking the eighth game.

Second-seeded Pat Walkden Pretorius, from South Africa, was beaten by Laurie Fleming, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 5-7, 6-1, 6-4, after the South African doubles faulted on match point.

In other matches, top-seeded Virginia Wade of England rallied to beat Jane Stratton of Salt Lake City, 6-2, 7-6; and third-seeded Kazuko Sawametsu of Japan defeated Janet Haas of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-2, 6-1.

In the men's play, the three contract pros, Tom Okker of Holland and Mark Cox and Roger Taylor of England, all were extended to three set matches in gaining the third round.

BOXERS VALDEZ, CARRERAS

Hamilton Duo Eyes Olympic Gold

(Second of a series)

If past records are any indication, Hamilton Air Force Base boxers Ricardo (Ricky) Carreras and Jesse Valdez certainly are capable of winning gold medals at the Olympic Games in Munich.

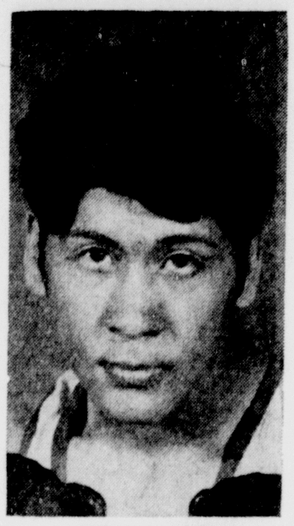
When Carreras, a 119-pound bantamweight, and Valdez, a 147-pound welterweight, face their first opponents Sunday, they will be heavily armed with numerous crowns earned in amateur boxing circles since 1964.

Carreras, a 22-year-old New York City native, has twice won the national Amateur Athletic Union 119-pound title, this year and last; and won the 1970 and 1972 inter-service crowns, the first at 125 pounds and the latter at 119.

In 1969, he also won the New York Golden Gloves and Air Training Command titles at 132 pounds. This year, he overcame mononucleosis to win his first Olympic berth. Until earning a trip to Munich, Carreras had claimed "my biggest thrill was winning a bronze medal in the Pan American Games" at Cali, Colombia, last year. But now the boxing sergeant, who hopes to become an electrician after completing his military stint, has an even loftier ambition: win an Olympic gold medal.

To do so, the gifted boxer with a stiff left jab will have to get by some rough opposition. Yet, the man who learned boxing skills nine years ago in a New York Boys Club is determined to do just that. Though considered a light hitter, despite his 5-foot-9 frame, Carreras is bent on using his aggressive style in achieving victory.

Like Carreras, Valdez, a veteran amateur, is determined to win a gold medal in his first Olympic try. While realizing this will be no easy task, Valdez believes he can do so. And experiences garnered in his long, successful amateur career may prove handy in an Olumpic ring.



JESSE VALDEZ

Valdez, an alternate at the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo as a 147-pounder, considers himself "stronger, more mature, and mentally alert" now. If his 220-bout career, featuring 205 victories, can be used as an argument in his favor, Valdez's personal assessment is indeed accurate.

Soccer Practice

All male students at College of Marin who wish to participate in intercollegiate soccer should be present for practice on the Kentfield campus' athletic director's office next Wednesday, 10 a.m., regardless of whether or not they have received invitational letters, according to coach Bob Sitov.

While his physical capabilities are significant, so are his title-laden experiences. For instances, he was the Houston Golden Gloves 156-pound ruler in 1962 and 1964 through 1967, Texas state amateur champion in 1964 through 1968, and Pan American bronze medal winner in 1967.

He was also the 1969 and 1971 winner in the 147-pound division during the Soviet Union-United States boxing duels, plus the 1970 and 1971 All-American, 147-pounds. Valdez was also acclaimed the outstanding fighter in the Consiel International de Sporte Militaire (military Olympics) and in the 1970 Pacific AAU.

RICKY CARRERAS

In addition to winning an Olympics berth this year, he found time to earn the interservice 147-pound boxing crown.

With such an impressive boxing background, it comes as nor surprise that Valdez, like Carreras, must considered a gold medal contender.

Sumo Wrestler Gets His Day

HONOLULU (UPI) —Today is "Takamiyama Day" in Hawaii in honor of home-town hero Jesse Kuhaulua, first non-Japanese ever to win a major Sumo event.

Kahaulua, known as Takamiyama to millions of Sumo fans in Japan, captured the Nagoya Grand Sumo Tournament last month.

He is due at Honolulu International Airport today and will have a round of celebrations in his honor. Thursday, he returns to his home island of Maui where other programs and festivities are planned.

Linemen Held Key To Raider Success

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The front four in an Oakland Raiders defense that has held opponents without a touchdown in the last nine quarters of National Football League exhibition play are a testimonial to the club's success with the draft, says personnel director Ron Wolfe.

Wolfe pointed out Tuesday that ends Horace Jones and Tony Cline and tackle Carlton Oats were Raider draft picks. Tackle Tom Keating, the other member of the front four, was drafted by Buffalo as a fifth choice in 1964 and acquired by trade.

Jones, drafted No. 12 in 1971 and a starter in his rookie year, was a player "everybody knew about," Wolfe said.

Meanwhile, from a Los Angeles hospital, Madden received an encouraging report on rookie running back Ray Jamieson who received spinal cord damage and a dislocated vertebrae in Saturday night's Rams game. Doctors said Jamieson was making progress and had slightly more movement in his arms and legs than on Monday.

COACH VS. MAGAZINE

Woody Hayes' Feud With Playboy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Woody Hayes isn't changing his hardline attitude toward Playboy magazine despite the publication's flattering prediction his Ohio State Buckeyes will be the nation's No. 1 football team this season.

The magazine would like to include Ohio State players on its All-American teams, but Woody frowns on his players taking the weekend excursion to Hugh Hefner's pad for parties and the required photo-taking session.

Playboy staffer Anson Mount, who selects the team, wants the veteran Ohio State coach to change his mind. But Woody says the subject doesn't even interest him.

"It's not worthwhile to talk about," Woody said Tuesday afternoon. "I've got more important things to do."

Asked if he was pleased to be rated No. 1, Woody said, "I don't care if we're first or 100th, it's winning games on the field that counts. I'm an old coach and my life style is not the same as that magazine," he said. But he begged off being drawn into a controversy. "I don't find this worthwhile to discuss."

Mount was anxious to discuss the situation.

"Woody Hayes is the only coach who's ever refused to let a player come to Chicago to be included in Playboy's All-America team," Mount said in a telephone interview from Chicago. "But that's Woody's problem, not Playboy's.

"It's not Playboy being cheated, but the would-be All-American that Woody doesn't allow in our magazine," he said. Mount says the Buckeyes have "all around tremendous team strength" this year and he didn't single out an Ohio Stater on his 1972 team. But he has tried in past years.

In 1970 Mount selected Ohio State defensive back Jack Tatum for Playboy's team, but Tatum was not allowed to attend the May weekend of parties and pictures. So rather than leave a vacancy in Playboy's team photo, Mount scratched Tatum and replaced him with Notre Dame's Clarence Ellis.

Mount defended the policy of excluding a first choice if he can't pose for pictures. "Why should we let Woody ruin the whole thing?" Mount asked. "If we didn't have one of our players here the picture would be ruined.

Mount claims Woody's policy hasn't prejudiced Playboy from initially selecting Ohio State players for its all-star team. Mount said Tatum was not the only Buckeye he has wanted and probably will not be the last.

"I think Ohio State will have the best team in the nation this year and if that happens it's very likely I'll pick another Ohio State player next year and try to get Woody to give in," Mount said.

But he added that if Woody holds out, so will he.

"If O.J. Simpson was playing for Ohio State and Woody wouldn't let him come to Chicago, then O.J. Simpson wouldn't be a Playboy All-American," said Mount, who did pick Simpson during his stellar days at the University of Southern California.

Mount said he receives letters of praise from both players and parents after the Chicago weekend and when the selections appear in print. He said the president of Purdue University flew his school's selections to Chicago in the university airplane.

Brave Avoids Doghouse With Game-Winning Blow

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As he was accepting congratulating for his game-winning homer in the Atlanta Braves' come-from-behind 11-7 victory over the hapless Philadelphia Phillies, pitcher Ron Reed walked over to Breazeale and gave him a firm handshake.

"Friends," Reed said, "we're more than even." Breazeale answered, "it was my fault." Fault? Didn't Breazeale win the game? He did. But first, he almost lost it.

"Maybe now this gets me even with Reed," Breazeale said. "He was pretty upset with me and he had a right to be." Breazeale had raised Reed's ire when he made a costly mental error that helped the Phils get two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

After Don Money homered to break a 4-4 tie, Larry Bowa hit a two out, one-hop grounder to Breazeale, who was playing first because Manager Eddie Mathews was resting Hank Aaron.

The inning seemed over but Breazeale, after he fielded the ball, started to trot nonchalantly to the bag to retire Bowa. He had forgotten that Bowa is a speedster and by the time Breazeale started to run, Bowa had the jump on him and beat him to the bag.

Reed, the Atlanta starter, was upset and was promptly tagged for two unearned runs and the score was 7-4 instead of 5-4.

That's just what he did. He came to the plate with two on and the Braves trailing 7-5 and he slammed Billy Wilson's first pitch for a three-run homer that made it 8-7. The Braves then added three more runs to complete a seven-run uprising.

In the other games, Cincinnati downed Montreal 5-3, New York edged Houston 4-2, Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 1-0, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 1-0 and Chicago edged San Diego 4-3.

Johnny Bench, playing rightfield while Bill Plummer handles the catching chores, drove in two runs with his 28th homer in the first inning as Cincinnati downed Montreal. Plummer also did his share with a solo homer in the ninth inning while Pete Rose chipped in with a solo homer in the sixth inning.

Jim Beauchamp, who hit a pair of homers on Monday night, drove in all four runs to hand Tom Seaver his 15th victory as New York topped Houston. Beauchamp snapped a 2-2 deadlock in the eighth inning with a two-run single off loser Dave Roberts. Beauchamp also had a run-scoring single and a solo homer.

Al Downing pitched a nine-hitter to give Los Angeles the victory over St. Louis. Willie Davis singled in the only run of the game in the first inning. Lou Brock of St. Louis stole his 50th base—tying Ty Cobb's major league mark of stealing 50 bases or more in eight different seasons.

Ferguson Jenkins, who always seems to get his 20 victories, got closer to the mark as he picked up his 18th with a five-hitter in Chicago's triumph over San Diego. The Cubs collected 12 hits while pinning the loss on Steve Arlin.

Giants Lose Ron Johnson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Giants thought they saw a silver lining Sunday but things were cloudy again by Tuesday.

The Giants snapped a nine-game pre-season losing streak Sunday by earning a 31-31 tie with the New York Jets, mostly on the heroics of Randy Johnson and Bob Tucker. Johnson threw two TD passes to Tucker, who caught eight passes for the day, and ran for another score.

But it was discovered Tuesday that Johnson suffered a separated shoulder on the final play of the game when he was tackled while attempting to pass by Jet tackle John Little. Johnson completed 24 of 40 passes against the Jets and assured himself of the starting job over veteran Norm Snead. But he'll be out for three weeks, and hopes to be ready for the season opener Sept. 17 at Detroit.

But how effective he'll be after the three-week layoff is a big question mark for the Giants.

In other news from the training camps, the Los Angeles Rams announced that defensive back Kermit Alexander has a broken right elbow and will be out of action four-to-six weeks. The Rams already have problems in their defensive backfield with Jim Nettles injured. Los Angeles acquired defensive back Al Clark from Detroit Tuesday as insurance.

Coach Tom Landry of Dallas said Jack Concannon, the newly acquired quarterback, may see limited action Saturday night when the Cowboys take on the Jets. Landry also disclosed that Calvin Hill is suffering from a bruised elbow and that Mike Montgomery, acquired from San Diego in the Duane Thomas trade, may see more action at running back.

Jets' coach Weeb Ewbank said that Steve Tannen earned a starting berth with his outstanding play at left cornerback in the tie with the Giants. Tannen made a key pass deflection to prevent a touchdown that would have put the Giants ahead. The Jets put linebacker Chuch Kyle on waivers but recalled injured waivers on return specialist Gary Hammond when a claim was made.

Steve Zabel, expected to replace Tim Rossovich at middle linebacker for Philadelphia, suffered a knee injury Tuesday. He will not require surgery but will undergo therapy at the Eagles' camp. Zabel's injury came only two days after Rossovich, traded to San Diego, suffered a similar injury and required surgery.

Pete Brown, Cincinnati's Director of Player Personnel, said he feels Greg Cook, who earned Rookie of the Year honors in the American Conference in 1969, may play again. Cook, a quarterback, has undergone three operations in the past two years to correct damage to his shoulder.

Starr, who retired this year after 15 years as a quarterback for the Packers, has been prominent as a Republican campaigner and, when he was honored with a special day in Green Bay two years ago, President Nixon was present to take part in the festivities.

Lynn Dickey, who is battling with Dan Pastorini to be the Houston Oilers' first string quarterback, says the man who moves the team best is the man who gets the job.

"Performance is the thing," said Dickey, who will start against the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night. "The man who moves the team is the man who plays. He should be the man who plays."

Dickey and Pastorini have split the quarterbacking chores in three pre-season games. Both are two-year veterans.

The calls that decide victory or defeat for the Denver Broncos this year may be coming from the sidelines.

Red Sox Creep Close To Lead

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

While Detroit and Oakland were busy brawling on the field, Boston inched a bit closer to the Tigers in the American League East yesterday by winning a slugfest from Kansas City, 10-7.

Carl Yastrzemski celebrated his 33rd birthday for the Red Sox by hitting his fourth homer of the season. He drove in two runs, as did teammates Carlton Fisk and John Kennedy, as fourth-place Boston moved to within 2½ games of the front-runnng Tigers.

Elsewhere in the league, Oakland beat Detroit, 6-3 California blanked Baltimore 2-0, Chicago edged New York 5-4, Cleveland slid past Minnesota 3-2 and Texas nipped Milwaukee 2-1.

Nolan Ryan's four-hitter prevented the slumping Orioles from gaining any ground as Bob Oliver drove in one Angel run and scored the other. Ryan struck out 11 in sending the Orioles to their sixth loss in eight games.

Dick Allen's 31st homer with Buddy Bradford aboard in the fifth lifted the White Sox to a come-from-behind triumph over the Yankees. Mike Andrews also drove in two runs as the Yankees blew a 4-0 lead.

Gaylord Perry chalked up his 19th victory for Cleveland with the help of defensive replacement Tommy McCraw. McCraw singled home Buddy Bell with the winning run after two were out in the ninth inning.

In the showdown of cellar-dwellers, Rich Hand and Casey Cox combined on a two-hitter as Texas squeezed by Milwaukee.

Rudi belted his 17th home run with a teammate on in the first, Odom hit his first of the season in the third and Mangual's fourth came with a pair of A's on base in the fifth.

It never would have happened if Lolich had settled for getting Odom at first on the pitcher's sacrifice bunt with George Hendrick on base and one out. But Lolich went to second and Hendrick beat the throw. Campaneris flied out and Mangual followed with his home run.

nouncement, Killanin and de Beaumont stood on either side of the president.

Killanin, a rumpled, heavy-set man who is seldom seen without his pipe, has been an author, a film producer, a sports administrator, and is a banker. He and de Beaumont, 68, had been candidates for the Presidency since Brundage announced that he would not seek re-election.

Neither man was publicly associated with either side in the dispute over Rhodesia, a dispute in which many believe the I. O. C. suffered a loss of prestige.

Commenting on the fact that the I. O. C. reversed its position under pressure in barring Rhodesia from the Games Tuesday, Killanin said, "It is true that the politicians have taken over, but I remain an optimist and the I. O. C. will now have to do some serious thinking."

Asked whether he agreed with the decision to expel Rhodesia, he said: "I always have to support the majority."

Killanin, aware of the task ahead, said, "I would have been very happy not to have been elected. I fear there are some sleepless nights ahead."

Asked if he agreed with Brundage's view that the Winter Games should be "given a decent burial at Denver," Killanin said, "I have no thoughts either way. Not coming from a winter sports country, I don't get too excited. If the Games are run properly, it will be all right."

De Beaumont, the defeated candidate, said, "I am now the senior Vice-President and I am sure there will be very close cooperation between myself and Killanin."

Daume said, "I did not really want to stand as a Vice-President, but the pressure from my friends within the IOC was too great."

Referring to Killanin, he said, "I believe my colleagues have made a wise choice. I have personally cooperated with him very well during the organizing of the Games and I have nothing but admiration for him."

Daume, who made one of the strongest opening speeches at the opening of the session, said, "We face difficult times ahead. The I. O. C. must have a strong and effective administration to solve the problems ahead. I have confidence that Killanin will succeed."

Six Miles From Munich— The Horror Of Dachau

By MILTON RICHMAN

DACHAU (UPI)—Something made me come back here.

I'm not sure what. All I know is I made two trips.

This place isn't that big for repeat visits.

There was a time that once you came here, you never left. Even now, the majority of those who see Dachau once generally leave it at that.

I came back for a number of reasons, I suppose.

Maybe I couldn't believe what I had seen the first time.

Maybe the thought occurred to me had it not been for a matter of geography, an accident of birth perhaps you'd call it, I might've wound up here myself.

Or maybe this really is all tied in with the Olympics and the racial issue which threatened Saturday's Opening Ceremony in Munich, only six miles down the road from here.

Getting here was no trouble at all. It never has been down through the years.

I took that first right outside the Olympic Village, the one leading into Dachauer Strasse, kept going nine kilometers until I came up against a high barbed-wire fence and a sudden dryness in my mouth, and there I was, in a completely different world.

The abject misery of Dachau's quarter of a million victims hits you immediately when you walk into the barracks and see those pitifully small, insufferably crowded triple-tiered partitions which served as "beds" and general living quarters for those unfortunates imprisoned by Adolf Hitler.

He talks about the Blockfuhrers, those who continually harassed the prisoners.

" ... Frequently they come and rip the beds apart, flinging the bedding in all directions. It needs one of them only to be in a vile rage or a drunken temper. If he finds a bunk badly made, the culprit's number is taken and reported, his punishment being an hour's hanging at the stake by the wrists tied together behind the back . . ."

There was no such thing as escape. You can see why, too.

First, there's this deep ditch eight feet wide which fronts an electrically charged barbed-wire fence.

Even if you're Superman and make the fence though, there's another one in front of that and there's barbed wire on top of it also.

No one makes that first fence though.

If a prisoner even so much as steps on the strip of grass in front of the ditch, never mind the fence, the SS guards simply shoot him dead without warning.

Dachau was the first of 22 concentration camps Hitler had built in Germany.

For the opening of the Olympics Saturday, there will be a gala ceremony in nearby Munich.

For the opening of Dachau, situated on the grounds of a one-time munitions' factory, there was merely a brief announcement in a Munich newspaper.

"On Wednesday, March 22, 1933," it said, "the first concentration camp will be opened in the vicinity of Dachau. It can accommodate 5,000 people. We have adopted this measure, undeterred by paltry scruples, in the conviction that our action will help to restore the calm to our country and is in the best interests of our people."

The announcement was signed by Munich's Commissioner of Police — Heinrich Himmler.

Dachau stands today pretty much as it did when Hitler used it as one of his chambers of horrors from 1933 until 1945.

There is a museum here ngw and to get to it you have to walk on the same hard crushed rock its victims did and you see the same 32 huge burial pits they did except when they saw them they were open and not covered over by asphalt as they are now.

There's another photograph, blown up life-size.

It looks like one of those pennant-clinching scenes, with everyone laughing, and was taken on April 29, 1945 when the Americans liberated the camp.

Outside the museum, you see the grisly ovens where the bodies were burned. More than 30,000 died in Dachau.

"It is a shame so many people still think the people of Dachau are bad," one localite said to me. "We are Bavarian people, friendly people, who have worked hard all our lives. We were never told what really went on in the concentration camp, only that bad people were put in there, people who drank and didn't want to work. When we'd see the prisoners marching to work we would put bread and potatoes on the window-sill for them. Most of the people here in Dachau don't want this place (the concentration camp memorial site) because they feel many of those coming to Munich for the Olympics also will come here to see this and not understand we had nothing to do with it."

Some of the Olympic competitors already have made the six-mile trip from Munich to this small paper-mill town.

They go through the camp, never saying much, but most look at a memorial stone near the exit which, in four different languages, says "Never Again."

For most Olympic visitors, one trip generally does it.

But something made me come back here.

Hull Files Antitrust Countersuit Against Black Hawks And NHL

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CHICAGO — Hockey star Bobby Hull today filed an antitrust countersuit in federal court against the Chicago Black Hawks, seeking to affirm his right to jump to the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

Hull's action named the National Hockey League, its commissioner-president Clarence Campbell and every league team as defendants.

The suit asked no specific monetary damages. Hull's attorney, Jerome Torsmen, said a declaration in favor of Hull would be more important to Hull than money.

The suit was an answer to a suit filed against Hull last week by the Black Hawks, who seek an injunction to prevent their star from joining the Jets.

Baseball

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday moved Billy Conigliaro to the voluntary retirement list after receiving a letter from the former Boston Red Sox player saying he does not want to return to pro ball.

Conigliaro, 25, who was obtained in the mammoth 10-player Milwaukee-Boston trade last year, began this season as a starter in the Brewer outfield but on June 25 walked out on the team and announced his retirement.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — San Juan, led by the six-hit pitching of Elgardo Salgado, defeated Windsor, Ontario, 3-1 and Hammond, Ind., nipped Vienna, Va., 2-1, Tuesday in the opening round of the 26th Little League World Series.

Two games were scheduled today. Taipei, Taiwan, met New York City, and Pearl City, Hawaii, clashed with Madrid, Spain.

Boxing

MEXICO CITY — The World Boxing Council (WBC) Tuesday authorized an elimination fight for the World Middleweight title between Emile Griffith of New York and Jean-Claude Boutier of France.

The fight will be held shortly in Paris under the auspices of French promoter Charles Michaelis and the winner will earn the right to face the current World Middleweight champion, Carlos Monson of Argentina.

Tennis

NEW YORK — Reigning champions Stan Smith and Billie Jean King will assume familiar roles when the U.S. Open Tennis championship at Forest Hills, N.Y. begins play Aug. 30-Sept. 10.

Smith, victor in last year's men's field that was depleted by defections of Lamar Hunt's contract pros and Mrs. King, recent Wimbledon queen, have been named top seeds in the upcoming tourney.

For the first time this year, the Forest Hills tournament will bring together amateurs, independent professionals and Hunt's contract pros who have not mixed in any tourney since the Australian Open in January.

Trapshooting

VANDALIA, Ohio — Veldon Smith, a 27-year-old construction worker from Brownsburg, Ind., made trapshoot history at the 73rd annual Grand American Tournament Tuesday as he broke 100 straight targets in doubles.

Smith, a three-year shooter, posted the first doubles score here in Class C competition, for shooters averaging only from 82 to 86 per cent.

TRAVEL STOCKS DOWN

Loss Triggered By Holiday Inn

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The travel stocks haven't been having much of a holiday in the stock market as of late.

Triggered by a 10-point loss to 40 in the shares of Holiday Inn the last week of July, most of the lodging stocks have fallen faster than a bellboy's hand opens for a tip.

Oddly, Holiday Inn's troubles were not related to the lodging part of its business. A strike at its TCO Bus Company (Trailways) was the main culprit, dragging second-quarter profits for the parent corporation of a few pennies below last year's comparable period.

But that was enough to stun Wall Street — as if no one in investment circles were aware that a bus strike had even been under way. And, although similar strikes were not hampering other lodging companies, many were hammered to new yearly lows.

For example, Hilton Hotels Corporation, which was as high as 60 early in 1972, dropped 4 ¾ the final week of July to 33 ¾, a new low for the year and as low as it has been since the bear-market days of mid-1970. TravelLodge and Royal Inns also declined to new lows, and Sonesta International hovered in the 6 range, a point or so above its 1971 and '72 bottom and far below its peak of 21 set in 1969.

Howard Johnson, trading as high as 54, near its 1972 high of 59, and Hyatt, which edged within 1 ⅛ of its yearly peak of 34, bucked the trend. Ramada Inns and Marriott held stable in a range midway between their 1972 extremes.

What's causing the general upset?

Says an analyst with one of the nation's multibillion-dollar mutual fund complexes: "We sold our Holiday Inns a few quarters back. But in all honesty it has nothing to do with TCO's bus strike. The strike had not even occurred, although we knew negotiations were coming up. We just felt that if we wanted to hold a position in this industry, there were one or two attractive companies — other companies."

For example? "Marriott," says the analyst, "has been able to attain 80 percent occupancy, staying close to that even in bad times. Holiday Inns trails that by 10 to 30 percent, depending on the times. For the first half, Holiday Inns occupancy has been 69 percent, 2 percent above a year ago. Holiday Inns has had to generate all its business from one concept, roadside traffic. Marriott has built up a resort and specialty service image in addition to roadside."

Aside from that, the analyst continues, "Marriott has always done very well with its food operations. People who stay at Marriott tend to eat there. But Holiday Inns has had continuing problems with its food operation." F. W. Adams, Holiday Inns treasurer, agrees: "Food is about a break-even propositon with us."

Jim Berdell, analyst with Mitchum, Jones & Templeton in San Francisco, stresses the size of Holiday Inns as a negative. "It has 200,000 rooms — a very large base from which to grow at the rate it had in the past. Do you realize that the next largest is Ramada with 40,000 rooms?" However, Adams expects large overseas growth in Europe and the Far East, and possibly Russia, to be a future source of profit growth. Nonetheless, Berdell is down on Holiday Inns, except for the possibility of a short-term technical rebound back toward 50, some of which has already taken place the first week of August.

Berdell also feels Hilton has the potential to snap back some. But he doesn't view it as a stock with potential to grow over the long haul.

Market Mixed At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, failing to find direction, closed mixed to slightly lower today in moderately active trading.

Prices were lower in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The news background was skimpy and of little encouragement to investors. Speculation is spreading throughout Wall Street that major banks are about to raise their prime rates a quarter point to 5½ per cent.

Also, the dollar came under renewed pressure on foreign markets, a discouragement to Wall Street. The stock market also saw some profit taking, which was viewed as normal in light of recent gains.

General Motors and Ford moved higher much of the day. Both reported substantially higher mid-August automobile sales.

Q. I bought 500 shares of Superscope (ASE) at $24 per share. Do you think it will ever recover to that level? — V.S.

A. The outlook for Superscope, the sole U.S. distributor of Sony consumer-type tape recorders and magnetic tape, is clouded. Sony has refused to renew their contract, which expires Dec. 1, 1974, and a suit has been filed by Superscope to prevent the contract loss. In 1971, Sony products accounted for 80 per cent of Superscope sales. The remainder was derived from its Marantz subisidary's line of stereo products. Late in 1971, 50 per cent control of Standard Radio was acquired. This Japanese company will manufacture a line of home entertainment products under the Superscope label. Standard will also increase production of a medium/lower priced line for Marantz.

In 1971, Superscope sales were up 17 per cent with most of the gain from the Marantz line. Through the first half of the current year, sales gained at a faster rate of 25 per cent year to year and earnings kept pace. If Superscope is successful in boosting contributions from this subsidiary as well as from its newly introduced Superscope line, loss of the Sony distribution rights will be buffered.

Q. Some time ago I purchased 100 share of Rheingold (NYSE at 34½. Should I hold for recovery? — F.F.

A. The large first quarter loss came as a surprise to investors, consequently shares dropped sharply. Although a profit was reported in the second quarter, on a year-to-year basis earnings were off 31 per cent. Sales, on the other pand, were higher each quarter and up 3.7 per cent for the six months. National Beverages, acquired in January, was the primary factor in the higher sales figure. However, rising brewing costs and reduced beer sales have had an adverse effect on margins.

Future market action of these shares will be largely determined by whether Rheingold can increase its share of the beer market and the rate of growth achieved by the newly acquired soft drink bottler.

Redwood Bancorp Takes Over San Rafael Bank

Redwood Bancorp became the sole owner of the Redwood Bank in San Rafael under a reorganization that went into effect this month. The reorganization was approved last March by the bank's shareholders.

Byron W. Leydecker, bank president, announced that Redwood Bank shareholders automatically became shareholders of Redwood Bancorp. They own the same number of shares in the bank holding company as they previously owned in the bank.

"It is not necessary for the holding company to issue new stock certificates, since outstanding bank stock certificates now represent Redwood Bancorp stock," said Leydecker. "Therefore, there is no need to have your present stock certificates reissued."

At present, Redwood Bancorp has no subsidiaries other than Redwood Bank, but a number of other opportunities are being evaluated, said Leydecker. "This now completed reorganized corporate structure in management's opinion provides an opportunity for greater growth, diversification and profitability, than formerly existed."

Novato Gets Datsun Dealership; The Auto Fair Gets A New Name

A new Datsun dealership is reported ready to move into Novato at 1010 Grant Avenue, where Auto Fair was located.

Owner of the new Datsun agency is believed to be Joseph Allegra, who formerly worked for Annex Motors in San Rafael.

The Auto Fair, which is the only American Motors dealer in Marin, will reopen in San Rafael under a new name, San Rafael American. It will take over the Third and Lincoln site formerly occupied by Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury, which just opened in new quarters on Francisco Boulevard. San Rafael American is scheduled to open in downtown San Rafael on Sept. 1.

"IRISHMAN'S HURRICANE," a party to introduce the versatility of Old Bushmills whiskey, will be sponsored by the Independent-Journal tomorrow (Aug. 24) evening at the San Francisco Yacht Club on Beach Road in Belvedere.

The product of Ireland's oldest distillery will flow from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., to the accompaniment of music and dancing by an Irish band.

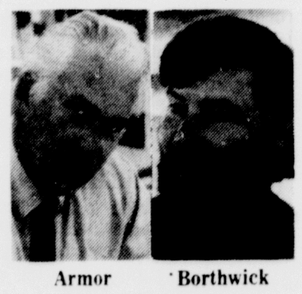
Owners of markets, retail stores, restaurants and other distributors of Bushmills, and a cross section of the Marin business world have been invited to the party to try the wide palatability of Irish whiskey in drinks other than Irish Coffee — drinks like Old Fashioned or Manhattan. Mayors of San Rafael and Belvedere and other dignitaries have been invited as honored guests.

Preceding the party, a motorized cable car will take Bushmill representatives to various outlets in Marin to promote Old Bushmills.

THE EXCHANGE BANK of Santa Rosa plans to build a new branch bank in Petaluma.

Bank President Andrew J. Shepard said the bank will be built at the planned Golden Eagle Shopping Center on East Washington Street at the Petaluma River. Construction is scheduled to begin this fall with completion by next summer. The new branch will be the 11th branch for the bank.

Barnecut Tusler



Armor Borthwick

STONE, MARRACCINI and Patterson, San Francisco architects and planners, announced the appointment of a group of new officers including these Marin residents:

Wilbur H. Tusler Jr. of Kentfield, director of the firm; Robert J. Barnecut of San Anselmo, associate director; and W. Richard Armor of Belvedere and James A. S. Borthwick of Mill Valley, associates.

Tusler, who joined the firm in 1960 is chief of the division of programming and research. Barnecut is chief of the division of environmental systems.

SIZZLER FAMILY Steak House will open its first company-operated restaurant in Marin County about January or February of next year, in Corte Madera.

Terranomics Corporation of San Francisco, commercial real estate firm, negotiated the purchase of 31,000 square feet of land by the restaurant chain at the corner of Lucky Drive and Nellen Avenue, just north of Dorothy Kell furniture store.

Merritt Sher, vice president of Terranomics, said construction will not begin for about a month, completion is expected the first of next year. The restaurant will build a $150,000 structure with a seating capacity of 160. (The Sizzler Steak House in Novato is a much smaller, franchised restaurant, not company-owned.)

Sizzler Family Steak House is a "stepchild," so to speak, to Kentucky Fried Chicken, which is run by the same parent company, Collins Food International Inc. Sizzler Family Steak House operates restaurants throughout the country and just opened a pilot unit in Hamburg, West Germany.

WALDRON & COMPANY, stock and bond brokers at Northgate Industrial Park, will move into expandedquarters in the Holiday Plaza Building at 1050 Northgate Drive, Terra Linda, in October.

George Denney of Grubb & Ellis Co. negotiated the lease of 3,300 square feet for Waldron & Co. on the first floor of the Holiday Plaza. Denney said he still has some office space available for lease in the Holiday Plaza.

MAE LACOURSE, assistant cashier at Bank of Marin in San Rafael, graduated from the School for Bank Administration at University of Wisconsin. The school was founded in 1953 by Bank Administration Institute, national banking association with headquarters at Park Ridge, Ill.

Mrs. Lacourse was the first woman to graduate from California. She completed the two-week course on Aug. 4.

WESTERN CALIFORNIA Telephone Company's Novato exchange now has a total of 14,290 telephones, an increase of 325 during the first six months of this year.

Gordon L. Lee, division manager, said Western California made several service improvements and additions this year.

Installation of 15 automatic toll ticketing units increased the direct distance dialing capability. Time-of-day service, which is free of charge, was made available for all customers in the Novato exchange. Another major project still in progress is the relocation and placement of underground conduit systems in conjunction with construction of the two-mile Highway 101 bypass around the main section of Novato.

WILLIAM A. RUTHERFORD of Larkspur has been named an independent distributor for Amway Products — cleaning, laundry and car care products, cosmetics, toiletries and hosiery. Rutherford has been a business instructor at Santa Rosa Junior College since 1969.

DOES YOUR CLUB need speakers or film strips for future meetings?

Western Information Insurance Service at 582 Market Street in San Francisco announced that it can provide speakers and films on these topics:

Safety on the highways, ways to prevent or reduce burglary losses, steps to prevent car theft, and methods the insurance industry uses to reduce auto costs and court costs in settling cases.

Richard A. Evans of Mill Valley, production manager for Yosemite-Great Falls Insurance Companies, is handling the speakers program in Marin.

We Inch Toward The Centimeter

It didn't make a very big splash in the news columns when the Senate voted to put the United States on the metric system — not so big, for instance as the antics of the Republican convention. But its long-range importance is great.

If the House of Representatives goes along with the bill the Senate approved last Friday, an 11-member board will prepare within 18 months a plan for converting our inches, miles, acres, quarts, gallons, bushels, etc., etc., to the system in use in all the rest of the industrial nations in the world. The goal is to put U.S. weights and measures on the metric system within 10 years.

It won't be simple. But it's been done elsewhere, and there's no reason it can't be done here. And the benefits are considerable.

SUPPOSE, for instance, you need a part for a foreign-made piece of machinery. It should be possible to duplicate the part at an American machine-tool shop.

But everything about that part, from its overall dimensions to the thread of its screws or bolts, will be in centimeters and millimeters. And everything in the American machine-tool shop will be in inches and fractions of inches. So about all you can do —unless you want to pay a young fortune to duplicate a simple part —is send abroad for it, and wait

WE INHERITED our complicated system of weights and measures from the English. Soon after independence, we dropped their pounds, shillings and pence for a metric system currency: dollars and cents.

The English, on the other hand, clung to 12 pence to a shilling and 20 shillings to the pound until just last year. But in the meantime they adoped metric measurements for every- thing except land. And they were among the last nations to do so.

We, however, are only now inching toward the centimeter.

WHILE CONVERTING the quart to cubic centimeters and the mile to kilometers may give us some headaches in the next few years, think what a boon the new system will be to school children!

No longer will they need tables showing that there are 16 drams in an ounce, 43,560 square feet in an acre, and 1,728 cubic inches in a cubic foot in order to solve those story problems. Everything will be in tens, hundreds, and thousands.

It may be so simple the schools won't even need the "new math."

SACRAMENTO SCENE

State Embarked On Costly, Perhaps Tragic Experiment

By RUS WALTON

Public education in California is about to embark upon a tragic and costly mistake which could damage the lives of millions of children for years to come.

State education leaders and lobbyists are pushing for an extensive and expensive program of early schooling. The goal is to have every child enrolled in school by age four and as early as three years and nine months.

Early schooling has become State Supt. Wilson Riles' holy grail. He sees it as "just the beginning" of his plan for total educational reform.

Governor Reagan has expressed support of the pre-school or early education concept. All but one of the 10-member State Board of Education voted approval of the Riles plan. And, the proposal has already slipped through key legislative committees and the State Senate.

With such formidable support, early schooling is close to becoming the law of the state.

A FULL-BLOWN drive for early schooling started in 1971 with a special task force appointed by Superintendent Riles. That group of educational advisors submitted its finding on Nov. 26, 1971.

The thrust of the report is that schooling is desirable for all 4-year-olds. A five-year plan for achieving that goal was set forth. The goal is to be accomplished by providing both academic and personal development for each child.

The legislative push for early schooling was embodied in three Riles-authored bills introduced during the 1972 session. Funds to implement these bills were included in the compromise tax reform program worked out by Gov. Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Last-minute opposition forced tax reformers to modify the early schooling funding so that the $25 million was redirected to programs in the existing kindergarten through third grade structure. However, legislator-opponents to early schooling see this as simply a strategic maneuver by Riles and the education lobby. There is little doubt that early education will continue to be their chief definite aim in coming sessions of the legislature.

EARLY SCHOOLING would be costly. It is estimated that by the fifth year annual expenses would be $359 million. However, researchers point out that total is based on a $500-$600 cost per child. New York state, which is wrestling with a similar program, estimates the per-child costs between $1,500 and $1,800 — three times the Riles estimate.

Finances are not the major point of concern.

Many have strong philosophical objections to the plan. They feel the state gets its mitts, and its molds, on the children soon enough.

Philosophical objections are well-founded. But, there are other serious anxieties.

It is what early schooling can do to the child — physiologically and psychologically — which should concern every parent; should, in fact, concern every educator who is motivated by the best interests of the child rather than the special interests of the educational empire.

THE RILES PLAN flies in the face of a great body of professional and definitive research which demonstrates that early schooling can be severely damaging — devastating — to the child.

As one group of researchers recently reported: "It would be hard to find an area of educational research more definitive than that on child development and school entry age. It is difficult to see how planners can review this evidence and conclude that four or five-year-olds should be in school, much less three-year-olds."

A detailed and documented critique of the Riles early school plan was published in the June, 1972, issue of Phi Delta Kappa, journal of the national honorary educational fraternity. The principal author is Dr. Raymond S. Moore, former teacher, principal and superintendent in California schools. Dr. Moore is now chief executive of the Hewitt Research Center and professor of education at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich.

Writes Dr. Moore: "In short, it appears that California's planners, and others with similar plans, have either overlooked, ignored, or seriously misinterpreted responsible research."

Or, one might add, allowed personal fantasies to override facts.

Bobby Fischer's 'Win': Bad Name For America

So Bobby Fischer has won the coveted world championship chess title from the Russian Boris Spassky.

It was good that it wasn't on TV for long, bad enough to read about it without having to watch it.

Too damned bad he won, as all he really won was a bad name for the U.S.A. right at a time when we need just the opposite.

God forbid that we ever have another American victor in an international competition of his calibre!

He is a disgrace to us all.

Various Methods To Prevent Decay

Reader Betty Franklin has an unusual knowledge of the affairs of the dental profession, but from personal knowledge and from consultation with authoritative sources in the California Dental Association, I would like to correct the errors in her Aug. 14 letter.

Plastic fissure sealants are available to dentists as one of many approaches to preventive treatment. They are used for specific purposes for specific patients. This is not and never will be a widespread public health measure in any way comparable to water fluoridation.

"Operation Brush-In" conducted last year in the San Jose area looks like a promising method of teaching school children self-application of topical fluoride. We hope when this study is completed it will be found effective. However, it cannot accomplish what fluoridation can. This approach is offered as a supplement to the proven effectiveness of water fluoridation, not as a substitute for it.

California Senate Bill 1396, the Way Bill, will require county public health departments, with the help of dentists, to implement preventive topical fluoride methods in schools. Again this is proposed as a supplemental, not substitute measure. . .

Retort To Letter On Ballot Measure

An appalling lack of knowledge was evident in the letter by Eris Dreykus (Aug. 7) in regard to the farm worker initiative which will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot in California.

The author made a common mistake. He took the propaganda issued by the United Farmworkers Union at face value. Every point he made can be easily refuted, but those points are not pertinent to the issue — the agricultural labor relations act, or initiative.

This act simply brings order out of the chaos that has prevailed in farm labor. It is a reasoned and legally sound measure setting up procedures for farm workers to determine by secret ballot elections — the way industrial workers have done for decades — what union, if any, they want to represent them.

The act establishes a five-man appointive board to administer the procedure. Just as the National Labor Relations Act does, this state measure outlaws the secondary boycott. It protects both workers and growers by defining certain unfair labor practices that both must avoid.

The vast majority of today's farm labor force in California is comprised of stable, local residents. Only about 13 per cent are transients. . .

Those, such as Mr. Dreykus, who buy the "Grapes of Wrath" concept of the farm workerin California are living in the past, about 40 years behind the times.Today's agricultural workers deserve the opportunity to speak for themselves as the first class citizens they are. They deserve the protections afforded by the agricultural labor relations act. . .

Does Larkspur Have Too Many Police?

I regard raising the taxes in Larkspur to hire two additional policemen as an unnecessary expenditure. The present number of men on the force apparently have nothing to do but harrass local citizens.

Every night I drive two of my sons to Redwood High School at 6 to practice Pop Warner football. I pick them up at 8 p.m. Last Thursday night, I and all the other parents, came to pick up the boys. Many of us stopped in the parking lot beside the curb, which is painted red all the way around. We all remained in the driver's seat, most with the motors running. No one was blocking traffic or creating a hazardous situation in any way, and were prepared to move if necessary. I was there less than five minutes.

Would you believe two Larkspur policemen came into that parking lot telling us to move on or get into a proper parking space? In principle, they were correct, but in fact I judge this to be sheer harrassment of innocent hard working housewives. Why they see fit to hassle honest, concerned, tax paying local citizens is beyond me. But their reputation of running a speed trap is well known. My impression is, they have nothing else to do. So why hire two more policemen?

In these days of lessening respect for the law, I think the L.P.D. would benefit from better public relations, which could be easily achieved by using common sense and consideration. Police Chief McIntosh of Corte Madera has outlined our city's police priorities. Traffic enforcement, such as this nonsense, is number five out of six listed.

Thank God and Chief McIntosh, we live in the City of Corte Madera and not in the Police State of Larkspur.

Nixon's Best Re-election Bet: Stressing 'Generation Of Peace'

MIAMI BEACH — As this exuberant Republican convention comes to its climax, President Nixon has not yet decided what will most help him get re-elected

If Senator McGovern centers his campaign on Richard Nixon the man, then the President may well decide that the Republicans should reply in kind by making George McGovern the man the main Republican target.

I doubt it will work out that way.

AS THE NIXON-McGOVERN confrontation begins to take shape, it seems to me:

That the deep divergence on issues will be more influential, more decisive, than the difference in personality between the two candidates.

That the issue which will in the end most benefit Nixon in the campaign will be his venturesome and productive initiatives in foreign policy.

Why? Because what the President has been doing in foreign policy bears directly on the prospects of a more stable peace — for the United States and for the world.

ON THE BASIS of past voting patterns, the American voters are not going to elect anybody just because he conducts a good summit conference, knows how to spell Metternich and can say "dear friends" in Chinese.

But effectively and visibly going after the goal of "a generation of peace" can win an election and the President is becoming increasingly convinced that the best thing he has going for him in this campaign is the peace issue.

He believes that the American people are coming to see that he has been carefully and constructively laying the building blocks of a more stable world — and that they would like more of the same during his next term.

They are not puny; they border on the momentous — like these:

1—The nuclear arms agreement signed by the United States and the Soviet Union. It begins to put a brake on the costs and perils of the nuclear weapons race. It is a watershed event, valuable in itself It is invaluable as a sign of things to come. Few believed it possible— it has been possible.

2—Winding down the U.S. combat role in Vietnam and persuading Moscow and Peking to help bring a negotiated peace.

3—Averting war in the Middle East—an achievement now aided by the withdrawal of large Russian forces from Egypt.

4—Bringing about a summit meeting with the Soviets which is already reducing the causes of the cold war and leading to wide-ranging joint enterprises between the two governments in outer space, pollution control, medical research, trade and expanded cultural exchange.

5—The launching of a new policy toward the People's Republic of China with the goal of ending tension between Washington and Peking and bringing China out of its long self-imposed isolation.

6—Promoting a four-power agreement to insure orderly access to West Berlin.

7—Preparing for a NATO-Warsaw Pact security conference designed to cut back the military forces of both sides in Europe.

IF THE ECONOMY were going to pieces, if inflation were rising and employment were dropping — this issue would dominate all others. But with inflation dropping and employment rising, the issue of "a generation of peace" may well turn out to be the most compelling of all.

Republicans Loath To Apply 'One-Man, One-Vote' Principle

MIAMI BEACH — Many Americans got the mistaken impression 10 years ago that the principle of equal representation in politics had been settled once and for all, and that not only governmental bodies but at least the national workings of the major parties would promptly reflect that principle.

The Republicans have not heard about it yet — or, more exactly? they have indeed heard about it, and seen it in operation here during the Democratic gathering a month ago, and they don't like what they saw. The more conservative among them, who are in the majority, are deathly afraid that the same thing could happen to them.

IN 1962, the court headed by Mr. Eisenhower's appointee, Earl Warren, ruled in Baker vs. Carr that the lower house of the Tennessee Legislature was wrongly apportioned to the advantage of the smaller rural counties. By a 6-2 decision, the Supreme Court decided that malapportionment violated the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment — which of course it did.

That it took until 1962 to get such a ruling, followed up by a series of other one-man, one-vote decisions in the next two years, was no great advertisement for the dispatch with which our system brings practice into line with the theory. The idea of proportional representation had been formalized 175 years earlier, when the constitutional convention created a bicameral Congress with a proportional House to balance the Senate.

All those years in between, many of the states had relied on their own law as justification for the knowing robbery of the cities and populous suburbs in state legislative politics. But Archibald Cox, the solicitor general, argued successfully that in extending the protection of the14th Amendment to all Americans, the federal courts were not limited to remedies in state law.

COMMON SENSE says that if the principle applies to state legislatures each dealing only with a subdivision of the nation, it should apply to the national bodies that govern all 50 states. The court backed up common sense in requiring congressional reapportionment. Yet only this year, when the Democrats came here last month, was it finally applied to party politics and thus spread beyond the legislative over into the dominant government branch, the executive.

You may think, and unquestionably most of the Republicans here do, that what the Democrats did here serves best as a negative guide, a handbook of exactly how not to proceed. If bringing even lower-case democracy into the Grand Old Party risks nominating anybody like George McGovern, this convention can do without it, thank you. In fact, if it merely means there is a lesser chance of nominating Mr. Agnew for President four years from now, that is a chance many conservative, rural, small-state Republicans do not want to take.

The way in which they have moved to insure the vice president's 1976 chances and their own party control, however, crosses the border from conservatism into reaction.

ALL THE STIRRING documentary films and all the shows of unanimity forthcoming cannot obscure that fact: The Republican National Committee has recommended and the convention is expected to approve not an advance into the future, but a turning back. Rather than bringing the party closer to fair representation for all by giving the bigger states proportional representation, they have instead increased the strength of the smaller, more conservative states even beyond their earlier unfair share.

Enough big-state Republicans see this for what it is to keep fighting against it. As Gov. Francis Sargent of Massachusetts told the committee, its action "may have set in motion forces that guarantee that 10 years from now the Republican Party will no longer exist . . . The goal must be to make the party a mirror of this nation."

Well, the governor is a politician and his political future may depend heavily on whether the GOP modernizes or not. He may overstate the case a little. Instead of determining whether the party exists a decade from now, what happens on apportionment at this convention may merely determine whether it enlarges on its current opportunity to become a broad-based competitor with the Democrats or reverts to the small-town, country-club exclusivity that made it so ineffectual during most of the past half-century.

Meanwhile, Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew have been apprised of the situation, and assured the convention that they are strictly neutral.

Bright Annuals Will Enhance Juniper-Planted Hillside

It was pleasant to learn that banks of annual flowers will be planted on the barren hillside sloping down to the bus depot in San Anselmo.

The project — by Marin Senior Coordinating Council, Family Mix, and youngsters from the Volunteer Bureau — will entirely alter the aspect of the area. They will build a retaining wall, and plant shrubs.

Between the evergreens it is intended to keep a succession of annuals.

Flowers appear to be becoming obsolete in any form of public landscaping in Marin County. Everything gets landscaped up to the hilt, of course, but it's all low-maintenance vegetation. Junipers in all shapes and sizes.

In fact Marin County bids fair to become the juniper capital of the world.

What no one seems to realize is that junipers, hardy beyond belief, keep on growing.

No one considers the fact that our descendants will be forced to chop their way through juniper jungles with machetes.

A COMPLICATED bureaucratic technicality looks like delaying the opening of the College of Marin's child care center to October. Funding for the project is under AB 734, and this law requires that the college, and the not the county schools office, become the legal operator of the center.

Both the college district and the county board of education will have to approve contracts on Sept. 5 and 6 before actual work on the center can begin.

It's not good news for the needy students who intend to leave their children in the center while they take classes. The first few weeks of school are bad enough, without worrying about baby-sitting.

But Jared B. Sharon, director of community and college development, tells me the delay will probably increase the reservoir of student volunteer laborers to work on converting the center. They'll just have to work faster.

MORE VETERANS than ever are expected to enroll in College of Marin classes this fall, most of them Vietnam returnees. Last year more than 1,200 veterans took credit classes there, using their GI Bill entitlements.

A major help to them is an emergency loan fund set by the Associated Students. The vets can dip into this while waiting for their first government checks.

If they're enrolled full-time they receive $175 a month under the GI Bill, but there's often a time gap after they start classes until the money arrives. The fund made $2,500 available last year.

APPROVING CONDITIONS under which Paul Vincilione can fill the flatlands alongside Magnolia Avenue, the Larkspur City Council last week laid out guidelines on cubic yardage, damage bonds, truck ingress and egress, even down to the street being broom swept.

But what they really meant was voiced in an aside by Councilman Alfred Malvino.

"Just make sure it doesn't come from the top of the hill," he muttered.

The rest of the council, involved in litigation over the Little King Mountain grading, muttered its assent.

Announcement Of Concessions, Programs, Exhibits For Fair

The program, exhibitors and concessionaires for the 1972 Marin County Fair, only eight days away, have been announced by the fair management.

The fair, marking its second year in San Rafael, will begin its five-day run Aug. 31, with a potpourri of exhibits, entertainment, commercial displays and refreshments.

The fair, to be held at the 80-acre fairgrounds at the Civic Center, will run from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Marcelle McCoy, fair manager, said the fair exhibits and entertainment offer something of interest to all visitors — from the youngest to oldest of residents.

There will be professional florticulture exhibits of gardens and plant collections and displays by amateurs of plant specimens, bonsai, begonias, African violets, geraniums and pelargoniums.

In the horticulture section, there will be exhibits of fruit and pod vegetables, leafy and stem vegetables, bulb and tuber vegetables, vine crops, fruits and nuts.

The art display will feature a juried art show of paintings, sculpture and graphics, as well as competition in photography and color slides.

For the youngsters there will be a kiddie train, children's circus, carnival, boat rides and puppet show. There will also be free outdoor entertainment with a schedule of magic acts and music — including rock and roll of the 1950s.

The art, photography, color slides and tropical gardens will be shown in the exhibition hall of the Veterans Memorial Building, while in the auditorium theater old-time movies will be featured.

In the evening, the Marin Civic Ballet will perform in the theater on Aug. 31, hypnotist Arthur Ellen on Sept. 1 and 2, and motion picture actor Bob Cummings will act as master of ceremonies Sept. 3 during presentation of awards to film competition winners.

Also part of the fair will be many local nonprofit organizations operating booths providing a variety of food and drink. Several dozen local business firms will display a variety of merchandise.

Volunteers with booths offering information on their organizations are: Marin chapters of American Cancer Society, March of Dimes, Marin Association for Mental Health, Marin County Heart Association, Marin County Republican Central Committee, Planned Parenthood, Voice for the Unborn.

Organizations serving as concessionaires are: Behavior Therapy Institute with corn on the cob, watermelon slices, orange drink; B'nai B'rith Women, Tamar Chapter, with sandwiches, potato salad, apple strudel, iced tea, coffee; Boy Scout Troop 61, Santa Venetia with hamburgers, coffee; Business and Professional Women of Marin with cotton candy, candied apples, cookies; Campfire Girls, Golden Gate Council, with sno cones; Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Greenbrae Ward with hot dogs, scones, soft drinks; Church of Jesus Chirst of Latter-day Saints, San Rafael Ward with peanut brittle, corn dogs, root beer floats, salt water taffy; Greek Orthodox Church Ladies Auxiliary with Greek pastries;

International Footprint Ass'n., Chapter 16, with Program sales; Job's Daughters, Bethel 246 with Frostees, sundaes; Marin Buddhist Church with Japanese food; The Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, with Pepsi Cola, root beer, Sprite; Northgate Lions Club as parking attendants; Rainbow Girls, San Rafael Assembly, with tacos, pizza, beans, coffee, lemonade, milk, iced tea; Ross Valley Players with chicken dinners, beer; Theta Rho Girls, Chaparral Chapter, with spaghetti dinners, Y.M.C.A., San Rafael, with make-up and toys.

Garden exhibitors are: Pacific Plant Growers of Colma, Santa Venetia Nursery of Santa Venetia, Lila's Nursery and West End Nursery of San Rafael, Crane's Nursery of Calistoga, Dolinsek Begonia Gardens of Cotati, East Bay Nursery of Berkeley, Lyal Nickals of San Leandro and Egger and Son of Mill Valley.

Bahai Faith, Novato, literature and display on Bahai faith, John Bickner, El Sobrante, redwood signs; David Browda, San Francisco, leather goods; Cedar Homes of Marin, San Rafael, precut cedar homes; Ceramic Center, San Rafael, ceramic crafts; Ceramics Workshop, San Rafael, ceramic crafts; Cold Canyon Photography, Greenwood, color photographs; Cooperative Marin and Wilderness Shop, Corte Madera consumer information; John A. Dellomo, San Francisco, decoupage wall plaques; Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., San Francisco, Encyclopedias; Sherry Ford, San Rafael, jewelry and miniature sculpture; Henry George School of Social Science, San Francisco, educational project; Hansell Associates, international training and placement; Incline Village/Boise Cascade, San Jose, recreational land opportunities;

International Meditation Society, display and literature; Colin Ingram, Berkeley, Aromatic essences and perfumes; Steve Jacobs, Berkeley, Navajo sheepskins and leather goods; Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath, hydrotherapy equipment; R.J. GOP Convention Expenses High

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Republicans are shelling out "something less" than $2 million to put on their 1972 convention here, about twice as much as their 1968 convention cost. But they expect to wind up in the black.

Revenue from ads in their official program will total $1.6 million. Also they started with a surplus of $165,000 from the previous convention, also held here. One reason for the big jump in costs, they said, was the switch in sites after work already had been started on facilities in San Diego.

Muscular Dystrophy Talent Show Set

Governor's Veto Saves 'Discredited' Testing

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

California will continue to give mandatory academic ability ("IQ") tests to pupils in its public elementary and high schools. Governor Reagan has vetoed a bill (AB 483 by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco) which would have outlawed such tests.

Assemblyman Brown based his attack on the tests largely on the premise that they are unfair to children from disadvantaged neighborhoods, especially Negroes from inner-city slums. But his attack was part of a wider war against mandatory testing. Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, has assailed the "IQ" tests. The California Teachers Association supported Brown's bill.

THERE IS LITTLE doubt that there has been unfairness in the way the so-called "IQ" tests have been used. Solely on the basis of such tests, children have been labeled "slow" or "advanced" and placed in slow or advanced class sections — often misplaced.

So devoted to the test results have educators become that pupils who failed to measure up in class to what was expected on the basis of "IQ" scores have been called "under-achievers," and those who learned faster than the tests indicated they would have been called "over-achievers." As Banesh Hoffman commented in his book, "The Tyranny of Testing": "If the tests say the student is able, then able he is, no matter what his teachers think; and if the tests say he is not, nothing he does will make him otherwise."

It is the fault of educators that the public regards these as intelligence tests. They are not. They are tests of the child's over-all level of academic achievement, not of his native intelligence.

PROPERLY USED, they really test the schools, and the teachers, quite as much as they test the children. If average achievement levels (so-called "IQ"s) in a school district decline between first grade and sixth grade, it is logical to blame the school, not the children.

This may explain why California teacher organizations, which beat the drums for testing only a few years ago, now have turned against it.

In February, 1964, the California Department of Education reported with some pride: "Pupils in California public schools scored slightly above national averages on academic ability tests (IQ) and standardized achievement tests ... as revealed by results of tests administered to nearly three-quarter million pupils."

The State Department of Education had nothing against tests then. Neither did the California Teachers Association.

UNFORTUNATELY, this report was not to be repeated. California pupils shortly thereafter fell below national averages on the tests, and have remained so despite huge infusions of state and federal funds on the simplistic premise that money cures anything.

So faced with proof that spending money for "remedial education" has not made an appreciable difference, the educator establishment has decided that the tests themselves must be discredited. Now it blames the public for placing too much reliance on tests — reliance which the educators themselves promoted.

The reason may be that California parents have refused to accept the premise that their children are less able than average children nationwide. The parents, instead, have blamed the schools for the low test scores.

Using the test scores to evaluate teachers as well as pupils was proposed by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas in his tenure revision bill introduced in last year's legislature. It provided that their pupils' scores on state tests be considered in evaluating teachers for tenure or for discharge or return to probationary status.

That, of course, was amended out of the bill before it became law. Better to discredit the tests instead!

Cafeteria Faces End Of An Era

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Clinton's Cafeteria, a landmark on San Francisco's Market Street since 1899 will serve its last meal on Saturday.

"We have come to the end of an era," said Paul C. Mills, president of the Clinton Cafeteria Co. which operates the restaurant that still features white tablecloths and cloth napkins.

He said the cafeteria did $1.2 million in business in 1950, but that the past few months losses have run $10,000 a month.

At one time, there were seven Clinton's Cafeterias, three of them with orchestras.

EXPERT OPINION

Man Of Future To Be Familiar

DAVIS, (AP) — Man of the future is often pictured in science fiction as having evolved in strange ways- with a large domed head and short arms. But a noted expert on evolution says man in 25,000 years probably will look pretty much like he does today.

Dr. G. Ledyard Stebbens, founder of the genetics department at the University of California at Davis, says man will continue to develop, changing his society and culture and even the workings of his mind- but not his basic physical appearance.

"You could take a Cro-Magnon man and clean him up and dress him in modern clothing and parade him down Madison Avenue," said Dr. Stebbens, and he would not attract any special notice.

"The same probably would be true if you could transport a modern man 25,000 years into the future. Changes that affect our outward appearance would not be very great," he said.

The reason, he said, is that man has largely short-circuited his physical evolution through the development of tools and Technology. He has no need to evolve new forms or new physical capabilities because he can invent machines to extend the natural limits on his capabilities.

Man survives not by changing physically, Stebbens said but by changing his environment and by developing new techniques to deal with his environment.

"Man has the ability to occupy new habitats without any change in his genes more than any other animal," Stebbens said.

Oddly enough, he added, the result is that man is more adaptable-not less. Instead of fragmenting into several different species, each specializing in a separate environment, mankind remains a single family, with a single, rich genetic legacy, on which to draw in adapting to change, he said.

The huge reservoir of human genes throughout the world represents mankind's major resource for adjusting to the unknown demands of the future, Stebbens said.

But, he said, because those genes all come from Homo sapiens who look basically pretty much the same as each other, the continued mixing and sharing of various genes should not produce a physically different creature from the man of today.

Traditional evolutionary theory focuses on mutation as the active agent in development of new adaptations. But Steppens said man's future is more secure relying on breeding from the existing gene reservoir than on mutations — those random freak changes that occur in genes when the normal processes go mysteriously awry.

"Nothing could please an animal breeder more," Stebbens said, referring to the enormity of the human gene reservoir. "Advancement in evolution depends on the size of the gene pool.

"Mutation is an extremely rare process. You have to rely on what's there — you cannot rely on mutation too much," for improving the human race, he said.

Stebbens is a man who should know about how long it takes for small changes to evolve. Author of several texts on evolution he has been working since 1943 on a single species of South African grass whose genes he has modified to make it grow better on shaded hillsides.

His experiments he said, are the only instance so far of an organism being synthesized, released into the wild and its adaption closely monitored. In another 30 years, he said, the synthetic strain might acquire the characteristics of a few species.

Stebbens was hired by the University of California as a research geneticist at Berkeley in 1935. He stayed at Berkeley until 1950 when, as a full professor, he was transfered to the Davis campus to found the genetics department.

Article 'No Influence On Police Shakeup'

BOSTON (UPI)—Mayor Kevin H. White has denied that published reports of a potential scandal in the Police Department influenced a departmental shakeup on the highest levels last week.

But, the mayor added, no city employe, including policemen, would be granted immunity should charges stem from an investigation now being conducted by Suffolk County District Attorney Garrett F. Byrne.
